PREFACE

TO

THE AMERICAN EDITION.

It seems to be a strange and mournful truth, that the best book under heaven should have been thrown into a shape specially ill-adapted for making it attractive and easily understood. Yet such is doubtless a literal fact in respect to the Holy Scriptures. For their divisions, into chapters and verses, and the order of their various and numerous books, are now universally admitted to be purely the work, and, it may well be added, the fault, of man. I say, the fault, since these divisions, how convenient soever for bare reference, have hindered multitudes from learning and feeling, and, more particularly, from appreciating trains of thought and argument in the Sacred Writers; and have made that singular or mysterious, which a natural and logical connection of passages would have rendered reasonable, fitting, and clear. The order of the books of Scripture, as they stand in the Common Version, has no good excuse, now known; but, although the most unskilled student of Theology is aware, that it pays little respect to chronological or historical regularity, it continues to disfigure almost every Bible in the world.

The simple and serious object of the following volumes is, to put the Book of books into such a shape, as will enable it best to display and explain itself—be its own recommendation, and its own interpreter. And it is cordially believed, that, to those who will use them with a perseverance sufficiently faithful to give their plan a fair and ample test, they will be found more promotive of both instruction and pleasure, than any of the common helps to scriptural knowledge. It may not be found such to the hasty and superficial reader; but to the careful and meditative, the Bible will here be discovered as possessing more true form and comeliness, and beauty, for which one may desire it, than in any edition in which it has heretofore been arrayed before the public eye. This may look like strong assertion to those whom prejudice or habit has so accustomed to the ordinary condition of the Sacred Volume, that they esteem this condition, however faulty, as deserving a sort of reverence. But let even such, once unlearn those (I must so call them) unfortunate and hurtful associations, by which they have connected Divine truth with the mere costume in which man has chosen to present it, and they will set their seal to the substantial truth of what may now seem a baseless editorial fancy.

The plan of a chronological and historical arrangement of the Bible, and the value and difficulties of such an arrangement, are so fully illustrated in Mr. Townsend's Introductions, that additional observations should not be expected. It may not be unnecessary, however, to remark, that such an arrangement is the only one, which furnishes any thing like a continuous narrative of sacred history in sacred composition; and that the harmonies of various portions of the Old Testament, and of the Gospels, wrought out in the present arrangement, are not surpassed, if equalled, by any harmonies which have been hitherto attempted. In respect, too, to that most sacred and instructive, not to say most sublime and fervent, of all devotional compositions, the Book of Psalms, he must be wanting in sanctified taste and sympathy, who cannot prize the effort, here made, to place each psalm, so far as may be, side by side with its kindred history, that each may illustrate and impress the other.

The Editor has endeavored to increase the usefulness of Mr. Townsend's most meritorious labors, by breaking up the artificial and arbitrary verse and chapter system, and restoring the Sacred Text to the condition in which we habitually, not to say naturally, arrange other compositions. The poetry, also, he has tried to rescue from its prosaic bondage, that it might show forth glimpses, at least, of its native majesty and beauty. The punctuation has cost him much; as has also something new in our Common Version, an attempt to distinguish spoken language by the usual signs of quotation. The old method of marking such language was imperfect, for it notified the reader of the beginning only of such language. But it is often a matter of serious interest, to know where such language ends. Thus, in Genesis ii. 23, it is quite easy to perceive, that Adam has begun to speak; but does he utter the 24th verse? or is it an inference of Moses? Any one can see how much may depend upon the proper answer to such a question, and that a judicious position of the marks usually employed to point out spoken words, may do as much, in a vastly smaller compass, as a long criticism, or a prolonged "excursus." The Editor is not satisfied with his own labors in this particular, especially as, for reasons not necessary to be stated, he could not revise them in print; and of course he cannot wonder if others take exceptions to them. If his beginning, however, helps either others or himself to do better hereafter, his toil will not be fruitless.

In commending these volumes to instructors in religion, the Editor does not hesitate to say, that any clergyman who will make them his constant manuals and guides, will derive immeasurably greater profit from them, than from hesitating and quoting critics, or the dogmatizing champions of systems of Theology. At least, such will be the case with every clergyman who studies faithfully and impartially, and is a man of independent thought. For these volumes will bring the Bible before him, in the best possible attitude for him to take an original view of its sentiments, and form upon them an unprompted and unbiased judgment. They offer him Divine Truth, as it is in itself, and by itself; and profound reflection over it, with the aid of promised wisdom to the prayerful, will, it is confidently urged, make him a modern Apollos, "mighty in the Scriptures;" mightier far than if he could cite a dozen authorities for every verse of Scripture, and find himself confounded, as many a one has been before him, by the weight of names and the influence of party.

If these volumes were made the basis and direction of regular instruction from the desk — furnishing plan and matter for that most ancient and profitable style of preaching, the exposition and the homily; or if they were used as text-books, where biblical lessons and lectures are given, in Colleges, Schools, or parochial Bible-classes, they would be found eminently useful, and, in a short time, not less agreeable.* Indeed, the Editor will venture to say, that the English reader, who will, for a few months, use his Bible in the shape here offered him, will prefer it ever after to any other.

As to the minor improvements of the present edition, besides those enumerated in the title-page, the number of indexes, full as it was, has been increased, the verses numbered in the text, and not in the margin, and the arrangement of the sections reviewed, and, in some cases, altered. The numbering of the verses in the body of the text will be found an essential advantage, in using a paragraph Bible for reference; as it is frequently difficult, when the numbers are in the margin, to determine the precise commencement or close of a verse.

In respect to the Italic words, it is well known to biblical scholars, that, in 1769, Dr. Benjamin Blayney, under the direction of the Vice-Chancellor and Delegates of the University of Oxford, thoroughly revised our Common Version, and, among other things, carefully printed in Italics every word for which there was not an identical representative in the original. But this was a needless, and, in multitudes of instances, a useless labor; and, in consequence, an attempt has been made to diminish his Italics. Had time permitted, they would all have been examined, and such only retained, as, taking into consideration the idioms of the original, might seem worthy of special notice.†

† Dr. Blayney seems to have quite forgotten, that the idioms of ancient tongues allow many things to be habitually understood or unexpressed, which it is, of course, no liberty in a translator to supply. Nothing, for example, is more common or lawful, in Hebrew, than to leave the verb of existence, ("to be," in our tongue,) or a pronoun, understood. Thus, in the second verse of 1st Genesis, we find the sacred writer, after saying that "the earth was without form," leaving out his verb, and saying, in the next clause, to translate literally, "and darkness upon the face of the deep." And so, also, it is equally common and lawful, in Hebrew, when a word has been used in one clause, to omit it in the clause following or correlative — a rule which covers the case already stated. Thus, in Genesis xxii. 12, the angel says, "Thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son, from me;" or, to translate to the letter again, "thine only from me." This usage is particularly common in Hebrew poetry. Thus, in Job xvi. 6, the conjunction "though" is omitted in the second clause; and in Isaiah xli. 6, "every one" is

It may be of some moment, for those who are anxious, and properly so, about the text of a Bible, to know that this edition does not pretend to translate anew, but employs the Common Version throughout. Let no one, then, be fearful of not finding here the Bible he has been accustomed to peruse: it is not with the text, but with the disposition of the text, that liberties (or what some may deem liberties) have been taken. And these liberties the strictest critics must and do justify; for the sentiments only of the Bible are to be regarded as inspired. The arranging of these sentiments, in longer or shorter sections, in chapters, verses, or parallelisms, and things of like nature, is as completely the work of man, as the transcribing of these sentiments on parchment, in the days of the apostles, or the printing of them on paper, in this nineteenth century.

JUNE, 1838. THOMAS W. COIT.

POSTSCRIPT.

It has been thought, by those who, perhaps, understand the wants of a certain class of readers better than himself, that the first paragraph of the Preface is too brief and vague an account of the original state of the Bible's text, and the changes through which it has passed. The Editor would therefore add, that the text of the Bible has experienced a treatment the like of which has been visited, and, it might be said, inflicted, upon that of no other dignified and grave composition whatsoever.

The common method of writing has always been to put single sentiments into sentences; a strain of sentiment into a paragraph; the discussion of a branch of a main topic into a section, chapter, or book. And this common method is so obvious, that it can be comprehended and appreciated by the plainest minds. But the Bible, though it abounds in pieces of composition in which the closest connection prevails, has, for a long time, been cut up into chapters and verses, as if it were nothing but a string of aphorisms or independent propositions.*

The origin of this is obscure. Perhaps, as the division of the Bible into VERSES is more ancient than the division of it into chapters, this first division was made during the time of Ezra. The following reasons induce this opinion. Ezra, as is well known, had much to do in collecting and arranging the Jewish Scriptures. He sustained to them the office (to speak after our modern style) of an editor. It is also said, that he read and expounded them from a pulpit. (Nehemiah viii. 1—9.) Of course as, according to omitted in the same clause: and so on, in endless instances; for these have been selected in the most cursory manner possible.

The same remarks might be made of the Greek. Thus, in Acts xi. 17, the verb "gave" is omitted in the second clause, and supplied by "he did," which is accordingly Italicized; and, in Acts xiii. 29, the pronoun "him" is twice omitted, and as often introduced, in the translation.

But Dr. Blayney seems to have regarded all such omissions, and others as easily accounted for, as matters for serious observation, when the veriest novice could have been taught how to supply them. Evidently, then, he has most needlessly multiplied Italics, to the confusion and perplexity of unlearned readers, who are unaware that they are not used in the Bible for emphasis, as in other volumes, but to mark words supposed to be wanting in the original. Scores, and hundreds, and perhaps thousands, of our present Italics, answer no valuable purpose, and no more deserve distinction in a translation than would ille in a translation of the Latin word dixit. The merest child in Latin understands that a verb, in that language, may, in ten thousand cases, as well be without a pronoun as with it. Little idiomatic usages, of this kind, are intuitively learned by the scholar; who never dreams that he is taking a liberty, in supplying any trifling omissions which they cause in another tongue, into which he is translating, or that he fails in the strictest fidelity, by converting them, if need be, into equivalent expressions.

* It is not too much to say, that this treatment of the Bible has changed the style of preaching. Now, the religious teacher takes a single sentence, and makes an oration upon it. In primitive times, (as the homilies of the Fathers show.) it was customary to make an exposition of a considerable portion of Scripture; — a method which, unquestionably, is generally more instructive, and often more entertaining.

Nehemiah, he was compelled to use the assistance of interpreters, (the people having lost their knowledge of the ancient Hebrew during the captivity,) he could read so much only, as could be conveniently read and expounded at once, i. e. a sentence. Going thus through much or all of the Old Testament, then written, might have occasioned the habit of making it up into sentences. Hence the verse system then ; and it might possibly have existed before, from its convenience to previous oral lecturers or instructors.

The system of dividing the Bible into CHAPTERS probably took its origin from marking selections to be read or chanted in the temple or synagogue service, and was followed from the Old Testament into the New.* These arbitrary divisions, arising from accident, fancy, or temporary convenience, were probably perpetuated to distant times, and laid the foundation of the chapter and verse system of our modern Bibles. It is said that Cardinal Hugo, of the Roman Catholic Church, who flourished about A. D. 1240, was the first who formed the chapters of the Bible as we now have them. And he did this for the convenience of mere reference; he being at work, at the time, on a Concordance. Hugo thus divided that Latin translation of the Scriptures used by the Romish Church, and now well known by the name of the Vulgate. Rabbi Mordecai Nathan, who wished to make a Concordance to the Hebrew Scriptures, about A. D. 1440, followed Hugo's example; and Robert Stephens, for the same reason, the example of both, in his edition of the New Testament, published A. D. 1551.

Hugo had no verses in his Bible, but marked every fifth line by a Roman capital; and this fashion prevailed in Wickliffe's, and even in Tindal's time, (so late as A. D. 1526,) for their translations of the New Testament are divided like the Vulgate of Hugo. When, precisely, the verses and chapters, which we now have, were first fully developed, it is perhaps impossible to tell. Nor is it important to know, so long as we can satisfactorily prove that the entire plan of thus dividing the Bible is the work of various times and hands; and, in every case, of merely human and uninspired judgment.

As to the ORDER of whole books of Scripture,† critics, who are familiar with it as it has exhibited itself in the Bibles of different languages, well know, that this order is often arbitrary and perplexing. The ancient Jewish division of the Bible is alluded to by our Saviour, in Luke xxiv. 44, where he says, " that all things must be fulfilled which were written in the Law of Moses, and in the Prophets, and in the Psalms, concerning" him. The Law, under the Jewish arrangement, embraced the five books of Moses; the Prophets, the strictly prophetical, and most of the historical portions of the Old Testament;‡ and the Psalms, all the rest, i. e. the Psalms, Job, Proverbs, Canticles, &c. This last book, or volume, was called " The Psalms," because the Psalms was the first tract in the collection.

Such was the Jewish arrangement. Ours is hardly as good. We have, e. g., our major and minor prophets, digested without regard to historical and chronological order, so that many a reader of the Bible is surprised to find that Isaiah is by no means the oldest prophet, because he comes first, but that Joel, and Amos, and Hosea, (not to say others, according to some,) all go before him in point of time. In the New Testament, also, the Epistle to the Romans is, probably, often taken for the first Epistle written by Paul, which is by no means the case; and not a few will be surprised to learn, it is now generally admitted, that John's Gospel was written after his Revelation. §

As to the POETRY of Scripture: that there was the spirit of poetry in the Bible, must have been known by all its intelligent readers, hundreds of years ago. But what, rhetorically, constituted this poetry; whether it was blank verse, or metre, or what it was, seems not to have been well settled, until the time of Bishop Lowth, who flourished so late as only the last century. He, in his introduction to a new translation of Isaiah, maintained, that the chief characteristic of Hebrew poetry consisted in uttering a particular sentiment in one line, and repeating its counterpart or opposite in another line, or lines, called its parallelism, or parallelisms, i. e., its parallel as a direct resemblance, its expansion, or its contrast. These parallelisms run generally in pairs; but they are sometimes found in triplets. Thus, in the very opening of the Psalms, we have a triplet. The sentiment or burden of this Psalm is, that the good is a blessed or happy man; and this is expressed in three illustrations, each of which is made more conspicuous and intelligible by throwing it into a separate line, thus: —

* That it bears the marks of haste or caprice, is very manifest. A most striking instance is furnished in the first period of the viii^th^ chapter of the Acts, "And Saul was consenting unto his death." This belongs to the history at the close of the vii^th^ chapter, from which it has been, almost wantonly, sundered.

† It is well known, also, that the order of portions of books is a matter of question. In the prophets, for example, we have in one book many different messages or oracles, and the particular order of these oracles, in Isaiah and Jeremiah, has been much debated. Ezekiel presents less difficulty, as he generally dates his successive communications to his countrymen.

‡ Daniel excepted, who was supposed to be left out because of his plain allusions to the expected Messiah; to his advent and death, before the destruction of the city and sanctuary.

§ It is not put after the Revelation, however, in this chronological Bible, for the obvious reason, that it is broken up among its sister Gospels, in order to make a harmony out of them, and present the life of Christ in a continued narrative.

> "Blessed is the man,
> That walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly,
> Nor standeth in the way of sinners,
> Nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful."

In the last verse of this Psalm, we have an instance of the antithetical or antagonist parallelism; the last line expressing the opposite of the first: —

> "For the Lord knoweth [approveth] the way of the righteous;
> But the way of the ungodly shall perish," [lead to perdition.]

Such being the nature of Hebrew poetry; it having no measured syllables to admit of its being scanned, like the poetry of the Greeks and Romans, nor the features of our modern rhyme and blank verse; it seems but just that its reigning feature should be brought into full view, by placing each parallelism in a separate line, so that the eye may assist the understanding. Nothing is easier than to do this, after a little practice, where the poetry is of a high-wrought and elevated kind; but occasionally there is a sort of rhythmical or measured prose in the Bible, which, while it seems to be poetical, has not the distinct parallelisms of other portions. The books of Ecclesiastes and Ezekiel, and, generally, of the prophets, furnish specimens of this character, and on them the Editor has bestowed a pains, which perhaps will not satisfy critics, but which, he trusts, will not be without its benefit to the English reader.

All these observations, then, go to show the literal truth of the assertion in the Preface, that whatever Divine Truth may, in itself, be or have been, the method of disposing, arranging, and exhibiting it, is the work of man, and is therefore a fair subject for human attempts at improvement. No person, therefore, ought ever to object to any effort which may throw the Bible into such a shape that its sentiments (which are its essence, and have Divine authority) may be most clearly apparent and most easily understood.

☞ The reader will remember, that the single brackets, in the text of the New Testament, mark words of doubtful authority; and the double brackets, words about whose spuriousness there is no question.

INTRODUCTION.

The Chronicle of the learned Lightfoot has been made the basis of the following Arrangement. Of all the writers of the day in which he lived, this celebrated divine is supposed to have been the most deeply versed in the knowledge of the Scriptures. It was his custom for many years to note down, as opportunity presented in the course of his talmudical and other studies, the order and time of the several passages of Scripture, as they came under his consideration. By pursuing this method, he gradually formed that invaluable Chronicle, which his biographer, and the editor of his works, has placed before all his other publications, as the most useful and important. The title of this celebrated tract is, A Chronicle of the Times, and the Order of the Texts of the Old Testament, wherein the Books, Chapters, Psalms, Stories, Prophecies, &c. are reduced into their proper order, and taken up in their proper places, in which the natural method and genuine series of the Chronology requireth them to be taken in. With reason given of Dislocations where they come. And many remarkable Notes and Observations given all along for the better understanding of the Text; the Difficulties of the Chronicle declared; the Differences occurring in the relating of Stories reconciled; and exceeding many Scruples and Obscurities in the Old Testament explained. Lightfoot was so eminent, that Bishop Walton consulted him both on the Polyglott Bible, and the Samaritan Pentateuch, Dr. Castel on his Heptaglott Lexicon, and Pole on his Synopsis Criticorum. Buxtorf, Dr. Outram, Thorndike, and Morinus, with other distinguished men, openly expressed how much they admired and venerated him. The most learned foreigners came to England to visit him. In the assembly of divines at Westminster, he was the most distinguished for his learning and ability; opposing the more violent measures, and frequently by his arguments changing the sentiments of the majority. His work was published at the time when the nation was unfortunately engaged in the bitter contests between the King and his Parliament. We are not possessed of sufficient means of accurately ascertaining the reception this invaluable Chronicle met with from the public; but if we may judge from the complaints of his biographers, Dr. Bright, and Mr. Strype, the author of the Annals, it does not appear to have obtained much celebrity, nor to have attracted the attention it so well deserved.

This supposition is still further corroborated by the singular omission of the work, in the list mentioned by Torshel in his rare and valuable pamphlet. This divine was chaplain to King Charles the First, and tutor to the royal children. In the year before the death of his royal master, he published a tract (which was afterwards reprinted in The Phœnix) entitled, A Design about disposing the Bible into a Harmony; or an Essay concerning the transposing the Order of Books and Chapters of the Holy Scriptures, for the reducing of all into a continued History—The Benefits, Difficulties, and the Helps. The tract was addressed to the right honorable the Lords and Commons assembled in Parliament; intimating to them the propriety and necessity of taking the subject on which it treats into consideration, that under their gracious auspices and influence "it may grow to full maturity." Torshel's object, indeed, was to induce the two Houses to appoint a committee to execute his plans. Had Lightfoot and Torshel united their efforts in this cause, it is not improbable that the sanction of the legislature at that period might have been obtained, and a most accurate and valuable arrangement been made by the learned men, who, at that time, abounded in England. "Let the state," says Torshel, "only please to make it their care, after the example of some kings and republics, that have done such like works of general use, for the advance of learning and divine knowledge, and they will find some men very learned of their own order, besides many in the profession of divinity, and others of private quality, that will contribute much assistance to it." And in another part—"If the state may please to look upon it with favor and encouragement, somewhat may be done to the great service of the Churches of Christ," &c. The state, however, paid no attention to the petition, and the design of harmonizing the Bible has not hitherto been put into execution.

Dr. Hales, the learned and laborious author of The Analysis of Sacred Chronology, is the last writer by whom this design of Torshel has been brought before the public. After enumerating a variety of works, which have been submitted at different times to the world, to assist the reader of Scripture in his attempts to understand the Sacred Volume, Dr. Hales observes, "We have still to search in vain for a competent history of the Bible; a history which shall be plain and clear, even to the unlearned, and yet concise, correct, and critical; competent 1st. to arrange all the scattered events of Scripture in a regular and lucid chronological and geographical order; 2nd. to trace the connection between the Old and New Testaments throughout, so as to render the whole one uniform and consistent narrative; 3rd. to expound the mysteries, doctrines, and precepts of both, intelligibly, rationally, and faithfully; without adding to, or diminishing from, the word of God; and without undue respect to persons, parties, or sects; 4th. to unfold and interpret the whole grand and comprehensive scheme of 'the prophetic argument' from Genesis to Revelation, all admirably linked, and closely connected together, subsisting in the Divine Mind, before the foundation of the world; and gradually revealed to mankind at sundry times, and in divers modes and degrees, during the Patriarchal, Mosaical, and Christian dispensations, as they were able to bear it; 5th. to solve real difficulties, and reconcile apparent dissonances, resulting from the obscurity of the original text, or from inaccurate translations; 6th. to silence skeptics and heretics, infidels and scoffers, by exposing the weakness and inconclusiveness of their objections and cavils; 7th. to defend the institutions of the primitive Church against schismatics and levellers, and, in fine, 8th. to copy as closely as possible the brevity and conciseness, yet simplicity and plainness of the Gospel style. Such a history of the Bible is altogether a desideratum in the annals of sacred literature."

"Such a plan was partly proposed," Dr. Hales proceeds to observe, "many years ago, after" (more properly during) "the grand rebellion, by Samuel Torshel, a preceptor of the royal family of Charles the First, who addressed the Lords and Commons assembled in Parliament on this great and important national concern."

Torshel proposed "to dispose the Bible into a method and harmony, by transposing the order of the books and chapters, inserting the Sacred Oracles according to the times they were delivered in, and the Psalms in their places, and on the occasions which they were framed to suit, in such a manner that by the mere force of series and connection, the historical and prophetical parts may reciprocally explain and authenticate each other."

The miscellaneous form of the Sacred Books has been often considered by pious and learned men, as one principal cause of those difficulties, which have given rise to so many commentaries. The great majority of the readers of Scripture are either unable, or unwilling, to undergo the delightful labor of arranging the scattered events in their unbroken and historical order. Much error has arisen from this neglect. The Scriptures are too generally perused in detached passages and chapters only. It is but too frequently considered as a collection of unconnected narratives, promises, warnings, prophecies, and miscellaneous remarks on important and interesting subjects. Hence the most opposite doctrines have been taught, and the most inconsistent inferences drawn; and the Christian world, which ought to profess one faith, as it has but one Scripture, one Lord, and one Baptism, is divided into every possible gradation of opinion, each of which is defended by its advocates from detached and misapplied passages of Scripture.

The inspired writers, though living in so many different ages, writing upon various occasions, without communication with each other, of opposite talents, dispositions, circumstances, and education, confirm and support, throughout, one code and system, the general plan of which does not, in any one instance, appear to have been present to their minds when the various books of the Old Testament were penned. Uninspired authors, although educated on the same plan, of the same age and country, writing with the same object, of the same sect and party, and defending the same system of opinions, will frequently vary in their modes of expression, in their statements of arguments, in their ideas of the subject matter; and will be often found to contradict, either through inadvertence or through the defect of language, the positions of their own partisans: whereas, among the inspired writers, there is no contradiction, no opposition, no diversity of sentiment, in any of the difficult and important subjects upon which they treat. The various passages of the history of the world and Church, contained in their united labors, like the links of a chain, are so interwoven with each other, that they cannot be separated. The precepts, examples, and doctrines, they inculcate, are so varied, yet so blended, that they form one complete and perfect system of religious ethics.

Let not the pious Christian feel any conscientious scruples against altering the disposition of the Sacred Text, as contained in our common Bibles; or suppose that this Arrangement is intended to supersede the authorized version. The four Gospels, which are equally entitled to our veneration with the Old Testament, have been repeatedly arranged in their supposed historical order, in the form of diatessarons and harmonies; and no opposition has ever yet been made on the part of the English Church to the labors of its exemplary divines, who engaged in these useful works. "No variation in the order of the Sacred Books (Prideaux observes, Connection, vol. ii. p. 477, 10th edit.) is of any moment. For in what order soever the books are placed, they are still the word of God, and no change, in this respect, can make any change in that divine authority which is stamped upon them." And that this is a just view of the question is further evident from two very important facts: first; that although the Church of Christ has long ago fixed the number of the canonical books, neither the Jewish Church, before the advent of Christ, nor the Christian Church, since his advent, has pronounced the order of these books to be canonical; and, secondly; that though the Old Testament was edited nearly in its present form, so far as relates to the number only of the books, first by Ezra, and afterwards by the great Sanhedrin, yet the collocation of these books is different in the Hebrew, Syriac, Greek, and Latin versions. The position, therefore, of the books, could not have been regarded as a matter of essential importance; and it may justly be concluded, that an attempt to arrange them in their chronological order ought not to be condemned as an infringement of the Sacred Canon. The three principal writers, who give any light on the subject of the order of the books of the Sacred Writings as left by Ezra, are Josephus, Origen, and Jerome.

Josephus gives no catalogue of the Sacred Books; he merely observes (contra Apion, lib. i. c. 8,) that the Jews had twenty-two sacred books; five composed by Moses; thirteen of prophetic and historical writings; and four which contain hymns to God, and precepts for the direction of the conduct of men. Here is a plain reference to the three great divisions, the Law, the Prophets, and the Hagiography; but of the order in which these books were consecutively placed, we have no intimation. Origen, who made the Scriptures the study of his life, has made an arrangement of the books of the Old Testament very different from that in our Bibles; he preserves all the canonical books, but with respect to their order he appears to consider it as a matter of indifference. The Hebrews, he remarks, (Origen's Works, Benedictine edition, vol. ii. p. 529,) have twenty-two books: 1. Genesis, 2. Exodus, 3. Leviticus, 4. Numbers, 5. Deuteronomy, 6. Joshua, 7. Judges and Ruth, 8. The First and Second Books of Kings, or Samuel, 9. Third and Fourth of Kings, 10. The First and Second of Chronicles, 11. Ezra, or Ezra and Nehemiah, 12. The Book of Psalms, 13. Proverbs, 14. Ecclesiastes, 15. Canticles, 16. Isaiah, 17. Jeremiah, the Lamentations, and the Epistle, 18. Daniel, 19. Ezekiel, 20. Job, 21. Esther. By some strange mistake the twenty-second book, that of the minor prophets, has been omitted. Jerome, who translated and wrote a commentary on the Scriptures, and studied in Judæa under the most learned Jews, may be supposed to have exhibited the arrangement which obtained in his time. His catalogue may be found in the Benedictine edition, vol. i. p. 318. He divides the Sacred Books into the three usual classes, the Law, the Prophets, and the Hagiography. In the first are contained, 1. Genesis, 2. Exodus, 3. Leviticus, 4. Numbers, 5. Deuteronomy. In the second class, 6. Joshua, 7. Judges and Ruth, 8. First and Second of Samuel, 9. First and Second of Kings, 10. Isaiah, 11. Jeremiah, 12. Ezekiel, 13. The twelve minor prophets, all in one book. The third class contains, 14. Job, 15. The Psalms, in five books, 16. Proverbs, 17. Ecclesiastes, 18. Canticles, 19. Daniel, 20. First and Second of Chronicles, 21. Ezra, divided into two books, 22. Esther. Thus twenty-two books are computed, Moses five, the Prophets eight, the Hagiography nine.

The copies of the Vulgate differ from each other. In some MSS. of the Vulgate, Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and Canticles, are placed after Malachi. The catalogues of Origen and Jerome are most probably nearest to the Esdrine arrangement; yet as these vary from each other, and we have no means of ascertaining which is the more correct, we have reason to suppose, either that the arrangement by Ezra is totally lost, or that in the different copies published in his time, and in that of the great Sanhedrin, the order of the books varied; and as the precise order has in no Church been so far considered of moment as to be made canonical, it may justly be concluded, that no reasonable objection can be made to a connected arrangement of the Sacred Volume.

Almost every commentator has observed the miscellaneous disposition of the contents of the Old Testament; and has pointed out the historical place of many chapters, and passages. Since the time of Lightfoot, biblical literature has been so much the object of general attention, that it was necessary to consult the labors of many modern divines, as well as of those who immediately preceded him. The union of these authorities, it is hoped, will give additional sanction to the work. Where a difference of opinion has prevailed among these various writers, the Arranger has been compelled to decide on the validity of opposing arguments; and at other times, from a consideration of the internal evidence, the context, the circumstances, and the primary object of a passage, a psalm, or a prophecy, he has been induced to act upon his own judgment, which has occasionally led him to differ from those authorities, on which he has ever been inclined to place the most dependence.

One material alteration has been made in the manner in which Lightfoot has arranged his Chronicle. On his plan, the Old Testament would have been read as one unbroken history, without any division into parts, or any of those breaks, the omission of which is generally supposed to be the cause of great weariness to the reader. To obviate this difficulty, and to endeavour to make the Scripture narrative more attractive, and more easily remembered, the present Arrangement is divided into periods, parts, and sections. These several portions it was thought would render the work more useful and interesting to the unlearned reader, or to the reader who is not accustomed to devote much uninterrupted time to the perusal of books. By this means he will be enabled, without burthening his memory, to take up and lay down the Old Testament at his leisure, as he would any other history or narrative.

The First Period contains the history of the world and the Church from the Creation to the Deluge; and includes the first nine chapters of Genesis. As the object of Moses, in writing the Pentateuch, was the preservation of the Israelites from the contagion of the surrounding idolatry, the several reasons of many of those peculiar phrases, supposed to be directed against the prevailing superstitions of his day, are pointed out in the notes. The circumstances of this period are few, the narrative brief, and the traditions concerning it, scattered among the heathen, obscure and confused; little is related to enable us to judge of the manners and customs of the antediluvians; yet sufficient is recorded to show us that the world was the same then as at present; divided between the good and the evil—the sons of God, and the sons of men; that the latter so prevailed against the former, that the visible Church was reduced to the limits of a single family, and the world was destroyed that the Church might be preserved. The principal events related in this Period are the divine institution of sacrifice, the origin of many of the arts and sciences, and a clear and consistent account of the awful destruction of the world by the deluge, an event, which, though known by tradition among all nations, and commemorated by rites, customs, festivals, and emblems, was so disguised and perverted, that it required the consistent and simple narration we find in Scripture.

In consequence of the brevity of this Period, the transpositions of the text are necessarily few.

The Second Period comprises the history of the time between the dispersion of men, and the birth of Moses; and includes the remainder of Genesis, the Book of Job, and the first chapter of Exodus.

The transpositions of the Sacred Text in this Period are not numerous. The history of the three great heads of the Jewish nation, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, proceeds without much interruption to the close of the Period. The account of the divisions of mankind into their respective families is placed after the event which caused their dispersion; and the narrative, after thus relating the origin of the principal nations of the Gentile world, goes on to the genealogy of Shem, and the history of the family from which the Messiah was to descend. The inspired historian is contented with merely glancing at the annals of other nations, and hastens on to the immediate object he proposed to himself—the submitting to the sacred family of Abraham, the origin and early history of their election as the people of God, and their consequent separation from the rest of the sons of Noah, into a visible Church.

It may excite surprise, that the narrative is interrupted by inserting the life of Job in the midst of the brief history of the ancestors of Abraham, given by Moses in pursuance of this plan. The authority for assigning to the Arabian Patriarch an earlier date than Abraham is given in the note. Wherever this book was inserted it would have been impossible to have given general satisfaction. The subject has been much controverted; but after reconsidering the subject, and after perusing the valuable remarks of Dr. A. Clarke, the last commentator who has discussed this point, the Arranger is unable to come to any other conclusion. He cannot but consider Job to have been the witness to the truth of the pure religion of God, in an age when even the ancestors of Abraham were infected with the increasing contagion of idolatry.

The chief transpositions in this Period are the placing of the renewal of the covenant related in Genesis the 17th, after the events related in the 18th, 19th, and 20th chapters—the harmonizing those parts of the 25th and 26th chapters which relate the circumstances originating in the same famine—and the inserting, in their chronological places, the births and deaths of the patriarchs. The period concludes with the oppression of the Israelites by the Egyptians, before the birth of Moses, related in the first chapter of Exodus.

The Third Period extends from the birth to the death of Moses, and comprises the remainder of Exodus to the conclusion of the Pentateuch. With the exception of the insertion of the institution of the Passover in its required place, little transposition is here necessary till we arrive at the eighth chapter, which contains the account of the wandering in the wilderness. The several encampments of the Israelites are variously arranged by different writers, according to the names of the places mentioned by Moses. The number of their encampments and marches is reckoned by Dr. Hales, after Bishop Clayton, to have been sixty, including the passage over the river Jordan. The map which he has given in his Analysis, and his accompanying account of the wanderings of the Israelites in the wilderness, are truly valuable. The learned writer's theory, however, has not been adopted, as it was thought the reader would be more satisfied with a still closer adherence to the Scripture account. The sojourning of the Israelites, therefore, is arranged according to the itinerary of Moses himself, in the thirty-third chapter of Numbers, who distinctly mentions the forty-two journeyings of his people, in which of course all their encampments and stations are included. This method of relating this part of the Scripture history has occasioned more transposition than in the preceding periods; but the Scripture is so evidently made to corroborate its own account, that the advantages arising from it appeared to justify its adoption. The miracles, and the events of their wanderings are recorded in the respective journeyings in which they occurred. The account of the several journeys commences with the verse in which each is briefly mentioned in the thirty-third chapter of Numbers.

The principal events in this period which require transposition, are the arrival of Jethro at the camp of the Israelites—the thirty-third of Numbers already mentioned—and various passages in Numbers and Deuteronomy. As there were not sufficient data to enable me to decide in what particular encampments the various exhortations of Moses, in the first chapters of Deuteronomy, were respectively delivered, I have referred them to the conclusion of the wanderings of the Israelites, when he certainly addressed to them the greater part of the contents of that book.

The Fourth Period comprises the events from the entrance of the Israelites into the Holy Land to the death of David. It includes the books of Judges, Joshua, Ruth, the First and Second of Samuel, the First Book of Chronicles, with the exception of the first nine chapters, which are placed in the last section of the last period, and the first two chapters of the First Book of Kings. It comprises also those Psalms which were probably written by David, and which are inserted in their supposed places, according to the events to which they are believed to refer. The people of God, having been delivered from their persecutors in Egypt, having escaped all the attacks of their enemies, and the peril of the wilderness, at length enter into the Promised Land, and establish the religion of the one true God, in the country which their ancestors had traversed; and which God had sworn to Abraham that his descendants should possess. Though they were so entirely successful at their first occupation of the country, that they obtained possession of the whole land, as Moses had predicted, they failed to execute the commands of God; they spared the lives of the idolatrous inhabitants; they then began to associate with them; to be familiar among them; and, at length, to unite with them in their hateful superstitions and idolatry. For these offences they were severely punished. The surrounding nations were armed with extraordinary power to purify the visible Church, by oppressing and persecuting it, till it had found, by bitter experience, that God always punishes those who forsake his service. These relapses into negligence and idolatry, with their consequent punishments, were continued till the accession of David to the throne of Israel, after the death of Saul. By him the surrounding enemies of God were subdued, and the visible Church advanced to its utmost perfection, purity, and glory. David never fell into idolatry, and the effect of his continued perseverance in, and faithful adherence to the religion of his fathers, was visible in the extent of his dominions, the abundance of his wealth, the liberality of his people, the universal regard to religion throughout his kingdom, and the magnificent preparations for that temple, which Solomon founded and completed.

The transpositions of passages in this Period are more numerous than those in the second and third. In the Book of Joshua, the appearance of the Angel to the Hebrew leader is formed into a more connected history, Joshua vi. 1; v. 13, to the end; and vi. 2, to the end. The authority of Bishop Horsley is preferred to that of St. Jerome, respecting the time and place of the reading the Law of Moses on Mounts Ebal and Gerizim. The passage in which this event is related will be found in Joshua viii. 30, to the end. The Israelites, in the preceding verses of the chapter, are represented as being at Gilgal, which was at a great distance from Mount Gerizim; they had not yet possessed the country, and it is not probable that all the people should suddenly leave the seat of the war in which they were then engaged, and proceed to another part of the country, to do that which might with greater convenience, and greater propriety, be done at a later period. Bishop Horsley supposes, therefore, that the Law was read to the people after the conquest of the country, when the land rested from war; and, upon his authority, the transposition of the passage has been made. St. Jerome supposes, that immediately on entering upon the promised land, the Law was read on two smaller mountains, named Ebal and Gerizim, near Jericho; an opinion which, though defended by Epiphanius, does not appear to be sufficiently supported.

The twenty-second of Joshua is also transposed. It records the return of the Reubenites, after the end of the war, the conquest of the country, and the reading of the Law on Mount Gerizim. Their return is placed after the latter event, and not, as in the canon, after the division of the country. When their service was fully accomplished, they would, of course, be sent home, as Joshua had promised.

The latter chapters of the book of Judges are well known to relate the events which took place during the interregnum, after the death of Joshua. They are accordingly inserted, in this Arrangement, before the first servitude of the Israelites, under Cushan-Rishathaïm.

The story of Ruth, on the authority of Bishop Patrick, is referred to the account of the famine in Israel, on the invasion of the Midianites.

To enable the reader to remember with greater accuracy the history of the Judges, the sections are divided according to the several governments of these magistrates.

In the history of Eli, the Bible chronology is followed, and Eli, Samson, and Samuel, are made contemporaries. The Arranger has adopted, except in a few instances, the Bible chronology throughout this work; because it appeared, after much consideration, preferable to any other system. It is consistent with itself, it is sanctioned by authority, having received that almost infallible stamp of excellence, the test of time, and the most diligent and critical inquiry. Valuable as the Analysis of Dr. Hales undoubtedly is, the Arranger could not venture to adopt his dates, and his system, unless they had been approved by the same authorities, and confirmed by the same criterion of excellence, which have determined the value, and recommended the Bible chronology.

In arranging the very difficult passages which refer to the youth of David, when he conquered Goliath, and played before Saul, the Editor has been guided by the authority of Bishop Horsley, who seems to have considered the subject with much attention, and he has relied with confidence on his decision.

The chief remaining transpositions in this Period, are the several passages in Samuel and Chronicles, which are necessarily changed, to harmonize the general narrative more completely; and the parallel passages are inserted at the end of the respective sections in which they occur in smaller type, so that the reader may always compare the corresponding accounts of the same events, by the writers of the two different books. The events of the life of David are so arranged in sections, that the reader will be able to follow his wanderings on the map, and to peruse his history without difficulty. The appeal of the woman of Tekoa to David is put together on the authority of Bishop Horsley; and the escape of Hadad, inserted parenthetically in 1 Kings x., is assigned to its chronological place. One principal cause of the apparent want of order, in the arrangement of the events recorded in the Sacred Canon, arises from frequent parentheses; in the same way as the account of the death of John the Baptist is an interruption of the narrative of the Evangelists, in the New Testament.

The Fifth Period comprises the reign of Solomon, the era of the highest greatness at which the Jewish kingdom arrived; when the visible Church attained its utmost splendor, and the promise to Abraham was accomplished, that the country from the Mediterranean to the Euphrates should be subject to the dominion of Israel. This Period includes the first chapters in the First Book of Kings, which relate the life of Solomon; the first nine chapters of the Second Book of the Chronicles, which are harmonized with those from the Books of Kings; the Psalms, supposed to have been sung or written at the dedication of the temple; and the books of Canticles, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes.

The chief difficulty of arranging the events of this Period arose from the miscellaneous manner in which the several circumstances of Solomon's life are narrated by the sacred writers. They are enumerated, either as they occurred to the minds of the writers, or as they were compiled or abridged from the public registers of the kingdom. It has been endeavoured so to dispose of them, that the events of the reign of this great king may be read in their probable order. The prayer at the dedication of the temple, which is given at greater length in the Chronicles than in the Kings, will be seen in its complete form. The Book of Canticles is supposed to have been written when Solomon was a young man, at the time he removed the daughter of Pharaoh to his palace in the forest of Lebanon. The Book of Proverbs is placed after the visit of the queen of Sheba, when the wisdom of Solomon was celebrated throughout the world. It immediately follows the passage which refers to the number of his proverbs. The proverbs, which were found in the temple, and were copied out by the men of Hezekiah, are inserted among the rest, and are not placed in the reign of Hezekiah, as recommended by Torshel, because they are not called the proverbs of the men of Hezekiah, but of Solomon. They were neglected till the reign of Hezekiah, when they were discovered among the archives in the temple, but they cannot chronologically be dated from that time. The Book of Ecclesiastes comes after the account of the offence of Solomon. It is generally supposed to have been written as a kind of recantation upon his repentance for his errors, before his death.

The Sixth Period comprises the time from the accession of Rehoboam, to the commencement of the Babylonish captivity. It includes the greater part of the Books of Chronicles and Kings, which are harmonized throughout, with some of the Psalms, and the prophecies of Joel, Isaiah, Hosea, Amos, Jonah, Micah, Obadiah, Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, part of Jeremiah, and part of the first chapter of Daniel. The several predictions or distinct discourses, contained in the respective books of the prophets, are given in their historical places; and notes are appended to each, explaining the reasons for the dislocation. The difficulties of arranging this period were very great. The intricacies of the chronology, the double line of the kings of Judah and Israel, with the differences of explanation among the authors who were consulted, presented obstacles which at first sight appeared insuperable. Various modes presented themselves of dividing the double line of kings; one, by placing them in two columns, and attaching the common date in the margin; another, of placing the kings of Israel after those of Judah, as a separate part; and, that which has been adopted, to divide the history of the kings of Judah into parts, each part containing two portions: the first giving a history of a king of Judah; the second appropriated to the reign of the contemporary king, or kings, of the sister kingdom. This plan was selected because it presented two advantages: it enabled the reader to peruse the history of all the kings of Judah as one connected history, by reading through the first portions of each part, and the history of the kings of Israel in the same manner, by perusing the second portions of each part; and it enabled him also to pass without interruption to the history of the kings of Israel contemporary with the respective kings of Judah. If the first of the plans mentioned had been adopted, much room would have been lost, in consequence of the number of blank spaces left in the columns devoted to the history of the kings of Israel, the history of these kings being given by the inspired writers, within much less compass than the history of the kings of Judah; and the arrangement had already occupied more pages than was expected. If the second plan had been acted upon, the chronological and historical continuity of the narrative would have been destroyed, and the principal design of the arrangement consequently defeated.

Although this Period occasioned more labor and inquiry than the rest, the authorities for inserting particular passages in their appropriate places were sometimes so equally balanced, that it was almost impossible to decide between the merits of the contending arguments. In such cases, the Arranger is open to the charge of want of judgment, from those with whom he may differ. The compass of the work did not admit the insertion of long discussions; he has been contented, therefore, with submitting to his readers, in the several notes, the arguments which have induced him to place the prophecies and the history in their present order.

The Seventh Period comprises the history of the Babylonish captivity. No historical book in the Old Testament contains a complete narrative of the transactions of the seventy years; they are related in various parts of the prophets, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and Daniel, and in the latter passages of the Books of Kings and Chronicles. Much difficulty arose in arranging the several events referred to in this Seventh Period, from the circumstance that the prophecies of Ezekiel were delivered to the Jews in the captivity at Babylon, at the same time that Jeremiah was prophesying at Jerusalem and in Egypt. To prevent any confusion in rightly apprehending this part of the sacred history, the events which took place, and the prophecies which were delivered at Jerusalem, are placed in a different part from those at Babylon. The transactions in Egypt, when the Jews who escaped from the captivity fled into that country, after the murder of Gedaliah, and took with them Jeremiah the prophet, are given in a separate part. The reader will thus be enabled to peruse the account of the affairs of the Jews at Jerusalem, Babylon, and Egypt, without confounding either places or dates. The variety of contending authorities respecting the dates and occasions of the several prophecies of Jeremiah caused some embarrassments; the decision to which the Arranger came is submitted, with the result of the labors of Blayney, Lightfoot, and Taylor,* in a tabular form to the reader; who will be able to compare the arguments of the various writers on this subject, and to rectify any error which he may suppose has been made. The many interesting circumstances, which took place in the siege of Jerusalem, are collected into one narration from Jeremiah, Chronicles, and Kings; and few narratives of sieges or battles, in ancient or modern history, are so full of incident, instruction, and variety. The prophecies of Ezekiel, being for the most part dated by the prophet himself, were arranged with little difficulty. The events at Babylon, after the return of Nebuchadnezzar, and prior to the decree of Cyrus, are chiefly related in the historical chapters of the Book of Daniel. The account of the wonderful manner in which these events effected the elevation of Daniel, the restoration of the Jews, and thereby the accomplishment of the prophecies of God, may be justly considered as one of the most interesting and beautiful parts of the Old Testament. The Period ends with the decree of Cyrus, as it is contained in the last chapter of the Chronicles and the first of Ezra.

The Eighth and last Period comprises the events from the termination of the captivity to the probable close of the Canon. It includes, besides several of the Psalms, the Books of Ezra, Nehemiah, and Esther, and the prophecies of Zechariah, Haggai, and Malachi. The arrangement of the events of this period has been chiefly made on the authority of Dean Prideaux, whose history is advocated and adopted by Dr. Hales, Dr. A. Clarke, the present Bishop of Winchester, and many other learned and pious authors. Lightfoot's hypothesis of the arrangement of the events of this period is generally considered as incorrect. The very close connexion which subsisted between the Holy Land and Persia, after the restoration of the Jews from their captivity, and the manner in which their adversity and prosperity, as well as their progress in the building of the temple and city were influenced, or rather affected by the politics of the court of Persia, rendered it impossible to separate the accounts of the two countries; they are incorporated, therefore, into one history, and the prophecies are placed in their respective situations. The principal dislocated passages included in this period, are those of Ezra, and part of Nehemiah. The whole book concludes with the first nine chapters of the First of Chronicles, and a passage from Nehemiah, both which were either written by the last editors, or verses in them were interpolated by the last editor, that is, by Simon the Just and the Great Sanhedrin, as some expressions in them allude to the times of Alexander the Great. The concluding passage from Nehemiah speaks of Jaddua the high priest, who met Alexander; and mentions also Darius, who was conquered by that sovereign, in terms which seem to imply that Darius lived many years before the time when the passage in question was written; and as Alexander died about 324 B.C., and Simon the Just in 291 B.C., these passages are dated a few years before the death of the latter, and assigned to the year 300 B.C.

Thus is the biblical reader presented with a complete History of the World and the Church, from the delivery of the promise to our first parents in obscure terms, till the dawn of the day of the Messiah approached. The light of prophecy gradually became clearer till the express testimony of Malachi was given, "the Lord whom ye seek shall suddenly come to his temple."

Such is the brief outline of that arrangement of the contents of the Old Testament, which is now submitted to the judgment and candor of the Christian world. It is designed only to assist the reader of Scripture in his study of that great scheme of Providence, God revealed by Omnipotence. The visible world, so magnificent and so beautiful, is a temple worthy of God the Creator; the spiritual world, described in the pages of Scripture, is a temple equally worthy of God the Redeemer. Both equally demonstrate the mercy and the love of the same all-wise Providence to the bodies, and the souls of men. In the privileges, and in the certainty of a covenanted redemption, as in the changes of the seasons, and other blessings of the visible creation, every child of Adam is alike interested: and if the researches of science to promote the happiness of the body, or to illustrate the laws, and the harmony of the universe, are regarded with favor, in such a manner it is trusted the present attempt will be received, which is intended to promote the happiness of the soul, and to elucidate the great scheme of Almighty God in the moral government of the world.

Considering the subject in this view, it may be justly said that every class and description of the admirers and readers of Scripture are interested in an arrangement of its sacred contents.

The unlearned will be more able to comprehend those difficulties of Scripture which originate in an ignorance of the occasion on which a psalm or prophecy was written. The passages which seem at first sight to contradict each other, will, by harmonizing the several accounts, be clear and consistent; those innumerable false interpretations of single texts, the chief source perhaps of popular theological misapprehension, will be obviated by fixing that primary meaning which was intended to be conveyed to the mind of the persons to whom the passage was originally addressed.

The learned will find his labors lessened in tracing the meaning of peculiar words, the object of obscure expressions, or the intention and scope of passages, which require more particular attention. As the meaning of a sentence is better and sooner apprehended, when the preceding and subsequent passages of the context are evident, so, also, will the meaning of the obscurer difficulties of the inspired narrative be more easily discoverable, if the preceding and subsequent events of the connected history are known.

The clergyman will, of all others, be most interested in a work of this nature. In expounding the Scripture to his hearers, the primary meaning of a passage is of the utmost importance. As the books of Scripture were all, in some measure, originally designed to accomplish some temporary object, before they were committed as a lasting testimony to the Church of God—the spiritual application of every part of the Old Testament to Christians of the present day will be immediately perceived, when the original application to the circumstances of the ancient Church has been satisfactorily ascertained. The lessons appointed for every day in the year will become more interesting, in proportion as they are better understood. The beauty and sublimity of many passages will be made evident, when that part of the history of the dispensations of Providence, to which they refer, is thus more fully developed.

The attendant on public worship, who has but little time, except on Sunday, for studying the Scriptures, when his attention is arrested by any passage or expression which appears obscure and difficult, if he has not, on his return home, access to commentaries and more valuable and laborious works, will find an arrangement of the text of the Old Testament solve many difficulties, and supply in some degree the place of a more extensive commentary.

The pious mother of a family, who is anxious to lay the foundation of Christian morality upon Christian principles, and endeavours to make her children acquainted with the wisdom "that maketh wise unto salvation," by engaging their tender minds through the medium of connected annals, will be more able to interest them in the finest volume of all history. Many of the most important parts of the Old Testament are with the utmost difficulty made pleasing to children, who do not, and cannot, at a very early age, perceive the connexion, the consistency, and the harmony that pervades the whole. While their attention is arrested by the beautiful narratives of the Sacred Volume, they are too often embarrassed and confused by the attempts of the anxious parent to explain the connexion between the parts of that variety of interesting matter, which makes the Scripture so attractive, as well as useful. The best foundation of a good education is a knowledge of Scripture; and that knowledge will be acquired with delight, if the child becomes interested in the Bible as a complete history. By such an arrangement, therefore, the labor of the parent is lessened, and the child at once interested and improved.

The students of history, it may be justly supposed, will be particularly interested in an arrangement of the Bible. As the history of the world in general has been called "philosophy teaching by examples," the history of the Bible may be called "religion teaching by examples." Without this inestimable collection of records there would be no foundation for the ancient history of the world; we should be in utter darkness with respect to the most important questions; we should know nothing of the origin of all things—the cause of the mixture of good and evil—the manner in which man began to be, and continues to be, the being that he is; we should know nothing of the origin of nations, or by what means the world was overspread; we should be still ignorant of the primitive condition of society in the patriarchal ages, before the corruptions of the postdiluvians had introduced, or perfected, the incongruous and detestable system of idolatry which characterized Egypt and Greece and Rome, and the whole pagan world, and which now disgraces the nations of the East in general, and particularly Hindostan. Events which are only hinted at, or referred to in Scripture, are related at length in history. In the arrangement of the narrative of Scripture, the student of history may read the prophecies that foretold events, and in the events recorded in history he will read the accomplishment of those prophecies. History will thus be the commentary on Scripture and on prophecy; and the influence of religion will be confirmed, while the knowledge of the inquirer is increased. The falsely-called philosophical reader of history, who rejects the notion of a particular Providence in overruling the affairs of men, may imagine he can discover adequate causes for the several changes in dominion and power among the ancient monarchies; but he who looks beyond what are called secondary causes perceives that all these powers in their turn were raised up to protect, or to punish, the visible Church of God; and that when they had accomplished this object, their pride, their greatness, their pomp, and their glory were annihilated. The history of the Bible alone acquaints us with the real cause of the origin, the decline, and fall of all the ancient monarchies; and when that history is arranged in its order, a clear explanation is given to many obscurities of ancient history, to the plans of Providence in the government of the world, and to the predisposing causes which led to the various circumstances connected with the history of the Church.

Nor will an arrangement of the Bible be less useful to the general reader, and to the lover of literature—to that large portion of the community, who, though they have no objection to peruse works of instruction, uniformly prefer those which promise amusement only. It never ought to be said that the Sacred Scriptures are given for our amusement; but while they abound in the most solemn and important lessons, on the observance or neglect of which both our present as well as future happiness depends, it is equally true, that the lover of poetry may elevate his mind, and kindle his imagination, by admiring ideas which no other book contains, in language which the epic or the dramatic power of Greece itself has neither surpassed nor equalled. The literary beauties of the Scriptures, considering those Scriptures only as specimens of composition, are superior to all that can be selected from the tenderest, the sublimest, the most admired efforts of human genius. Those only are worthy to be placed near them, the authors of which have wandered on the heights of Sion's hill, and visited the flowery brooks beneath.

By an arrangement of the Bible, the lover of literary excellence will be more able to appreciate these invaluable compositions. The jewels of the temple will be set—the apples of gold will be enclosed in the network of silver; the man most indifferent to their spiritual value will learn to admire the harmony and simplicity of the narrative, and the magnificence of the poetry. And when he permits the question to propose itself fairly to his consideration, why this wonderful volume was written? whence was the more than human intellect thus displayed throughout? then it may be, that the same Holy Spirit of God, which gave eloquence and poetry, as well as purity, holiness, and truth, to his servants, may render the impression, which the answer to such a question would suggest, effectual and permanent.

The infidel and the skeptic, who have thoughtlessly or wilfully rejected Revelation, because in truth they have never submitted to the labor of exploring and examining its evidences, may perceive in an arrangement of the contents of the Old Testament, the most incontrovertible demonstration of the Bible's authenticity, its genuineness, and its inspiration.

The absurdities of the deistical creed are so great, that the wildest reveries of the most unbridled enthusiasm are sober common sense when compared to them; and the arguments in favor of the Scriptures are so complete and satisfactory, that no additional reasoning can be expected to influence those who have disregarded them; yet a powerful and a novel corroboration of those arguments is afforded by the wonderful harmony which pervades this miscellaneous collection of writings called the Old Testament. Lord Bacon has observed with equal force and truth, that "The harmony of a science, each part supporting the other, is, and ought to be, the true and brief confutation and suppression of all the smaller sorts of objections." And the remark will apply to the arrangement of the Bible. The contents of this book were written at different times; the various writers were unknown to each other. Like the writers of the New Testament, the greater part of them were exposed to suffering and persecution on account of their doctrine;* the times in which they wrote were remote from each other; their compositions were delivered to the people, and were preserved by the priests in their unconnected form. One primary object was principally intended by each writer, and by every paragraph; yet all these miscellaneous compositions, when they are put together, are found to contain a perfect history, confirmed by the testimony of all other authenticated histories. The researches of the learned and the enterprising have alike contributed to demonstrate the truth of the narrative, which is so wonderfully complete in itself, that ingenuity has been in vain engaged, for two thousand years, in attempting to discover some imposition, or to overthrow one recorded fact. The history, therefore, contained in the Bible is true, and the system of infidelity is consequently false; or all the writers of the Old Testament without exception were impostors, or dupes, and every history of ancient nations is not to be credited; or, what is still more difficult to suppose, all ancient history is uniformly falsified in those particulars which corroborate the Sacred Scriptures. These and many similar absurdities, unavoidably consequent on any deistical scheme, it is needless to confute; and these absurdities, the mere statement of which form their immediate refutation, are made more glaring by perusing the Scripture narrative, in the form of an historical and chronological arrangement of the Sacred Text.

The pious and humble Christian, as a member of the Universal Church, cannot but be interested in that portion of sacred history which is related in the Old Testament; and in perusing it in its historical form, he will be able to perceive more clearly the development of the plans of Providence. He will there discover in what manner events, apparently unconnected, all tend in a greater or less degree to the fulfilment of some wonderful events which were previously foretold, but which, at the time when these results were delivered, appeared impossible to be brought about;—he will perceive that all the circumstances recorded in the Scriptures tend to one end, with as much regularity as the incidents in a regular drama bring about the catastrophe. He will see them combine in one purpose, prove one point, develop one mighty scheme, which was planned in the councils of Omnipotence, gradually revealed to mankind, and is still in progress among mankind;—he will perceive that the scheme of prophecy has been in great measure surely accomplished, and will be more and more convinced that the remaining prophecies shall be all fulfilled; he will hail the day when the curse shall be removed, the house of Israel restored, and the reign of universal righteousness commence; he will learn to apply to himself the doctrine of a peculiar Providence; he will see, that though prophecy and miracle have in one sense been discontinued, though the Canon of the Scripture be closed, yet the gradual fulfilment of the prophecies it contains may be regarded as a perpetual miracle appealing to the hearts and to the consciences of all the generations of mankind. The same unchangeable God still governs the world and the Church, and orders the events that occur to both according to the purposes of his own will. He rules over the least as well as the greatest events; and as the beauty of a flower, and the mechanism of an insect declare the universality of his Providence as loudly and as plainly as the sun in the heavens, or the moon walking in her brightness; so does the declaration of his own immutable Scripture, that not a sparrow falls unpermitted to the ground, convince the Christian, who views the stupendous events recorded in his Bible, that he too is not and cannot be unnoticed nor neglected in the government of the universe. Happy is he, who, having a hope full of immortality through Him who has become the propitiation for the sins of man, reads his own lot in the conduct of God towards his Church, and resigned and contented with the present, rejoices in the prospect of the future.

In this edition, which has been carefully corrected, the marginal references and various readings are given. And, in order to render this Arrangement still more extensively useful, the whole has been divided into Portions, in such a manner, that, by reading one Portion daily, the Old Testament (with the exception of the Genealogical Tables, some parts of the Levitical Law, and a few other passages), may be read through, once in a year. The Tables of Portions, which have been formed chiefly for THE USE OF FAMILIES, will be found in the annexed Calendar, which is constructed on the same plan as that prefixed to the Book of Common Prayer, in which the reader is referred to the portion of Scripture appointed for every day throughout the year.

PORTIONS OF SCRIPTURE

FOR EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR.

The following TABLES are designed principally for the Use of Families. The Arrangement is so divided, that by reading one portion DAILY, the Old Testament may be read through in the course of the year.

N. B. Only the Scripture inserted here is intended to be read; the Parallel Passages, which are printed in smaller type, are omitted.

[1] IN [a]the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. [2] And [b]the earth was without form and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep.

[c]And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters; [3] and [d]God said, "Let there be light;" and there was light. [4] And God saw the light, that it was good; and God divided *the light from the darkness. [5] And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night. †And the evening and the morning were the first day.

[6] And God said, "Let there be ‡a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters." [7] And God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament from [e]the waters which were above the firmament: and it

(1) Two objects are continually kept in view throughout the volume of the Old Testament. One is, to turn men from idolatry in all its forms of vice and error; the other, to direct their attention, by the gradual development of the scheme of prophecy, to the future Messiah. It is my design, in the following notes, not only to give the reader, wherever it may appear necessary, satisfactory references for the arrangement I have adopted; but to point out the wonderful manner in which Infinite Wisdom has manifested itself in the government of the world, in constant reference to these two great objects.

(2) The design of Moses will be better understood, if we consider the state of the world at the time in which the Pentateuch was written. Mankind was absorbed in the grossest idolatry; and that idolatry, for the most part, originated in the neglect, the perversion, or the misapprehension of certain truths, which had once been universally known. Moses therefore commences his narrative, by relating, in simple language, the truths thus disguised or perverted; and he alludes, in many of his expressions, to the surrounding superstitions. In pursuance of this plan, he relates, first, the creation of the world by the one true God, in opposition to the Egyptian doctrines of the necessary eternity of the world, and an infinite succession of similar worlds.—Vide Horsley's Biblical Criticisms, vol. i. p. 3; Faber's Origin of Pagan Idolatry, vol. i. p. 111-152; Hale's Analysis, vol. i. p. 317; with the authorities in Pritchard's Egyptian Mythology, p. 178-187.

(3) The dates of the Bible chronology are chiefly adopted throughout: [they will be inserted in the margin at the beginning of every section.—Dr. Hales' dates are also given.—ED.]

was so. [8] And God called the firmament Heaven. And the evening and the morning were the second day.

[9] And God [f]said, "Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear;" and it was so. [10] And God called the dry land Earth; and the gathering together of the waters called he Seas: and God saw that it was good. [11] And God said, "Let the earth bring forth *grass, the herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself, upon the earth;" and it was so. [12] And the earth brought forth grass, and herb yielding seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind; and God saw that it was good. [13] And the evening and the morning were the third day.

[14] And God said, "Let [g]there be lights(4) in the firmament of the heaven to divide †the day from the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years: [15] and let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth;" and it was so. [16] And God made two great lights; the greater light ‡to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night: he made [h]the stars also. [17] And God set them in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth, [18] and to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness; and God saw that it was good. [19] And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

[20] And God said, "Let [i]the waters bring forth abundantly the *moving creature that hath †life, and ‡fowl that may fly above the earth in the *open firmament of heaven." [21] And God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly, after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind; and God saw that it was good. [22] And God blessed them, saying, "Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let fowl multiply in the earth." [23] And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

[24] And God said, "Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and beast of the earth after his kind;" and it was so. [25] And God made the beast of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind; and God saw that it was good.(5)

[26] And God said, "Let [j]us make man in our image, after our likeness; and [k]let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth." [27] So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created He him; [l]male and female created He them. [28] And God [m]blessed them, and God said unto them, "Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it; and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that †moveth upon the earth."

[29] And God said, "Behold! I have given you every herb ‡bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; [n]to you it shall be for meat. [30] And to every beast of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is *life, I have given every green herb for meat;" and it was so. [31] And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good! And the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

(4) The sun and moon being objects of worship, Moses here specifies the purposes for which they were created; as if in ridicule of the idolatrous Sabianism of the day.

(5) For the same reason (vide note 4) he mentions the creation of vegetables, reptiles, and inferior animals, many of which were worshipped by the Egyptians; thereby asserting, in the very beginning of his work, the superiority of the God of Israel to the gods of the Egyptians.

Gen. ii. 4, to the end.

[4] These [o]are the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were(6) created, in the day that the LORD God made the earth and the heavens, [5] and every plant of the field before it was in the earth, and every herb of the field before it grew; for the LORD God had not [p]caused it to rain upon the earth, and there was not a man to till the ground. [6] But †there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground.

[7] And the LORD God [q]formed man ‡of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul.

[8] And the LORD God planted [r]a garden eastward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed. [9] And out of the ground made the LORD God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight and good for food; [s]the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil. [10] And a river went out of Eden to water the garden; and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads. [11] The name of the first is Pison: that is it which compasseth the whole land of Havilah where there is gold; [12] and the gold of that land is good: there is bdellium and the onyx stone. [13] And the name of the second river is Gihon: the same is it that compasseth the whole land of *Ethiopia. [14] And the name of the third river is Hiddekel: that is it which goeth †toward the east of Assyria. And the fourth river is Euphrates.

[15] And the LORD God took ‡the man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it. [16] And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, "Of every tree of the garden *thou mayest freely eat; [17] but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, [t]thou shalt not eat of it; for in the day that thou eatest thereof †thou [u]shalt surely die."

[18] And the LORD God said, "It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him an help ‡meet for him." [19] And out of the ground the LORD God formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air; and brought them unto *Adam, to see what he would call them; and whatsoever Adam called every living creature, that was the name thereof. [20] And Adam †gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field; but for Adam there was not found an help meet for him.

[21] And the LORD God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept; and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof, [22] and the rib, which the LORD God had taken from man, ‡made he a woman, and brought her unto the man. [23] And Adam said, "This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh; she shall be called *Woman, because she was taken out of †Man. [24] Therefore [v]shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife; and they shall be one flesh." [25] And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

had made; and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made: [3] and God [b]blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it; because that in it he had rested from all his work which God *created and made.(7)

Gen. iii.

[1] Now the serpent was more subtle than any beast of the field which the LORD God had made. And he said unto the woman, "†Yea, hath God said, 'Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden?'" [2] And the woman said unto the serpent, "We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden; [3] but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, 'Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die.'" [4] And the serpent said unto the woman, "Ye shall not surely die; [5] for God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil."(8)

[6] And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was ‡pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her; and he did eat. [7] And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked; and they sewed fig-leaves together, and made themselves *aprons.

[8] And they heard [c]the voice of the LORD God walking in the garden in the †cool of the day; and Adam and his wife [d]hid themselves from the presence of the LORD God amongst the trees of the garden. [9] And the LORD God called unto Adam, and said unto him, "Where art thou?" [10] And he said, "I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked; and I hid myself." [11] And he said, "Who told thee that thou wast naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldest not eat?" [12] And the man said, "The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat." [13] And the LORD God said unto the woman, "What is this that thou hast done?" And the woman said, "The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat."

[14] And the LORD God said unto the serpent, "Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and [e]dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life: [15] and I will put [f]enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel."(9)

[16] Unto the woman He said, "I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and thy conception; [g]in sorrow thou shalt bring forth children; and thy desire shall be ‡to thy husband, and he shall [h]rule over thee."

[17] And unto Adam He said, "Because [i]thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, of which I commanded thee, saying, 'Thou shalt not eat of it:' [j]cursed is the ground for thy sake; [k]in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life;

(7) As Adam and Eve were created on the sixth day, the history of their creation necessarily precedes the account of the institution of the Sabbath. Lightfoot inserts the institution of the Sabbath after the Fall; but we have no proof, from the history, on what day the Fall took place. There is a tradition that our first parents were in Paradise forty days.

(8) The history of the Fall, and the account of the garden of Eden, which precedes it, must be taken literally; there is no proof or appearance of allegory; and that they were always so understood is sufficiently evident from the remains of the traditions of ancient nations. The proofs are too numerous even to be hinted at here; but the curious reader may compare the authorities in Faber's Origin of Pagan Idolatry, with Dean Allix's Reflections on the Books of Moses, particularly chapters x.–xviii.; in which the Dean shows, that Moses related nothing but what was generally known.

(9) From the moment of the announcement of this promise, the bright and morning star of prophecy, mankind lived in constant, and sometimes in daily, expectation of the Messiah. Their attention was now directed to their future Deliverer; and we shall see their expectation continually renewed, by the long train of prophecies and institutions, till the aged Simeon desired to depart when he beheld the promised Salvation.

[18] thorns also and thistles shall it *bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field; [19] in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; [l]for out of it wast thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return."

[20] And Adam called his wife's name †Eve; because she was the mother of all living. [21] Unto Adam also and to his wife did the LORD God make coats of skins, and [m]clothed them.(10)

[22] And the LORD God said, "Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil; and now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever." [23] Therefore the LORD God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken. [24] So he drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden, [n]Cherubim, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way [a]of the tree of life.(11)

(10) We live in Messiah's world. The Divine Personage who is here called "The LORD God," and who spoke to Adam in the garden, was the Angel Jehovah, who afterwards appeared to the patriarchs, led the Israelites through the wilderness, tabernacled among men in the form of a man, is still the head of his Church, and will again appear to the world. Three things were necessary to be known by man, even in a state of purity; and they appear to have been revealed to him by the Angel Jehovah. These were, the right choice of food; the rite of marriage; and the use of language. The Angel Jehovah had been the guide and protector of man before his fall, and he afterwards becomes his Mediator and Judge. The Angel Jehovah commences a new dispensation, which, when it has passed through its three forms, Patriarchal, Levitical, and Christian, will be terminated by reviving and perfecting the primeval happiness of mankind, in that future Paradise, of which the garden of Eden was but an emblem.—Vide Barrington's Essay on the Dispensations; Burnet's Sermons at Boyle's Lecture, vol. ii.; Law's Theory of Religion, 4th edit. p. 50; and Lowman's Essay on the Shechinah.

(11) Our first parents were now banished from Paradise, and clothed in skins. At this time, sacrifices were appointed to be offered. The Deity was pleased to ordain, that "without shedding of blood, is no remission of sins" God therefore commanded, that the blood of animals should be offered mystically, as an acknowledgment of the sins of man. Not that the blood of bulls and of goats "could take away sin;" but that the sacrificer, by offering his bleeding victim, in compliance with the divine ordinance, confessed thereby, that, through sin, he was himself deserving of destruction, and unable of himself to propitiate the Deity. By thus shedding the blood of an innocent victim, he declared his faith and dependence on a better and more perfect Atonement. And, as there can be no imaginable connection between the death of a lamb and the forgiveness of the crime of a man, it is not possible that this plan of worship could have originated in the mind of man.—Vide the authorities on this subject, collected in Abp. Magee's work On the Atonement; in Faber's chapter on the Origin and Purport of Sacrificial Rites, Orig. of Pag. Idol. b. 2. c. viii.; and in Outram De Sacrificiis. Mr. Davison's arguments do not convince me, that the opinion which I have here given is erroneous. See his work On Primitive Sacrifice.

(12) In this passage we see the first tokens of the anxious desire of the human race to behold the promised Messiah. The meaning of the exclamation, in the opinion of many divines, is, "I have obtained the man, even Jehovah himself."

(13) God had respect to the offering of Abel, because, by it, he declared his faith in the Atonement. He rejected that of Cain, because, as the first deist, he refused to believe in the promised Messiah.—Vide Dr. Hales, Abp. Magee, Kennicott's Dissertation, Bp. Sherlock and Bp. Patrick on the History of Cain and Abel.

[8] And Cain talked with Abel his brother: and it came to pass, when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and [f]slew him. [9] And the Lord said unto Cain, "Where [g]is Abel thy brother?" And he said, "I [h]know not: am I my brother's keeper?" [10] And He said, "What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's †blood crieth unto me from the ground. [11] And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand; [12] when thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength; a fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth." [13] And Cain said unto the Lord, "‡My punishment is greater than I can bear. [14] Behold! [i]thou hast driven me out this day from the face of the earth; and [j]from thy face shall I be hid; and I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth; and it shall come to pass, [k]that every one that findeth me shall slay me." (14) The marginal reading is generally supposed to be a more literal translation of the original. Heidegger interprets the phrase thus: "Then began men to be called by the name of the Lord:" that is, the visible Church had so diminished, that the faithful of Jehovah were called, by way of distinction, by the name of the Lord.—Heidegger, Sac. Patr Hist. Exer. 3. § 34.

(16) As the doctrine of the certain existence of another world is one of the chief truths to be enforced upon man; a visible ascension into heaven has taken place in the three stages of the development of the great scheme of redemption. Enoch, Elijah, and Christ, proved to the world, by their ascension to heaven, the truth of the immortality of the soul, and that its future happiness is the object which God has constantly in view, under every mode of appealing to his creatures.

saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they [b]took them wives of all which they chose.

[3] And the LORD said, "My [c]Spirit shall not always strive with man, [d]for that he also is flesh; yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years."

[4] There were giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown.

[5] And [a]GOD saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, (17)and that *every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil †continually. [6] And [e]it repented the LORD that he had made man on the earth, and it [f]grieved him at his heart. [7] And the LORD said, "I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth; ‡both man, and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth me that I have made them." [8] But Noah [g]found grace in the eyes of the LORD.

[9] These are the generations of Noah. [h]Noah was a just man and *perfect in his generations, and Noah [i]walked with God. [10] And Noah begat three sons, [j]Shem, Ham, and Japheth. [11] The earth also was corrupt [k]before God, and the earth was [l]filled with violence. [12] And God [m]looked upon the earth, and, behold, it was corrupt! for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth.

[13] And God said unto Noah, "The [n]end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them; and, behold! I will destroy them †with the earth. [14] Make thee an ark of gopher wood; ‡rooms shalt thou make in the ark, and shalt pitch it within and without with pitch. [15] And this is the fashion which thou shalt make it of. [16] A window shalt thou make to the ark, and in a cubit shalt thou finish it above; and the door of the ark shalt thou set in the side thereof: with lower, second, and third stories shalt thou make it. [17] And, [o]behold! I, even I, do bring a flood of waters upon the earth, to destroy all flesh, wherein is the breath of life, from under heaven; and every thing that is in the earth shall die. [18] But with thee will I establish my covenant; and [p]thou shalt come into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee. (17) The sacred historian now proceeds to relate the history of the deluge. The causes for which this terrible judgment of the Almighty was permitted to overwhelm the earth are to be found in the state of mankind at that period. It seems to have been necessary (if the term necessary may be applied to the works of that Being, to whom necessity and chance "approach not") for the preservation of the line of the Messiah, and for the perpetual instruction of mankind. The apostacy was almost universal; the visible Church of God was reduced to one family; and it is scarcely possible to suppose, that this single family would long have remained unaffected by the contagion of infidelity around them. The world therefore was destroyed, that the Church of God might be preserved; as it is at present only "kept in store," until the numbers of the Christian Church be completed. The Being who utters these words to Noah is the Angel Jehovah, the Messiah of the Church: and the words in Gen. vi. 17. "I, even I, do bring a flood of waters," may be considered as an assertion of his divinity, as a declaration of the power which he possessed, as the God of mankind, to destroy, as well as to create and to preserve. That this wonderful event, the deluge, certainly took place is confirmed by every proof which could be required by the most incredulous. Its history is written on the surface of the globe, and engrafted into the annals of all nations. If it once took place, it could never have been forgotten; and we accordingly find, that it was commemorated by rites, customs, festivals, and emblems; such as the dove, the serpent, the lotus, the cypselus, the mundane or arkite egg, with many others; all of which, though useful and innocent at first, were afterwards perverted to idolatrous uses. Moses therefore relates this important history at some length, and uses many expressions which evidently allude to the manners and customs of the surrounding idolatrous nations.—Vide Bryant's Analysis; Maurice's Hindostan; papers in the Asiatic Researches; Faber's Origin of Pagan Idolatry; in which the interesting subjects of the arkite worship, and the traditions of the deluge are discussed at great length.

their kind, and of cattle after their kind, of every creeping thing of the earth after his kind, two of every sort [r]shall come unto thee, to keep them alive. [21] And take thou unto thee of all food that is eaten, and thou shalt gather it to thee; and it shall be for food for thee, and for them." [22] Thus [s]did Noah; according to all that God commanded him, so did he.

Gen. vii. 1-4.

[1] And the LORD said unto Noah, "Come [t]thou and all thy house into the ark; for [u]thee have I seen righteous before me in this generation. [2] Of every [v]clean beast thou shalt take to thee by *sevens, the male and his female: [w]and of beasts that are not clean by two, the male and his female. [3] Of fowls also of the air by sevens, the male and the female; to keep seed alive upon the face of all the earth. found no rest for the sole of her foot, and she returned unto him into the ark, for the waters were on the face of the whole earth: then he put forth his hand, and took her, and *pulled her in unto him into the the dove out of the ark, [11] and the dove came in to him in the evening, and, lo! in her mouth was an olive leaf plucked off; so Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth. [12] And he staid

[8] And God spake unto Noah, and to his sons with him, saying, [9] "And I, [t]behold! I establish my covenant with you, and with your seed after you; [10] and [u]with every living creature that is with you, of the fowl, of the cattle, and of every beast of the earth with you; from all that go out of the ark, to every beast of the earth. [11] And [v]I will establish my covenant with you; neither shall all flesh be cut off any more by the waters of a flood; neither shall there any more be a flood to destroy the earth." [12] And God said, "This [w]is the token of the covenant which I make between me and you and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations: [13] I do set [x]my bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth. [14] And [y]it shall come to pass, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the bow shall be seen in the cloud; [15] and [z]I will remember my covenant, which is between me and you and every living creature of all flesh; and the waters shall no more become a flood to destroy all flesh. [16] And the bow shall be in the cloud; and I will look upon it, that I may remember [a]the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is upon the earth." (18) The death of Noah ought not properly to be inserted at this place: I have not, however, here changed the order of the text, as the Scripture is silent with respect to the subsequent life of Noah, and his probable removal from Nachshevan, in Armenia; where he long lived after the flood: and it was not thought advisable to interrupt the subsequent narrative, with the isolated date of the death of this patriarch.

(1) Our attention is now directed to an event, on which it has ever been more easy to write volumes than paragraphs. Though it is but briefly related by the sacred historian, its effects are still to be traced in the destinies of the sons of Noah, who even to this time retain the character impressed upon them at the time of the apostacy at Babel. They are still the sport of ambition and religious error. Separated by a variety of languages, which but for this event would not have existed, they seem by their numerous divisions to labor still under that curse, which was inflicted upon them as a punishment for their impious attempt to frustrate the decree of Providence, which had assigned to each of the principal families the boundaries of their inheritance.

That the whole world was of one language, and that their language was that of Noah and his three sons, is acknowledged by all; and Josephus informs us, that mankind long remained together as one family, inhabiting the tops of the mountains, in the country round Ararat. While they were thus united, it is likewise generally allowed, that their future destinations were assigned to them by Noah, speaking under the influence of divine inspiration. Moses mentions this division of the earth (Deut. xxxii. 7, 8.) when the Israelites were in sight of the Holy Land, and reminds them, as of a thing well known, that Canaan had been from the beginning the lot of their inheritance.

So far then all are agreed. With respect to the emigration of mankind from Armenia (for there, according to the best evidence, the ark rested), Mr. Bryant (with others) is of opinion, that some of the families of Noah dispersed in an orderly manner to their respective settlements. This was the first dispersion; and this event he supposes to be related in that most invaluable of all ancient records, the tenth chapter of Genesis. Other families were not, however, equally obedient to the divine will. The sons of Cush, under the command of Nimrod, marched off through the defiles of the lofty Tauric range, passed round the southern extremity of the Caspian Sea, and then turning to the south-west, reached the plain of Shinar. There they built the city and the tower of Babel. Thence they were dispersed by miracle, and scattered over the whole earth. The confusion of tongues, Mr. Bryant supposes, to have been merely the confusion of the lip, or a change of pronunciation only. After this second dispersion, the Cuthim or Hammonians, as they were called, wandered over the earth; established their idolatry, which consisted chiefly of the worship of fire, and of the sun, with the arkite rites; carried every where science, arts, and commerce; conquered their brethren, planted flourishing colonies, and founded powerful kingdoms.

Mr. Faber supposes, that mankind continued in Armenia till after the death of Noah and his three sons; and endeavours to confirm this position by adopting the chronology of the Samaritan Pentateuch. In the year 559 after the deluge, according to this learned and ingenious author, the whole of the descendants of Noah, under the influence of Nimrod and the family of Cush, who had gradually obtained great influence among their brethren, moved in one large body from Armenia, and, following the course of the Euphrates, at length arrived in Shinar. At this place idolatry, which had insensibly commenced in Armenia, and proceeded till it had almost superseded the worship of the one true God, was perfected. As the human mind never tolerates any violent or sudden change in received and well-confirmed opinions, the ancient idolatry is supposed to have originated in slow and imperceptible innovations, alterations, and perversions of the pure patriarchal religion; till it became a strange and monstrous compound of Demonolatry, Sabianism, Materialism, Polytheism, and cruelty. The outward forms of Patriarchism were studiously copied; even the doctrine of the Incarnation was perverted to hero worship: each of their ancestors who had been eminent or useful, was considered as an incarnation of the Deity; and there is abundant reason to believe, that the influence of Nimrod was obtained from this circumstance; that he assumed the title of "The Son;" he named found a plain in the land of Shinar; and they dwelt there. [3] And *they said one to another, "Go to, let us make brick, and †burn them throughly." And they had brick for stone, and [a]slime had they for mortar. [4] And they said, "Go to, let us build us a city and a tower, [a]whose top may reach unto heaven; and let us make us a name, lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth." [5] And [b]the Lord came down to see the city and the tower, which the children of men builded. [6] And the Lord said, "Behold! [c]the people is one, and they have all one language, and this they begin to do; and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have [d]imagined to do. [7] Go to, [e]let us go down, and there confound their language, that they may [f]not understand one another's speech." [8] So [g]the Lord scattered them abroad from thence [h]upon the face of all the earth; and they left off to build the city. [9] Therefore is the name of it called ‡Babel, because the Lord did there confound the language of all the earth; and from thence did the Lord scatter them abroad upon the face of all the earth.

himself, and was believed to be, the expected Incarnate, the Angel Jehovah, who sometimes appeared to mankind.

Had this state of things continued, religion would have been again in danger of perishing from off the earth. Mankind continued at Shinar, Mr. Faber endeavours to prove, about seventy-one years. During this period, the whole body of mankind were divided into castes, under the influence of Nimrod, the Maha-Bad, or Maha-Bel, or the great Belus of the Hindoos: and every effort which human wisdom could contrive was exerted, to continue the influence of the sacerdotal, and military family of the Cuthim; and to perpetuate, against the commands of God, the unholy union of a corrupt and idolatrous empire.

While the tower, which they intended to be the monument of their glory, was still building, the true Incarnate, the Angel Jehovah, appeared to them from heaven; overthrew their tower (according to general tradition) with thunders and lightnings; and confused their language, "so that they left off to build the city."

The Jewish writers believed that seventy-two languages were spoken upon the dispersion from Shinar, corresponding with the number of the heads of families. The learned Joseph Mede supposes there were but sixteen, corresponding with the heads of nations. Sir William Jones, however, seems to have demonstrated that three languages only succeeded to the one language spoken at Shinar: after this event, he is of opinion that the primitive language was entirely lost; others with great probability affirm, that the Hebrew was the primitive and sacred language.

Language was at first the gift of God. The various disquisitions of learned men have proved that it could not have been the invention of man. It was given by miracle and inspiration.

As the primitive language was thus given, so the three languages to which, according to Sir William Jones, all the dialects of men are to be traced, were three underived, unconnected languages. All mankind is divided into three races, corresponding with the three languages. The three races are denominated by Sir William Jones (speaking generally) Hindoos, Arabs, and Tartars: the three languages, Sanscrit, Arabic, and Sclavonic.

The Indian race comprehends the ancient Persians; the Asiatic and African Ethiopians; the Greeks, Phenicians, Tuscans; the Scuths, or Goths; the Celts; the Chinese, Japanese, Egyptians, Syrians, Burmans, Romans, and Peruvians.

The language of the Indian race was Sanscrit; the parent of the Gothic and Celtic, though blended with another idiom, the Persian, the Armenian, and the old Ethiopic. Sanscrit too is undoubtedly the fountain of the Greek and Latin. The traditions of Homer are to be found in Sanscrit Poems; the idolatry of Greece and Rome was brought into those countries by the Pelasgi, who were but a branch of the Cuthic shepherds, whose language was Sanscrit.

The Arabic race comprehends those who occupy the country between the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf. From the Arabic sprung the dialects used by the Jews, Arabs, and Assyrians.

The Tartar race comprehends those who occupy the wide regions of Tartary; who have spread themselves into Russia, Poland, and Hungary. Their language was the Sclavonic, from which originated, so far as Sir William Jones could decide, the various dialects of Northern Asia, and North Eastern Europe.

Bryant, Sir William Jones, and Mr. Faber, are thus more particularly mentioned, because they are not only the best, but the last, of the more eminent writers who have discussed this subject: and they are all intimately acquainted with the learned labors of their predecessors. Our knowledge of the circumstances of the dispersion, and of the manner in which idolatry was established in the several countries where it most flourished has been much increased by these authors; particularly by Mr. Faber. But the general conclusion at which they, and the earlier writers arrived, is the same: and the question is for ever set at rest, whether all the races of men were descended from one stock: the dark Negro, the white European, and the swarthy Asiatic, being plainly traced to their respective ancestors of the family of Noah. Vide Bryant's Analysis; Faber's Origin of Pagan Idolatry, chiefly B. 6; Papers of Sir Wm. Jones, in the first three volumes of the Asiatic Researches; Mede; Lightfoot; Stillingfleet.

(4) The life of Job is placed before the life of Abraham, on the authority of Dr. Hales. Job himself, or one of his contemporaries, is generally supposed to have been the author of this book; which Moses obtained when in Midian, and, with some alterations, addressed to the Israelites. Dr. Hales' arguments are as follow:—

1. The silence of this book respecting the Exodus, the passage of the Red Sea, the promulgation of the Law, &c. which took place in the vicinity of the country of Job, and which were so apposite in his debate on the ways of Providence, seems to prove that it was written prior to those events.

2. Its silence respecting the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah shows that it was written before that event. [But see Job xviii. 15.—Ed.]

3. The longevity of Job places him among the patriarchs who long preceded Abraham. He survived his trial 140 years; and is supposed to have attained to that age before his trial began.

4. The manners and customs are exclusively those of pure and ancient patriarchism. He was the priest in his own family; and the institution of an established priesthood does not appear to have taken place till the days of Abraham.

5. The very ancient custom of prostration, as a mark of respect, does not even appear to have been known in Arabia, in the time of Job. Job was one of "the greatest men of the East," yet we do not find this adoration paid to him. See the marks of respect shown to Job, chap. xxix.

6. The most ancient kind of idolatry seems to have been Sabianism, which, in the time of Job, was regarded with abhorrence, as a novelty deserving judicial punishment. Job xxxi. 26.

7. In the time of Job, the stars Chimah and Chesil, or Taurus and Scorpio (Job ix. 9), were the cardinal constellations of spring and autumn. Dr. Hales calculates, in the usual manner, from their present position, the probable period of Job's trial.

Such are the arguments of the venerable Dr. Hales, which have induced me to place the history of the life of Job before that of Abraham. They do not, however, appear to fix his exact era; for the mere circumstance, that Job mentions certain stars, does not prove them to have been the cardinal constellations in his day. With Dr. Hales, therefore, I have placed the life of Job before that of Abraham, but have supposed him to have lived about the year 2130 B. C. The postdiluvian patriarchs, who lived the same number of years, were contemporary with each other. Job is said to have lived 280 years; and it is supposed that his life was prolonged on account of his piety and sufferings. If we allow fifty years for this unusual term, his age will be found to be of the same length as that of Serug, the great-grandfather of Abraham, who flourished about this time.

But my chief reason for assigning to the life of Job its present date, is derived from a consideration of the manner in which God has condescended to deal with mankind.

Idolatry, as we read in the preceding part of this Period, had occasioned the dispersion from Babel. It was gradually encroaching still further on every family, which had not yet lost the knowledge of the true God. Whoever has studied the conduct of Providence, will have observed, that God has never left himself without witnesses in the world to the truth of his religion. To the old world, eschewed evil. [2] And there were born unto him seven sons and three daughters. [3] His †substance also was seven thousand sheep, and three thousand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred she-asses, and a very great ‡household; so that this man was the greatest of all the *men of the East. [4] And his sons went and feasted in their houses, every one his day; and sent and called for their three sisters to eat and to drink with them. [5] And it was so, when the days of their feasting were gone about, that Job sent and sanctified them, and rose up early in the morning, [e]and offered burnt offerings according to the number of them all; for Job said, "It may be that my sons have sinned, and [f]cursed God in their hearts." Thus did Job †continually.

Noah was a preacher and a witness; to the latter times of patriarchism, Abraham and his descendants; to the ages of the Levitical Law, Moses, David, and the prophets; and to the first ages of Christianity, the apostles and the martyrs were severally witnesses of the truth of God. But we have no account whatever, unless Job be the man, that any faithful confessor of the one true God, arose between the dispersion from Babel, and the call of Abraham. If it be said, that the family of Shem was the visible Church of that age, it may be answered, that it is doubtful whether even this family were not idolators; for Joshua tells the Israelites (Jos. xxiv. 2.) that the ancestors of Abraham were worshippers of images.

Job therefore, in this age of error, may be considered as the faithful witness, in his day, to the hope of the Messiah: he professed the true religion, and his belief in the following important truths:—the creation of the world by one Supreme Being; the government of that world by the providence of God; the corruption of man, by nature; the necessity of sacrifices to propitiate the Deity; and the certainty of a future resurrection. These were the doctrines of the patriarchal age, as well as of the Jewish and Christian covenants. They are the fundamental truths of that one system of religion, which is alone acceptable to God, by whatever name it may be distinguished in the several ages of the world.—Vide Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 53, &c.; Abp. Magee On the Book of Job; Disc. on the Atonement, vol. ii.; Bishop Patrick On Job.

[1] AGAIN [a]there was a day when the sons of God came to present "From whence comest thou?" And [b]Satan answered the LORD, and Satan, "Behold! he is in thy hand; †but save his life."

[7] So went Satan forth from the presence of the LORD, and smote Job with sore [h]biles from the sole of his foot unto his crown. [8] And he took him a potsherd to scrape himself withal; [i]and he sat down among the ashes.

[9] Then said his wife unto him, "Dost [j]thou still retain thine integrity?—curse God, and die!" [10] But he said unto her, "Thou speakest as one of the foolish women speaketh. What! [k]shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil?" In all this did not Job [l]sin with his lips.

they had made an appointment together to come [d]to mourn with him, and to comfort him. [12] And when they lifted up their eyes afar off, and knew him not, they lifted up their voice, and wept; and they rent every one his mantle, and [e]sprinkled dust upon their heads toward

[1] After this opened Job his mouth, and cursed his day. [2] And Job *spake, and said :—

Let not God regard it from above,
Neither let the light shine upon it.
[5] Let darkness and [h]the shadow of death †stain it;
Let a cloud dwell upon it;
‡Let the blackness of the day terrify it.
[6] As for that night, let darkness seize upon it;
*Let it not be joined unto the days of the year,

JOB vii.

1 Is there not *an appointed time to man upon earth?
Are not his days also like the days of a hireling?
2 As a servant †earnestly desireth the shadow,
And as a hireling looketh for the reward of his work:
3 So am I made to possess [o]months of vanity,
And wearisome nights are appointed to me.
4 When [p]I lie down, I say,
'When shall I arise, and ‡the night be gone?'
And I am full of tossings to and fro unto the dawning of the day.
5 My flesh is [q]clothed with worms and clods of dust;
My skin is broken, and become loathsome.
6 My [r]days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle,
And are spent without hope.
7 O remember that [s]my life is wind!
Mine eye *shall no more †see good.
8 The [t]eye of him that hath seen me shall see me no more:
Thine eyes are upon me, and ‡I am not.
9 As the cloud is consumed and vanisheth away:
So [u]he that goeth down to the grave shall come up no more.
10 He shall return no more to his house,
Neither [v]shall his place know him any more.
11 Therefore I will not refrain my mouth;
I will speak in the anguish of my spirit;
I will [w]complain in the bitterness of my soul.
12 "Am I a sea, or a whale,
That Thou settest a watch over me?
13 When [x]I say, 'My bed shall comfort me,
My couch shall ease my complaint;'
14 Then Thou scarest me with dreams,
And terrifiest me through visions:
15 So that my soul chooseth strangling,
And death rather than *my life.
16 I [y]loathe it—I would not live alway:
Let [z]me alone—for my days are vanity.
17 What [a]is man, that thou shouldest magnify him?
And that thou shouldest set thy heart upon him?
18 And that thou shouldest visit him every morning,
And try him every moment?
19 How long wilt thou not depart from me,
Nor let me alone till I swallow down my spittle?
20 I have sinned;
What shall I do unto thee, O thou [a]Preserver of men?
Why [b]hast thou set me as a mark against Thee,
So that I am a burden to myself?
21 And why dost Thou not pardon my transgression,
And take away mine iniquity?
For now shall I sleep in the dust;
And Thou shalt seek me in the morning, but I shall not be."

SECTION VII.—The Argument taken up by Bildad.

JOB viii.

Bildad showeth God's justice in dealing with men according to their works. 8 He alledgeth antiquity to prove the certain destruction of the hypocrite. 20 He applieth God's just dealing to Job.

1 THEN answered BILDAD the Shuhite, and said:—
2 "How long wilt thou speak these things?
And how long shall the words of thy mouth be like a strong wind?

SECT. VII.

3 Doth [a]God pervert judgment?
Or doth the Almighty pervert justice?
4 If [b]thy children have sinned against him,
And he have cast them away *for their transgression;
5 If [c]thou wouldest seek unto God betimes,
And make thy supplication to the Almighty;
6 If thou wert pure and upright;
Surely now he would awake for thee,
And make the habitation of thy righteousness prosperous.
7 Though thy beginning was small,
Yet thy latter end should greatly increase.
8 "For [d]inquire, I pray thee, of the former age,
And prepare thyself to the search of their fathers,

SECTION VIII.—Reply of Job to Bildad, in which he asserts, that Affliction is no Proof of Wickedness.

JOB ix. and x.

Job, acknowledging God's justice, showeth there is no contending with him. 22 Man's innocency is not to be condemned by afflictions. — Chap. x. 1 Taking liberty of complaint, he expostulateth with God about his afflictions. 18 He complaineth of life, and craveth a little ease before death.

1 THEN JOB answered and said:—

SECT. VIII.

2 "I know it is so of a truth:
But how should [a]man be just *with God?
3 If he will contend with Him,
He cannot answer Him one of a thousand.
4 He [b]is wise in heart, and mighty in strength:
Who hath hardened himself against Him, and hath prospered?

But I would make supplication to my Judge.
16 If I had called, and He had answered me;
Yet would I not believe that He had hearkened unto my voice.
17 For He breaketh me with a tempest,
And multiplieth my wounds [k]without cause.
18 He will not suffer me to take my breath,
But filleth me with bitterness.
19 If I speak of strength, lo! He is strong:
And if of judgment, who shall set me a time to plead?
20 If I justify myself, mine own mouth shall condemn me:
If I say, 'I am perfect,' it shall also prove me perverse.
21 Though I were perfect, yet would I not know my soul:
I would despise my life.
22 "This is one thing, therefore I said it,
'He [l]destroyeth the perfect and the wicked.'
23 If the scourge slay suddenly,

24 The earth is given into the hand of the wicked:

29 If I be wicked, why then labor I in vain?
30 If [s]I wash myself with snow water,
And make my hands never so clean;
31 Yet shalt Thou plunge me in the ditch,

1 THEN answered ZOPHAR the Naamathite, and said :—
2 "Should not the multitude of words be answered ?

SECT. IX.

And should *a man full of talk be justified?
3 Should thy †lies make men hold their peace?
And when thou mockest, shall no man make thee ashamed?
4 For [a]thou hast said, 'My doctrine is pure,

Section XI.—The Second Controversy between Job and his Friends.

Job xv.

Eliphaz reproveth Job of impiety in justifying himself. 17 He proveth by tradition the unquietness of wicked men.

SECT. XI.

1 Then answered Eliphaz the Temanite, and said:—
2 "Should a wise man utter *vain knowledge,
And fill his belly with the east wind?
3 Should he reason with unprofitable talk?
Or with speeches wherewith he can do no good?
4 Yea, †thou castest off fear,
And restrainest ‡prayer before God.
5 For thy mouth *uttereth thine iniquity,
And thou choosest the tongue of the crafty.
6 Thine [a]own mouth condemneth thee, and not I:
Yea, thine own lips testify against thee.

And dost thou restrain wisdom to thyself?
[9] What [d]knowest thou, that we know not?
What understandest thou, which is not in us?
[10] With [e]us are both the grayheaded and very aged men,
Much elder than thy father.
[11] Are the consolations of God small with thee?
Is there any secret thing with thee?
[12] "Why doth thy heart carry thee away?
And what do thy eyes wink at,
[13] That thou turnest thy spirit against God,
And lettest such words go out of thy mouth?
[14] What [f]is man, that he should be clean?
And he which is born of a woman, that he should be righteous?
[15] Behold! [g]He putteth no trust in his saints;
Yea, the heavens are not clean in his sight.
[16] How [h]much more abominable and filthy is man,
Which [i]drinketh iniquity like water?
[17] "I will show thee—hear me;
And that which I have seen I will declare;
[18] Which wise men have told [j]from their fathers,
And have not hid it:
[19] Unto whom alone the earth was given,
And [k]no stranger passed among them.
[20] The [l]wicked man travaileth with pain all his days,
And the number of years is hidden to the oppressor.
[21] †A dreadful sound is in his ears:
In [m]prosperity the destroyer shall come upon him.
[22] He believeth not that he shall return out of darkness,
And he is waited for of the sword.
[23] He [n]wandereth abroad for bread, saying, 'Where is it?'
He knoweth that [o]the day of darkness is ready at his hand.
[24] Trouble and anguish shall make him afraid;
They shall prevail against him, as a king ready to the battle.
[25] For he stretcheth out his hand against God,
And strengtheneth himself against the Almighty.
[26] He runneth upon him, even on his neck,
Upon the thick bosses of his bucklers:
[27] Because [p]he covereth his face with his fatness,
And maketh collops of fat on his flanks.
[28] And he dwelleth in desolate cities,
And in houses which no man inhabiteth,
Which are ready to become heaps.
[29] He shall not be rich,
Neither shall his substance continue,
Neither shall he prolong the perfection thereof upon the earth.
[30] He shall not depart out of darkness;
The flame shall dry up his branches,
And [q]by the breath of his mouth shall he go away.
[31] "Let not him that is deceived [r]trust in vanity:
For vanity shall be his recompence.
[32] It shall be ‡accomplished before his time,
And his branch shall not be green.
[33] He shall shake off his unripe grape as the vine,
And shall cast off his flower as the olive.
[34] For the congregation of hypocrites shall be desolate,
And fire shall consume the tabernacles of bribery.

And their belly prepareth deceit."

SECT. XII.

1 THEN JOB answered and said:—
2 "I have heard many such things:
*Miserable comforters are ye all!
3 Shall †vain words have an end?
Or what emboldeneth thee that thou answerest?
4 I also could speak as ye do:
If your soul were in my soul's stead,

5 But I would strengthen you with my mouth,
And the moving of my lips should assuage your grief.
6 "Though I speak—my grief is not assuaged:
And though I forbear—what ‡am I eased?

Thou hast made desolate all my company.
8 And Thou hast filled me with wrinkles,
Which is a witness against me:

11 "God hath *delivered me to the ungodly,

JOB XIX.

Job, complaining of his friends' cruelty, showeth there is misery enough in him to feed their cruelty. 21, 23 He craveth pity. 25 He believeth the resurrection.

1 THEN JOB answered and said:—
2 "How long will ye vex my soul,
And break me in pieces with words?
3 These [a]ten times have ye reproached me:
Ye are not ashamed that ye *make yourselves strange to me.
4 And be it indeed that I have erred,
Mine error remaineth with myself.
5 If indeed ye will [b]magnify yourselves against me,
And plead against me my reproach:
6 Know now that God hath overthrown me,
And hath compassed me with his net.
7 Behold, I cry out of †wrong—but I am not heard:
I cry aloud—but there is no judgment.
8 He [c]hath fenced up my way that I cannot pass,
And he hath set darkness in my paths.
9 He [d]hath stripped me of my glory,
And taken the crown from my head.
10 He hath destroyed me on every side—and I am gone:
And my hope hath he removed like a tree.
11 He hath also kindled his wrath against me,
And [e]he counteth me unto him as one of his enemies.
12 His troops come together,
And [f]raise up their way against me,
And encamp round about my tabernacle.

And my familiar friends have forgotten me.

JOB XXI.

Job showeth that even in the judgment of man he hath reason to be grieved. 7 Sometimes the wicked do so prosper, as they despise God. 16 Sometimes their destruction is manifest. 22 The happy and unhappy are alike in death. 27 The judgment of the wicked is in another world.

8 Their seed is established in their sight with them,

And their offspring before their eyes.
[9] Their houses ‡are safe from fear,
Neither [d]is the rod of God upon them.
[10] Their bull gendereth, and faileth not;
Their cow calveth, and [e]casteth not her calf.
[11] They send forth their little ones like a flock,
And their children dance.
[12] They take the timbrel and harp,
And rejoice at the sound of the organ.
[13] They spend their days in *wealth,
And in a moment go down to the grave.

SECTION XVII.—The Third Controversy between Job and his Friends—begun by Eliphaz.

JOB xxii.

Eliphaz showeth that man's goodness profiteth not God. 5 He accuseth Job of divers sins. 21 He exhorteth him to repentance, with promises of mercy.

1 THEN ELIPHAZ the Temanite answered and said:—
2 "Can a [a]man be profitable unto God,
*As he that is wise may be profitable unto himself?
3 Is it any pleasure to the Almighty, that thou art righteous?
Or is it gain to him, that thou makest thy ways perfect?
4 Will he reprove thee for fear of thee?
Will he enter with thee into judgment?
5 Is not thy wickedness great?
And thine iniquities infinite?
6 For thou hast [b]taken a pledge from thy brother for nought,
And †stripped the naked of their clothing.
7 Thou hast not given water to the weary to drink,
And thou [c]hast withholden bread from the hungry.
8 But as for ‡the mighty man, he had the earth;
And the *honorable man dwelt in it.
9 Thou hast sent widows away empty,
And the arms of [d]the fatherless have been broken.
10 Therefore [e]snares are round about thee,
And sudden fear troubleth thee;
11 Or darkness, that thou canst not see;
And abundance of [f]waters cover thee.
12 "Is not God in the height of heaven?
And, behold †the height of the stars, how high they are!
13 And thou sayest, '‡How doth God know?
Can he judge through the dark cloud?
14 Thick [g]clouds are a covering to him, that he seeth not;
And he walketh in the circuit of heaven.'
15 Hast thou marked the old way
Which wicked men have trodden?
16 Which [h]were cut down out of time,
*Whose foundation was overflown with a flood:
17 Which [i]said unto God, 'Depart from us:
And [j]what can the Almighty do †for them?'
18 Yet he filled their houses with good things:
But [k]the counsel of the wicked is far from me.
19 The [l]righteous see it, and are glad:
And the innocent laugh them to scorn.
20 Whereas our ‡substance is not cut down,
But *the remnant of them the fire consumeth.
21 Acquaint now thyself †with Him, and [m]be at peace:
Thereby good shall come unto thee.
22 Receive, I pray thee, the law from his mouth,
And [n]lay up his words in thy heart.
23 If [o]thou return to the Almighty, thou shalt be built up,
Thou shalt put away iniquity far from thy tabernacles.
24 Then shalt [p]thou lay up gold ‡as dust,
And the gold of Ophir as the stones of the brooks.
25 Yea, the Almighty shall be thy *defence,
And thou shalt have †plenty of silver.
26 For then shalt thou have thy [q]delight in the Almighty,
And [r]shalt lift up thy face unto God.
27 Thou [s]shalt make thy prayer unto Him—and He shall hear thee,

SECT. XVIII.

[1] THEN JOB answered and said:—
[2] "Even to-day is my complaint bitter:
*My stroke is heavier than my groaning.
[3] Oh [a]that I knew where I might find Him!
That I might come even to his seat!
[4] I would order my cause before Him,
And fill my mouth with arguments.
[5] I would know the words which He would answer me,
And understand what He would say unto me.
[6] Will [b]He plead against me with his great power?
No! but He would put strength in me.
[7] There the righteous might dispute with Him;
So should I be delivered for ever from my Judge.
[8] Behold! [c]I go forward—but He is not there;
And backward—but I cannot perceive Him:
[9] On the left hand, where He doth work—but I cannot behold Him:
He hideth himself on the right hand, that I cannot see Him:
[10] But He knoweth †the way that I take:
When [d]He hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold.
[11] My [e]foot hath held his steps,
His way have I kept, and not declined;
[12] Neither have I gone back from the commandment of his lips;
‡I have esteemed the words of his mouth more than *my necessary food.
[13] But He is in one mind—and [f]who can turn Him?

And many such things are with Him.
[15] Therefore am I troubled at his presence:
When I consider, I am afraid of Him.
[16] For God [i]maketh my heart soft,
And the Almighty troubleth me;
[17] Because I was not cut off before the darkness,
Neither hath He covered the darkness from my face.
[1] Why, seeing [j]times are not hidden from the Almighty, JOB xxiv.
Do they that know him not see his days?
[2] Some remove the [k]landmarks;
They violently take away flocks, and †feed thereof.
[3] They drive away the ass of the fatherless,
They [l]take the widow's ox for a pledge.
[4] They turn the needy out of the way:

JOB xxvi. to xxxi.

Job, reproving the uncharitable spirit of Bildad, 5 acknowledgeth the power of God to be infinite and unsearchable. — Chap. xxvii. 1 He protesteth his sincerity. 8 The hypocrite is without hope. 11 The blessings which the wicked have are turned into curses. — Chap. xxviii. 1 There is a knowledge of natural things. 12 But wisdom is an excellent gift of God. — Chap. xxix. He bemoaneth himself of his former prosperity and honor. — Chap. xxx., His honor is turned into extreme contempt. 15 His prosperity into calamity. — Chap. xxxi. He maketh a solemn protestation of his integrity in several duties.

1 BUT JOB answered and said:—
2 "How hast thou helped him that is without power?
How savest thou the arm that hath no strength?
3 How hast thou counselled him that hath no wisdom?
And how hast thou plentifully declared the thing as it is?
4 To whom hast thou uttered words?
And whose spirit came from thee?
5 "Dead things are formed from under the waters,
*And the inhabitants thereof.
6 Hell [a]is naked before Him,
And Destruction hath no covering.
7 He [b]stretcheth out the north over the empty place,
And hangeth the earth upon nothing.
8 He [c]bindeth up the waters in his thick clouds;
And the cloud is not rent under them.
9 He holdeth back the face of his throne,
And spreadeth his cloud upon it.
10 He [d]hath compassed the waters with bounds,
†Until the day and night come to an end.
11 The pillars of heaven tremble
And are astonished at his reproof.
12 He [e]divideth the sea with his power,
And by his understanding He smiteth through ‡the proud.
13 By [f]his Spirit He hath garnished the heavens;
His hand hath formed the Crooked Serpent.
14 Lo! these are parts of his ways:
But [g]how little a portion is heard of Him?
But the thunder of his power who can understand!"

1 Moreover JOB *continued his parable, and said,—
2 "As God liveth, [h]who hath taken away my judgment;
And the Almighty, who hath †vexed my soul;
3 All the while my breath is in me,
And ‡the Spirit of God is in my nostrils;
4 My lips shall not speak wickedness,
Nor my tongue utter deceit.
5 God forbid that I should justify you:
Till I die [i]I will not remove mine integrity from me.
6 My righteousness [j]I hold fast, and will not let it go:
My [k]heart shall not reproach me *so long as I live.
7 Let mine enemy be as the wicked,
And he that riseth up against me as the unrighteous.

8 "For [l]what is the hope of the hypocrite, though he hath gained,
When God taketh away his soul?
9 Will [m]God hear his cry when trouble cometh upon him?
10 Will [n]he delight himself in the Almighty?
Will he always call upon God?
11 "I will teach you †by the hand of God:
That which is with the Almighty will I not conceal.
12 Behold! all ye yourselves have seen it;
Why then are ye thus altogether vain?
13 This [o]is the portion of a wicked man with God,
And the heritage of oppressors, which they shall receive of the Almighty.
14 If [p]his children be multiplied, it is for the sword:
And his offspring shall not be satisfied with bread.
15 Those that remain of him shall be buried in death:
And [q]his widows shall not weep.
16 Though he heap up silver as the dust,
And prepare raiment as the clay;
17 He may prepare it—but [r]the just shall put it on,
And the innocent shall divide the silver.
18 He buildeth his house as a moth,
And [s]as a booth that the keeper maketh.
19 The rich man shall lie down—but he shall not be gathered:
He openeth his eyes—and he is not.
20 Terrors [t]take hold on him as waters,
A tempest stealeth him away in the night.
21 The east wind carrieth him away—and he departeth:
And as a storm hurleth him out of his place.
22 For God shall cast upon him, and not spare:
‡He would fain flee out of his hand.
23 Men shall clap their hands at him,
And shall hiss him out of his place.

JOB XXVIII.

1 Surely there is *a vein for the silver,
And a place for gold where they fine it.
2 Iron is taken out of the †earth,
And brass is molten out of the stone.
3 He setteth an end to darkness,
And searcheth out all perfection:
The stones of darkness, and the shadow of death.
4 The flood breaketh out from the inhabitant;
Even the waters forgotten of the foot:
They are dried up, they are gone away from men.
5 As for the earth, out of it cometh bread:
And under it is turned up as it were fire.
6 The stones of it are the place of sapphires:
And it hath ‡dust of gold.
7 There is a path which no fowl knoweth,
And which the vulture's eye hath not seen:
8 The lion's whelps have not trodden it,
Nor the fierce lion passed by it.
9 He putteth forth his hand upon the *rock;
He overturneth the mountains by the roots.
10 He cutteth out rivers among the rocks;
And his eye seeth every precious thing.
11 He bindeth the floods †from overflowing;
And the thing that is hid bringeth He forth to light.

15 ‡It cannot be gotten for gold,

With the precious onyx, or the sapphire.

22 Destruction and Death say,
'We have heard the fame thereof with our ears.'
23 "God understandeth the way thereof,
And he knoweth the place thereof.
24 For [w]he looketh to the ends of the earth,
And seeth under the whole heaven;
25 To [x]make the weight for the winds;
And he weigheth the waters by measure.

27 Then did he see it, and *declare it;
He prepared it, yea, and searched it out.
28 And unto man he said,
'Behold! the [z]fear of the Lord, that is wisdom;
And to depart from evil is understanding.'"

1 Moreover Job †continued his parable, and said:— Job xxix.
2 "Oh that I were [a]as in months past,
As in the days when God preserved me;
3 When his ‡candle shined upon my head,
And when by his light I walked through darkness;
4 As I was in the days of my youth,
When [b]the secret of God was upon my tabernacle;
5 When the Almighty was yet with me,
When my children were about me;
6 When [c]I washed my steps with butter,
And [d]the rock poured *me out rivers of oil!
7 When I went out to the gate through the city,
When I prepared my seat in the street,
8 The young men saw me, and hid themselves:
And the aged arose, and stood up.
9 The princes refrained talking,
And [e]laid their hand on their mouth.
10 †The nobles held their peace,
And their [f]tongue cleaved to the roof of their mouth.
11 When the ear heard me, then it blessed me;
And when the eye saw me, it gave witness to me:
12 Because [g]I delivered the poor that cried,
And the fatherless, and him that had none to help him.

13 The blessing of him that was ready to perish came upon me:
And I caused the widow's heart to sing for joy.
14 I [h]put on righteousness, and it clothed me:
My judgment was as a robe and a diadem.
15 I was [i]eyes to the blind,
And feet was I to the lame.
16 I was a father to the poor:
And [j]the cause which I knew not I searched out.
17 And I brake ‡the jaws of the wicked,
And *plucked the spoil out of his teeth.
18 Then I said, 'I [k]shall die in my nest,
And I shall multiply my days as the sand.'
19 My root was †spread out by the waters,
And the dew lay all night upon my branch.
20 My glory was ‡fresh in me,
And my bow was *renewed in my hand.
21 Unto me men gave ear, and waited,
And kept silence at my counsel.
22 After my words they spake not again;
And my speech dropped upon them.
23 And they waited for me as for the rain;
And they opened their mouth wide as for [l]the latter rain.
24 If I laughed on them, they believed it not;
And the light of my countenance they cast not down.
25 I chose out their way, and sat chief,
And dwelt as a king in the army,
As one that comforteth the mourners.

Job xxx.

1 But now—they that are †younger than I have me in derision,
Whose fathers I would have disdained to have set with the dogs of my flock.
2 Yea, whereto might the strength of their hands profit me,

3 For want and famine they were ‡solitary;
Fleeing into the wilderness *in former time desolate and waste.

And juniper roots for their meat.
5 They were driven forth from among men,
(They cried after them as after a thief);

In †caves of the earth, and in the rocks.
7 Among the bushes they brayed;

9 And [m]now am I their song,
Yea, I am their byword.
10 They abhor me, they flee far from me,
*And spare not to spit in my face.
11 Because He [n]hath loosed my cord, and afflicted me,
They have also let loose the bridle before me.
12 Upon my right hand rise the youth;
They push away my feet,
And [o]they raise up against me the ways of their destruction.
13 They mar my path,
They set forward my calamity,
They have no helper!
14 They came upon me as a wide breaking in of waters:

SECTION XXI.—Elihu, who had hitherto been silent, takes up the Argument, and shows that Affliction is sent by God for wise though inscrutable Purposes, and that the Duty of Man is Submission.

SECT. XXI.

[1] So these three men ceased *to answer Job, because he was [a]righteous in his own eyes.

[2] Then was kindled the wrath of ELIHU the son of Barachel [b]the Buzite, of the kindred of Ram: against Job was his wrath kindled, because he justified †himself rather than God. [3] Also against his three friends was his wrath kindled, because they had found no answer, and yet had condemned Job. [4] Now Elihu had ‡waited till Job had spoken, because they were *elder than he. [5] When Elihu saw that there was no answer in the mouth of these three men, then his wrath was kindled. [6] And Elihu the son of Barachel the Buzite answered and said:—

[8] But there is a spirit in man:
And [c]the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding.
[9] Great [d]men are not always wise:
Neither do the aged understand judgment.
[10] Therefore I said, 'Hearken to me;
I also will show mine opinion.'

2 "Hear my words, O ye wise men!
And give ear unto me, ye that have knowledge!
3 For [t]the ear trieth words,
As the †mouth tasteth meat.
4 Let us choose to us judgment:

That he should delight himself with God.'
10 "Therefore hearken unto me, ye *men of understanding!

1 ELIHU spake moreover, and said:—
2 "Thinkest thou this to be right, that [q]thou saidst,
'My righteousness is more than God's?'
3 For thou saidst, 'What advantage will it be unto thee?'
And, 'What profit shall I have, †if I be cleansed from my sin?'
4 "‡I will answer thee, and thy companions with thee.
5 Look [r]unto the heavens, and see;

8 Thy wickedness may hurt a man as thou art;
And thy righteousness may profit the son of man.
9 By [u]reason of the multitude of oppressions they make the oppressed to cry:
They cry out by reason of the arm of the mighty.
10 But none [v]saith, 'Where is God my Maker,
Who [w]giveth songs in the night;
11 Who [x]teacheth us more than the beasts of the earth,
And maketh us wiser than the fowls of heaven?'
12 There [y]they cry, but none giveth answer,
Because of the pride of evil men.
13 Surely God will not hear vanity,
Neither will the Almighty regard it.
14 "Although [z]thou sayest thou shalt not see Him,
Yet judgment is before Him;
Therefore [a]trust thou in Him.
15 But now, because it is not so, *He hath visited in his anger;
Yet †he knoweth it not in great extremity:
16 Therefore doth Job open his mouth in vain;
He multiplieth words without knowledge."

1 Elihu also proceeded, and said:— Job xxxvi.
2 "Suffer me a little, and I will show thee
‡That I have yet to speak on God's behalf.
3 I will fetch my knowledge from afar,
And will ascribe righteousness to my Maker.
4 For truly my words shall not be false:
He that is perfect in knowledge is with thee.
5 "Behold God is mighty, and [b]despiseth not any:
He [c]is mighty in strength and *wisdom.
6 He preserveth not the life of the wicked:
But giveth right to the †poor.
7 He [d]withdraweth not his eyes from the righteous.
But [e]with kings are they on the throne;
Yea, he doth establish them for ever, and they are exalted.
8 And [f]if they be bound in fetters,
And be holden in cords of affliction;
9 Then he showeth them their work,
And their transgressions that they have exceeded.
10 He [g]openeth also their ear to discipline,
And commandeth that they return from iniquity.
11 If they obey and serve him,
They shall [h]spend their days in prosperity,
And their years in pleasures.
12 But if they obey not,
‡They shall perish by the sword,
And they shall die without knowledge.
13 "But the hypocrites in heart [i]heap up wrath:
They cry not when He bindeth them.
14 *They die in youth,
And their life is among the †unclean.
15 He delivereth the ‡poor in his affliction,
And openeth their ears in oppression.
16 Even so would He have removed thee out of the strait
Into [j]a broad place, where there is no straitness;
And *that which should be set on thy table should be full of fatness.

SECTION XXVI.—Restoration of Job's Prosperity.

JOB xlii. 7, to the end.

God, preferring Job's cause, maketh his friends submit themselves, and accepteth him. 10 He magnifieth and blesseth Job. 16 Job's age and death.

[7] AND it was so, that after the LORD had spoken these words unto Job, the LORD said to Eliphaz the Temanite, "My wrath is kindled against thee, and against thy two friends; for ye have not spoken of me the thing that is right, as my servant Job hath. [8] Therefore take unto you now [a]seven bullocks and seven rams, and [b]go to my servant Job, and offer up for yourselves a burnt offering, and my servant Job shall [c]pray for you; for *him will I accept: lest I deal with you after your folly, in that ye have not spoken of me the thing which is right, like my servant Job."

[9] So Eliphaz the Temanite and Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite went, and did according as the LORD commanded them: the LORD also accepted †Job.

[10] And [d]the LORD turned the captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends; also the LORD ‡gave Job twice as much as he had before. [11] Then came there unto him [e]all his brethren, and all his sisters, and all they that had been of his acquaintance before, and did eat bread with him in his house: and they bemoaned him, and comforted him over all the evil that the LORD had brought upon him; every man also gave him a piece of money, and every one an earring of gold.

[12] So the LORD [f]blessed the latter end of Job more than his beginning; for he had [g]fourteen thousand sheep, and six thousand camels, and a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand she asses. [13] He [h]had also seven sons and three daughters. [14] And he called the name of the first, Jemima; and the name of the second, Kezia; and the name of the third, Keren-happuch. [15] And in all the land were no women found so fair as the daughters of Job; and their father gave them inheritance among their brethren. [16] After this lived Job an hundred and forty years, and saw his sons, and his sons' sons, even four generations. [17] So Job died, being [i]old and full of days.

PART III.

THE LIFE OF ABRAHAM.(5)

Section I.—From the Birth of Abram till his Return from Egypt.

Gen. xi. 27, to the end, chap. xii. and xiii. 1.

The generations of Terah the father of Abram. 31 Terah goeth from Ur to Haran.—Chap. xii. 1 God calleth Abram, and blesseth him with a promise of Christ. 4 He departeth with Lot from Haran. 6 He journeyeth through Canaan, 7 which is promised him in a vision. 10 He is driven by famine into Egypt. 11 Fear maketh him feign his wife to be his sister. 14 Pharaoh, having taken her from him, by plagues is compelled to restore her.—Chap. xiii. 1 Abram and Lot return out of Egypt.

[27] NOW these are the generations of Terah. Terah begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran; and Haran begat Lot. [28] And Haran died before his father Terah in the land of his nativity, in Ur of the Chaldees.
[29] And Abram and Nahor took them wives: the name of Abram's wife was Sarai; and the name of Nahor's wife, Milcah, the daughter of Haran, the father of Milcah, and the father of Iscah. [30] But Sarai [a]was barren; she had no child. [31] And Terah took Abram his son, and Lot the son of Haran his son's son, and Sarai his daughter-in-law, his son Abram's wife; and they went forth with them from [b]Ur of the Chaldees, to go into [c]the land of Canaan; and they came unto Haran, and dwelt there. [32] And the days of Terah were two hundred and five years: and Terah died in Haran.

Gen. xii.

[1] Now the Lord [d]had[f] said unto Abram, "Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will show thee; [2] and [e]I will make of thee a great nation, [f]and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; [g]and thou shalt be a blessing: [3] and [h]I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee; [i]and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed."

[4] So Abram departed, as the Lord had spoken unto him; and Lot went with him: and Abram was seventy and five years old when he departed out of Haran. [5] And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all their substance that they had gathered, and [j]the souls that they had gotten in Haran; and they went forth to go into the land of Canaan; and into the land of Canaan they came.

[6] And Abram passed through the land unto the place of Sichem, unto the plain of Moreh. And the Canaanite was then in the land.
[7] And the Lord appeared unto Abram, and said, "Unto [k]thy seed will

(5) With the Life of Abraham the Mosaic history may be said to commence; all that precedes being introductory to it. Though the knowledge of the One True God was not entirely banished from the world, yet it seems to have been so generally united with idolatrous corruptions, that God selected one family from the rest of mankind, to preserve uninterruptedly, by a course of laws and institutions, purity of religion, and belief in the Messiah. For this purpose the family of Abraham was chosen. His father's house was infected with the prevalent idolatry; but God, the Angel Jehovah (Acts vii. 2, &c.), appeared to Abraham, and commanded him to leave his country, and kindred, to seek another home. Abraham at this time dwelt at Ur, in Chaldea; and, in obedience to the divine will, he proceeded immediately to Haran in Mesopotamia, where his father Terah died. After the death of his father, the Angel Jehovah again appeared to him, and assured him that in his seed "all the families of the earth should be blessed." He then commanded him to leave Haran, and to wander over the earth as he should be directed by future revelations.

If we consult the map of the countries through which Abraham passed; and consider at the same time the probable amount of the population of the earth at this period; we shall find that Abraham, in complying with the divine command, preached the true religion to the great majority of mankind. And how impressive must have been the spectacle he presented to the world! A rich and powerful prince, attended with a large retinue of servants and retainers, traverses the earth, not for the purposes of war and conquest, as so many various tribes were then doing; but to preach the recovery of man from the effects of the Fall. So great was the check given to idolatry by this dispensation of Providence, that the effect of his preaching remained in some families till the age of Moses. And so universally was the fame of this great man extended, and so abundant is the evidence for the truth of this part of the narration of Moses, that the ancient Persians, the Hindoos, the Jews, the Lacedemonians, and the Arabians, have at various times united in celebrating his name, and declaring that their religion in its purity was the religion of Abraham.—Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 124.—Vide Heidegger, Exerc. 3. vol. ii. (6) This arrangement of [*]chapter xx. is made on the authority of Bishop Horsley, (Biblical Criticisms, vol. i. p. 69). Abraham's removal to Gerar, he observes, certainly took place before his ninety-ninth year, and prior to the birth of Isaac: for when he was ninety-nine, Sarah was an old woman; whereas she was in beauty, and an object of desire, when he first arrived in Abimelech's country. The appearance of the Angel Jehovah too, at the oak of Mamre (an event confirmed by the singular fact, that this oak was an object of veneration, and pilgrimage, in the time of Constantine), he believes to have been different from the appearance mentioned in the seventeenth chapter. The bishop, however, has omitted to observe, in confirmation of the arrangement he proposes, that it was not probable so long a space of time, from the eighty-sixth year of Abraham's age, when Ishmael was born (Gen. xvi. 16.), till his ninety-ninth year (Gen. xvii. 1.), should elapse, without the occurrence of any remarkable events; and that the many wonderful circumstances related in chapters xviii., xix., and xx., should all take place in his ninety-ninth year, immediately preceding the birth of Isaac. Neither is it probable, that the distance from Mamre, to the plain of Sodom, and from thence past Mamre again, through the whole of the country to Gerar, could have been traversed in one year.—Vide the map of the Holy Land.

[* In the third London edition of this work this chapter is inserted before the 17th, i. e. between the account of Lot and his daughters and the Renewal of the Covenant; and Mr. Townsend gives his reasons in the above Note; but, by a mistake, has referred it to the 17th chapter. In the 4th edition he has departed from this order, without assigning any reason for so doing, which inclines me to the belief that the transposition is an accidental error of the Printer. The circumstances related in the 13th to the 19th chapters, almost prove that Abraham could not have been at Gerar between the promise of a son and the birth of Isaac; at the least there being only a year, as is evident, intervening between the two events, Sarah could not have been at the court of Abimelech without her pregnancy being discovered. See Rosenmüller, Scholia in Vetus Test. in Genesin, chap. xx. p. 347, 3d edition, Leipsic, 1821; in which the opinions of many eminent critics are cited in support of the above arrangement. Ed.]

*a man's wife." [4] But Abimelech had not come near her: and he said, "Lord, wilt thou slay also a righteous nation? [5] Said he not unto me, 'She is my sister?' and she, even she herself, said, 'He is my brother:' in the †integrity of my heart and innocency of my hands have I done this." [6] And God said unto him in a dream, "Yea, I know that thou didst this in the integrity of thy heart; for [b]I also withheld thee from sinning against me: therefore suffered I thee not to touch her. [7] Now therefore restore the man his wife; [c]for he is a prophet, and he shall pray for thee, and thou shalt live: and if thou restore her not, [d]know thou, that thou shalt surely die, thou, and all that are thine." [8] Therefore Abimelech rose early in the morning, and called all his servants, and told all these things in their ears; and the men were sore afraid. [9] Then Abimelech called Abraham, and said unto him, "What hast thou done unto us? and what have I offended thee, [e]that thou hast brought on me and on my kingdom a great sin? thou hast done deeds unto me that ought not to be done." [10] And Abimelech said unto Abraham, "What sawest thou, that thou hast done this thing?" [11] And Abraham said, "Because I thought, [f]Surely the fear of God is not in this place; and [g]they will slay me for my wife's sake. [12] And yet indeed [h]she is my sister; she is the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother; and she became my wife. [13] And it came to pass, when God caused me to wander from my father's house, that I said unto her, 'This is thy kindness which thou shalt show unto me; at every place whither we shall come, [i]say of me, He is my brother.'"

[1] AND it came to pass in the days of Amraphel king of Shinar, Arioch king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of nations; [2] that these made war with Bera king of Sodom, and with Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of [a]Admah, and Shemeber king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela, which is Zoar. [3] All these were joined together in the vale of Siddim, which is the salt sea. [4] Twelve years they served Chedorlaomer, and in the thirteenth year they rebelled. [5] And in the fourteenth year came Chedorlaomer, and the kings that were with him, and smote [b]the Rephaims in Ashteroth Karnaim, and [c]the Zuzims in Ham, and the Emims in *Shaveh Kiriathaim, [6] and [d]the Horites in their Mount Seir, unto †El-paran, which is by the wilderness. [1] After these things the word of the Lord came unto Abram in [a]a vision, saying, "Fear [b]not, Abram: [c]I am thy shield, and thy exceeding great reward." [2] And Abram said, "Lord God, what wilt thou give me, seeing I go childless, and the steward of my house is this Eliezer of Damascus?" [3] And Abram said, "Behold! to me thou hast given no seed: and, lo! one born in my house is mine heir." [4] And, behold! the word of the Lord came unto him, saying, "This shall not be thine heir; but he that shall come forth out of thine own bowels shall be thine heir." [5] And He brought him forth abroad, and said, "Look now toward heaven, and tell the stars, if thou be able to number them:" and He said unto him, "So [d]shall thy seed be." GEN. xvi.

Sarai, being barren, giveth Hagar to Abram. 4 Hagar, being afflicted for despising her mistress, runneth away. 7 An angel sendeth her back to submit herself, 11 and telleth her of her child. 15 Ishmael is born.

[a]I pray thee, go in unto my maid; it may be that I may *obtain children by her." And Abram hearkened to the voice of Sarai. [3] And Sarai, Abram's wife, took Hagar her maid the Egyptian, after Abram had dwelt ten years in the land of Canaan, and gave her to her husband Abram to be his wife. [4] And he went in unto Hagar, and she conceived; and when she saw that she had conceived, her mistress was despised in her eyes. [5] And Sarai said unto Abram, "My wrong be upon thee! I have given my maid into thy bosom; and when she saw that she had conceived, I was despised in her eyes: [b]the LORD judge between me and thee!" [6] But Abram said unto Sarai, "Behold! [c]thy maid is in thy hand; do to her †as it pleaseth thee." And when Sarai ‡dealt hardly with her, she fled from her face. [7] And the angel of the LORD found her by a fountain of water in the wilderness, by the fountain in the way to Shur. [8] And he said, "Hagar, Sarai's maid, whence camest thou? and whither wilt thou go?" And she said, "I flee from the face of my mistress Sarai." [9] And the angel of the LORD said unto her, "Return to thy mistress, and [d]submit thyself under her hands." [10] And the angel of the LORD said unto her, "I [e]will multiply thy seed exceedingly, that it shall not be numbered for multitude." [11] And the angel of the LORD said unto her, "Behold! thou art with child, and shalt bear a son, and shalt call his name *Ishmael; because the LORD hath heard thy affliction. [12] And [f]he will be a wild man; his hand will be against every man, and every man's hand against him; [g]and he shall dwell in the presence of all his brethren." SECTION VIII.—Renewal of the Covenant—Institution of Circumcision—Promise of a Son.

GEN. xvii.

God reneweth the covenant. 5 Abram's name is changed in token of a greater blessing. 10 Circumcision is instituted. 15 Sarai's name is changed, and she is blessed. 17 Isaac is promised. 23 Abraham and Ishmael are circumcised.

[1] AND when Abram was ninety years old and nine, the LORD appeared to Abram, and said unto him, "I [a]am the Almighty God; walk before me, and be thou *perfect. [2] And I will make my covenant between me and thee, and [b]will multiply thee exceedingly." [3] And Abram fell on his face: and God talked with him, saying, [4] "As for me, behold, my covenant is with thee, and thou shalt be a father of †many nations. [5] Neither shall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name shall be ‡Abraham; for a father of many nations have I made thee. [6] And I will make thee exceeding fruitful, and I will make nations of thee, and kings shall come out of thee. [7] And I will establish my covenant between me and thee, and thy seed after thee in their generations for an everlasting covenant, to be a God unto thee, and to thy seed after thee. [8] And [c]I will give unto thee, and to thy seed after thee, the land *wherein thou art a stranger, all the land of Canaan, for an everlasting possession; and [d]I will be their God." [9] And God said unto Abraham, "Thou shalt keep my covenant therefore, thou, and thy seed after thee in their generations. [10] This is my covenant, which ye shall keep, between me and you and thy seed after thee—Every man child among you shall be circumcised. [11] And ye shall circumcise the flesh of your foreskin; and it shall be [e]a token of the covenant betwixt me and you. [12] And †he that is eight days old [f]shall be circumcised among you, every man child in your generations, he that is born in the house, or bought with money of any stranger, which is not of thy seed. [13] He that is born in thy house, and he that is bought with thy money, must needs be circumcised; and my covenant shall be in your flesh for an everlasting covenant. [14] And the uncircumcised man child whose flesh of his foreskin is not circumcised, that soul [g]shall be cut off from his people; he hath broken my covenant."

[15] And God said unto Abraham, "As for Sarai thy wife, thou shalt not call her name Sarai, but ‡Sarah shall her name be. [16] And I will bless her, [h]and give thee a son also of her: yea, I will bless her, and *she shall be a mother [i]of nations; kings of people shall be of her." [17] Then Abraham fell upon his face, [j]and laughed, and said in his heart, "Shall a child be born unto him that is an hundred years old? and shall Sarah, that is ninety years old, bear?" [18] And Abraham said unto God, "O that Ishmael might live before thee!" [19] And God said, "Sarah thy wife [k]shall bear thee a son indeed; and thou shalt call his name Isaac: and I will establish my covenant with him for an everlasting covenant, and with his seed after him. [20] And as for Ishmael, I have heard thee. Behold! I have blessed him, and will make him fruitful, and [l]will multiply him exceedingly; twelve princes shall he beget, and I will make him a great nation. [21] But my covenant will I establish with Isaac, which Sarah shall bear unto thee at this set time in the next year." [22] And He left off talking with him, and God went up from Abraham.

[23] And Abraham took Ishmael his son, and all that were born in his house, and all that were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abraham's house; and circumcised the flesh of their foreskin in the selfsame day, as God had said unto him. [24] And Abraham was ninety years old and nine, when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. [25] And Ishmael his son was thirteen years old, when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. [26] In the selfsame day was Abraham circumcised, and Ishmael his son. [27] And [m]all the men of his house, born in the house, and bought with money of the stranger, were circumcised with him.

[1] AND the LORD appeared unto [a]him in the plains of Mamre: and he sat in the tent door in the heat of the day; [2] and [a]he lift up his eyes and looked, and, lo! three men stood by him. And when he saw them, he ran to meet them from the tent door, and bowed himself toward the ground, [3] and said, "My Lord, if now I have found

And they said, "So do, as thou hast said." [6] And Abraham hastened into the tent unto Sarah, and said, "‡Make ready quickly three measures of fine meal, knead it, and make cakes upon the hearth." [7] And Abraham ran unto the herd, and fetched a calf tender and good, and gave it unto a young man; and he hasted to dress it. [8] And he took butter, and milk, and the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them; and he stood by them under the tree, and they did eat.

[d]Sarah thy wife shall have a son." And Sarah heard it in the tent door, which was behind him. [11] Now [e]Abraham and Sarah were old and well stricken in age; and it ceased to be with Sarah after the manner of women. [12] Therefore Sarah [f]laughed within herself, saying, "After [g]I am waxed old shall I have pleasure, my lord being old also?" [13] And the LORD said unto Abraham, "Wherefore did Sarah laugh, saying, 'Shall I of a surety bear a child, which am old?' [14] Is [h]any thing too hard for the LORD? At the time appointed I will return unto thee, according to the time of life, and Sarah shall have a son." [15] Then Sarah denied, saying, "I laughed not;" for she was afraid. And he said, "Nay; but thou didst laugh."

On the road to Sodom.

SECTION X.—Condemnation and Destruction of Sodom.

GEN. xviii. 16, to the end, and xix. 1–29.

The destruction of Sodom is revealed to Abraham. 23 He maketh intercession for the men thereof. — Chap. xix. 1 Lot entertaineth two angels. 4 The vicious Sodomites are stricken with blindness. 12 Lot is sent for safety into the mountains. 18 He obtaineth leave to go into Zoar. 24 Sodom and Gomorrah are destroyed. 26 Lot's wife becomes a pillar of salt.

[16] AND the men rose up from thence, and looked toward Sodom: and Abraham went with them to bring them on the way. [17] And the LORD said, "Shall [a]I hide from Abraham that thing which I do; [18] seeing that Abraham shall surely [b]become a great and mighty nation, and [c]all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him? [19] For I know him, [d]that he will command his children and his household after him, and they shall keep the way of the LORD, to do justice and judgment; that the LORD may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him." [20] And the LORD said, "Because [e]the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sin is very grievous, [21] I will go down now, and see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, I will know." [22] And the men turned their faces from thence, and went toward Sodom: but Abraham stood yet before the LORD.

[30] And he said unto him, "Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak! Peradventure there shall thirty be found there." And he said, "I will not do it, if I find thirty there." [31] And he said, "Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord: Peradventure there shall be twenty found there." And he said, "I will not destroy it for twenty's sake." [32] And he said, "Oh [k]let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak yet but this once! Peradventure ten shall be found there." And he said, "I [l]will not destroy it for ten's sake." Sodom.

Gen. xix. 1–29.

[1] And there came two angels to Sodom at even; and Lot sat in the gate of Sodom: and [m]Lot seeing them rose up to meet them; and he bowed himself with his face toward the ground. [2] And he said, "Behold now, my lords, turn in, I pray you, into your servant's house, and tarry all night, and wash your feet, and ye shall rise up early, and go on your ways." And they said, "Nay; but we will abide in the street all night." [3] And [n]he pressed upon them greatly; and they turned in unto him, and entered into his house; [o]and he made them a feast, and did bake unleavened bread, and they did eat.

[4] But before they lay down, the men of the city, even the men of Sodom, compassed the house round, both old and young, all the people from every quarter. [5] And [p]they called unto Lot, and said unto him, "Where are the men which came in to thee this night? bring them out unto us, that [q]we may know them." [6] And Lot went out at the door unto them, and shut the door after him, [7] and said, "I pray you, brethren, do not so wickedly. [8] Behold [r]now, I have two daughters which have not known man; let me, I pray you, bring them out unto you, and do ye to them as is good in your eyes: only unto these men do nothing; [s]for therefore came they under the shadow of my roof." [9] And they said, "Stand back!" And they said again, "This one fellow came in to sojourn, [t]and he will needs be a judge: now will we deal worse with thee than with them." And they pressed sore upon the man even Lot, and came near to break the door. [10] But the men put forth their hand, and pulled Lot into the house to them, and shut to the door. [11] And [u]they smote the men that were at the door of the house with blindness, both small and great; so that they wearied themselves to find the door.

[12] And the men said unto Lot, "Hast thou here any besides? Son-in-law, and thy sons, and thy daughters, and whatsoever thou hast in the city, [v]bring them out of this place: [13] for we will destroy this place, because the [w]cry of them is waxen great before the face of the Lord; and [x]the Lord hath sent us to destroy it." [14] And Lot went out, and spake unto his sons-in-law, [y]which married his daughters, and said, "Up! [z]get you out of this place! for the Lord will destroy this city." [a]But he seemed as one that mocked unto his sons-in-law.

[15] And when the morning arose, then the angels hastened Lot, saying, "Arise! [b]take thy wife, and thy two daughters, which *are here; lest thou be consumed in the †iniquity of the city." [16] And [c]while he lingered, the men laid hold upon his hand, and upon the hand of his wife, and upon the hand of his two daughters, (the [d]Lord being merciful unto him;) [e]and they brought him forth, and set him without the city.

[17] And it came to pass, when they had brought them forth abroad, that he said, "Escape [f]for thy life! look not behind thee, [g]neither stay thou in all the plain; escape to the mountain, lest thou be consumed!" [18] And Lot said unto them, "Oh, not so, my Lord! [19] Behold now, thy servant hath found grace in thy sight, and thou hast magnified thy mercy, which thou hast showed unto me in saving my life; and I cannot escape to the mountain, lest some evil take me, and I die; [20] behold now, this city is near to flee unto, and it is a little one; oh, let me escape thither, (is it not a little one?) and my soul shall live." [21] And he said unto him, "See! [h]I have accepted ‡thee concerning this thing also, that I will not overthrow this city, for the which thou hast spoken. [22] Haste thee! escape thither! for I cannot do any thing till thou be come thither." Therefore the name of the city was called *Zoar.

[23] The sun was †risen upon the earth when Lot entered into Zoar. [24] Then [i]the LORD rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimstone and fire from the LORD out of heaven; [25] and he overthrew those cities, and all the plain, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew upon the ground.

[26] But his wife looked back from behind him, [j]and she became a pillar of salt.

[27] And Abraham gat up early in the morning to the place where he stood before the LORD. [28] And he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and toward all the land of the plain, and beheld, and, lo! the smoke of the country went up as the smoke of a furnace!

[29] And it came to pass, when God destroyed the cities of the plain, that God remembered Abraham, and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow, when he overthrew the cities in the which Lot dwelt.

GEN. xix. 30, to the end.

Lot dwelleth in a cave. The incestuous original of Moab and Ammon.

[30] AND Lot went up out of Zoar, and dwelt in the mountain, and his two daughters with him; for he feared to dwell in Zoar: and he dwelt in a cave, he and his two daughters. [31] And the firstborn said unto the younger, "Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth to come in unto us after the manner of all the earth; [32] come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we [a]may preserve seed of our father." [33] And they made their father drink wine that night; and the firstborn went in, and lay with her father; and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose. [34] And it came to pass on the morrow, that the firstborn said unto the younger, "Behold, I lay yesternight with my father; let us make him drink wine this night also, and go thou in, and lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father." [35] And they made their father drink wine that night also; and the younger arose, and lay with him; and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose. [36] Thus were both the daughters of Lot with child by their father. [37] And the firstborn bare a son, and called his name [b]Moab: the same is the father of the Moabites unto this day. [38] And the younger, she also bare a son, and called his name [c]Ben-ammi: the same is the father of the children of Ammon unto this day.

[a] Dr. A. Clark is of opinion that this expedient was adopted by Lot's daughters, merely to preserve the family: it is evident, that they thought that all flesh was destroyed (ver. 31.), which was a very reasonable opinion, seeing that the destruction of the world by the deluge was yet of very recent date.—Ed.

[9] And Sarah saw the son of Hagar the Egyptian, which she had born unto Abraham, mocking. [10] Wherefore she said unto Abraham, "Cast [a]out this bondwoman and her son; for the son of this bondwoman shall not be heir with my son, even with Isaac." [13] And also of the [d]son of the bondwoman will I make a nation, because he is thy seed." [14] And Abraham rose up early in the morning, and took bread, and a bottle of water, and gave it unto Hagar, putting it on her shoulder, and the child, and sent her away: and she departed, and wandered in the wilderness of Beer-sheba. [15] And the water was spent in the bottle, and she cast the child under one of the shrubs. [16] And she went, and sat her down over against him a good way off, as it were a bowshot: for she said, "Let me not see the death of the child." And she sat over against him, and lift up her voice, and wept. [17] And [e]God heard the voice of the lad; and the angel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and said unto her, "What aileth thee, Hagar? fear not; for God hath heard the voice of the lad where he is. [18] Arise, lift up the lad, and hold him in thy hand; for I will make him a great nation." [19] And [f]God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water; and she went, and filled the bottle with water, and gave the lad drink. [22] And it came to pass at that time, that [a]Abimelech and Phichol the chief captain of his host spake unto Abraham, saying, "God [b]is with thee in all that thou doest: [23] now therefore [c]swear unto me here by God, *that thou wilt not deal falsely with me, nor with my son, nor with my son's son: but according to the kindness that I have done unto thee, thou shalt do unto me, and to the land wherein thou hast sojourned." [24] And Abraham said, "I will swear." [25] And Abraham reproved Abimelech because of a well of water, which Abimelech's servants [d]had violently taken away. [26] And Abimelech said, "I wot not who hath done this thing: neither didst thou tell me, neither yet heard I of it, but to-day." [27] And Abraham took sheep and oxen, and

[30] And he said, "For these seven ewe lambs shalt thou take of my hand, that [g]they may be a witness unto me, that I have digged this well." [31] Wherefore he called that place †Beer-sheba; because there they sware both of them. [32] Thus they made a covenant at Beer-sheba: then Abimelech rose up, and Phichol the chief captain of his host, and they returned into the land of the Philistines.

Abraham is tempted to offer Isaac. 3 He giveth proof of his faith and obedience. 11 The angel stayeth him. 13 Isaac is exchanged with a ram. 14 The place is called Jehovah-jireh. 15 Abraham is blessed again.

[3] And Abraham rose up early in the morning, and saddled his ass, and took two of his young men with him, and Isaac his son, and clave the wood for the burnt offering, and rose up, and went unto the place of which God had told him. [4] Then on the third day Abraham lifted up his eyes, and saw the place afar off. [5] And Abraham said unto his young men, "Abide ye here with the ass; and I and the lad will go yonder and worship, and come again to you." [6] And Abraham took the wood of the burnt offering, and [d]laid it upon Isaac his son; and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife; and they went both of them together. [7] And Isaac spake unto Abraham his father, and said, "My father!" And he said, "†Here am I, my son." And he said, "Behold the fire and the wood: but where is the ‡lamb for a burnt offering?" [8] And Abraham said, "My son, God will provide himself a lamb for a burnt offering;" so they went both of them together. [9] And they came to the place which God had told him of; and

(7) It was not by means of prophecy alone that the Almighty directed the attention of mankind to the future Messiah; the types of the Old Testament were rendered subservient to the same wise and useful purpose. A type has been well defined, to be "a prefigurative action or occurrence, in which one event, person, or circumstance is intended to represent another similar to it in certain respects, but future and distant."—"To constitute one thing the type of another," remarks the learned Bishop Marsh, "something more is wanted than mere resemblance. The former must not only resemble the latter, but it must have been designed so to resemble it, in its original institution."—"And there is no other rule by which we can distinguish a real from a pretended type, than that of Scripture itself." For these reasons I have not insisted on the resemblances between the Messiah and many of the eminent characters in the Old Testament. Though it is both a pleasant and profitable employment to discover allusions to the Son of God in every page of Scripture, we are by no means justified in asserting that one person or event, is undoubtedly the type of another; unless, as in the instances of Adam, Abel, Noah, the passover, and other chief institutions of the Levitical Law, we can show from Scripture, that the resemblance was originally designed, and was not merely a coincidence. The sacrifice of Isaac by his father was so evidently typical of the sacrifice of Christ, that there can be no doubt of the design which was to be answered by this otherwise mysterious event. On the very spot where Christ was afterwards crucified, Abraham is commanded to slay his son. It is needless to recapitulate the coincidences between the sacrifice of Isaac and of Christ: they are to be found in every commentary. That the meaning of all the circumstances of this mystical sacrifice of his son was revealed to Abraham, that he learnt from them that the promised Messiah should in like manner bear the wood of the cross, and die for mankind, and that Abraham, in obeying the divine command, rejoiced to see the day of Christ, and he then saw it and was glad, is well argued by Bishop Warburton. Vide Bp. Van Mildert's Bampton Lectures, page 237; Bp. Marsh's Lectures, part 4, page 113 to 115; Warburton's Div. Legat. v. 6. s. 5; M'Ewen On the Types.

Abraham built an altar there, and laid the wood in order, and bound Isaac his son, and [e]laid him on the altar upon the wood. [10] And Abraham stretched forth his hand, and took the knife to slay his son. [11] And the angel of the LORD called unto him out of heaven, and said, "Abraham! Abraham!" and he said, "Here am I." [12] And he said, "Lay [f]not thy hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him; for [g]now I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son from me." [13] And Abraham lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold behind him a ram caught in a thicket by his horns; and Abraham went and took the ram, and offered him up for a burnt offering in the stead of his son. [14] And Abraham called the name of that place *Jehovah-jireh: as it is said to this day, "In the mount of the LORD it shall be seen."

[15] And the angel of the LORD called unto Abraham out of heaven the second time, [16] and said, "By [h]myself have I sworn," saith the LORD, "for because thou hast done this thing, and hast not withheld thy son, thine only son: [17] that in [i]blessing I will bless thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy seed as the stars of the heaven, and as the sand which is upon the sea †shore; and thy seed shall possess the gate of his enemies; [18] and in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; [j]because thou hast obeyed my voice." [19] So Abraham returned unto his young men, and they rose up and went together to [k]Beer-sheba; and Abraham dwelt at Beer-sheba.

The age and death of Sarah. 3 The purchase of Machpelah, 19 where Sarah was buried.

[1] AND Sarah was an hundred and seven and twenty years old: these were the years of the life of Sarah. [2] And Sarah died in [a]Kirjath-arba; the same is [b]Hebron in the land of Canaan: and Abraham came to mourn for Sarah, and to weep for her.

[3] And Abraham stood up from before his dead, and spake unto the sons of Heth, saying, [4] "I [c]am a stranger and a sojourner with you: [d]give me a possession of a burying place with you, that I may bury my dead out of my sight."

[5] And the children of Heth answered Abraham, saying unto him, [6] "Hear us, my lord! thou art *a mighty prince among us: in the choice of our sepulchres bury thy dead; none of us shall withhold from thee his sepulchre, but that thou mayest bury thy dead."

[7] And Abraham stood up, and bowed himself to the people of the land, even to the children of Heth. [8] And he communed with them, saying, "If it be your mind that I should bury my dead out of my sight: hear me, and entreat for me to Ephron the son of Zohar, [9] that he may give me the cave of Machpelah, which he hath, which is in the end of his field; for †as much money as it is worth he shall give it me for a possession of a burying place amongst you."

[10] And Ephron dwelt among the children of Heth: and Ephron the Hittite answered Abraham in the ‡audience of the children of Heth, even of all that [e]went in at the gate of his city, saying, [11] "Nay, [f]my lord, hear me: the field give I thee, and the cave that is therein, I give it thee; in the presence of the sons of my people give I it thee: bury thy dead."

[12] And Abraham bowed down himself before the people of the land. [13] And he spake unto Ephron in the audience of the people of the land, saying, "But if thou wilt give it, I pray thee, hear me: I will give thee money for the field; take it of me, and I will bury my dead there."

[14] And Ephron answered Abraham, saying unto him, [15] "My lord, hearken unto me: the land is worth four hundred [g]shekels of silver; what is that betwixt me and thee? bury therefore thy dead."

[16] And Abraham hearkened unto Ephron; and Abraham [h]weighed to Ephron the silver, which he had named in the audience of the sons of Heth, four hundred shekels of silver, current money with the merchant. [17] And [i]the field of Ephron, which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field, and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the borders round about, were made sure [18] unto Abraham for a possession in the presence of the children of Heth, before all that went in at the gate of his city.

[19] And after this, Abraham buried Sarah his wife in the cave of the field of Machpelah before Mamre: the same is Hebron in the land of Canaan. [20] And the field and the cave that is therein [j]were made sure unto Abraham for a possession of a burying place by the sons of Heth.

[15] And it came to pass, before he had done speaking, that, behold! Rebekah came out, who was born to Bethuel, son of [o]Milcah, the wife of Nahor, Abraham's brother, with her pitcher upon her shoulder. [16] And the damsel was [*]very fair to look upon, a virgin, neither had any man known her; and she went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came up. [17] And the servant ran to meet her, and said, "Let me, I pray thee, drink a little water of thy pitcher." [18] And [p]she said, "Drink, my lord;" and she hasted, and let down her pitcher upon her hand, and gave him drink. [19] And when she had done giving him drink, she said, "I will draw water for thy camels also, until they have done drinking." [20] And she hasted, and emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran again unto the well to draw water, and drew for all his camels. [21] And the man wondering at her held his peace, to wit whether the LORD had made his journey prosperous or not. [22] And it came to pass, as the camels had done drinking, that the man took a golden [†]earring of half a shekel weight, and two bracelets for her hands of ten shekels weight of gold; [23] and said, "Whose daughter art thou? tell me, I pray thee: is there room in thy father's house for us to lodge in?" [24] And she said unto him, "I [q]am the daughter of Bethuel the son of Milcah, which she bare unto Nahor." [25] She said moreover unto him, "We have both straw and provender enough, and room to lodge in." [26] And the man [r]bowed down his head, and worshipped the LORD. [27] And he [s]said, "Blessed be the LORD God of my master Abraham, who hath not left destitute my master of [t]his mercy and his truth: I being in the way, the LORD led me to the house of my master's brethren." [28] And the damsel ran, and told them of her mother's house these things.

[29] And Rebekah had a brother, and his name was [u]Laban: and Laban ran out unto the man, unto the well. [30] And it came to pass, when he saw the earring and bracelets upon his sister's hands, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his sister, saying, "Thus spake the man unto me;" that he came unto the man; and, behold, he stood by the camels at the well. [31] And he said, "Come in, [v]thou blessed of the LORD! wherefore standest thou without? for I have prepared the house, and room for the camels."

[32] And the man came into the house: and he ungirded his camels, and [w]gave straw and provender for the camels, and water to wash his feet, and the men's feet that were with him. [33] And there was set meat before him to eat: but he said, "I [x]will not eat, until I have told mine errand." And he said, "Speak on."

[34] And he said, "I am Abraham's servant. [35] And the LORD [y]hath blessed my master greatly; and he is become great: and he hath given him flocks, and herds, and silver, and gold, and menservants, and maidservants, and camels, and asses. [42] And I came this day unto the well, and said, 'O Lord God of my master Abraham! if now thou do prosper my way which I go; [43] behold, I stand by the well of water; and it shall come to pass, that when the virgin cometh forth to draw water, and I say to her, 'Give me, I pray thee, a little water of thy pitcher to drink;' [44] and she say to me, 'Both drink thou, and I will also draw for thy camels:' let the same be the woman whom the Lord hath appointed out for my master's son. [45] And before I had done [c]speaking in my heart, behold! Rebekah came forth with her pitcher on her shoulder; and she went down unto the well, and drew water; and I said unto her, 'Let me drink, I pray thee.' And she said, 'The daughter of Bethuel, Nahor's son, whom Milcah bare unto him;' and I [d]put the earring upon her face, and the bracelets upon her hands. [48] And I bowed down my head, and worshipped the Lord, and blessed the Lord God of my master Abraham, which had led me in the right way to take [e]my master's brother's daughter unto his son. [49] And now if ye will [f]deal kindly and truly with my master, tell me; and if not, tell me; that I may turn to the right hand, or to the left." [51] Behold, Rebekah is before thee, take her, and go, and let her be thy master's son's wife, as the Lord hath spoken."

[52] And it came to pass, that, when Abraham's servant heard their words, he worshipped the Lord, bowing himself to the earth. [54] And they did eat and drink, he and the men that were with him, and tarried all night; and they rose up in the morning, and he said, "Send me away unto my master." [55] And her brother and her mother said, "Let the damsel abide with us *a few days, at the least ten; after that she shall go." [56] And he said unto them, "Hinder me not, seeing the Lord hath prospered my way; send me away that I may go to my master." [57] And they said, "We will call the damsel, and inquire at her mouth." [58] And they called Rebekah, and said unto her, "Wilt thou go with this man?" And she said, "I will go." [19] And these are the generations of Isaac, Abraham's son: Abraham begat Isaac: [20] and Isaac was forty years old when he took Rebekah to wife, the daughter of Bethuel the Syrian of Padan-aram, the sister to Laban the Syrian. [21] And Isaac entreated the Lord for his wife, because she was barren; [a]and the Lord was entreated of him, and [b]Rebekah his wife conceived. [22] And the children struggled together within her; and she said, "If it be so, why am I thus?" [c]and she went to inquire of the Lord. [23] And the Lord said unto her, "Two [d]nations are in thy womb, and two manner of people shall be separated from thy bowels; [e]and the one people shall be stronger than the other people; and [f]the elder shall serve the younger."

[24] And when her days to be delivered were fulfilled, behold, there were twins in her womb. [25] And the first came out red, [g]all over like a hairy garment; and they called his name Esau. [26] And after that came his brother out, and [h]his hand took hold on Esau's heel; and his name was called Jacob: and Isaac was threescore years old when she bare them. [27] And the boys grew: and Esau was [i]a cunning hunter, a man of the field; and Jacob was [j]a plain man, dwelling in tents. [28] And Isaac loved Esau, because *he did eat of his venison; but Rebekah loved Jacob.

[11] AND it came to pass after the death of Abraham, that God blessed his son Isaac; and Isaac dwelt by [a]the well Lahai-roi.

[1] And there was a famine in the land, beside [b]the first famine that was in the days of Abraham.

[29] And Jacob sod pottage: and Esau came from the field, and he was faint: [30] and Esau said to Jacob, "Feed me, I pray thee, *with that same red pottage; for I am faint:" therefore was his name called †Edom. [31] And Jacob said, "Sell me this day thy birthright." [32] And Esau said, "Behold, I am ‡at the point to die: and what profit shall this birthright do to me?" [33] And Jacob said, "Swear to me this day;" and he sware unto him; and [c]he sold his birthright unto Jacob. [34] Then Jacob gave Esau bread and pottage of lentiles; and [d]he did eat and drink, and rose up, and went his way: thus Esau despised his birthright.(8)

GEN. XXVI. latter part of ver. 1, to the end.

Isaac goes to Gerar. 2 God instructeth and blesseth him. 7 He is reproved by Abimelech for denying his wife. 12 He groweth rich. 18 He diggeth Ezek, Sitnah, and Rehoboth. 26 Abimelech maketh a covenant with him at Beer-sheba. 34 Esau's wives.

[1] AND Isaac went unto [a]Abimelech king of the Philistines unto Gerar. [2] And the LORD appeared unto him, and said, "Go not down into Egypt; dwell in [b]the land which I shall tell thee of: [3] sojourn in this land, and [c]I will be with thee, and will bless thee; [d]for unto thee, and unto thy seed, I will give all these countries, and I will perform the oath which I sware unto Abraham thy father. [4] And I will make thy seed to multiply as the stars of heaven, and will give unto thy seed all these countries; and in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; [5] because [e]that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes, and my laws."

[6] And Isaac dwelt in Gerar. [7] And the men of the place asked him of his wife; and [f]he said, "She is my sister:" for [g]he feared to say, She is my wife; "Lest," said he, "the men of the place should kill me for Rebekah; because she was fair to look upon. [8] And it came to pass, when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech king of the Philistines looked out at a window, and saw, and, behold, Isaac was sporting with Rebekah his wife. [9] And Abimelech called Isaac, and said, "Behold, of a surety she is thy wife: and how saidst thou, 'She is my sister?'" And Isaac said unto him, "Because I said, 'Lest, I die for her.'" [10] And Abimelech said, "What is this thou hast done unto us? one of the people might lightly have lien with thy wife, and [h]thou shouldest have brought guiltiness upon us." [11] And Abimelech charged all his people, saying, "He that [i]toucheth this man or his wife shall surely be put to death."

(8) The same famine which compelled Isaac to go to Gerar (Gen. xxvi. 1.), caused Esau to sell his birthright. Some powerful reason seems to be necessary to account for this absurd and wicked exchange of the privileges of the birthright for a mess of lentile pottage, the commonest food of the country. Esau was the eldest son of a prince or emir; and the situation of the country must have been deplorable, when such a man on his return from hunting could not find in his father's tent sufficient food to appease the cravings of hunger. Esau, for this mess of pottage, yielding to the temptation of the moment, renounced, both for himself and his descendants, all the privileges of primogeniture, and the covenant which God made with Abraham, that from him the Messiah should descend.—Lightfoot, Stackhouse.

[1] And it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and [a]his eyes were dim, so that he could not see, he called Esau his eldest son, and said unto him, "My son!" and he said unto him, "Behold, here am I." [2] And he said, "Behold now, I am old, [b]I know not the day of my death; [3] now [c]therefore take, I pray thee, thy weapons, thy quiver and thy bow, and go out to the field, and *take me some venison; [4] and make me savoury meat, such as I love, and bring it to me, that I may eat; that my soul [d]may bless thee before I die." [11] And Jacob said to Rebekah his mother, "Behold, [e]Esau my brother is a hairy man, and I am a smooth man: [12] my father peradventure will feel me, and I shall seem to him as a deceiver; and I shall bring [f]a curse upon me, and not a blessing." [13] And his mother said unto him, "Upon [g]me be thy curse, my son: only obey my voice, and go fetch me them." [18] And he came unto his father, and said, "My father!" And he said, "Here am I; who art thou, my son?" [19] And Jacob said unto his father, "I am Esau thy firstborn; I have done according as thou badest me; arise, I pray thee, sit and eat of my venison, that thy soul may bless me." [20] And Isaac said unto his son, "How is it that thou hast found it so quickly, my son?" And he said, "Because the Lord thy God brought it ‡to me." [21] And Isaac said unto Jacob, "Come near, I pray thee, that I may feel thee, my son, whether thou be my very son Esau or not." are the hands of Esau." [23] And he discerned him not, because his hands were hairy, as his brother Esau's hands; so he blessed him. [24] And he said, "Art thou my very son Esau?" And he said, "I am." [25] And he said, "Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my son's venison, that my soul may bless thee." And he brought it near to him, and he did eat; and he brought him wine, and he drank. [26] And his father Isaac said unto him, "Come near now, and kiss me, my son." [27] And he came near, and kissed him: and he smelled the smell of his raiment, and blessed him, and said,—

"See! [h]the smell of my son is as the smell of a field
Which the Lord hath blessed:
[28] Therefore [i]God give thee of the dew of heaven,
And the fatness of the earth,

[31] And he also had made savoury meat, and brought it unto his father, and said unto his father, "Let my father arise, and eat of his son's venison, that thy soul may bless me." [32] And Isaac his father said unto him, "Who art thou?" And he said, "I am thy son, thy firstborn Esau." [33] And Isaac *trembled very exceedingly, and said, "Who? where is he that hath †taken venison, and brought it me, and I have eaten of all before thou camest, and have blessed him? yea, [m]and he shall be blessed." [34] And when Esau heard the words of his father, [n]he cried with a great and exceeding bitter cry, and said unto his father, "Bless me, even me also, O my father!" [35] And he said, "Thy brother came with subtilty, and hath taken away thy blessing." [36] And he said, "Is not he rightly named ‡Jacob? for he hath supplanted me these two times; [o]he took away my birthright, and, behold, now he hath taken away my blessing." And he said, "Hast thou not reserved a blessing for me?" [37] And Isaac answered and said unto Esau, "Behold, [p]I have made him thy lord, and all his brethren have I given to him for servants; and with corn and wine have I *sustained him: and what shall I do now unto thee, my son?" [38] And Esau said unto his father, "Hast thou but one blessing, my father? bless me, even me also, O my father!" And Esau lifted up his voice, [q]and wept. [41] And Esau [t]hated Jacob because of the blessing wherewith his father blessed him; and Esau said in his heart, "The [u]days of mourning for my father are at hand, then will I slay my brother Jacob." [42] And these words of Esau her elder son were told to Rebekah; and she sent and called Jacob her younger son, and said unto him, "Behold, thy brother Esau, as touching thee, doth [v]comfort himself, purposing to kill thee. [1] Then Jacob ‡went on his journey, and came into the land of the *people of the East. [2] And he looked, and behold a well in the field, and, lo! there were three flocks of sheep lying by it; for out of that well they watered the flocks, and a great stone was upon the well's mouth. [3] And thither were all the flocks gathered; and they rolled the stone from the well's mouth, and watered the sheep, and put the stone again upon the well's mouth in his place. [4] And Jacob said unto them, "My brethren, whence be ye?" And they said, "Of Haran are we." [5] And he said unto them, "Know ye Laban the son of Nahor?" And they said, "We know him." [6] And he said unto them, "†Is he well?" And they said, "He is well; and, behold, Rachel his daughter cometh with the sheep." [7] And he said, "Lo, ‡it is yet high day, neither is it time that the cattle should be gathered together; water ye the sheep, and go and feed them." [8] And they said, "We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep."

[15] And Laban said unto Jacob, "Because thou art my brother, shouldest thou therefore serve me for nought? tell me, what shall thy wages be?" [16] And Laban had two daughters: the name of the elder was Leah, and the name of the younger was Rachel. [17] Leah was [a]tender-eyed; but Rachel was beautiful and well-favored. [18] And Jacob loved Rachel; and said, "I [a]will serve thee seven years for Rachel thy younger daughter." [19] And Laban said, "It is better that I give her to thee, than that I should give her to another man: abide with me." [20] And Jacob [b]served seven years for Rachel; and they seemed unto him but a few days, for the love he had to her.

Zilpah his maid for a handmaid. [25] And it came to pass, that in the morning, behold it was Leah! and he said to Laban, "What is this thou hast done unto me? did not I serve with thee for Rachel? wherefore then hast thou beguiled me?" [26] And Laban said, "It must not be so done in our ‡country, to give the younger before the firstborn. [27] Fulfil [e]her week, and we will give thee this also for the service which thou shalt serve with me yet seven other years." [28] And Jacob did so, and fulfilled her week; and he gave him Rachel his daughter to wife also. [29] And Laban gave to Rachel his daughter Bilhah his handmaid to be her maid. [30] And he went in also unto Rachel, and he [f]loved also Rachel more than Leah, and served with him [g]yet seven other years.

[31] And when the LORD [h]saw that Leah was hated, he opened her womb; but Rachel was barren. [32] And Leah conceived, and bare a son, and she called his name *Reuben: for she said, "Surely the LORD hath [i]looked upon my affliction, now therefore my husband will love me." [33] And she conceived again, and bare a son; and said, "Because the LORD hath heard that I was hated, he hath therefore given me this son also;" and she called his name †Simeon. [34] And she conceived again, and bare a son; and said, "Now this time will my husband be joined unto me, because I have born him three sons;" therefore was his name called ‡Levi. [35] And she conceived again, and bare a son: and she said, "Now will I praise the LORD;" therefore she called his name *Judah; and †left bearing."

GEN. XXX.

[1] And when Rachel saw that she bare Jacob no children, Rachel [j]envied her sister; and said unto Jacob, "Give me children, or else I die." [2] And Jacob's anger was kindled against Rachel; and he said, "Am [k]I in God's stead, who hath withheld from thee the fruit of the womb?" [3] And she said, "Behold my maid Bilhah, go in unto her; [l]and she shall bear upon my knees, that I may also ‡have children by her." [4] And she gave him Bilhah her handmaid [m]to wife; and Jacob went in unto her. [5] And Bilhah conceived, and bare Jacob a son. [6] And Rachel said, "God [n]hath judged me, and hath also heard my voice, and hath given me a son; therefore called she his name *Dan." [7] And Bilhah, Rachel's maid, conceived again, and bare Jacob a second son. [8] And Rachel said, "With †great wrestlings have I wrestled with my sister, and I have prevailed;" and she called his name ‡Naphtali.

[16] And Jacob came out of the field in the evening, and Leah went out to meet him, and said, "Thou must come in unto me; for surely I have hired thee with my son's mandrakes." And he lay with her that night. [17] And God hearkened unto Leah, and she conceived, and bare Jacob the fifth son. GEN. xxxi.

Jacob upon displeasure departeth secretly. 19 Rachel stealeth her father's images. 22 Laban pursueth after him, 26 and complaineth of the wrong. 34 Rachel's policy to hide the images. 36 Jacob's complaint of Laban. 43 The covenant of Laban and Jacob at Galeed.

[1] AND he heard the words of Laban's sons, saying, "Jacob hath taken away all that was our father's; [a]and of that which was our father's hath he gotten all this glory." [2] And Jacob beheld [b]the countenance of Laban, and, behold, it was not toward him as *before.

[3] And the LORD said unto Jacob, "Return [c]unto the land of thy fathers, and to thy kindred; and I will be with thee." [4] And Jacob sent and called Rachel and Leah to the field unto his flock, [5] and said unto them, "I see your father's countenance, that it is not toward me as before; but the God of my father hath been with me. [6] And [d]ye know that with all my power I have served your father. [7] And [e]your father hath deceived me, and changed my wages ten times; [f]but God suffered him not to hurt me. [8] If he said thus, [g]The speckled shall be thy wages; then all the cattle bare speckled: and if he said thus, The ringstraked shall be thy hire; then bare all the cattle ringstraked. [9] Thus God hath taken away the cattle of your father, and given them to me. [10] And it came to pass at the time that the cattle conceived, that I lifted up mine eyes, and saw in a dream, and, behold, the †rams which leaped upon the cattle were ringstraked, speckled, and grisled. [11] And [h]the Angel of God spake unto me in a dream, saying, 'Jacob:' and I said, 'Here am I.' [12] And he said, 'Lift up now thine eyes, and see, all the rams which leap upon the cattle are ringstraked, speckled, and grisled; for [i]I have seen all that Laban doeth unto thee. [13] I am the God of Beth-el, [j]where thou anointedst the pillar, and where thou vowedst a vow unto me; now [k]arise, get thee out from this land, and return unto the land of thy kindred."

[14] And Rachel and Leah answered and said unto him, "Is [l]there yet any portion or inheritance for us in our father's house? [15] Are we not counted of him strangers? for [m]he hath sold us, and hath quite devoured also our money. [16] For all the riches which God hath taken from our father, that is ours, and our children's; now then, whatsoever God hath said unto thee, do."

[17] Then Jacob rose up, and set his sons and his wives upon camels; [18] and he carried away all his cattle, and all his goods which he had gotten, the cattle of his getting, which he had gotten in Padan-aram, for to go to Isaac his father in the land of Canaan. [19] And Laban went to shear his sheep; and Rachel had stolen the ‡images that were her father's. [20] And Jacob stole away *unawares to Laban the Syrian, in that he told him not that he fled. [21] So he fled with all that he had; and he rose up, and passed over the river, and [n]set his face toward the Mount Gilead.

[22] And it was told Laban on the third day that Jacob was fled. [23] And he took [o]his brethren with him, and pursued after him seven days' journey; and they overtook him in the Mount Gilead. [24] And God [p]came to Laban the Syrian in a dream by night, and said unto him, "Take heed that thou [q]speak not to Jacob †either good or bad."

[25] Then Laban overtook Jacob. Now Jacob had pitched his tent in the mount; and Laban with his brethren pitched in the Mount of Gilead. [26] And Laban said to Jacob, "What hast thou done, that thou hast stolen away unawares to me, and [r]carried away my daughters as captives taken with the sword? [27] Wherefore didst thou flee away secretly, and ‡steal away from me; and didst not tell me, that I might have sent thee away with mirth, and with songs, with tabret, and with harp? [28] And hast not suffered me [s]to kiss my sons and my daughters? [t]Thou hast now done foolishly in so doing. [29] It is in the power of my hand to do you hurt: but the [u]God of your father spake unto me yesternight, saying, 'Take thou heed that thou speak not to Jacob either good or bad.' [30] And now, though thou wouldest needs be gone, because thou sore longedst after thy father's house, yet wherefore hast thou [v]stolen my gods?"

[31] And Jacob answered and said to Laban, "Because I was afraid: for I said, Peradventure thou wouldest take by force thy daughters from me. [32] With whomsoever thou findest thy gods, [w]let him not live: before our brethren discern thou what is thine with me, and take it to thee." For Jacob knew not that Rachel had stolen them.

[33] And Laban went into Jacob's tent, and into Leah's tent, and into the two maidservants' tents; but he found them not. Then went he out of Leah's tent, and entered into Rachel's tent. [34] Now Rachel had taken the images, and put them in the camel's furniture, and sat upon them. And Laban *searched all the tent, but found them not. [35] And she said to her father, "Let it not displease my lord that [x]I cannot rise up before thee; for the custom of women is upon me." And he searched, but found not the images.

[36] And Jacob was wroth, and chode with Laban: and Jacob answered and said to Laban, "What is my trespass? what is my sin, that thou hast so hotly pursued after me? [37] Whereas thou hast searched all my stuff, what hast thou found of all thy household stuff? set it here before my brethren and thy brethren, that they may judge betwixt us both. [38] This twenty years have I been with thee; thy ewes and thy she goats have not cast their young, and the rams of thy flock have I not eaten. [39] That [y]which was torn of beasts I brought not unto thee; I bare the loss of it; [z]of my hand didst thou require it, whether stolen by day, or stolen by night. [40] Thus I was; in the day the drought consumed me, and the frost by night; and my sleep departed from mine eyes. [41] Thus have I been twenty years in thy house; [a]I served thee fourteen years for thy two daughters, and six years for thy cattle; and thou hast changed my wages ten times. [42] Except [b]the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and the [c]Fear of Isaac, had been with me, surely thou hadst sent me away now empty. [43] And Laban answered and said unto Jacob, "These daughters are my daughters, and these children are my children, and these cattle are my cattle, and all that thou seest is mine: and what can I do this day unto these my daughters, or unto their children which they have born? [44] Now therefore come thou, [f]let us make a covenant, I and thou; [g]and let it be for a witness between me and thee."

[45] And Jacob [h]took a stone, and set it up for a pillar. [46] And Jacob said unto his brethren, "Gather stones;" and they took stones and made a heap, and they did eat there upon the heap. [47] And Laban called it †Jegar-sahadutha; but Jacob called it ‡Galeed.

[48] And Laban said, "This [i]heap is a witness between me and thee this day." [3] And Jacob sent messengers before him to Esau his brother unto the land of Seir, the †country of Edom. [4] And he commanded them, saying, "Thus [c]shall ye speak unto my lord Esau: Thy servant Jacob saith thus, I have sojourned with Laban, and stayed there until now; [5] and I have oxen, and asses, flocks, and menservants, and womenservants; and I have sent to tell my lord, that I may find grace in thy sight." [6] And the messengers returned to Jacob, saying, "We came to thy brother Esau, and also he cometh to meet thee, and four hundred men with him." [7] Then Jacob was greatly afraid and distressed; and he divided the people that was with him, and the flocks, and herds, and the camels, into two bands, [8] and said, "If Esau come to the one company, and smite it, then the other company which is left shall escape."

For," he said, "I will [k]appease him with the present that goeth before me, and afterward I will see his face; peradventure he will accept †of me." [21] So went

[1] And Jacob lifted up his eyes, and looked, and, behold, Esau came, and with him four hundred men! And he divided the children unto Leah, and unto Rachel, and unto the two handmaids. [2] And he put the handmaids and their children foremost, and Leah and her children after, and Rachel and Joseph hindermost. [4] And Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him, [v]and fell on his neck, and kissed him; and they wept. [5] And he lifted up his eyes, and saw the women and the children; and said, "Who are those *with thee?" And he said, "The children [w]which God hath graciously given thy servant." [6] Then the handmaidens came near, they and their children, and they bowed themselves. [7] And Leah also with her children came near, and bowed themselves; and after came Joseph near and Rachel, and they bowed themselves. [8] And he said, "†What meanest thou by all this drove which I met?" And he said, "These are to find grace in the sight of my lord." [6] And Hamor the father of Shechem went out unto Jacob to commune with him. [7] And the sons of Jacob came out of the field when they heard it; and the men were grieved, and they [l]were very wroth, because he [m]had wrought folly in Israel in lying with Jacob's daughter; [n]which thing ought not to be done. [8] And Hamor communed with them, saying, "The soul of my son Shechem longeth for your daughter; I pray you give her him to wife. [9] And make ye marriages with us, and give your daughters unto us, and take our daughters unto you. [10] And ye shall dwell with us; and [o]the land shall be before you; dwell and trade ye therein, and get you possessions therein." [2] Joseph, being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brethren; and the lad was with the sons of Bilhah, and with the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives: and Joseph brought unto his father [a]their evil report. [3] Now Israel loved Joseph more than all his children, because he was [b]the son of his old age; and he made him a coat of many †colors. [4] And when his brethren saw that their father loved him more than all his brethren, they [c]hated him, and could not speak peaceably unto him.

[5] And Joseph dreamed a dream, and he told it his brethren: and they hated him yet the more. [6] And he said unto them, "Hear, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed; [7] for, [d]behold, we were binding sheaves in the field, and, lo, my sheaf arose, and also stood upright; and, behold, your sheaves stood round about, and made obeisance to my sheaf!" [8] And his brethren said to him, "Shalt thou indeed reign over us? or shalt thou indeed have dominion over us?" And they hated him yet the more for his dreams, and for his words.

Shall I and thy mother and [f]thy brethren indeed come to bow down ourselves to thee to the earth?" [11] And [g]his brethren envied him; but his father [h]observed the saying.

(10) In the history of Joseph and his brethren, a train of events apparently natural, and arising out of each other, is overruled to the accomplishment of the purposes, and prophecies of God; without any interference with, or control over, the free agency of man; and the history furnishes us with a complete specimen of the mode in which an All-wise Providence still governs the world. The ambition, the wars, the pride, and the restlessness of man, are still accomplishing the prophecies of the Almighty; and generations yet unborn will see that the transactions of the present, and of the few last centuries, are overruled to the fulfilment of the predictions of Revelation,—as plainly as we can ourselves trace the manner in which the wars of the Romans, and the subjugation of the world by those proud masters, prepared the way for the Prince of Peace.

this *dreamer cometh! [20] Come [l]now therefore, and let us slay him, and cast him into some pit, and we will say, Some evil beast hath devoured him: and we shall see what will become of his dreams." [21] And Reuben heard it, and he delivered him out of their hands; and said, "Let us not kill him." [22] And Reuben said unto them, "Shed no blood, but cast him into this pit that is in the wilderness, and lay no hand upon him;" that he might rid him out of their hands, to deliver him to his father again.

[23] And it came to pass when Joseph was come unto his brethren, that they stript Joseph out of his coat (his coat of many †colors that was on him), [24] and they took him, and cast him into a pit; and the pit was empty, there was no water in it. [25] And [m]they sat down to eat bread; and they lifted up their eyes and looked, and, behold, a company of Ishmeelites came from Gilead with their camels bearing spicery and [n]balm and myrrh, going to carry it down to Egypt. [26] And Judah said unto his brethren, "What profit is it if we slay our brother, and [o]conceal his blood? [27] Come, and let us sell him to the Ishmeelites, and [p]let not our hand be upon him; for he is [q]our brother and our flesh." And his brethren ‡were content. [28] Then there passed by [r]Midianites, merchantmen; and they drew and lifted up Joseph out of the pit, [s]and sold Joseph to the Ishmeelites for [t]twenty pieces of silver; and they brought Joseph into Egypt.

[29] And Reuben returned unto the pit; and, behold, Joseph was not in the pit! and he [u]rent his clothes. [30] And he returned unto his brethren, and said, "The [v]child is not! and I, whither shall I go?" [31] And they took Joseph's coat, and killed a kid of the goats, and dipped the coat in the blood; [32] and they sent the coat of many colors, and they brought it to their father; and said, "This have we found: know now whether it be thy son's coat or no." [33] And he knew it, and said, "It is my son's coat; an evil [w]beast hath devoured him; Joseph is without doubt rent in pieces." [34] And Jacob rent his clothes, and put sackcloth upon his loins, and mourned for his son many days. [35] And all his sons and all his daughters [x]rose up to comfort him; but he refused to be comforted; and he said, "For [y]I will go down into the grave unto my son mourning." Thus his father wept for him. [36] And the Midianites sold him into Egypt unto Potiphar, an *officer of Pharaoh's and †captain of the guard.

GEN. xxxix. 1–6.

[1] And Joseph was brought down to Egypt; and Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, bought him of the hands of the Ishmeelites, which had brought him down thither. [2] And [z]the LORD was with Joseph, and he was a prosperous man; and he was in the house of his master the Egyptian. [3] And his master saw that the LORD was with him, and that the LORD [a]made all that he did to prosper in his hand. [4] And Joseph [b]found grace in his sight, and he served him; and he made him [c]overseer over his house, and all that he had he put into his hand. [5] And it came to pass from the time that he had made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had, that [d]the LORD blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph's sake; and the blessing of the LORD was upon all that he had in the house, and in the field. [6] And he left all that he had in Joseph's hand; and he knew not aught he had, save the bread which he did eat. And Joseph [e]was a goodly person, and well-favored.

LORD; [b]and the LORD slew him. [8] And Judah said unto Onan, "Go in unto [c]thy brother's wife, and marry her, and raise up seed to thy brother." [9] And Onan knew that the seed should not be [d]his; and it came to pass, when he went in unto his brother's wife, that he spilled it on the ground, lest that he should give seed to his brother. [10] And the thing which he did *displeased the LORD; wherefore he slew [e]him also. [11] Then said Judah to Tamar his daughter-in-law, "Remain [f]a widow at thy father's house, till Shelah my son be grown;" for he said, "Lest peradventure he die also, as his brethren did." And Tamar went and [g]dwelt in her father's house.

[12] And †in process of time the daughter of Shuah, Judah's wife, died; and Judah [h]was comforted, and went up unto his sheepshearers to Timnath, he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite. [13] And it was told Tamar, saying, "Behold, thy father-in-law goeth up [i]to Timnath to shear his sheep." [14] And she put her widow's garments off from her, and covered her with a veil, and wrapped herself, and sat in ‡an open place, which is by the way to Timnath; for she saw that Shelah was grown, and she was not given unto him to wife. [15] When Judah saw her, he thought her to be a harlot; because she had covered her face. [16] And he turned unto her by the way, and said, "Go to, I pray thee, let me come in unto thee;" (for he knew not that she was his daughter-in-law). And she said, "What wilt thou give me, that thou mayest come in unto me?" [17] And he said, "I will send thee *a kid from the flock." And she said, "Wilt thou give me a pledge, till thou send it?" [18] And he said, "What pledge shall I give thee?" And she said, "Thy signet, and thy bracelets, and thy staff that is in thy hand." And he gave it her, and came in unto her, and she conceived by him. [19] And she arose, and went away, and laid by her veil from her, and put on the garments of her widowhood. [20] And Judah sent the kid by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive his pledge from the woman's hand; but he found her not. [21] Then he asked the men of that place, saying, "Where is the harlot, that was †openly by the way side?" And they said, "There was no harlot in this place." [22] And he returned to Judah, and said, "I cannot find her; and also the men of the place said, that there was no harlot in this place." [23] And Judah said, "Let her take it to her, lest we ‡be shamed; behold, I sent this kid, and thou hast not found her!"

[24] And it came to pass about three months after, that it was told Judah, saying, "Tamar thy daughter-in-law [j]hath played the harlot; and also, behold, she is with child by whoredom." And Judah said, "Bring her forth, and [k]let her be burnt." [25] When she was brought forth, she sent to her father-in-law, saying, "By the man, whose these are, am I with child:" and she said, "Discern, [l]I pray thee, whose are these, the signet, and bracelets, and staff." [26] And Judah acknowledged them, and said, "She [m]hath been more righteous than I; because that I gave her not to Shelah my son." [n]And he knew her again no more. [27] And it came to pass in the time of her travail, that, behold, twins were in her womb. [28] And it came to pass, when she travailed, that the one put out his hand; and the midwife took and bound upon his hand a scarlet thread, saying, "This came out first." [29] And it came to pass, as he drew back his hand, that, behold, his brother came out; and she said, "*How hast thou broken forth? this breach be upon thee;" therefore his name was called †Pharez. [30] And afterward came out his brother, that had the scarlet thread upon his hand; and his name was called Zarah.

[11] And it came to pass about this time, that Joseph went into the house to do his business; and there was none of the men of the house there within. [12] And [d]she caught him by his garment, saying, "Lie with me;" and he left his garment in her hand, and fled, and got him out. [13] And it came to pass, when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand, and was fled forth, [14] that she called unto the men of her house, and spake unto them, saying, "See! he hath brought in a Hebrew unto us to mock us; he came in unto me to lie with me, and I cried with a *loud voice. [15] And it came to pass, when he heard that I lifted up my voice and cried, that he left his garment with me, and fled, and got him out." [16] And she laid up his garment by her, until his lord came home. [17] And she [e]spake unto him according to these words, saying, "The Hebrew servant, which thou hast brought unto us, came in unto me to mock me. [18] And it came to pass, as I lifted up my voice and cried, that he left his garment with me, and fled out." [19] And it came to pass, when his master heard the words of his wife, which she spake unto him, saying, "After this manner did thy servant to me," that his [f]wrath was kindled. [20] And Joseph's master took him, and [g]put him into the prison, a place where the king's prisoners were bound; and he was there in the prison.

(11) It will be observed that Joseph obtains the blessing by his virtue, which his elder brothers, Judah and Reuben, lost by the opposite vice. Reuben and Judah were deprived of the blessing by their incontinence; Simeon and Levi by their cruelty. Joseph therefore became the head of the family as the elder son of Rachel. Such was the manner in which moral lessons were enforced upon the Jews.—Vide Lightfoot in loc.

butler and the baker of the king of Egypt, which were bound in the prison. [6] And Joseph came in unto them in the morning, and looked upon them, and, behold, they were sad. [7] And he asked Pharaoh's officers that were with him in the ward of his lord's house, saying, "Wherefore ‡look ye so sadly to-day?" [8] And they said unto him, "We [k]have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it." And Joseph said unto them, "Do [l]not interpretations belong to God? tell me them, I pray you."

[9] And the chief butler told his dream to Joseph, and said to him, "In my dream, behold a vine was before me, [10] and in the vine were three branches; and it was as though it budded, and her blossoms shot forth, and the clusters thereof brought forth ripe grapes. [11] And Pharaoh's cup was in my hand; and I took the grapes, and pressed them into Pharaoh's cup, and I gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand." [12] And Joseph said unto him, "This [m]is the interpretation of it:—The three branches [n]are three days. [13] Yet within three days shall Pharaoh *lift up thy head, and restore thee unto thy place; and thou shalt deliver Pharaoh's cup into his hand, after the former manner when thou wast his butler. [14] But †think on me when it shall be well with thee, and show kindness, I pray thee, unto me, and make mention of me unto Pharaoh, and bring me out of this house. [15] For indeed I was stolen away out of the land of the Hebrews; and here also have I done nothing that they should put me into the dungeon."

[16] When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was good, he said unto Joseph, "I also was in my dream, and, behold, I had three ‡white baskets on my head. [17] And in the uppermost basket there was of all manner of *bakemeats for Pharaoh; and the birds did eat them out of the basket upon my head." [18] And Joseph answered and said, "This is the interpretation thereof:—The three baskets are three days; [19] yet within three days shall Pharaoh †lift up thy head from off thee, and shall hang thee on a tree, and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee."

[20] And it came to pass the third day, which was Pharaoh's [o]birthday, that he made a feast unto all his servants; and he ‡lifted up the head of the chief butler and of the chief baker among his servants. [21] And he restored the chief butler unto his butlership again; and [p]he gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand. [22] But he hanged the chief baker; as Joseph had interpreted to them. [23] Yet did not the chief butler remember Joseph, but [q]forgat him!

[26] The seven good kine are seven years; and the seven good ears are seven years: the dream is one. [27] And the seven thin and ill-favored kine that came up after them are seven years; and the seven empty ears blasted with the east wind shall be [n]seven years of famine. [28] This is the thing which I have spoken unto Pharaoh: what God is about to do he showeth unto Pharaoh. [29] Behold, there come seven years of great plenty throughout all the land of Egypt. [30] And there shall arise after them seven years of famine, and all the plenty shall be forgotten in the land of Egypt; and [o]the famine shall consume the land, [31] and the plenty shall not be known in the land by reason of that famine following; for it shall be very [‡]grievous. [32] And for that the dream was doubled unto Pharaoh twice: it is because the thing is [*]established by God, and God will shortly bring it to pass. [33] Now therefore let Pharaoh look out a man discreet and wise, and set him over the land of Egypt. [34] Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint †officers over the land, and take up the fifth part of the land of Egypt in the seven plenteous years. [35] And let them gather all the food of those good years that come, and lay up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the cities. [36] And that food shall be for store to the land against the seven years of famine, which shall be in the land of Egypt; that the land ‡perish not through the famine."

[37] And [p]the thing was good in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of all his servants. [38] And Pharaoh said unto his servants, "Can we find such a one as this is, a man [q]in whom the Spirit of God is?" [39] And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, "Forasmuch as God hath showed thee all this, there is none so discreet and wise as thou art. [40] Thou [r]shalt be over my house, and according unto thy word shall all my people *be ruled; only in the throne will I be greater than thou." [41] And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, "See! Joseph collects all the corn in the seven plenteous years. 50 He begetteth Manasseh and Ephraim. 54 The famine beginneth. — Chap. xlii. 1 Jacob sendeth his ten sons to buy corn in Egypt. 16 They are imprisoned by Joseph for spies. 18 They are set at liberty, on condition to bring Benjamin. 21 They have remorse for Joseph. 24 Simeon is kept for a pledge. 25 They return with corn, and their money. 29 Their relation to Jacob. 36 Jacob refuseth to send Benjamin.

[46] AND Joseph was thirty years old when he [a]stood before Pharaoh king of Egypt. And Joseph went out from the presence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt. [47] And in the seven plenteous years the earth brought forth by handfuls. [48] And he gathered up all the food of the seven years, which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities; the food in the field, which was round about every city, laid he up in the same. [49] And Joseph gathered corn [b]as the sand of the sea, very much, until he left numbering; for it was without number.

[50] And [c]unto Joseph were born two sons before the years of famine came, which Asenath the daughter of Poti-pherah *priest of On bare unto him. [51] And Joseph called the name of the firstborn †Manasseh; "For God," said he, "hath made me forget all my toil, and all my father's house." [52] And the name of the second called he ‡Ephraim; "For God hath caused me to be [d]fruitful in the land of my affliction."

[53] And the seven years of plenteousness that was in the land of Egypt were ended. [54] And [e]the seven years of dearth began to come, according as Joseph had said; and the dearth was in all lands, but in all the land of Egypt there was bread. [55] And when all the land of Egypt was famished, the people cried to Pharaoh for bread; and Pharaoh said unto all the Egyptians, "Go unto Joseph, what he saith to you, do." [56] And the famine was over all the face of the earth; and Joseph opened *all the storehouses, and sold unto the Egyptians; and the famine waxed sore in the land of Egypt. [57] And [f]all countries came into Egypt to Joseph for to buy corn; because that the famine was so sore in all lands.

GEN. xlii.

[1] Now when [g]Jacob saw that there was corn in Egypt, Jacob said unto his sons, "Why do ye look one upon another?" [2] And he said, "Behold, I have heard that there is corn in Egypt; get you down thither, and buy for us from thence, that we [h]may live, and not die."

[3] And Joseph's ten brethren went down to buy corn in Egypt. [4] But Benjamin, Joseph's brother, Jacob sent not with his brethren; for he said, "Lest peradventure mischief befall him." [5] And the sons of Israel came to buy corn among those that came; for the famine was [i]in the land of Canaan. [6] And Joseph was the governor over the land, and he it was that sold to all the people of the land; and Joseph's brethren came, and [j]bowed down themselves before him with their faces to the earth. [7] And Joseph saw his brethren, and he knew them, but made himself strange unto them, and spake †roughly unto them; and he said unto them, "Whence come ye?" And they said, "From the land of Canaan to buy food." [8] And Joseph knew his brethren, but they knew not him. [9] And Joseph [k]remembered the dreams which he dreamed of them, and said unto them, "Ye are spies! to see the nakedness of the land ye are come." [10] And they said unto him, "Nay, my lord, but to buy food are thy servants come. [11] We are all one man's sons; we are true men, thy servants are no spies." [12] And he said unto them, "Nay, but to see the nakedness of the land ye are come." [13] And they said, "Thy servants are twelve brethren, the sons of one man in the land of Canaan; and, behold, the youngest is this day with our father, and one [l]is not." [14] And Joseph said unto them, "That is it that I spake unto you, saying, 'Ye are spies:' [15] hereby ye shall be proved. [m]By the life of Pharaoh ye shall not go forth hence, except your youngest brother come hither! [16] Send one of you, and let him fetch your brother, and ye shall be ‡kept in prison, that your words may be proved, whether there be any truth in you; or else by the life of Pharaoh surely ye are spies." [17] And he *put them all together into ward three days. [18] And Joseph said unto them the third day, "This do, and live; [n]for I fear God. [19] If ye be true men, let one of your brethren be bound in the house of your prison: go ye, carry corn for the famine of your houses; [20] but [o]bring your youngest brother unto me, so shall your words be verified, and ye shall not die." And they did so.[a]

[21] And they said one to another, "We [p]are verily guilty concerning our brother, in that we saw the anguish of his soul, when he besought us, and we would not hear; [q]therefore is this distress come upon us." [22] And Reuben answered them, saying, "Spake [r]I not unto you, saying, 'Do not sin against the child;' and ye would not hear? therefore, behold, also his blood is [s]required." [23] And they knew not that Joseph understood them; for †he spake unto them by an interpreter. [24] And he turned himself about from them, and wept; and returned to them again, and communed with them, and took from them Simeon, and bound him before their eyes.

[25] Then Joseph commanded to fill their sacks with corn, and to restore every man's money into his sack, and to give them provision for the way: [t]and thus did he unto them. [26] And they laded their asses with the corn and departed thence. [27] And [u]as one of them opened his sack to give his ass provender in the inn, he espied his money; for, behold, it was in his sack's mouth! [28] And he said unto his brethren, "My money is restored; and, lo, it is even in my sack!" And their heart ‡failed them, and they were afraid, saying one to another, "What is this that God hath done unto us?" f Ge. 42. 25, 35.

[3] And Judah spake unto him, saying, "The man *did solemnly protest unto us, saying, 'Ye shall not see my face, except your [b]brother be with you.' [4] If thou wilt send our brother with us, we will go down and buy thee food: [5] but if thou wilt not send him, we will not go down: for the man said unto us, 'Ye shall not see my face, except your brother be with you.'" [6] And Israel said, "Wherefore dealt ye so ill with me, as to tell the man whether ye had yet a brother?" [7] And they said, "The man †asked us straitly of our state, and of our kindred, saying, 'Is your father yet alive? have ye another brother?' and we told him according to the ‡tenor of these words: *could we certainly know that he would say, Bring your brother down?" [8] And Judah said unto Israel his father, "Send the lad with me, and we will arise and go; that we may live, and not die, both we, and thou, and also our little ones. [9] I will be surety for him, of my hand shalt thou require him; [c]if I bring him not unto thee, and set him before thee, then let me bear the blame for ever: [10] for except we had lingered, surely now we had returned †this second time." [11] And their father Israel said unto them, "If it must be so now, do this; take of the best fruits in the land in your vessels, and [d]carry down the man a present, a little [e]balm, and a little honey, spices, and myrrh, nuts, and almonds. [12] And take double money in your hand; and the money [f]that was brought again in the mouth of your sacks, carry it again in your hand; peradventure it was an oversight. [13] Take also your brother, and arise, go again unto the man; [14] and God Almighty give you mercy before the man, that he may send away your other brother, and Benjamin: ‡if I be bereaved of my children, I am bereaved!" [15] And the men took that present, and they took double money in their hand, and Benjamin; and rose up, and went down to Egypt, and stood before Joseph. [16] And when Joseph saw Benjamin with them, he said to [g]the ruler of his house, "Bring these men home, and *slay, and make ready; for these men shall †dine with me at noon." [17] And the man did as Joseph bade; and the man brought the men into Joseph's house. [18] And the men were afraid, because they were brought into Joseph's house; and they said, "Because of the money that was returned in our sacks at the first time are we brought in; that he may ‡seek occasion against us, and fall upon us, and take us for bondmen, and our asses." [19] And they came near to the steward of Joseph's house, and they communed with him at the door of the house, [20] and said, "O sir! *we came indeed down at the first time to buy food. [21] And [h]it came to pass, when we came to the inn, that we opened our sacks, and, behold, every man's money was in the mouth of his sack, our money in full weight! and we have brought it again in our hand. [22] And other money have we brought down in our hands to buy food: we cannot tell who put our money in our sacks." [23] And he said, "Peace be to you, fear not! your God, and the God of your father, hath given you treasure in your sacks: †I had your money." And he brought Simeon out unto them. [24] And the man brought the men into Joseph's house, and [i]gave them water, and they washed their feet; and he gave their asses provender. [25] And they made ready the present against Joseph came at noon; for they heard that they should eat bread there.

[26] And when Joseph came home, they brought him the present which was in their hand into the house, and [j]bowed themselves to him to the earth. [27] And he asked them of their ‡welfare, and said, "*Is your father well, the old man of whom ye spake? Is he yet alive?" [28] And they answered, "Thy servant our father is in good health, he is yet alive." [k]And they bowed down their heads, and made obeisance. [29] And he lifted up his eyes, and saw his brother Benjamin, [l]his mother's son, and said, "Is this your younger brother, [m]of whom ye spake unto me?" And he said, "God be gracious unto thee, my son!" [30] And Joseph made haste, for [n]his bowels did yearn unto his brother; and he sought where to weep, and he entered into his chamber, and [o]wept there. [31] And he washed his face, and went out, and refrained himself, and said, "Set on bread." [32] And they set on for him by himself, and for them by themselves, and for the Egyptians, which did eat with him, by themselves; because the Egyptians might not eat bread with the Hebrews, for that is [p]an abomination unto the Egyptians. [33] And they sat before him, the firstborn according to his birthright, and the youngest according to his youth; and the men marvelled one at another. [34] And he took and sent messes unto them from before him; but Benjamin's mess was five times so much as any of theirs. And they drank, and †were merry with him.

[1] And he commanded ‡the steward of his house, saying, "Fill the men's sacks with food, as much as they can carry, and put every man's money in his sack's mouth. [2] And put my cup, the silver cup, in the sack's mouth of the youngest, and his corn money." And he did according to the word that Joseph had spoken. [3] As soon as the morning was light, the men were sent away, they and their asses. [4] And when they were gone out of the city, and not yet far off, Joseph said unto his steward, "Up! follow after the men; and when thou dost overtake them, say unto them, Wherefore have

[6] And he overtook them, and he spake unto them these same words.
[7] And they said unto him, "Wherefore saith my lord these words?
God forbid that thy servants should do according to this thing. [8] Behold, [q] Ge. 43. 21. [q]the money, which we found in our sacks' mouths, we brought again unto thee out of the land of Canaan; how then should we steal out of thy lord's house silver or gold? [9] With whomsoever [r] Ge. 31. 32. of thy servants it be found, [r]both let him die, and we also will be my lord's bondmen." [10] And he said, "Now also let it be according unto your words; he with whom it is found shall be my servant, and ye shall be blameless." [11] Then they speedily took down every man his sack to the ground, and opened every man his sack. [12] And he searched, and began at the eldest, and left at the youngest: and the cup

[14] And Judah and his brethren came to Joseph's house, for he was [t] Ge. 37. 7. yet there; and [t]they fell before him on the ground. [15] And Joseph said unto them, "What deed is this that ye have done? wot ye not

"What shall we say unto my lord? what shall we speak? or how shall we clear ourselves? God hath found out the iniquity of thy servants; behold, we are my lord's servants, both we, and he also with whom the cup is found." [17] And he said, "God forbid that I should do so: but the man in whose hand the cup is found, he shall be my servant; and as for you, get you up in peace unto your father."

[18] Then Judah came near unto him, and said, "Oh my lord! let [u] Ge. 18. 30, 32. Ex. 32. 22. thy servant, I pray thee, speak a word in my lord's ears, and [u]let not thine anger burn against thy servant; for thou art even as Pharaoh.
[19] My lord asked his servants, saying, 'Have ye a father, or a brother?'
[v] Ge. 37. 3. [20] And we said unto my lord, 'We have a father, an old man, and [v]a child of his old age, a little one; and his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother, and his father loveth him.' [21] And thou saidst [w] Ge. 42. 15, 20. unto thy servants, 'Bring [w]him down unto me, that I may set mine eyes upon him.' [22] And we said unto my lord, 'The lad cannot leave his father, for if he should leave his father, his father would die.'
[23] And thou saidst unto thy servants, 'Except your youngest brother come down with you, ye shall see my face no more.' [24] And it came to pass when we came up unto thy servant my father, we told him the words of my lord. [25] And our father said, 'Go again, and buy us a little food.' [26] And we said, 'We cannot go down: if our youngest brother be with us, then will we go down; for we may not see the man's face, except our youngest brother be with us.' [27] And thy servant
[x] Ge. 46. 19. my father said unto us, 'Ye know that [x]my wife bare me two [z] Ge. 42. 36, 38. in pieces: and I saw him not since. [29] And if ye [z]take this also from me, and mischief befall him, he shall bring down my gray hairs with sorrow to the grave. [30] Now therefore when I come to thy servant my [a] 1 Sa. 18. 1. father, and the lad be not with us, (seeing that [a]his life is bound up in the lad's life), [31] it shall come to pass, when he seeth that the lad is not with us, that he will die; and thy servants shall bring down the gray hairs of thy servant our father with sorrow to the grave. [32] For thy servant became surety for the lad unto my father, saying, 'If I bring him not unto thee, then I shall bear the blame to my father for [b] Ex. 32. 32. ever.' [33] Now therefore, I pray thee, [b]let thy servant abide instead of the lad a bondman to my lord; and let the lad go up with his brethren.

[34] For how shall I go up to my father, and the lad be not with me? lest peradventure I see the evil that shall ‡come on my father."

Gen. xlv.

[1] Then Joseph could not refrain himself before all them that stood by him; and he cried, "Cause every man to go out from me." And there stood no man with him while Joseph made himself known unto his brethren. [2] And he *wept aloud; and the Egyptians and the house of Pharaoh heard. [3] And Joseph said unto his brethren, "I [c]am Joseph; doth my father yet live?" And his brethren could not answer him; for they were †troubled at his presence. [4] And Joseph said unto his brethren, "Come near to me, I pray you." And they came near. And he said, "I am Joseph your brother, [d]whom ye sold into Egypt. [5] Now therefore be not grieved, ‡nor angry with yourselves, that ye sold me hither; [e]for God did send me before you to preserve life. [6] For these two years hath the famine been in the land; and yet there are five years, in the which there shall neither be earing nor harvest. [7] And God sent me before you *to preserve you a posterity in the earth, and to save your lives by a great deliverance. [8] So now it was not you that sent me hither, but God; and he hath made me [f]a father to Pharaoh, and lord of all his house, and a ruler throughout all the land of Egypt. [9] Haste ye, and go up to my father, and say unto him, Thus saith thy son Joseph, God hath made me lord of all Egypt; come down unto me, tarry not, [10] and [g]thou shalt dwell in the land of Goshen, and thou shalt be near unto me, thou, and thy children, and thy children's children, and thy flocks, and thy herds, and all that thou hast, [11] and there will I nourish thee, (for yet there are five years of famine,) lest thou, and thy household, and all that thou hast, come to poverty. [12] And, behold, your eyes see, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, that it is [h]my mouth that speaketh unto you. [13] And ye shall tell my father of all my glory in Egypt, and of all that ye have seen; and ye shall haste and [i]bring down my father hither." [14] And he fell upon his brother Benjamin's neck, and wept; and Benjamin wept upon his neck. [15] Moreover he kissed all his brethren, and wept upon them; and after that his brethren talked with him.

[16] And the fame thereof was heard in Pharaoh's house, saying, "Joseph's brethren are come;" and it †pleased Pharaoh well, and his servants. [17] And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, "Say unto thy brethren, This do ye; lade your beasts, and go, get you unto the land of Canaan, [18] and take your father and your households, and come unto me; and I will give you the good of the land of Egypt, and ye shall eat [j]the fat of the land. [19] Now thou art commanded, this do ye; take you wagons out of the land of Egypt for your little ones, and for your wives, and bring your father, and come. [20] Also ‡regard not your stuff; for the good of all the land of Egypt is yours."

[21] And the children of Israel did so: and Joseph gave them wagons, according to the *commandment of Pharaoh, and gave them provision for the way. [22] To all of them he gave each man changes of raiment; but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver, and [k]five changes of raiment. [23] And to his father he sent after this manner; ten asses †laden with the good things of Egypt, and ten she asses laden with corn and bread and meat for his father by the way. [24] So he sent his brethren away, and they departed; and he said unto them, "See that ye fall not out by the way."

[25] And they went up out of Egypt, and came into the land of Canaan unto Jacob their father, [26] and told him, saying, "Joseph is yet alive, and he is governor over all the land of Egypt!" And ‡Jacob's heart fainted, for he believed them not. [27] And they told him all the words of Joseph, which he had said unto them; and when he saw the wag-

Jacob is comforted by God at Beer-sheba. 5 Thence he with his company goeth into Egypt. 8 The number of his family that went into Egypt. 28 Joseph meeteth Jacob. 31 He instructeth his brethren how to answer Pharaoh. — Chap. xlvii. 1 Joseph presenteth five of his brethren, 7 and his father, before Pharaoh. 11 He giveth them habitation and maintenance.

[1] AND Israel took his journey with all that he had, and came to [a]Beer-sheba, and offered sacrifices [b]unto the God of his father Isaac. [2] And God spake unto Israel [c]in the visions of the night, and said, "Jacob! Jacob!" And he said, "Here am I." [3] And he said, "I am God, [d]the God of thy father; fear not to go down into Egypt, for I will there [e]make of thee a great nation. [4] I [f]will go down with thee into Egypt, and I will also surely [g]bring thee up again; and [h]Joseph shall put his hand upon thine eyes." [5] And [i]Jacob rose up from Beer-sheba; and the sons of Israel carried Jacob their father, and their little ones, and their wives, in the wagons [j]which Pharaoh had sent to carry him. [6] And they took their cattle, and their goods, which they had gotten in the land of Canaan, and came into Egypt, [k]Jacob, and all his seed with him; his sons, and his sons' sons with him, his daughters, and his sons' daughters, and all his seed brought he with him into Egypt.

[2] These are the generations of Jacob, [8] and [l]these are the names of the children of Israel, which came into Egypt, Jacob and his sons: [m]Reuben, Jacob's firstborn. [9] And the sons of Reuben; Hanoch, and Phallu, and Hezron, and Carmi.

[10] And [n]the sons of Simeon; *Jemuel, and Jamin, and Ohad, and †Jachin, and ‡Zohar, and Shaul the son of a Canaanitish woman.

[11] And the sons of [o]Levi; *Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

[12] And the sons of [p]Judah; Er, and Onan, and Shelah, and Pharez, and Zarah: but [q]Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan. And [r]the sons of Pharez were Hezron and Hamul.

[13] And [s]the sons of Issachar; Tola, and †Phuvah, and Job, and Shimron.

[14] And the sons of Zebulun; Sered, and Elon, and Jahleel.

[15] These be the sons of Leah, which she bare unto Jacob in Padan-aram, with his daughter Dinah: all the souls of his sons and his daughters were thirty and three.

[16] And the sons of Gad; [t]Ziphion, and Haggi, Shuni, and ‡Ezbon, Eri, and *Arodi, and Areli.

[17] And [u]the sons of Asher; Jimnah, and Ishuah, and Isui, and Beriah, and Serah their sister: and the sons of Beriah; Heber, and Malchiel.

[18] These [v]are the sons of Zilpah, [w]whom Laban gave to Leah his daughter, and these she bare unto Jacob, even sixteen souls. [19] The sons of Rachel [x]Jacob's wife; Joseph and Benjamin.

[20] And [y]unto Joseph in the land of Egypt were born Manasseh and Ephraim, which Asenath the daughter of Poti-pherah †priest of On bare unto him.

[21] And [z]the sons of Benjamin were Belah, and Becher, and Ashbel, Gera, and Naaman, [a]Ehi, and Rosh, [b]Muppim, and ‡Huppim, and Ard.

[22] These are the sons of Rachel, which were born to Jacob: all the souls were fourteen.

[23] And [c]the sons of Dan; *Hushim.

[24] And [d]the sons of Naphtali; Jahzeel, and Guni, and Jezer, and Shillem.

[25] These [e]are the sons of Bilhah, [f]which Laban gave unto Rachel his daughter, and she bare these unto Jacob: all the souls were seven.

[1] Then Joseph came and told Pharaoh, and said, "My father and my brethren, and their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have, are come out of the land of Canaan; and, behold, they are in [n]the land of Goshen." [2] And he took some of his brethren, even five men, and [o]presented them unto Pharaoh. [3] And Pharaoh said unto his brethren, "What is your occupation?" And they said unto Pharaoh, "Thy servants are shepherds, both we, and also our fathers." [4] They said moreover unto Pharaoh, "For [p]to sojourn in the land are we come, for thy servants have no pasture for their flocks, [q]for the famine is sore in the land of Canaan; now therefore, we pray thee, let thy servants dwell in the land of Goshen."

was found in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they bought: and Joseph brought the money into Pharaoh's house. [15] And when money failed in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came unto Joseph, and said, "Give us bread: for why should we die in thy presence? for the money faileth." [16] And Joseph said, "Give your cattle; and I will give you for your cattle, if money fail." [17] And they brought their cattle unto Joseph: and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for horses, and for the flocks, and for the cattle of the herds, and for the
* Heb. led them. asses; and he *fed them with bread for all their cattle for that year.

[18] When that year was ended, they came unto him the second year, and said unto him, "We will not hide it from my lord, how that our money is spent; my lord also hath our herds of cattle; there is not aught left in the sight of my lord, but our bodies and our lands:
[19] wherefore shall we die before thine eyes, both we and our land?
buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be servants unto Pharaoh: and give us seed, that we may live, and not die, that the land be not desolate." [20] And Joseph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for the Egyptians sold every man his field, because the famine prevailed over them: so the land became Pharaoh's. [21] And as for the people, he removed them to cities from one end of the borders

Pharaoh, and did eat their portion which Pharaoh gave them: wherefore they sold not their lands. [23] Then Joseph said unto the people,
"Behold, I have bought you this day and your land for Pharaoh: lo, here is seed for you, and ye shall sow the land. [24] And it shall come to pass in the increase, that ye shall give the fifth part unto Pharaoh, and four parts shall be your own, for seed of the field, and for your

[27] AND Israel dwelt in the land of Egypt, in the country of Goshen;

g Ge. 50. 5, 13. in their burying-place." And he said, "I will do as thou hast said."

[31] And he said, "Swear unto me." And he sware unto him. And Israel [h]bowed himself upon the bed's head.

Gen. xlviii.

[1] And it came to pass after these things, that one told Joseph, "Behold, thy father is sick;" and he took with him his two sons Manasseh and Ephraim. [2] And one told Jacob, and said, "Behold, thy son Joseph cometh unto thee;" and Israel strengthened himself, and sat upon the bed.

[3] And Jacob said unto Joseph, "God Almighty appeared unto me at [i]Luz in the land of Canaan, and blessed me, [4] and said unto me, 'Behold, I will make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, and I will make of thee a multitude of people; and will give this land to thy seed after thee for an everlasting possession.' [5] And now thy [j]two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, which were born unto thee in the land of Egypt before I came unto thee into Egypt, are mine; as Reuben and Simeon, they shall be mine. [6] And thy issue, which thou begettest after them, shall be thine, and shall be called after the name of their brethren in their inheritance. [7] And as for me, when I came from Padan, [k]Rachel died by me in the land of Canaan in the way, when yet there was but a little way to come unto Ephrath; and I buried her there in the way of Ephrath; the same is Bethlehem."

[8] And Israel beheld Joseph's sons, and said, "Who are these?" [9] And Joseph said unto his father, "They [l]are my sons, whom God hath given me in this place." And he said, "Bring them, I pray thee, unto me, and [m]I will bless them." [10] Now the eyes of Israel were †dim for age, so that he could not see. And he brought them near unto him; and [n]he kissed them, and embraced them. [11] And Israel said unto Joseph, "I [o]had not thought to see thy face: and, lo, God hath showed me also thy seed." [12] And Joseph brought them out from between his knees, and [p]he bowed himself with his face to the earth. [13] And Joseph took them both, Ephraim in his right hand toward Israel's left hand, and Manasseh in his left hand toward Israel's right hand, and brought them near unto him. [14] And Israel stretched out his right hand, and laid it upon Ephraim's head, who was the younger, and his left hand upon Manasseh's head, guiding his hands wittingly; for Manasseh was the firstborn. [15] And [q]he blessed Joseph, and said,—

"God, before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac did walk,
The God which fed me all my life long unto this day,
[16] The [r]Angel which redeemed me from all evil,
Bless the lads!
And let my name be named on them,
And the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac;
And let them ‡grow into a multitude in the midst of the earth."

[17] And when Joseph saw that his father laid his right hand upon the head of Ephraim, it *displeased him; and he held up his father's hand, to remove it from Ephraim's head unto Manasseh's head. [18] And Joseph said unto his father, "Not so, my father, for this is the firstborn; put thy right hand upon his head." [19] And his father refused, and said, "I know it, my son, I know it; he also shall become a people, and he also shall be great: but truly [s]his younger brother shall be greater than he, and his seed shall become a †multitude of nations." [20] And he blessed them that day, saying, "In thee shall Israel bless, saying, God make thee as Ephraim and as Manasseh;" and he set Ephraim before Manasseh.

[21] And Israel said unto Joseph, "Behold, I die; but [t]God shall be with you, and bring you again unto the land of your fathers. [22] Moreover [u]I have given to thee one portion above thy brethren, which I took out of the hand [v]of the Amorite with my sword and with my bow."

(12) Jacob, in this address, prophesies the destiny of each of his sons, and predicts, in still clearer terms, the advent of the Messiah. It is important to observe the manner in which the future Deliverer of the world is gradually revealed, as well as the manner in which the line of the Messiah is gradually limited to the descendants of those patriarchs, on whom it pleased the Almighty to confer this part of the blessings of the birthright.—He is first represented in general terms, as the seed of the woman. It is predicted that He shall descend from Shem. From among the sons of Shem, Abraham is selected: from the sons of Abraham, Isaac is chosen; of the two sons of Isaac, Jacob obtains the blessing: from the twelve sons of Jacob, Judah is announced as the ancestor of the Deliverer of man, and from all the numerous descendants of Judah, it is at length predicted that the Messiah shall spring from the line of David. By these gradual revelations, the providence of God perpetually kept up the attention, and preserved the faith of man in the expected Mediator; and the prophecy of Jacob was eminently useful to strengthen the faith of the Israelites in that gloomy season of bondage and distress, which began after the death of Joseph, and continued till the Exodus.

[29] And he charged them, and said unto them, "I am to be gathered unto my people; [a]bury me with my fathers [b]in the cave that is in the field of Ephron the Hittite, [30] in the cave that is in the field of Machpelah, which is before Mamre, in the land of Canaan, [c]which Abraham bought with the field of Ephron the Hittite for a possession of a burying-place. [31] There [d]they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife; [e]there they buried Isaac and Rebekah his wife; and there I buried Leah. [32] The purchase of the field and of the cave that is therein was from the children of Heth."

[33] And when Jacob had made an end of commanding his sons, he gathered up his feet into the bed, and yielded up the ghost, and was gathered unto his people. [1] And Joseph [f]fell upon his father's face, and wept upon him, and kissed him.

SECTION III.—Oppression of the Israelites after the Death of Joseph.

EXOD. i.

The children of Israel, after Joseph's death, do multiply. 8 The more they are oppressed by a new king, the more they multiply. 15 The godliness of the midwives, in saving the men children alive. 22 Pharaoh commandeth the male children to be cast into the river.

[1] Now [a]these are the names of the children of Israel, which came into Egypt; every man and his household came with Jacob. [2] Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, [3] Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin, [4] Dan, and Naphtali, Gad, and Asher. [5] And all the souls that came out of the *loins of Jacob were seventy souls; for Joseph was in Egypt already. [6] And Joseph died, and all his brethren, and all that generation.

[7] And [b]the children of Israel were fruitful, and increased abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty; and the land was filled with them. [8] Now there [c]arose up a new king over Egypt, which knew not Joseph. [9] And he said unto his people, "Behold, the people of the children of Israel are more and mightier than we! [10] Come [d]on, let us deal wisely with them; lest they multiply, and it come to pass, that, when there falleth out any war, they join also unto our enemies, and fight against us, and so get them up out of the land." [11] Therefore they did set over them taskmasters [e]to afflict them with their burdens. And they built for Pharaoh treasure cities, Pithom [f]and Raamses. [12] †But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew. And they were grieved because of the children of Israel. [13] And the Egyptians made the children of Israel to serve with rigor. [14] And they [g]made their lives bitter with hard bondage, in mortar, and in brick, and in all manner of service in the field; all their service, wherein they made them serve, was with rigor.

[15] And the king of Egypt spake to the Hebrew midwives, of which the name of the one was Shiphrah, and the name of the other Puah. [16] And he said, "When ye do the office of a midwife to the Hebrew women, and see them upon the stools, if it be a son, then ye shall kill him; but if it be a daughter, then she shall live." [17] But the midwives [h]feared God, and did not as the king of Egypt commanded them, but saved the men children alive. [18] And the king of Egypt called for the midwives, and said unto them, "Why have ye done this thing, and have saved the men children alive?" [19] And the midwives said unto Pharaoh, "Because the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women; for they are lively, and are delivered ere the midwives come in unto them." [20] Therefore [i]God dealt well with the midwives; and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty. [21] And it came to pass, because the midwives feared God, [j]that he made them houses. [22] And Pharaoh charged all his people, saying, "Every [k]son that is born ye shall cast into the river, and every daughter ye shall save alive."

PART I.

THE BIRTH AND EARLY LIFE OF MOSES.

EXOD. ii.

Moses is born, 3 and in an ark cast into the flags. 5 He is found, and brought up by Pharaoh's daughter. 11 He slayeth an Egyptian. 13 He reproveth a Hebrew. 15 He fleeth into Midian. 21 He marrieth Zipporah. 22 Gershom is born. 23 God respecteth the Israelites' cry.

[1] AND there went [a]a man of the house of Levi, and took to wife a daughter of Levi. [2] And the woman conceived, and bare a son; [b]and when she saw him that he was a goodly child, she hid him three months. [3] And when she could not longer hide him, she took for him an ark of bulrushes, and daubed it with slime and with pitch, and put the child therein; and she laid it in the flags by the river's brink. [4] And [c]his sister stood afar off, to [a]wit what would be done to him.

[5] And the daughter of Pharaoh came down to wash herself at the river; and her maidens walked along by the river's side; and when she saw the ark among the flags, she sent her maid to fetch it. [6] And when she had opened it, she saw the child; and, behold, the babe wept! And she had compassion on him, and said, "This is one of the Hebrews' children." [7] Then said his sister to Pharaoh's daughter, "Shall I go and call to thee a nurse of the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for thee?" [8] And Pharaoh's daughter said to her, "Go." And the maid went and called the child's mother. [9] And Pharaoh's daughter said unto her, "Take this child away, and nurse it for me, and I will give thee thy wages." And the woman took the child, and nursed it. [10] And the child grew, and she brought him unto [d]Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her son. And she called his name *Moses; and she said, "Because I drew him out of the water."

[11] And it came to pass in those days, [e]when Moses was grown, that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on [f]their burdens; and he spied an Egyptian smiting a Hebrew, one of his brethren. [12] And he looked this way and that way, and when he saw that there was no man, [g]he slew the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand. [13] And when he went out the second day, behold, two men of the Hebrews strove together; and he said to him that did the wrong, "Wherefore smitest thou thy fellow?" [14] And he said, "Who made thee †a prince and a judge over us? intendest thou to kill me, as thou killedst the Egyptian?" And Moses feared, and said, "Surely this thing is known."

[15] Now when Pharaoh heard this thing, he sought to slay Moses. But [h]Moses fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian; and he sat down by a well. [16] Now the ‡priest of Midian had seven daughters; [i]and they came and drew water, and filled the troughs to water their father's flock. [17] And the shepherds came and drove them away; but Moses stood up and helped them, and watered their flock. [18] And when they came to [j]Reuel their father, he said, "How is it that ye are come so soon to-day?" [19] And they said, "An Egyptian delivered us out of the hand of the shepherds, and also drew water enough for us, and watered the flock." [20] And he said unto his daughters, "And where is he? [k]why is it that ye have left the man? call him, that he may eat bread." [21] And Moses was content to dwell with the man; and he gave Moses Zipporah his daughter. [22] And she bare him a son, and he called his name *Gershom; for he said, "I have been a stranger in a strange land."

[23] And it [l]came to pass in process of time, that the king of Egypt died: and the children of Israel [m]sighed by reason of the bondage, and they cried, and [n]their cry came up unto God by reason of the bondage. [24] And God [o]heard their groaning, and God remembered his [p]covenant with Abraham, with Isaac, and with Jacob. [25] And God [q]looked upon the children of Israel, and God †had respect unto them.

(1) Lightfoot supposes, that Heman who composed the eighty-eighth Psalm, and Heman the singer (1 Chro. vi. 33.), were not the same person. The former was the immediate son of Gerah, the descendant of Judah, and lived in Egypt, during the time of the affliction of the Israelites, (1 Chron. ii.

[2] Let my prayer come before thee,
Incline thine ear unto my cry.
[3] For my soul is full of troubles;
And my life draweth nigh unto the grave.
[4] I [c]am counted with them that go down into the pit;
I [d]am as a man that hath no strength;
[5] Free among the dead,
Like the slain that lie in the grave,
Whom thou rememberest no more;
And they are cut off ‡from thy hand.
[6] Thou hast laid me in the lowest pit,
In darkness—in the deeps.
[7] Thy wrath lieth hard upon me,
And [e]thou hast afflicted me with all thy waves. Selah!
[8] Thou [f]hast put away mine acquaintance far from me;
Thou hast made me an abomination unto them;
I [g]am shut up, and I cannot come forth.
[9] Mine [h]eye mourneth by reason of affliction;
Lord, [i]I have called daily upon thee,
I [j]have stretched out my hands unto thee.
[10] Wilt [k]thou show wonders to the dead?
Shall the dead arise and praise thee? Selah!
[11] Shall thy lovingkindness be declared in the grave?
Or thy faithfulness in destruction?
[12] Shall thy wonders be known in the dark?
And [l]thy righteousness in the land of forgetfulness?
[13] But unto thee have I cried, O Lord!
And [m]in the morning shall my prayer prevent thee.
[14] Lord, [n]why castest thou off my soul?
Why [o]hidest thou thy face from me?
[15] I am afflicted and ready to die from my youth up;
While I suffer [p]thy terrors I am distracted.
[16] Thy fierce wrath goeth over me;
Thy terrors have cut me off.
[17] They came round about me *daily like water;
They [q]compassed me about together.

6.) Witsius differs from Lightfoot in this opinion; and many of the commentators suppose the Psalm to have been written during the Babylonish captivity. But we do not read that any of the name of Heman flourished at that time, and the Psalm is therefore inserted here, as well on the authority of Lightfoot, who repeatedly asserts this to be its proper place, as from its internal evidence, and the probable allusion (Exod. ii. 23.) to some compositions of this kind, which were penned by the Israelites in this mournful period of suffering and distress.—Lightfoot's Works, vol. i. p. 23, 70, 699; Witsius, *Misc. xxiv. 14. Ezek. xx 8.); others had neglected circumcision, (Josh. v. 9.); and some had intermarried with the Egyptians, (Lev. xxiv. 10.) The majority, however, had not forsaken their ancient religion; and in this period of distress and bondage, by which they were justly punished, they cried unto the Lord. The time of the fulfilment of the promise (Gen. l. 24.) drew nigh, and "The Lord remembered his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob."

The Angel Jehovah, the guardian of the Church, had frequently appeared to the patriarchs; but we have no account of his manifesting himself after the death of Jacob, till he was revealed to Moses in the bush. As this Divine Being, however, had uniformly commissioned the patriarchs to preach the true religion, the people would naturally expect, that the prophet who should declare himself the lawgiver and deliverer, would be appointed by the same authority. This we accordingly find to have been the case. Moses, when feeding the flock of Jethro at Horeb, observes a copse, or thicket, burning with fire; while the branches and leaves appeared unconsumed and uninjured. Astonished at the phenomenon, he approaches the thicket. The Angel Jehovah, the God of the patriarchal dispensation, was seen; and Moses receives from him his commission. The diffidence, the delay, the scruples of the prophet, are overcome by miraculous proofs of his divine legation; which at the same time convince him, that, by his means, the Israelites should be delivered from Egypt.—Lightfoot, vol. i. p. 22; Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 182; Horæ Mosaicæ, vol. ii. p. 99.

[19] And I am sure that [w]the king of Egypt will not let you go, *no, not by a mighty hand. [20] And [x]I will stretch out my hand, and smite Egypt with [y]all my wonders which I will do in the midst thereof; [z]and after that he will let you go. [21] And [a]I will give this people favor in the sight of the Egyptians, and it shall come to pass, that, when ye go, ye shall not go empty; [22] but [b]every woman shall borrow of her neighbour, and of her that sojourneth in her house, jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and raiment; and ye shall put them upon your sons, and upon your daughters, and [c]ye shall spoil †the Egyptians."

Moses and Aaron make known their mission. 31 The people believe them. — Chap. v. 1 Pharaoh chideth Moses and Aaron for their message. 5 He increaseth the Israelites' task. 15 He checketh their complaints. 19 They cry out upon Moses and Aaron. 22 Moses complaineth to God. — Chap. vi. 1 God reneweth his promise by his name Jehovah.

[29] AND Moses and Aaron [a]went and gathered together all the elders of the children of Israel. [30] And Aaron spake all the words which the LORD had spoken unto Moses, and did the signs in the sight of the people.(4) [31] And the people believed; and when they heard that the chosen to abrogate that mode of instructing mankind, and to institute another in its place. Miracles were not necessary to Adam, or to Noah, as they each possessed sufficient evidence of the truths they taught; they were not necessary to Abraham, as he was the reformer only of the religion of Noah; but when a legislator ventured to assert that a law, which was originally divinely appointed, was now about to be annulled, it was absolutely essential that he should be able to produce the most incontrovertible evidence in support of his authority. Moses therefore was empowered to work miracles, for the purpose of establishing a new dispensation. In the same manner, Christ, the prophet "like unto Moses," wrought his wonderful miracles, to convince the world of the dissolution of the Levitical dispensation, in favor of the Christian covenant.—Horæ Mosaicæ, vol. ii. p. 222, &c.

(4) Moses was either a true prophet, an enthusiast, a dupe, or an impostor. That he was not an enthusiast may be argued from his learning; he was versed in all the learning of Egypt—from his education among the courtiers of Pharaoh—from the diffidence with which he received the first annunciation of his mission—from the admirable suitableness of his Law to the accomplishment of the object proposed—the knowledge therein displayed of human nature—the connection of laws politically necessary with religion, &c. He could not have been a dupe; for if the appearance in the burning bush had not been real—if he had been deceived in the evidences of his mission—if the miracles wrought to convince him, that he was the chosen prophet of God, had been only natural phenomena, he could not have inferred from them, that he was to be the legislator and deliverer of the Jews. Neither was he an impostor. An impostor would not have chosen to suffer affliction with a degraded race, rather than to indulge in the gayeties and fascinations of a court—an impostor would not have exposed himself to the danger of death, by vindicating the cause of the oppressed—he would not, if banished to a desert, be contented with his lot—forget his schemes of ambition, intermarry among the natives of an obscure province, and calmly sink into the condition of a shepherd. Even if he were at length to rouse from this strange lethargy, and resolve to deliver his countrymen, or perish in the attempt, an impostor would have proceeded with some address, and policy—he would not enter abruptly into the

[1] And afterward Moses and Aaron went in, and told Pharaoh, "Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Let my people go, that they may hold [d]a feast unto me in the wilderness." [2] And Pharaoh said, "Who [e]is the Lord, that I should obey his voice to let Israel go? [f]I know not the Lord, [g]neither will I let Israel go." [3] And they said, "The [h]God of the Hebrews hath met with us; let us go, we pray thee, three days' journey into the desert, and sacrifice unto the Lord our God, lest he fall upon us with pestilence, or with the sword." [4] And the king of Egypt said unto them, "Wherefore do ye, Moses and Aaron, let the people from their works? get you unto [i]your burdens." [5] And Pharaoh said, "Behold, the people of the land now are many, and ye make them rest from their burdens."

* Heb. Let the work be heavy upon the men.

[6] And Pharaoh commanded the same day the taskmasters of the people, and their officers, saying, "Ye shall no more give the people straw to make brick, as heretofore; let them go and gather straw for themselves. [8] And the tale of the bricks, which they did make heretofore, ye shall lay upon them, ye shall not diminish aught thereof; for they be idle, therefore they cry, saying, 'Let us go and sacrifice to our God.' [9] *Let there more work be laid upon the men, that they may labor therein; and let them not regard vain words."

[10] And the taskmasters of the people went out, and their officers, and they spake to the people, saying, "Thus saith Pharaoh, I will not give you straw. [11] Go ye, get you straw where ye can find it; yet not aught of your work shall be diminished." [12] So the people were scattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt to gather stubble instead of straw. [13] And the taskmasters hasted them, saying, "Fulfil your works, your †daily tasks, as when there was straw." [14] And the officers of the children of Israel, which Pharaoh's taskmasters had set over them, were beaten, and demanded, "Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your task in making brick both yesterday and to-day as heretofore?"

[15] Then the officers of the children of Israel came and cried unto Pharaoh, saying, "Wherefore dealest thou thus with thy servants? [16] There is no straw given unto thy servants, and they say to us, 'Make brick;' and, behold, thy servants are beaten, but the fault is in thine own people." [17] But he said, "Ye are idle, ye are idle; therefore ye say, 'Let us go and do sacrifice to the Lord.' [18] Go therefore now, and work; for there shall no straw be given you, yet shall ye deliver the tale of bricks." [19] And the officers of the children of Israel did see that they were in evil case, after it was said, "Ye shall not minish aught, from your bricks of your daily task."

[20] And they met Moses and Aaron, who stood in the way, as they came forth from Pharaoh. [21] And they said unto them, "The Lord look upon you, and judge; because ye have made our savour ‡to be abhorred in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his servants, to put a sword in their hand to slay us." [22] And Moses returned unto the Lord, and said, "Lord, wherefore hast thou so evil entreated this people? why is it that thou hast sent me? [23] For since I came to Pharaoh presence of an absolute sovereign, and peremptorily insist on the liberation of a race of "useful slaves;" neither would an impostor commit himself, by predicting a series of miraculous judgments, if these slaves were not permitted to emigrate. If Moses, too, had been either of these, he could not have conquered armies without fighting, or impressed a whole nation with imaginary terrors—or guided or fed a whole nation for forty years. in the wilderness;—he could not have compelled, and he could not have persuaded, the Egyptians and their king to resign their dominion over the Israelites, unless he had been possessed of powers more than human. That is, he was a true prophet—he wrought miracles—he was the character he professed to be. The mere fact, that Moses was not a true prophet, and yet delivered the Israelites, would be a much greater miracle than any he is related to have performed.—Horæ Mosaicæ (from which the above note is chiefly abridged), vol. i. p. 209–301; Dean Graves On the Pentateuch; Byrant's Plagues, p. 344; Michaelis' Commentary on the Law of Moses, vol. i. p. 42, &c.

[1] Then the Lord said unto Moses, "Now shalt thou see what I will do to Pharaoh; for with [j]a strong hand shall he let them go, and with a strong hand [k]shall he drive them out of his land." [2] And God spake unto Moses, and said unto him, "I am †the Lord. [3] And I appeared unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, by the name of [l]God Almighty, but by my name [m]Jehovah was I not known to them.(5) [4] And [n]I have also established my covenant with them, [o]to give them the land of Canaan, the land of their pilgrimage, wherein they were strangers. [5] And [p]I have also heard the groaning of the children of Israel, whom the Egyptians keep in bondage; and I have remembered my covenant. [6] Wherefore say unto the children of Israel, I am the Lord, and [q]I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, and I will rid you out of their bondage, and [r]I will redeem you with a stretched-out arm, and with great judgments. [7] And [s]I will take you to me for a people, and [t]I will be to you a God; and ye shall know that I am the Lord your God, which bringeth you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians. [8] And I will bring you in unto the land, concerning the which I did ‡swear to give it to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob; and I will give it you for a heritage: I am the Lord."

[9] And Moses spake so unto the children of Israel; but they hearkened not unto Moses for *anguish of spirit, and for cruel bondage. [10] And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, [11] "Go in, speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, that he let the children of Israel go out of his land." [12] And Moses spake before the Lord, saying, "Behold, the children of Israel have not hearkened unto me; how then shall Pharaoh hear me, [u]who am of uncircumcised lips?" [13] And the Lord spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, and gave them a charge unto the children of Israel, and unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

ance from their bondage must have been proportionably excited. Yet many of the Israelites were still followers of the surrounding idolatry, and the mercy of Providence displayed itself in proving to them the utter worthlessness of all the idols, and false gods, on whom the proud, the learned, and the scientific Egyptians, so vainly depended.

The first plague demonstrated the superiority of Jehovah over their imaginary river-gods; the Nile was turned into blood, which was an object of peculiar abhorrence to the Egyptians.

(7) The second effort of power on the part of Moses filled the holy river with frogs, and its streams by this means became a second time polluted, to the utter confusion both of their gods and priests. The land also was equally defiled, and they had no way to cleanse themselves, for every stream and every lake was in a state of pollution. The frog was held sacred by the Egyptians, and was regarded as an emblem of preservation in floods and inundations.

Section IV.—The Fourth Plague—Flies.(9)

Exod. viii. 20, to the end.

The swarms of flies. 45 Pharaoh inclineth to let the people go, 32 but yet is hardened.

[20] And the Lord said unto Moses, "Rise [a]up early in the morning, and stand before Pharaoh; lo, he cometh forth to the water; and say unto him, Thus saith the Lord, Let my people go, that they may serve me. [21] Else, if thou wilt not let my people go, behold, I will send *swarms of flies upon thee, and upon thy servants, and upon thy people, and into thy houses; and the houses of the Egyptians shall be full of swarms of flies, and also the ground whereon they are. [22] And [b]I will sever in that day the land of Goshen, in which my people dwell, that no swarms of flies shall be there; to the end thou mayest know that I am the Lord in the midst of the earth. [23] And I will put †a division between my people and thy people; ‡to-morrow shall this sign be." [24] And the Lord did so; and [c]there came a grievous swarm of flies into the house of Pharaoh, and into his servants' houses, and into all the land of Egypt; the land was *corrupted by reason of the swarm of flies.

(8) The plague of lice reproved the absurd superstition which demanded external purity alone.—The Egyptians considered it a great profanation of the temple if they entered it with any animalculæ of this sort upon them. The people in general wore a linen garment over another of linen; but they laid aside the former when they approached their deities, for fear it should harbour vermin; and although their rites were most filthy and contemptible, yet they were carried on with a most scrupulous show of purity and cleanliness.

(9) The fourth plague must have convinced the Egyptians, who were worshippers of zebub, the god-fly, that their own gods were converted into instruments of torment in the hand of a superior Power.

[25] And Pharaoh called for Moses and for Aaron, and said, "Go ye, sacrifice to your God in the land." [26] And Moses said, "It is not meet so to do, for we shall sacrifice [d]the abomination of the Egyptians to the Lord our God; lo, shall we sacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians before their eyes, and will they not stone us? [27] We will go [e]three days' journey into the wilderness, and sacrifice to the Lord our God, as he shall command us." [28] And Pharaoh said, "I will let you go, that ye may sacrifice to the Lord your God in the wilderness; only ye shall not go very far away: [f]entreat for me." [29] And Moses said, "Behold, I go out from thee, and I will entreat the Lord that the swarms of flies may depart from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people, to-morrow; but let not Pharaoh deal deceitfully any more in not letting the people go to sacrifice to the Lord."

[32] And Pharaoh [g]hardened his heart at this time also, neither would he let the people go.

Section V.—The Fifth Plague—Murrain of Cattle.(10)

Exod. ix. 1–7.

[1] Then the Lord said unto Moses, "Go [a]in unto Pharaoh, and tell him, Thus saith the Lord God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may serve me. [2] For if [b]thou refuse to let them go, and wilt hold them still, [3] behold, [c]the hand of the Lord is upon thy cattle which is in the field, upon the horses, upon the asses, upon the camels, upon the oxen, and upon the sheep: there shall be a very grievous murrain. [4] And [d]the Lord shall sever between the cattle of Israel and the cattle of Egypt; and there shall nothing die of all that is the children's of Israel." [5] And the Lord appointed a set time, saying, "To-morrow the Lord shall do this thing in the land." [6] And the Lord did that thing on the morrow, and [e]all the cattle of Egypt died; but of the cattle of the children of Israel died not one. [7] And Pharaoh sent, and, behold, there was not one of the cattle of the Israelites dead. And [f]the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, and he did not let the people go.

[8] And the Lord said unto Moses and unto Aaron, "Take to you handfuls of ashes of the furnace, and let Moses sprinkle it toward the heaven in the sight of Pharaoh. [9] And it shall become small dust in all the land of Egypt, and shall be [a]a bile breaking forth with blains upon man, and upon beast, throughout all the land of Egypt." [10] And they took ashes of the furnace, and stood before Pharaoh, and Moses sprinkled it up toward heaven; and it became [b]a bile breaking forth with blains upon man, and upon beast. [11] And [c]the magicians could not stand before Moses because of the biles; for the bile was upon the magicians, and upon all the Egyptians. [12] And the Lord hardened the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened not unto them; [d]as the Lord had spoken unto Moses.

(10) The fifth plague destroyed the living objects of their stupid worship. The sacred bull, the ram, the heifer, and the he goat, fell dead before their worshippers, as if in ridicule of their vain incense. This judgment must have likewise had a great effect on the Israelites, and must have tended to wean their affections from those gods of the country to which they had before attached themselves.

(11) The sixth plague was the bile produced by the ashes of the furnaces, in which they had offered human sacrifices, probably some of the Israelites themselves: they were accustomed to scatter the ashes, to obtain a blessing from their gods: this very rite became the means of their present torment.

[13] And the Lord said unto Moses, "Rise [a]up early in the morning, and stand before Pharaoh, and say unto him, Thus saith the Lord God of the Hebrews, Let my people go that they may serve me. [14] For I will at this time send all my plagues upon thy heart, and upon thy servants, and upon thy people; [b]that thou mayest know that there is none like me in all the earth. [15] For now [c]I will stretch out my hand, that I may smite thee and thy people with pestilence; and thou shalt be cut off from the earth. [16] And in very deed for this cause have I *raised thee up, for to show in thee my power; and that my Name may be declared throughout all the earth. [17] As yet exaltest thou thyself against my people, that thou wilt not let them go? [18] Behold, tomorrow about this time I will cause it to rain a very grievous hail, such as hath not been in Egypt since the foundation thereof even until now. [19] Send therefore now, and gather thy cattle, and all that thou hast in the field; for upon every man and beast which shall be found in the field, and shall not be brought home, the hail shall come down upon them, and they shall die." [23] And Moses stretched forth his rod toward heaven; and [e]the Lord sent thunder and hail, and the fire ran along upon the ground, and the Lord rained hail upon the land of Egypt. [24] So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail, very grievous, such as there was none like it in all the land of Egypt since it became a nation. [25] And the hail smote throughout all the land of Egypt all that was in the field, both man and beast; and the hail [f]smote every herb of the field, and brake every tree of the field. (12) The seventh plague demonstrated that neither Isis, who presided over water, nor Osiris, the lord of fire, was able to protect the fields and the climate of Egypt from the thunder, the rain, and the fire of Jehovah. These phenomena of nature seldom disturbed, at any period of the year, the climate of Egypt. On this occasion, they happened at a time when the air was generally most calm and serene.

[14] And [k]the locusts went up over all the land of Egypt, and rested in all the coasts of Egypt: very grievous were they; [l]before them there were no such locusts as they, neither after them shall be such. [15] For they covered [m]the face of the whole earth, so that the land was darkened; [n]and they did eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left; and there remained not any green thing in the trees, or in the herbs of the field, through all the land of Egypt.

(13) In the eighth plague of locusts, the Egyptians undoubtedly offered up their prayers to Isis and Serapis, who were the conservators of all plenty. They would likewise naturally invoke those deities, who were supposed to have power over these destructive creatures. But their very deities could not stand before Moses. The winds they venerated were made the instruments of their destruction; and the sea, which they regarded as their defence against the locusts, could not protect them. An east wind (ver. 13) prevailed all that day, and all that night; this wind must have brought the locusts from Arabia, and borne them, contrary to their nature, over the Red Sea; which proved no barrier to their progress.

(14) The account of the Passover is put together (in Exod. chap. xii.) to connect the history of its institution with that of its observance. It is however evident from Exod. xii. 3, that the command for its observance was given on the tenth day of the month Nisan; and, in commemoration of this fact, the Jews were accustomed to select their victim for sacrifice four days before it was slain. By observing the arrangement of the events related in this fifth part, we shall more clearly discern the very wonderful manner in which the wisdom of Providence impressed the Israelites with a contempt and hatred of idolatry, and directed their attention, at the same time, to their future Messiah.

The eight plagues, which had now been inflicted upon the Egyptians must have convinced the Israelites of the vanity and folly of the Egyptian idolatry, and the certainty that their God was the only true God. While the effect of these eight judgments was still powerful, the people were ordered to prepare the Passover. On the very day in which the command was issued, the plague of darkness began; while the children of Israel had light in their dwellings. Amid the silence and the terror of this fearful pause, they selected their victim, and made ready their Passover. Time was afforded them for reflection on the meaning of those ceremonies with which their victim was to be offered. The lamb was a propitiatory sacrifice; and its blood was to be sprinkled upon the door, that the sword of the avenging angel might be turned aside from their families. Upon this sacrifice too they feasted; and the lamb was so to be slain, and so to be eaten, that they must have been conscious that their legislator was either acting from an arbitrary and useless caprice, or that each piacular rite and ceremony must have been ordained with some specific object. They could not have suspected their great prophet, at this terrible moment, of acting with caprice; neither is it probable that they would have inquired in vain concerning the object of each ceremony. They must then have seen, through the clouds and shadows of the typical institutions, the brightness of that truth, "Christ our Passover is (to be) slain for us, therefore let us keep the feast." They must have known, that, by partaking of this feast, they entered into covenant with God, and that the sacrifice itself was exclusively mystical, referring to the future Great Sacrifice, the more perfect atonement, by means of faith in which they were to be delivered from a worse bondage than even this of Egypt. Such (and many more of the same nature) were the reflections of the Israelites during the continuance of the plague of darkness. On the morning of the fourteenth, they prepare their victim for the knife: between the two evenings, that is, between the ninth and eleventh hours of the day, the very hour on which Christ died, the sacrifice is slain—the blood is sprinkled on the door post—the Passover is eaten, and the Israelites, with their loins girded, their shoes on their feet, and their staff in their hand, ready for their journey, only await the signal to leave the land of Egypt. That signal is given: at midnight the firstborn are slain; and, amidst the universal distress and agony of the Egyptians, the promise to the patriarchs is accomplished, and the Israelites leave the land of bondage, with all the calmness and solemnity of a religious procession.—Vide Cudworth's True Notion of the Lord's Supper; Abp. Exod. xi. 1–8.

[1] And the Lord said unto Moses, "Yet will I bring one plague more upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt; afterwards he will let you go hence: [a]when he shall let you go, he shall surely thrust you out hence altogether. [2] Speak now in the ears of the people, and let every man borrow of his neighbour, and every woman of her neighbour, [b]jewels of silver, and jewels of gold." [3] And [c]the Lord gave the people favor in the sight of the Egyptians. Moreover the man [d]Moses was very great in the land of Egypt, in the sight of Pharaoh's servants, and in the sight of the people.

[6] And [g]there shall be a great cry throughout all the land of Egypt, such as there was none like it, nor shall be like it any more. [7] But [h]against any of the children of Israel [i]shall not a dog move his tongue, against man or beast; that ye may know how that the Lord doth put a difference between the Egyptians and Israel. [8] And [j]all these thy servants shall come down unto me, and bow down themselves unto me, saying, Get thee out, and all the people *that follow thee; and after that I will go out." [28] And Pharaoh said unto him, "Get thee from me, take heed to thyself, see my face no more; for in that day thou seest my face thou shalt die." (16) The tenth plague was an assertion of the right of Jehovah to the firstborn. In the patriarchal dispensation, which the Egyptians had perverted, the firstborn were devoted to God; in addition to which, Moses had declared Israel to be the firstborn of Jehovah. The true God therefore demanded those of the children of the Egyptians who ought to have been dedicated to his service. He destroyed them in a moment, at midnight. The Israelites were saved, by eating the god whom the Egyptians worshipped. The terrors of that moment have never been equalled by any scene of distress which has since been recorded in history. It was the custom of the Egyptians to rush from the house into the street, to bewail the dead with loud and bitter outcries; and every member of the family united in the expression of sorrow: what must the scene have been, when. at midnight, the Lord smote all the firstborn of the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh on the throne, to the firstborn of the captive in the dungeon: when the king, and his servants, and all the people, rose up in the night: and "there was a great cry in Egypt; for there was not a house where there was not one dead!"—Bryant On the Plagues, &c.; Bishop Gleig's Dissertation, in Stackhouse, vol. i. p. 472; Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 186–199.

of you shall go out at the door of his house until the morning. [23] For the LORD will pass through to smite the Egyptians; and when he seeth the blood upon the lintel, and on the two side posts, the LORD will pass over the door, and [q]will not suffer [r]the Destroyer to come in unto your houses to smite you. [24] And ye shall observe this thing for an ordinance to thee and to thy sons for ever. [25] And it shall come to pass, when ye be come to the land which the LORD will give you, [s]according as he hath promised, that ye shall keep this service. [26] And [t]it shall come to pass, when your children shall say unto you, What mean ye by this service? [27] That ye shall say, It is the sacrifice of the LORD's Passover, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when he smote the Egyptians, and delivered our houses." And the people [u]bowed the head and worshipped. [28] And the children of Israel went away, and [v]did as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

[29] And it came to pass, that at midnight [w]the LORD smote all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, [x]from the firstborn of Pharaoh that sat on his throne unto the firstborn of the captive that was in the ‡dungeon; and all the firstborn of cattle. [30] And Pharaoh rose up in the night, he, and all his servants, and all the Egyptians; and there was [y]a great cry in Egypt, for there was not a house where there was not one dead.

THE EXODUS.

EXOD. xii. 31-36, and 40-42.

[31] AND [a]he called for Moses and Aaron by night, and said, "Rise up, and get you forth from among my people, [b]both ye and the children of Israel; and go, serve the LORD, as ye have said. [32] Also [c]take your flocks and your herds, as ye have said, and be gone: and [d]bless me also." [33] And [e]the Egyptians were urgent upon the people, that they might send them out of the land in haste; for they said, "We [f]be all dead men." [34] And the people took their dough before it was leavened, their *kneadingtroughs being bound up in their clothes upon their shoulders. [35] And the children of Israel did according to the word of Moses; and they borrowed of the Egyptians [g]jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and raiment. [36] And [h]the LORD gave the people favor in the sight of the Egyptians, so that they lent unto them such things as they required. And they spoiled the Egyptians.

[40] Now the sojourning of the children of Israel, who dwelt in Egypt, was [i]four hundred and thirty years. [41] And it came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the selfsame day it came to pass, that all [j]the hosts of the LORD went out from the land of Egypt. [42] It is †a night to be much observed unto the LORD for bringing them out from the land of Egypt: this is that night of the LORD to be observed of all the children of Israel in their generations.

(18) For the sake of greater clearness, the wanderings of the Israelites in the wilderness are arranged, according to the itinerary of Moses, Numb. xxxiii., in forty-two journeyings. The Israelites might have entered Canaan within the space of forty days, instead of forty years. They were the hand of Moses and Aaron. [2] And Moses wrote their goings out according to their journeys by the commandment of the LORD: and these are their journeys according to their goings out. [3] And they departed from Rameses in [a]the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month; on the morrow after the Passover the children of Israel went out [b]with a high hand in the sight of all the Egyptians. [4] For the Egyptians buried all their firstborn, [c]which the LORD had smitten among them; [d]upon their gods also the LORD executed judgments.

EXOD. xii. 37–39.

[37] And the children of Israel journeyed from [e]Rameses to Succoth, about [f]six hundred thousand on foot that were men, besides children. [38] And [*]a mixed multitude went up also with them; and flocks, and herds, even very much cattle. [39] And they baked unleavened cakes of the dough which they brought forth out of Egypt, for it was not leavened; because [g]they were thrust out of Egypt, and could not tarry, neither had they prepared for themselves any victual.

There shall no stranger eat thereof; [44] but every man's servant that is bought for money, when thou hast [b]circumcised him, then shall he eat thereof. [45] A [c]foreigner and a hired servant shall not eat thereof. [46] In one house shall it be eaten; thou shalt not carry forth aught of the flesh abroad out of the house; neither [d]shall ye break a bone thereof. [47] All the congregation of Israel shall [*]keep it. [48] And [f]when a stranger shall sojourn with thee, and will keep the Passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as one that is born in the land; for no uncircumcised person shall eat thereof. [49] One [g]law shall be to him that is homeborn, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among you."

[50] Thus did all the children of Israel; as the LORD commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they. [51] And it came to pass the selfsame day, that the LORD [h]did bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt by their armies.

however commanded to wander in the wilderness during that length of time for the wisest purposes. They were by this means gradually inured to war, and prepared for obtaining possession of the promised land—they were not in so much danger of relapsing into idolatry—the old generation, which had been corrupted by Egyptian superstition, would have died away—and the rising generation, supported by continued miracles, would be trained up in obedience to the God of their fathers.—Burnet's Boyle's Lecture, vol. ii. p. 193.

[5] And it was told the king of Egypt that the people fled; and [g]the heart of Pharaoh and of his servants was turned against the people, and they said, "Why have we done this, that we have let Israel go from serving us?" (19) Idolatry, in its grossest and most odious forms, had not been long established in Egypt prior to the time of the Exodus. The Egyptians, that is, the ancient Misraim, who received the people with great kindness, and whom the Israelites were therefore directed to consider with esteem and gratitude, do not appear to have been idolators of this description in the time of Joseph. It is not improbable that the preaching of Abraham might have had great effect, and preserved the Misraim from the surrounding contagion. They were for a long time patriarchal Monotheists. The wonderful miracles wrought among them by Moses, the destruction of their army and their sovereign in the Red Sea, and the final expulsion, by the native Misraim, of the shepherd kings who had introduced idolatry, contributed, in spite of the absurdities which characterized the superstitions of Egypt, to perpetuate those juster notions of a Deity, which are collected by Cudworth, in his Intellectual System, and alluded to by Witsius (Ægyptiaca, lib. i. c. 2, 3, 4, &c.) The oppressors of the Israelites were not the native Misraim, but the shepherd kings; the history of whom has given rise to so much discussion. The following brief outline of their history will illustrate the part of the sacred narrative which we are now considering.

The Hursos, or shepherd kings, originally settled, after the dispersion from Babel, near the Indian Caucasus; from whence they descended to Babylonia. About the time of the death of Serug, they left their settlements in that province, and, proceeding round the Arabian desert, invaded Canaan from the north. There they left colonies, which, in subsequent ages, were known as the maritime Phœnicians, the Rephaim, the Perizzim, &c. At length they invaded Egypt, where they made Avaris, or Goshen, their chief residence. This event took place six years before the birth of Abraham. Abimelech is supposed to have been a feudatory chief of this race: after the conference with Abraham, he returned to Avaris. The shepherd kings were expelled from Egypt by the native Misraim, about fifteen years before Joseph was sold into Egypt; and the province of Goshen, which was thus left vacant, was assigned to the family of Jacob, in the second year of the famine. So did the providence of God render the contests of nations, and the ambition of their princes, subservient to the welfare of the visible Church.

The shepherd kings, however, were not to be diverted from their designs. About thirty-seven years after the death of Joseph, they again invade Egypt, and reduce at once to servitude the native Misraim, and the Israelites. They establish idolatry in its most odious forms; build the pyramids; destroy the infants of the Israelites: and, after enduring the ten plagues before they release their slaves from bondage, they are overwhelmed in the Red Sea; a terrible monument to their kindred in Palestine of the power of the God of Israel. So much were they weakened by this calamity, that the remainder were soon expelled by the native Misraim; and under the guidance of Cadmus, Danaus, Cecrops, and others, retired to Greece, Phœnicia, Colchis, and other places.—See Faber's Origin of Pagan Idolatry, book vi. chap. 5. "On the Shepherd Kings of Egypt."

Pi-hahiroth to Marah.

SECTION V.—The Fourth Journey—From Pi-hahiroth, through the Red Sea and the Wilderness of Etham, or Shur, to Marah;—Moses' Song.

NUM. xxxiii. 8.—EXOD. xiv. 19, to the end, and xv. 1–21.

The cloud removeth behind the camp. 21 The Israelites pass through the Red Sea, 23 which drowneth the Egyptians. — Chap. xv. 1 Moses' Song.

[8] AND they departed from before Pi-hahiroth, and passed through the midst of the sea into the wilderness, and went three days' journey in the wilderness of Etham, and pitched in Marah.

[19] And [a]the Angel of God, which went before the camp of Israel, removed and went behind them; and the pillar of the cloud went from before their face, and stood behind them: [20] and it came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel; [b]and it was a cloud and darkness to them, but it gave light by night to these; so that the one came not near the other all the night. [21] And Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and [c]the LORD caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all that night, and [d]made the sea dry land, and the waters were [e]divided. [22] And [f]the children of Israel went into the midst of the sea upon the dry ground: and the waters were [g]a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left.

[23] And the Egyptians pursued, and went in after them to the midst of the sea, even all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots, and his horsemen. And it came to pass, that in the morning watch [h]the LORD looked unto the host of the Egyptians through the pillar of fire and of the cloud, and troubled the host of the Egyptians, [25] and took off their chariot wheels, *that they drave them heavily; so that the Egyptians said, "Let us flee from the face of Israel, for the LORD fighteth for them against the Egyptians."

[26] And the LORD said unto Moses, "Stretch out thy hand over the sea, that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots, and upon their horsemen." [27] And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and the sea [i]returned to his strength when the morning appeared; and the Egyptians fled against it, and the LORD †overthrew the Egyptians in the midst of the sea. [28] And [j]the waters returned, and [k]covered the chariots, and the horsemen, and all the host of Pharaoh that came into the sea after them; there remained not so much as one of them. [29] But [l]the children of Israel walked upon dry land in the midst of the sea; and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left.

[30] Thus the LORD [m]saved Israel that day out of the hand of the Egyptians; and Israel [n]saw the Egyptians dead upon the sea shore. [31] And Israel saw that great ‡work which the LORD did upon the Egyptians; and the people feared the LORD, and [o]believed the LORD, and his servant Moses.

[4] Pharaoh's chariots and his host hath he cast into the sea:
His chosen captains also are drowned in the Red Sea.
[5] The depths have covered them:
They [w]sank into the bottom as a stone.
[6] Thy [x]right hand, O LORD! is become glorious in power:
Thy right hand, O LORD! hath dashed in pieces the enemy.
[7] And in the greatness of thine [y]excellency
Thou hast overthrown them that rose up against thee:
Thou sentest forth thy wrath, which [z]consumed them as stubble.
[8] And [a]with the blast of thy nostrils the waters were gathered together,
The [b]floods stood upright as a heap,
And the depths were congealed in the heart of the sea.
[9] The [c]enemy said, I will pursue,
I will overtake, I will [d]divide the spoil;
My lust shall be satisfied upon them;
I will draw my sword, my hand shall *destroy them.
[10] Thou didst [e]blow with thy wind—the sea covered them:
They sank as lead in the mighty waters.
[11] Who [f]is like unto thee, O LORD! among the †gods?
Who is like thee, [g]glorious in holiness,
Fearful in praises, [h]doing wonders?
[12] Thou stretchedst out thy right hand—the earth swallowed them.
[13] Thou in thy mercy [i]hast led forth the people which thou hast redeemed:
Thou hast guided them in thy strength unto [j]thy holy habitation.
[14] "The [k]people shall hear, and be afraid:
Sorrow [l]shall take hold on the inhabitants of Palestina.
[15] Then [m]the dukes of Edom shall be amazed;
The [n]mighty men of Moab—trembling shall take hold upon them,
All [o]the inhabitants of Canaan shall melt away.
[16] Fear [p]and dread shall fall upon them;
By the greatness of thine arm they shall be as still as a stone;
Till thy people pass over, O LORD!
Till the people pass over, [q]which thou hast purchased.
[17] Thou shalt bring them in,
And [r]plant them in the mountain of thine inheritance,
In the place, O LORD! which thou hast made for thee to dwell in,
In the [s]Sanctuary, O LORD! which thy hands have established.
[18] The [t]LORD shall reign for ever and ever."

[19] For the [u]horse of Pharaoh went in with his chariots and with his horsemen into the sea, and the LORD brought again the waters of the sea upon them; but the children of Israel went on dry land in the midst of the sea.

[20] And Miriam the prophetess, the [v]sister of Aaron, [w]took a timbrel in her hand; and all the women went out after her with timbrels and with dances. [21] And Miriam [x]answered them,—

"Sing ye to the LORD, for he hath triumphed gloriously;

[1] And they took their journey from Elim, and all the congregation of the children of Israel came unto the wilderness of [a]Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month after their departing out of the land of Egypt. [2] And the whole congregation of the children of Israel [b]murmured against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness. [3] And the children of Israel said unto them, "Would [c]to God we had died by the hand of the Lord in the land of Egypt, [d]when we sat by the flesh pots, and when we did eat bread to the full; for ye have brought us forth into this wilderness, to kill this whole assembly with hunger."

[8] And Moses said, "This shall be, when the Lord shall give you in the evening flesh to eat, and in the morning bread to the full; for that the Lord heareth your murmurings which ye murmur against him: and what are we? your murmurings are not against us, but [k]against the Lord."

murmurings of the children of Israel: speak unto them, saying, At even ye shall eat flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread; and ye shall know that I am the LORD your God."

[13] And it came to pass, that at even [n]the quails came up, and covered the camp; and in the morning [o]the dew lay round about the host. [14] And when the dew that lay was gone up, behold, upon the face of the wilderness there lay [p]a small round thing, as small as the hoar frost on the ground. [15] And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, "†It is manna:" for they wist not what it was. And Moses said unto them, "This [q]is the bread which the LORD hath given you to eat. [16] This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, Gather of it every man according to his eating, an omer ‡for every man, according to the number of your *persons; take ye every man for them which are in his tents." [17] And the children of Israel did so, and gathered, some more, some less. [18] And when they did mete it with an omer, [r]he that gathered much had nothing over, and he that gathered little had no lack; they gathered every man according to his eating. [19] And Moses said, "Let no man leave of it till the morning." [20] Notwithstanding they hearkened not unto Moses, but some of them [s]left of it until the morning, and it bred worms, and stank; and Moses was wroth with them. [21] And they gathered it every morning, every man according to his eating; and when the sun waxed hot, it melted.

[22] And it came to pass, that on the sixth day they gathered twice as much bread, two omers for one man; and all the rulers of the congregation came and told Moses. [23] And he said unto them, "This is that which the LORD hath said, 'To-morrow is the rest of the holy Sabbath unto the LORD:' bake that which ye will bake to-day, and seethe that ye will seethe; and that which remaineth over lay up for you to be kept until the morning." [24] And they laid it up till the morning, as Moses bade: and it did not stink, neither was there any worm therein. [25] And Moses said, "Eat that to-day, for to-day is a Sabbath unto the LORD; to-day ye shall not find it in the field. [26] Six [t]days ye shall gather it; but on the seventh day, which is the Sabbath, in it there shall be none."

[27] And it came to pass, that there went out some of the people on the seventh day for to gather, and they found none. [28] And the LORD said unto Moses, "How long [u]refuse ye to keep my commandments and my laws? [29] See! for that the LORD hath given you the Sabbath, therefore he giveth you on the sixth day the bread of two days; abide ye every man in his place, let no man go out of his place on the seventh day." [30] So the people rested on the seventh day. [31] And the house of Israel called the name thereof Manna; [v]and it was like coriander seed, white, and the taste of it was like wafers made with honey.

[32] And Moses said, "This is the thing which the LORD commandeth, Fill an omer of it to be kept for your generations; that they may see the bread wherewith I have fed you in the wilderness, when I brought you forth from the land of Egypt." [33] And Moses said unto Aaron, "Take [w]a pot, and put an omer full of manna therein, and lay it up before the LORD, to be kept for your generations." [34] As the LORD commanded Moses, so Aaron laid it up [x]before the Testimony, to be kept. [35] And the children of Israel did eat manna [y]forty years, until they came to a land inhabited; they did eat manna, until they came unto the borders of the land of Canaan. [36] Now an omer is the tenth part of an ephah.

Exod. xvii.—Num. xxxiii. 14.

The people murmur for water at Rephidim. 5 God sendeth Moses for water to the rock in Horeb. 8 Amalek is overcome by the holding up of Moses' hands. 15 Moses buildeth the altar Jehovah-nissi.

[1] And [a]all the congregation of the children of Israel journeyed from the wilderness of Sin, after their journeys, according to the commandment of the Lord, and pitched in Rephidim; and there was no water for the people to drink. [2] Wherefore [b]the people did chide with Moses, and said, "Give us water that we may drink." And Moses said unto them, "Why chide ye with me? wherefore do ye [c]tempt the Lord?" [3] And the people thirsted there for water; and the people [d]murmured against Moses, and said, "Wherefore is this that thou hast brought us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children and our cattle with thirst?"

[4] And Moses [e]cried unto the Lord, saying, "What shall I do unto this people? they be almost ready [f]to stone me." [5] And the Lord said unto Moses, "Go [g]on before the people, and take with thee of the elders of Israel; and thy rod, wherewith [h]thou smotest the river, take in thy hand, and go. [6] Behold, [i]I will stand before thee there upon the rock in Horeb; and thou shalt smite the rock, and there shall come water out of it, that the people may drink." And Moses did so in the sight of the elders of Israel. [7] And he called the name of the place *Massah, and †Meribah, because of the chiding of the children of Israel, and because they tempted the Lord, saying, "Is the Lord among us, or not?"

[8] Then [j]came Amalek, and fought with Israel in Rephidim. [9] And Moses said unto [k]Joshua, "Choose us out men, and go out, fight with Amalek; to-morrow I will stand on the top of the hill with [l]the rod of God in my hand." [10] So Joshua did as Moses had said to him, and fought with Amalek; and Moses, Aaron, and Hur went up to the top of the hill. [11] And it came to pass, when Moses [m]held up his hand, that Israel prevailed; and when he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed. [12] But Moses' hands were heavy; and they took a stone, and put it under him, and he sat thereon; and Aaron and Hur stayed up his hands, the one on the one side, and the other on the other side; and his hands were steady until the going down of the sun. [13] And Joshua discomfited Amalek and his people with the edge of the sword. [14] And the Lord said unto Moses, "Write [n]this for a memorial in a book, and rehearse it in the ears of Joshua; for [o]I will utterly put out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven." [15] And Moses built an altar, and called the name of it ‡Jehovah-nissi; [16] for he said, "*Because †the Lord hath sworn that the Lord will have war with Amalek from generation to generation."

SECTION XI.—The Eleventh Journey—From Rephidim to Sinai;—Giving of the Law.

NUM. xxxiii. 15.—EXOD. xix.

The people come to Sinai. 3 God's message by Moses unto the people out of the mount. 8 The people's answer returned again. 10 The people are prepared against the third day. 12 The mountain must not be touched. 16 The fearful presence of God upon the mount.

[15] AND they departed from Rephidim, and pitched in the wilderness of Sinai.

[1] In the third month, when the children of Israel were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the same day came they into the wilderness of Sinai. [2] For they were departed from [a]Rephidim, and were come to the desert of Sinai, and had pitched in the wilderness; and there Israel camped before [b]the mount. [3] And [c]Moses went up unto God, and the LORD [d]called unto him out of the mountain, saying, "Thus shalt thou say to the house of Jacob, and tell the children of Israel; [4] Ye [e]have seen what I did unto the Egyptians, and how [f]I bare you on eagles' wings, and brought you unto myself. [5] Now [g]therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then [h]ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people; (for [i]all the earth is mine;) [6] and ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests, and a holy nation. These are the words which thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel."

[7] And Moses came and called for the elders of the people, and laid before their faces all these words which the LORD commanded him. [8] And [j]all the people answered together, and said, "All that the LORD hath spoken we will do." And Moses returned the words of the people unto the LORD. [9] And the LORD said unto Moses, "Lo, I come unto thee [k]in a thick cloud, [l]that the people may hear when I speak with thee, [m]and believe thee for ever." And Moses told the words of the people unto the LORD.

[10] And the LORD said unto Moses, "Go unto the people, and [n]sanctify them to-day and to-morrow, and let them [o]wash their clothes, [11] and be ready against the third day; for the third day the LORD [p]will come down in the sight of all the people upon Mount Sinai. [12] And thou shalt set bounds unto the people round about, saying, Take heed to yourselves, that ye go not up into the mount, or touch the border of it; [q]whosoever toucheth the mount shall be surely put to death. [13] There shall not a hand touch it, but he shall surely be stoned, or shot through; whether it be beast or man, it shall not live. When the *trumpet soundeth long, they shall come up to the mount."

[14] And Moses went down from the mount unto the people, and sanctified the people; and they washed their clothes. [15] And he said unto the people, "Be ready against the third day: [r]come not at your wives."

[16] And it came to pass on the third day in the morning, that there were [s]thunders and lightnings, and [t]a thick cloud upon the mount, and the [u]voice of the trumpet exceeding loud;(20) so that all the people that was in the camp [v]trembled. [17] And [w]Moses brought forth the people out of the camp to meet with God; and they stood at the nether part of the mount. [18] And [x]Mount Sinai was altogether on a smoke, because the LORD descended upon it [y]in fire; [z]and the smoke thereof ascended as the smoke of a furnace, and [a]the whole mount quaked greatly.

(20) The glory of the Angel Jehovah, which was now seen, was the same as that in which he had frequently appeared: and it is by no means improbable (as his future appearance at the close of the present dispensation is uniformly described, as a manifestation of himself in a human form,) that he will again come in the same Shechinah, the glory of the Lord, as when he was then seen by the elders of Israel. Vide Mede's 15th Epistle, (Works, b. iv. p. 762.) On the Great Day of Judgment; Scott's Christian Life, 9th edit. folio, p. 526; Lowman On the Shechinah.

[19] And when the voice of the trumpet sounded long, and waxed louder and louder, [b]Moses spake, and [c]God answered him by a voice. [20] And the LORD came down upon Mount Sinai, on the top of the mount: and the LORD called Moses up to the top of the mount; and Moses went up. [21] And the LORD said unto Moses, "Go down, †charge the people, lest they break through unto the Lord [d]to gaze, and many of them perish. [22] And let the priests also, which come near to the LORD, [e]sanctify themselves, lest the LORD [f]break forth upon them." [23] And Moses said unto the LORD, "The people cannot come up to Mount Sinai; for thou chargedst us, saying, 'Set [g]bounds about the mount, and sanctify it.'" [24] And the LORD said unto him, "Away, get thee down, and thou shalt come up, thou, and Aaron with thee; but let not the priests and the people break through to come up unto the LORD, lest he break forth upon them." [25] So Moses went down unto the people, and spake unto them.

EXOD. XX.

The ten commandments. 18 The people are afraid. 20 Moses comforteth them. 22 Idolatry is forbidden. 24 Of what sort the altar should be.

[1] AND God spake all these words, saying,—

[2] "I [a]am the LORD thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, [b]out of the house of *bondage.

[3] "Thou [c]shalt have no other gods before me.

[4] "Thou [d]shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth. [5] Thou [e]shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them; for I the LORD thy God am [f]a jealous God, [g]visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me; [6] and [h]showing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

[7] "Thou [i]shalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain; for the LORD [j]will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

[8] "Remember [k]the Sabbath day, to keep it holy. [9] Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work; [10] but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor [l]thy stranger that is within thy gates. [11] For in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day; wherefore the LORD blessed the Sabbath day and hallowed it.

[12] "Honor [m]thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long upon the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

[13] "Thou [n]shalt not kill.

[14] "Thou [o]shalt not commit adultery.

[15] "Thou [p]shalt not steal.

[17] "Thou [r]shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, [s]thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's."

[18] And all the people saw the thunderings, and the lightnings, and the noise of the trumpet, and the mountain smoking; and when the people saw it, they removed, and stood afar off. [19] And they said unto Moses, "Speak [t]thou with us, and we will hear; but [u]let not God speak with us, lest we die." [20] And Moses said unto the people, "Fear not; for [v]God is come to prove you, and [w]that his fear may be before your faces, that ye sin not."

EXOD. XXIV.

Moses is called up into the mountain. 3 The people promise obedience. 4 Moses buildeth an altar, and twelve pillars. 6 He sprinkleth the blood of the covenant. 9 The glory of God appeareth. 14 Aaron and Hur have the charge of the people. 15 Moses goeth into the mountain, where he continueth forty days and forty nights.

[1] AND He said unto Moses, "Come up unto the LORD, thou, and Aaron, [a]Nadab, and Abihu, [b]and seventy of the elders of Israel; and worship ye afar off. [2] And Moses alone shall come near the Lord; but they shall not come nigh; neither shall the people go up with him."

[3] And Moses came and told the people all the words of the Lord, and all the judgments; and all the people answered with one voice, and said, "All [c]the words which the Lord hath said will we do." [4] And Moses [d]wrote all the words of the Lord, and rose up early in the morning, and builded an altar under the hill, and twelve [e]pillars, according to the twelve tribes of Israel. [5] And he sent young men of the children of Israel, which offered burnt offerings, and sacrificed peace offerings of oxen unto the Lord. [6] And Moses [f]took half of the blood, and put it in basons; and half of the blood he sprinkled on the altar. [7] And he took the book of the covenant, and read in the audience of the people; and they said, "All that the Lord hath said will we do, and be obedient." [8] And Moses took the blood, and sprinkled it on the people, and said, "Behold [g]the blood of the covenant, which the Lord hath made with you concerning all these words!"

[9] Then went up Moses, and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel. [10] And they [h]saw the God of Israel; and there was under his feet, as it were, a paved work of a [i]sapphire stone, and, as it were, the [j]body of heaven in his clearness! [11] And upon the nobles of the children of Israel he laid not his hand; also [k]they saw God, and [l]did eat and drink.

[12] And the Lord said unto Moses, "Come up to me into the mount, and be there; and I will give thee [m]tables of stone, and a law, and commandments which I have written, that thou mayest teach them." [13] And Moses rose up, and [n]his minister Joshua: and Moses went up into the mount of God. [14] And he said unto the elders, "Tarry ye here for us, until we come again unto you; and, behold, Aaron and Hur are with you: if any man have any matters to do, let him come unto them."

[15] And Moses went up into the mount, and [o]a cloud covered the mount. [16] And [p]the glory of the Lord abode upon Mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it six days; and the seventh day he called unto Moses out of the midst of the cloud. [17] And the sight of the glory of the Lord was like [q]devouring fire on the top of the mount in the eyes of the children of Israel. [18] And Moses went into the midst of the cloud, and gat him up into the mount; and [r]Moses was in the mount forty days and forty nights.

(21) The institutions of the Levitical Law closely resemble, in many particulars, the religious ceremonial in use among the Gentiles. The numerous coincidences mentioned by Spencer, in his treatise De Legibus Hebræorum, show that this resemblance is not accidental, but arbitrary and systematic.

This apparent identity has been accounted for in three ways. The first theory is, that the religion of the Jews was borrowed from that of the Gentiles: this hypothesis was maintained by Maimonides, Marsham, Spencer, and Warburton; and is strenuously opposed by Witsius, in his Ægyptiaca. The second theory is, that the ceremonial of the Gentiles was borrowed from that of the Jews; an opinion supported by Gale in his Court of the Gentiles, by Dickenson in his Delphi Phenicizantes, by Stillingfleet in his Origines Sacræ, and others. The third is, that the ancient ceremonial of the pagans, and the Levitical Law of the Jews, were both derived in great measure from the early patriarchal ritual, which at one period was common to all the descendants of Noah. The heathen nations perverted it to idolatry and supergiveth it willingly with his heart ye shall take my offering. [3] And this is the offering which ye shall take of them; gold, and silver, and brass, [4] and blue, and purple, and scarlet, and ‡fine linen, and goats' hair, [5] and rams' skins dyed red, and badgers' skins, and shittim wood, [6] oil [b]for the light, [c]spices for anointing oil, and for [d]sweet incense, [7] onyx stones, and stones to be set in the [e]ephod, and in the [f]breastplate. [8] And let them make me [g]a Sanctuary; that [h]I may dwell among them. [9] According to all that I show thee, after the pattern of the tabernacle, and the pattern of all the instruments thereof, even so shall ye make it.

[10] "And [i]they shall make an Ark of shittim wood: two cubits and a half shall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof. [11] And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, within and without shalt thou overlay it, and shalt make upon it a crown of gold round about. [12] And thou shalt cast four rings of gold for it, and put them in the four corners thereof; and two rings shall be in the one side of it, and two rings in the other side of it. [13] And thou shalt make staves of shittim wood, and overlay them with gold. [14] And thou shalt put the staves into the rings by the sides of the ark, that the ark may be borne with them. [15] The [j]staves shall be in the rings of the ark; they shall not be taken from it. [16] And thou shalt put into the ark [k]the testimony which I shall give thee. [17] And [l]thou shalt make a mercy seat of pure gold; two cubits and a half shall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof. [18] And thou shalt make two cherubim of gold, of beaten work shalt thou make them, in the two ends of the mercy seat. [19] And make one cherub on the one end, and the other cherub on the other end; even *of the mercy seat shall ye make the cherubim on the two ends thereof. [20] And [m]the cherubim shall stretch forth their wings on high, covering the mercy seat with their wings, and their faces shall look one to another; toward the mercy seat shall the faces of the cherubim be. [21] And [n]thou shalt put the mercy seat above upon the ark; and in the ark thou shalt put the testimony that I shall give thee. [22] And [o]there I will meet with thee, and I will commune with thee from above the mercy seat, from [p]between the two cherubim which are upon the ark of the testimony, of all things which I will give thee in commandment unto the children of Israel.

[23] "Thou [q]shalt also make a Table of shittim wood; two cubits shall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof. [24] And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, and make thereto a crown of gold round about. [25] And thou shalt make unto it a border of a hand breadth round about, and thou shalt make a golden crown to the border thereof round about. [26] And thou shalt make for it four rings of gold, and put the rings in the four corners that are on the four feet thereof. [27] Over against the border shall the rings be for places of the staves to bear the table. stition, the Jews received it in a new form and with more solemn sanctions from Moses; who was divinely inspired to alter, reform, add to, or take away from it, as was most suitable to the genius of the people, the object of Providence, the customs of the surrounding nations, or the accomplishment of his various designs, as the legislator and judge of Israel. This theory, which is espoused by Calmet, and strenuously defended by Faber (Origin of Pagan Idol. vol. iii. p. 630, &c.), appears to be by far the most consistent and correct; and it solves nearly all the phenomena. Many of the laws and customs of the Hindoos, who are the most ancient nation on earth, except perhaps the Jews and Chinese, are the same which prevailed among the family of Abraham, before the institution of the Levitical Law; and they coincide with several arbitrary enactments of the Law of Moses, which were derived from that source. Vide, in addition to the above authorities, Calmet, art. Ceremonies, and Fragments, No. 85; Ward On the Hindoos; Michaelis' Comment. vol. i. p. 9, &c.

Exod. xxx. and xxxi.

The altar of incense. 11 The ransom of souls. 17 The brazen laver. 22 The holy anointing oil. 34 The composition of the perfume. — Chap. xxxi. 1 Bezaleel and Aholiab are called and made meet for the work of the tabernacle. 12 The observation of the Sabbath is again commanded. 18 Moses receiveth the two tables.

[1] "And thou shalt make [a]an Altar to burn incense upon; of shittim wood shalt thou make it. [2] A cubit shall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof; foursquare shall it be; and two cubits shall be the height thereof; the horns thereof shall be of the same. [3] And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, the *top thereof, and the †sides thereof round about, and the horns thereof; and thou shalt make unto it a crown of gold round about. [4] And two golden rings shalt thou make to it under the crown of it, by the two ‡corners thereof, upon the two sides of it shalt thou make it; and they shall be for places for the staves to bear it withal. [5] And thou shalt make the staves of shittim wood, and overlay them with gold. [6] And thou shalt put it before the veil that is by the ark of the testimony, before the [b]mercy seat that is over the testimony, where I will meet with thee. [7] And Aaron shall burn thereon *sweet incense every morning; when [c]he dresseth the lamps, he shall burn incense upon it. [8] And when Aaron †lighteth the lamps ‡at even, he shall burn incense upon it, a perpetual incense before the Lord throughout your generations. [9] Ye shall offer no [d]strange incense thereon, nor burnt sacrifice, nor meat offering; neither shall ye pour drink offering thereon. [10] And [e]Aaron shall make an atonement upon the horns of it once in a year with the blood of the sin offering of atonements; once in the year shall he make atonement upon it throughout your generations: it is most holy unto the Lord."

[11] And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, [12] "When [f]thou takest the sum of the children of Israel after *their number, then shall they give every man [g]a ransom for his soul unto the Lord, when thou numberest them; that there be no [h]plague among them, when thou numberest them. Section XVIII.—Aaron makes the Golden Calf;—The First Tables of the Law broken;—Transactions in consequence.

Exod. xxxii. and xxxiii.

The people, in the absence of Moses, cause Aaron to make a calf. 7 God is angered thereby. 11 At the entreaty of Moses he is appeased. 15 Moses cometh down with the tables. 19 He breaketh them. 20 He destroyeth the calf. 22 Aaron's excuse for himself. 25 Moses causeth the idolators to be slain. 30 He prayeth for the people. — Chap. xxxiii. 1 The Lord refuseth to go as he had promised with the people. 4 The people murmur thereat. 7 The tabernacle is removed out of the camp. 9 The Lord talketh familiarly with Moses. 12 Moses desireth to see the glory of God.

[1] And when the people saw that Moses [a]delayed to come down out of the mount, the people gathered themselves together unto Aaron, and said unto him, "Up! [b]make us gods, which shall [c]go before us; for as for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him." [2] And Aaron said unto them, "Break off the [d]golden earrings, which are in the ears of your wives, of your sons, and of your daughters, and bring them unto me." [3] And all the people brake off the golden earrings which were in their ears, and brought them unto Aaron. [4] And [e]he received them at their hand, and fashioned it with a graving tool, after he had made it a molten calf; and they said, "These be thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt!" [5] And when Aaron saw it, he built an altar before it; and Aaron made [f]proclamation, and said, "To-morrow is a feast to the Lord." [6] And they rose up early on the morrow, and offered burnt offerings, and brought peace offerings; [g]and the people sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play.

[7] And the Lord said unto Moses, "Go, [h]get thee down; for thy people, which thou broughtest out of the land of Egypt, [i]have corrupted themselves; [8] they have turned aside quickly out of the way which [j]I commanded them; they have made them a molten calf, and have worshipped it, and have sacrificed thereunto, and said, 'These [k]be thy gods, O Israel, which have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.'" [9] And the Lord said unto Moses, "I [l]have seen this people, and, behold, it is a stiff-necked people. [10] Now therefore let me alone, [m]that my wrath may wax hot against them, and that I may consume them; [n]and I will make of thee a great nation."

[11] And [o]Moses besought *the Lord his God, and said, "Lord, why doth thy wrath wax hot against thy people, which thou hast brought forth out of the land of Egypt with great power, and with a mighty hand? [12] Wherefore [p]should the Egyptians speak, and say, For mischief did he bring them out, to slay them in the mountains, and to consume them from the face of the earth? Turn from thy fierce wrath, and repent of this evil against thy people. [13] Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, thy servants, to whom thou [q]swarest by thine own Self, and saidst unto them, 'I [r]will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven, and all this land that I have spoken of will I give unto your seed, and they shall inherit it for ever.'" [14] And the Lord [s]repented of the evil which he thought to do unto his people.

[15] And [t]Moses turned, and went down from the mount, and the two tables of the testimony were in his hand: the tables were written on both their sides; on the one side and on the other were they written. [16] And the [u]tables were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God, graven upon the tables. [17] And when Joshua heard the noise of the people as they shouted, he said unto Moses, "There is a noise of war in the camp." [18] And he said, "It is not the voice of them that shout for mastery, neither is it the voice of them that cry for †being overcome; but the noise of them that sing do I hear."

[19] And it came to pass, as soon as he came nigh unto the camp, that [v]he saw the calf, and the dancing; and Moses' anger waxed hot, and he cast the tables out of his hands, and brake them beneath the mount. [20] And [w]he took the calf which they had made, and burnt it in the fire, and ground it to powder, and strawed it upon the water, and made the children of Israel drink of it. [21] And Moses said unto Aaron, "What [x]did this people unto thee, that thou hast brought so great a sin upon them?" [22] And Aaron said, "Let not the anger of my lord wax hot; [y]thou knowest the people, that they are set on mischief. [23] For they said unto me, 'Make us gods, which shall go before us; for as for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.' [24] And I said unto them, 'Whosoever hath any gold, let them break it off.' So they gave it me; then I cast it into the fire, and there came out this calf."

[25] And when Moses saw that the people were [z]naked, (for Aaron [a]had made them naked unto their shame among ‡their enemies), [26] then Moses stood in the gate of the camp, and said, "Who is on the Lord's side? let him come unto me." And all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together unto him. [27] And he said unto them, "Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Put every man his sword by his side, and go in and out from gate to gate throughout the camp, and [b]slay every man his brother, and every man his companion, and every man his neighbour." [28] And the children of Levi did according to the word of Moses; and there fell of the people that day about three thousand men. [29] *For Moses had said, "†Consecrate yourselves to-day to the Lord, even every man upon his son, and upon his brother; that he may bestow upon you a blessing this day."

[30] And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses said unto the people, "Ye [c]have sinned a great sin; and now I will go up unto the Lord, [d]peradventure I shall make [e]an atonement for your sin." [31] And Moses [f]returned unto the Lord, and said, "Oh! this people have sinned a great sin, and have [g]made them gods of gold! [32] Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin —; and if not, [h]blot me, I pray thee, [i]out of thy book which thou hast written." [33] And the Lord said unto Moses, "Whosoever [j]hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book. [34] Therefore now go, lead the people unto the place of

[1] And the LORD said unto Moses, "Depart, and go up hence, thou [n]and the people which thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt, unto the land which I sware unto Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, (saying, 'Unto [o]thy seed will I give it;' [2] And [p]I will send an Angel before thee, [q]and I will drive out the Canaanite, the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite;) [3] unto [r]a land flowing with milk and honey: for I will not go up in the midst of thee; for thou art [s]a stiff-necked people: lest [t]I consume thee in the way."

[4] And when the people heard these evil tidings, [u]they mourned; [v]and no man did put on him his ornaments. [5] For the LORD had said unto Moses, "Say unto the children of Israel, Ye are a stiff-necked people: [w]I will come up into the midst of thee in a moment, and consume thee; therefore now put off thy ornaments from thee, that I may [x]know what to do unto thee." [6] And the children of Israel stripped themselves of their ornaments by the Mount Horeb.

[7] And Moses took the tabernacle, and pitched it without the camp, afar off from the camp, [y]and called it The Tabernacle of the Congregation. And it came to pass, that every one which [z]sought the LORD went out unto the tabernacle of the congregation, which was without the camp. [8] And it came to pass, when Moses went out unto the tabernacle, that all the people rose up, and stood every man [a]at his tent door, and looked after Moses, until he was gone into the tabernacle.

[9] And it came to pass, as Moses entered into the tabernacle, the cloudy pillar descended, and stood at the door of the tabernacle, and [a]the LORD [b]talked with Moses. [10] And all the people saw the cloudy pillar stand at the tabernacle door; and all the people rose up, and [c]worshipped, every man in his tent door. [11] And [d]the LORD spake unto Moses face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend. And he turned again into the camp; but [e]his servant Joshua, the son of Nun, a young man, departed not out of the tabernacle.

[12] And Moses said unto the LORD, "See! thou sayest unto me, 'Bring up this people;' and thou hast not let me know whom thou wilt send with me. Yet thou hast said, 'I [f]know thee by name, and thou hast also found grace in my sight.' [13] Now therefore, I pray thee, if I have found grace in thy sight, [g]show me now thy way, that I may know thee, that I may find grace in thy sight; [h]and consider that this nation is thy people."

[14] And He said, "My [i]presence shall go with thee, and I will give thee [j]rest."

[15] And he said unto Him, "If thy presence go not with me, carry us not up hence. [16] For wherein shall it be known here that I and thy people have found grace in thy sight? [k]is it not in that Thou goest with us? [l]so shall we be separated, I and thy people, from all the people that are upon the face of the earth."

[17] And the LORD said unto Moses, "I [m]will do this thing also that thou hast spoken: for thou hast found grace in my sight, and I know thee by name."

[18] And he said, "I beseech thee, show me [n]thy glory."

[19] And He said, "I [o]will make all my goodness pass before thee, and I will proclaim the Name of the LORD before thee; [p]and will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and will show mercy on whom I will show mercy." [20] And He said, "Thou canst not see my face; for SECTION XIX.—The Tables of the Law renewed.

EXOD. XXXIV.

The tables are renewed. 5 The name of the Lord proclaimed. 8 Moses entreateth God to go with them. 10 God maketh a covenant with them, repeating certain duties of the first table. 28 Moses after forty days in the mount cometh down with the tables. 29 His face shineth, and he covereth it with a veil.

[1] AND the LORD said unto Moses, "Hew [a]thee two tables of stone like unto the first; [b]and I will write upon these tables the words that were in the first tables, which thou brakest. [2] And be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning unto Mount Sinai, and present thyself there to me [c]in the top of the mount. [3] And no man shall [d]come up with thee, neither let any man be seen throughout all the mount; neither let the flocks nor herds feed before that mount."

[4] And he hewed two tables of stone like unto the first; and Moses rose up early in the morning, and went up unto Mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him, and took in his hand the two tables of stone. [5] And the LORD descended in the cloud, and stood with him there, and [e]proclaimed the name of the LORD. [6] And the LORD passed by before him, and proclaimed, "The LORD, The LORD [f]God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in [g]goodness and [h]truth, [7] keeping [i]mercy for thousands, [j]forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, [k]and that will by no means clear the guilty; visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, and upon the children's children, unto the third and to the fourth generation." [8] And Moses made haste, and [l]bowed his head toward the earth, and worshipped. [9] And he said, "If now I have found grace in thy sight, O Lord! let my Lord, I pray thee, go among us; for it is a stiff-necked people; and pardon our iniquity and our sin, and take us for [m]thine inheritance."

[10] And He said, "Behold, [n]I make a covenant: before all thy people I will [o]do marvels, such as have not been done in all the earth, nor in any nation: and all the people among which thou art shall see the work of the LORD; for it [p]is a terrible thing that I will do with thee. [11] Observe [q]thou that which I command thee this day: behold, I drive out before thee the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite. [12] Take [r]heed to thyself, lest thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land whither thou goest, lest it be for a snare in the midst of thee. [13] But ye shall [s]destroy their altars, break their [*]images, and [t]cut down their groves. [14] For thou shalt worship [u]no other god, (for the LORD, whose [v]name is Jealous, is a [w]jealous God,) [15] lest thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land, and they [x]go a whoring after their gods, and do sacrifice unto their gods, and one [y]call thee, and thou [z]eat of his sacrifice; [16] and thou take of [a]their daughters unto thy sons, and their daughters [b]go a whoring after their gods, and make thy sons go a whoring after their gods. [17] Thou [c]shalt make thee no molten gods.

[18] "The feast of [d]Unleavened Bread shalt thou keep. Seven days thou shalt eat unleavened bread, as I commanded thee, in the time of the month Abib; for in the month [e]Abib thou camest out from Egypt. [19] All [f]that openeth the matrix is mine; and every firstling among thy cattle, whether ox or sheep, that is male. [20] But [g]the firstling of an ass

[27] And the LORD said unto Moses, "Write thou [s]these words; for after the tenor of these words I have made a covenant with thee and with Israel." [28] And [t]he was there with the LORD forty days and forty nights; he did neither eat bread, nor drink water. And [u]he wrote upon the tables the words of the covenant, the ten *commandments.

[29] And it came to pass, when Moses came down from Mount Sinai with the [v]two tables of testimony in Moses' hand, when he came down from the mount, that Moses wist not that [w]the skin of his face shone while he talked with Him. [30] And when Aaron and all the children of Israel saw Moses, behold, the skin of his face shone! and they were afraid to come nigh him. [31] And Moses called unto them, and Aaron and all the rulers of the congregation returned unto him; and Moses talked with them. [32] And afterward all the children of Israel came nigh: [x]and he gave them in commandment all that the LORD had spoken with him in Mount Sinai. [33] And till Moses had done speaking with them, he put [y]a veil on his face. [34] But when Moses went in before the LORD to speak with him, he took the veil off, until he came out. And he came out, and spake unto the children of Israel that which he was commanded. [35] And the children of Israel saw the face of Moses, that the skin of Moses' face shone; and Moses put the veil upon his face again, until he went in to speak with Him.

[1] AND Moses gathered all the congregation of the children of Israel together, and said unto them, "These [a]are the words which the LORD hath commanded, that ye should do them. [4] And Moses spake unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, saying, "This [d]is the thing which the Lord commanded, saying, [5] 'Take ye from among you an offering unto the Lord, (whosoever [e]is of a willing heart, let him bring it, an offering of the Lord,) gold, and silver, and brass, [6] and blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine linen, and goats' hair, [7] and rams' skins dyed red, and badgers' skins, and shittim wood, [8] and oil for the light, [f]and spices for anointing oil, and for the sweet incense, [9] and onyx stones, and stones to be set for the ephod, and for the breastplate. [10] And [g]every wise-hearted among you shall come, and make all that the Lord hath commanded; [11] the [h]tabernacle, his tent, and his covering, his taches, and his boards, his bars, his pillars, and his sockets, [12] the [i]ark, and the staves thereof, with the mercy seat, and the veil of the covering, [13] the [j]table, and his staves, and all his vessels, [k]and the show-bread, [14] the [l]candlestick also for the light, and his furniture, and his lamps, with the oil for the light, [15] and [m]the incense altar, and his staves, [n]and the anointing oil, and [o]the sweet incense, and the hanging for the door at the entering in of the tabernacle. [16] The [p]altar of burnt offering, with his brazen grate, his staves, and all his vessels, the laver and his foot, [17] the [q]hangings of the court, his pillars, and their sockets, and the hanging for the door of the court, [18] the pins of the tabernacle, and the pins of the court, and their cords, [19] the [r]cloths of service, to do service in the holy place, the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, to minister in the priest's office.' "

[20] And all the congregation of the children of Israel departed from the presence of Moses. [21] And they came, (every one [s]whose heart stirred him up, and every one whom his spirit made willing), and they brought the Lord's offering to the work of the tabernacle of the congregation, and for all his service, and for the holy garments. [22] And they came (both men and women, as many as were willing-hearted), and brought bracelets, and earrings, and rings, and tablets, all jewels of gold: and every man that offered offered an offering of gold unto the Lord. [23] And [t]every man, with whom was found blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine linen, and goats' hair, and red skins of rams, and badgers' skins, brought them. [24] Every one that did offer an offering of silver and brass brought the Lord's offering; and every man, with whom was found shittim wood for any work of the service, brought it. [25] And all the women that were [u]wise-hearted did spin with their hands, and brought that which they had spun, both of blue, and of purple, and of scarlet, and of fine linen. [26] And all the women whose heart stirred them up in wisdom spun goats' hair. [27] And [v]the rulers brought onyx stones, and stones to be set, for the ephod, and for the breastplate; [28] and [w]spice, and oil for the light, and for the anointing oil, and for the sweet incense. [29] The children of Israel brought a [x]willing offering unto the Lord, every man and woman, whose heart made them willing to bring for all manner of work, which the Lord had commanded to be made by the hand of Moses.

[30] And Moses said unto the children of Israel, "See! [y]the Lord hath called by name Bezaleel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah; [31] and he hath filled him with the Spirit of God, in wisdom, in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship; [32] and to devise curious works, to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass, [33] and in the cutting of stones, to set them, and in carving of wood, to make any manner of cunning work. loops made he in the edge of the curtain which was in the coupling of the second: the loops held one curtain to another. [13] And he made fifty taches of gold, and coupled the curtains one unto another with the taches: so it became one tabernacle.

i Ex. 26. 7. [14] And [i]he made curtains of goats' hair for the tent over the tabernacle:
eleven curtains he made them. [15] The length of one curtain was thirty cubits, and four cubits was the breadth of one curtain: the eleven curtains were of one size. [16] And he coupled five curtains by themselves, and six curtains by themselves. [17] And he made fifty loops upon the uttermost edge of the curtain in the coupling, and fifty loops made he upon the edge of the curtain which coupleth the second. [18] And he made fifty taches of brass to couple the tent together, that it might be one.
j Ex. 26. 14, 15. [19] And [j]he made a covering for the tent of rams' skins dyed red, and a covering of badgers' skins above that.

[20] And he made boards for the tabernacle of shittim wood, standing up. [21] The length of a board was ten cubits, and the breadth of a board one cubit and a half. [22] One board had two tenons, equally distant one from another: thus did he make for all the boards of the tabernacle.
[23] And he made boards for the tabernacle; twenty boards for the south side southward. [24] And forty sockets of silver he made under the twenty boards; two sockets under one board for his two tenons, and two sockets under another board for his two tenons. [25] And for the other side of the tabernacle, which is toward the north corner, he made twenty boards, [26] and their forty sockets of silver; two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board. [27] And for the sides of the tabernacle westward he made six boards. [28] And two boards made he for the corners of the tabernacle in the two sides. [29] And they were † Heb. twined. †coupled beneath, and coupled together at the head thereof, to one ring:

thus he did to both of them in both the corners. [30] And there were ‡ Heb. two sockets, two sockets under one board. eight boards; and their sockets were sixteen sockets of silver, ‡under every board two sockets.

k Ex. 26. 26. [31] And he made [k]bars of shittim wood; five for the boards of the one side of the tabernacle, [32] and five bars for the boards of the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the tabernacle for the sides westward. [33] And he made the middle bar to shoot through the boards from the one end to the other. [34] And he overlaid the boards with gold, and made their rings of gold to be places for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.

l Ex. 26. 31. [35] And he made [l]a veil of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine-twined linen: with cherubim made he it of cunning work. [36] And he made thereunto four pillars of shittim wood, and overlaid them with gold:
their hooks were of gold; and he cast for them four sockets of silver.

m Ex. 26. 36. [37] And he made [m]a hanging for the tabernacle door of blue, and and a half was the length of it, and a cubit and a half the breadth of it, and a cubit and a half the height of it. [2] And he overlaid it with pure gold within and without, and made a crown of gold to it round about. [3] And he cast for it four rings of gold, to be set by the four corners of it; even two rings upon the one side of it, and two rings upon the other side of it. [4] And he made staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them with gold. [5] And he put the staves into the rings by the sides of the ark, to bear the ark.

o Ex. 25. 17. [6] And he made the [o]mercy seat of pure gold: two cubits and a half was the length thereof, and one cubit and a half the breadth thereof.

p See Ex. 25. 23. [10] And he made [p]the table of shittim wood: two cubits was the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof. [11] And he overlaid it with pure gold, and made thereunto a crown of gold round about. [12] Also he made thereunto a border of a hand breadth round about; and made a crown of gold for the border thereof round about. [13] And he cast for it four rings of gold, and put the rings upon the four corners that were in the four feet thereof.
[14] Over against the border were the rings, the places for the staves to bear the table. [15] And he made the staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them with gold, to bear the table. [16] And he made the vessels which

r Ex. 25. 31. [17] And he made the [r]candlestick of pure gold: of beaten work made he the candlestick; his shaft, and his branch, his bowls, his knops, and his flowers, were of the same. [18] And six branches going out of the sides thereof; three branches of the candlestick out of the one side thereof, and three branches of the candlestick out of the other side thereof.
[19] Three bowls made after the fashion of almonds in one branch, a knop and a flower; and three bowls made like almonds in another branch, a knop and a flower: so throughout the six branches going out of the candlestick. [20] And in the candlestick were four bowls made like almonds, his knops, and his flowers; [21] and a knop under two branches of the same, and a knop under two branches of the same, and a knop under two branches of the same, according to the six branches going out of it. [22] Their knops and their branches were of the same; all of it was one beaten work of pure gold. [23] And he made his seven lamps, and his snuffers, and his snuffdishes, of pure gold. [24] Of a talent of pure gold made he it, and all the vessels thereof.

s Ex. 30. 1. [25] And [s]he made the incense altar of shittim wood: the length of it was a cubit, and the breadth of it a cubit; it was foursquare; and two cubits was the height of it; the horns thereof were of the same. [26] And he overlaid it with pure gold, both the top of it, and the sides thereof round about, and the horns of it; also he made unto it a crown of gold round about. [27] And he made two rings of gold for it under the crown thereof, by the two corners of it, upon the two sides thereof, to be places for the staves to bear it withal. [28] And he made the staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them with gold.

t Ex. 30. 23, 34. [29] And he made [t]the holy anointing oil, and the pure incense of sweet spices, according to the work of the apothecary.

u Ex. 27. 1. [1] And [u]he made the altar of burnt offering of shittim wood: five cubits was the length thereof, and five cubits the breadth thereof; it was foursquare; and three cubits the height thereof. [2] And he made the horns thereof on the four corners of it, (the horns thereof were of the same); and he overlaid it with brass. [3] And he made all the vessels of the altar, the pots, and the shovels, and the basons, and the flesh-hooks, and the firepans: all the vessels thereof made he of brass. [4] And he made for the altar a brazen grate of network under the compass thereof beneath unto the midst of it. [5] And he cast four rings for the four ends of the grate of brass, to be places for the staves. [6] And he made the staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them with brass. [7] And he put the staves into the rings on the sides of the altar, to bear it withal; he made the altar hollow with boards. Exod. xxxviii.

w Ex. 27. 9. [9] And he made [w]the court. On the South side southward the hangings of the court were of fine-twined linen, an hundred cubits. [10] Their pillars were twenty, and their brazen sockets twenty; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets were of silver. [11] And for the North side the hangings were an hundred cubits, their pillars were twenty, and their sockets of brass twenty; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of silver. [12] And for the West side were hangings of fifty cubits, their pillars ten, and their sockets ten; the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets of silver. [13] And for the East side eastward fifty cubits. [14] The hangings of the one side of the gate were fifteen cubits; their pillars three, and their sockets three. [15] And for the other side of the court gate, on this hand and that hand, were hangings of fifteen cubits; their pillars three, and their sockets three. [16] All the hangings of the court round about were of fine-twined linen. [17] And the sockets for the pillars were of brass; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of silver; and the overlaying of their chapiters of silver; and all the pillars of the court were filleted with silver. [18] And the hanging for the gate of the court was needlework, of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine-twined linen; and twenty cubits was the length, and the height in the breadth was five cubits, answerable to the hangings of the court. [19] And their pillars were four, and their sockets of brass four; their hooks of silver, and the overlaying of their chapiters and their fillets of silver. [20] And all the [z]pins of the tabernacle, and of the court round about, were of brass.

[21] This is the sum of the tabernacle, even of [y]the tabernacle of testimony, as it was counted, according to the commandment of Moses, for the service of the Levites, [z]by the hand of Ithamar, son to Aaron the priest. [22] And [a]Bezaleel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that the Lord commanded Moses. [23] And with him was Aholiab, son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver, and a cunning workman, and an embroiderer in blue, and in purple, and in scarlet, and fine linen.

[24] All the gold that was occupied for the work in all the work of the holy place, even the gold of the offering, was twenty and nine talents, and seven hundred and thirty shekels, after [b]the shekel of the sanctuary. [25] And the silver of them that were numbered of the congregation was an hundred talents, and a thousand seven hundred and threescore and fifteen shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary. [26] A [c]bekah for *every man, that is, half a shekel, after the shekel of the sanctuary, for every one that went to be numbered, from twenty years old and upward, for [d]six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty men. [27] And of the hundred talents of silver were cast [e]the sockets of the sanctuary, and the sockets of the veil; an hundred sockets of the hundred talents, a talent for a socket. [28] And of the thousand seven hundred seventy and five shekels he made hooks for the pillars, and overlaid their chapiters, and filleted them. [29] And the brass of the offering was seventy talents, and two thousand and four hundred shekels. [30] And therewith he made the sockets to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the brazen altar, and the brazen grate for it, and all the vessels of the altar, [31] and the sockets of the court round about, and the sockets of the court gate, and all the pins of the tabernacle, and all the pins of the court round about.

Exod. xxxix.

[1] And of [f]the blue, and purple, and scarlet, they made [g]cloths of service, to do service in the holy place, and made the holy garments for Aaron; [h]as the Lord commanded Moses. [2] And [i]he made the ephod of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine-twined linen. [3] And they did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wires, to work it in the blue, and in the purple, and in the scarlet, and in the fine linen, with cunning work. [4] They made shoulderpieces for it, to couple it together: by the two edges was it coupled together. [5] And the curious girdle of his ephod, that was upon it, was of the same, according to the work thereof; of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine-twined linen; as the Lord commanded Moses.

[6] And [j]they wrought onyx stones enclosed in ouches of gold, graven, as signets are graven, with the names of the children of Israel. [7] And he put them on the shoulders of the ephod, that they should be stones for a [k]memorial to the children of Israel; as the Lord commanded Moses.

[8] And [l]he made the breastplate of cunning work, like the work of the ephod; of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine-twined linen. [9] It was foursquare; they made the breastplate double: a span was the length thereof, and a span the breadth thereof, being doubled. [10] And [m]they set in it four rows of stones: the first row was a †sardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this was the first row. [11] And the second row, an emerald, a sapphire, and a diamond. [16] And they made two ouches of gold, and two gold rings; and put the two rings in the two ends of the breastplate. [17] And they put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the breastplate. [18] And the two ends of the two wreathen chains they fastened in the two ouches, and put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, before it. [19] And they made two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breastplate, upon the border of it, which was on the side of the ephod inward. [20] And they made two other golden rings, and put them on the two sides of the ephod underneath, toward the forepart of it, over against the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of the ephod. [21] And they did bind the breastplate by his rings unto the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it might be above the curious girdle of the ephod, and that the breastplate might not be loosed from the ephod; as the Lord commanded Moses.

[22] And [n]he made the robe of the ephod of woven work, all of blue. [23] And there was a hole in the midst of the robe, as the hole of a habergeon, with a band round about the hole, that it should not rend. [24] And they made upon the hems of the robe pomegranates of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and twined linen. [25] And they made [o]bells of pure gold, and put the bells between the pomegranates upon the hem of the robe, round about between the pomegranates; [26] a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, round about the hem of the robe to minister in; as the Lord commanded Moses.

(22) It will be impossible in these brief and cursory notes, to point out the peculiar object of each enactment of the Law of Moses. It must be sufficient to remark, that each was intended, either to inculcate the necessity of personal purity and holiness —to typify the future great sacrifice of Christ—to declare the absolute necessity of a vicarious atonement for sin—or to defend the people against the surrounding idolatry, by compelling them to venerate those things which the idolators hated, or to detest those which the idolators adored. The laws of Moses taught the doctrine of a future state, and of admission into a spiritual Eden, by means of the blood of the true Paschal Lamb. It was the schoolmaster to bring the Israelites to Christ; the middle wall of partition to the Jews and Gentiles, which, St. Paul tells us, the Messiah was to break down. The Law of Moses was the standing evidence of the truth of prophecy, of the providence of God, and of the harmony of the divine dispensations; for nothing was taught in the Gospel which had not previously been inculcated by the Law.—Vide The Faith of the ancient Jews, by the Rev. Julius Bate; Lowman On the Hebrew Ritual; the Epistle to the Hebrews; the various commentators on the Levitical Law; Dr. Young's Religion designed to prevent Superstition, an admirable though neglected work.

LEV. V.

[1] "And if a soul sin, [g]and hear the voice of swearing, and is a witness, whether he hath seen or known of it; if he do not utter it, then he shall [h]bear his iniquity. [2] Or [i]if a soul touch any unclean thing, whether it be a carcass of an unclean beast, or a carcass of unclean cattle, or the carcass of unclean creeping things, and if it be hidden from him; he also shall be unclean, and guilty. [3] Or if he touch [j]the uncleanness of man, whatsoever uncleanness it be that a man shall be defiled withal, and it be hid from him; when he knoweth of it, then he shall be guilty. [4] Or if a soul swear, pronouncing with his lips [k]to do evil, or [l]to do good, whatsoever it be that a man shall pronounce with an oath, and it be hid from him; when he knoweth of it, then he shall be guilty in one of these. [5] And it shall be, when he shall be guilty in one of these things, that he shall [m]confess that he hath sinned in that thing. [6] And he shall bring his trespass offering unto the LORD for his sin which he hath sinned, a female from the flock, a lamb or a kid of the goats, for a sin offering; and the priest shall make an atonement for him concerning his sin.

[7] "And if †he be not able to bring a lamb, then he shall bring for his trespass, which he hath committed, two [n]turtledoves, or two young pigeons, unto the LORD; one for a sin offering, and the other for a burnt offering. [12] And the fire upon the altar shall be burning in it; it shall not be put out: and the priest shall burn wood on it every morning, and lay the burnt offering in order upon it; and he shall burn thereon [r]the fat of the peace offerings. [13] The fire shall ever be burning upon the altar; it shall never go out.

[14] "And [s]this is the law of the meat offering: the sons of Aaron shall offer it before the Lord, before the altar. [15] And he shall take of it his handful, of the flour of the meat offering, and of the oil thereof, and all the frankincense which is upon the meat offering, and shall burn it upon the altar for a sweet savour, even [t]the memorial of it, unto the Lord. [16] And [u]the remainder thereof shall Aaron and his sons eat; [v]with unleavened bread shall it be eaten in the holy place; in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation they shall eat it. [17] It [w]shall not be baken with leaven. [x]I have given it unto them for their portion of my offerings made by fire, [y]it is most holy, as is the sin offering, and as the trespass offering. [23] For every meat offering for the priest shall be wholly burnt; it shall not be eaten."

[24] And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, [25] "Speak unto Aaron and to his sons, saying, This [g]is the law of the sin offering. [h]In the place where the burnt offering is killed shall the sin offering be killed before the Lord; [i]it is most holy. sons with him, [b]and the garments, and [c]the anointing oil, and a bullock for the sin offering, and two rams, and a basket of unleavened bread; [3] and gather thou all the congregation together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation."

[4] And Moses did as the Lord commanded him; and the assembly was gathered together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. [5] And Moses said unto the congregation, "This [d]is the thing which the Lord commanded to be done." [6] And Moses brought Aaron and his sons, [e]and washed them with water. [7] And [f]he put upon him the [g]coat, and girded him with the girdle, and clothed him with the robe, and put the ephod upon him, and he girded him with the curious girdle of the ephod, and bound it unto him therewith. [8] And he put the breastplate upon him; [h]also he put in the breastplate the Urim and the Thummim. [9] And [i]he put the mitre upon his head; also upon the mitre, even upon his forefront, did he put the golden plate, the holy crown; as [j]the Lord commanded Moses.

[10] And [k]Moses took the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle and all that was therein, and sanctified them. [11] And he sprinkled thereof upon the altar seven times, and anointed the altar and all his vessels, both the laver and his foot, to sanctify them. [12] And he [l]poured of the anointing oil upon Aaron's head, and anointed him, to sanctify him. [13] And [m]Moses brought Aaron's sons, and put coats upon them, and girded them with girdles, and *put bonnets upon them; as the Lord commanded Moses.

[14] And [n]he brought the bullock for the sin offering; and Aaron and his sons [o]laid their hands upon the head of the bullock for the sin offering. [15] And he slew it; [p]and Moses took the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about with his finger, and purified the altar, and poured the blood at the bottom of the altar, and sanctified it, to make reconciliation upon it. [16] And [q]he took all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and Moses burned it upon the altar. [17] But the bullock, and his hide, his flesh, and his dung, he burnt with fire without the camp; as [r]the Lord commanded Moses.

[18] And [s]he brought the ram for the burnt offering; and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the ram. [19] And he killed it; and Moses sprinkled the blood upon the altar round about. [20] And he cut the ram into pieces; and Moses burnt the head, and the pieces, and the fat. [21] And he washed the inwards and the legs in water; and Moses burnt the whole ram upon the altar: it was a burnt sacrifice for a sweet savour, and an offering made by fire unto the Lord; [t]as the Lord commanded Moses.

[22] And [u]he brought the other ram, the ram of consecration; and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the ram. [23] And he slew it; and Moses took of the blood of it, and put it upon the tip of Aaron's right ear, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot. [24] And he brought Aaron's sons, and Moses put of the blood upon the tip of their right ears, and upon the thumbs of their right hands, and upon the great toes of their right feet; and Moses sprinkled the blood upon the altar round about. [25] And [v]he took the fat, and the rump, and all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and the right shoulder; [26] and [w]out of the basket of unleavened bread, that was before the Lord, he took one unleavened cake, and a cake of oiled bread, and one wafer, and put them on the fat, and upon the right shoulder; [27] and he put all [x]upon Aaron's hands, and upon his sons' hands, and waved them for a wave offering before the Lord. [28] And [y]Moses took them from off their hands, and burnt them on the altar upon the burnt offering: they were consecrations for a sweet savour; it is an offering made by fire unto the Lord. [29] And Moses took the breast, and waved it for a wave offering before the Lord; for of the ram of consecration it was Moses' [z]part; as the Lord commanded Moses. [30] And [a]Moses took of the anointing oil, and of the blood which was upon the altar, and sprinkled it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his sons, and upon his sons' garments with him; and sanctified Aaron, and his garments, and his sons, and his sons' garments with him.

[31] And Moses said unto Aaron and to his sons, "Boil [b]the flesh at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation; and there eat it with the bread that is in the basket of consecrations, as I commanded, saying, 'Aaron and his sons shall eat it.' [32] And [c]that which remaineth of the flesh and of the bread shall ye burn with fire. [33] And ye shall not go out of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation in seven days, until the days of your consecration be at an end; for [d]seven days shall he consecrate you. [34] As [e]he hath done this day, so the Lord hath commanded to do, to make an atonement for you. [35] Therefore shall ye abide at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation day and night seven days, [f]and keep the charge of the Lord, that ye die not; for so I am commanded." [36] So Aaron and his sons did all things which the Lord commanded by the hand of Moses.

Lev. ix.

[1] And [g]it came to pass on the eighth day, that Moses called Aaron and his sons, and the elders of Israel; [2] and he said unto Aaron, "Take [h]thee a young calf for a sin offering, [i]and a ram for a burnt offering, without blemish, and offer them before the Lord. [3] And unto the children of Israel thou shalt speak, saying, [j]Take ye a kid of the goats for a sin offering, and a calf and a lamb, both of the first year, without blemish, for a burnt offering; [4] also a bullock and a ram for peace offerings, to sacrifice before the Lord; [k]and a meat offering mingled with oil: [l]for to-day the Lord will appear unto you."

[5] And they brought that which Moses commanded before the tabernacle of the congregation; and all the congregation drew near and stood before the Lord. [6] And Moses said, "This is the thing which the Lord commanded that ye should do; [m]and the glory of the Lord shall appear unto you." [7] And Moses said unto Aaron, "Go unto the altar, and [n]offer thy sin offering, and thy burnt offering, and make an atonement for thyself, and for the people: and [o]offer the offering of the people, and make an atonement for them; as the Lord commanded.

[8] Aaron therefore went unto the altar, and slew the calf of the sin offering, which was for himself. [9] And [p]the sons of Aaron brought the blood unto him; and he dipped his finger in the blood, and [q]put it upon the horns of the altar, and poured out the blood at the bottom of the altar. [10] But [r]the fat, and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver of the sin offering, he burnt upon the altar; [s]as the Lord commanded Moses. [11] And [t]the flesh and the hide he burnt with fire without the camp. [12] And he slew the burnt offering; and Aaron's sons presented unto him the blood, [u]which he sprinkled round about upon the altar. [13] And [v]they presented the burnt offering unto him, with the pieces thereof, and the head; and he burnt them upon the altar. [14] And [w]he did wash the inwards and the legs, and burnt them upon the burnt offering on the altar.

[15] And [x]he brought the people's offering, and took the goat, which was the sin offering for the people, and slew it, and offered it for sin, as the first. [16] And he brought the burnt offering, and offered it according to the *manner. [17] And he brought [y]the meat offering, and †took a

Lev. x. 1–7.

[1] And [a]Nadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, [b]took either of them his censer, and put fire therein, and put incense thereon, and offered [c]strange fire before the Lord, which he commanded them not. [2] And [d]there went out fire from the Lord, and devoured them, and they died before the Lord. [3] Then Moses said unto Aaron, "This is it that the Lord spake, saying, 'I will be sanctified in them [e]that come nigh me, and before all the people I will be [f]glorified.'" [g]And Aaron held his peace. [4] And Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan, the sons of [h]Uzziel the uncle of Aaron, and said unto them, "Come near, [i]carry your brethren from before the sanctuary out of the camp." [5] So they went near, and carried them in their coats out of the camp; as Moses had said.

[6] And Moses said unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar, his sons, "Uncover [j]not your heads, neither rend your clothes, lest ye die, and lest [k]wrath come upon all the people; but let your brethren, the whole house of Israel, bewail the burning which the Lord hath kindled. [7] And [l]ye shall not go out from the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, lest ye die; [m]for the anointing oil of the Lord is upon you." And they did according to the word of Moses.

Lev. xi.

[1] And the Lord spake unto Moses and to Aaron, saying unto them, [2] “Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, These [a]are the beasts which ye shall eat among all the beasts that are on the earth. [3] Whatsoever parteth the hoof, and is cloven-footed, and cheweth the cud, among the beasts, that shall ye eat. [4] Nevertheless these shall ye not eat of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the hoof: as the camel, because he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you. [5] And the coney, because he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you. [6] And the hare, because he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you. [7] And [b]the swine, though he divide the hoof, and be cloven-footed, yet he cheweth not the cud; [c]he is unclean to you. [8] Of their flesh shall ye not eat, and their carcass shall ye not touch; [d]they are unclean to you.

[9] “These [e]shall ye eat of all that are in the waters: whatsoever hath fins and scales in the waters, in the seas, and in the rivers, them shall ye eat. [10] And all that have not fins and scales in the seas, and in the rivers, of all that move in the waters, and of any living thing which is in the waters, they shall be [f]an abomination unto you. [11] They shall be even an abomination unto you; ye shall not eat of their flesh, but ye shall have their carcasses in abomination. [12] Whatsoever hath no fins nor scales in the waters, that shall be an abomination unto you.

[13] “And [g]these are they which ye shall have in abomination among the fowls, (they shall not be eaten, they are an abomination:) the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the ospray, [14] and the vulture, and the kite after his kind; [15] every raven after his kind; [16] and the owl, and the night hawk, and the cuckow, and the hawk after his kind, [17] and the little owl, and the cormorant, and the great owl, [18] and the swan, and the pelican, and the gier-eagle, [19] and the stork, the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and the bat.

[20] “All fowls that creep, going upon all four, shall be an abomination unto you. [21] Yet these may ye eat of every flying-creeping thing that goeth upon all four, which have legs above their feet, to leap withal upon the earth; [22] even these of them ye may eat; [h]the locust after his kind, and the bald locust after his kind, and the beetle after his kind, and the grasshopper after his kind. [23] But all other flying-creeping things, which have four feet, shall be an abomination unto you. [24] And for these ye shall be unclean: whosoever toucheth the carcass of them shall be unclean until the even. [32] And [g]the priest, whom he shall anoint, and whom he shall ‡consecrate to minister in the priest's office in his father's stead, shall make the atonement, and shall put on the linen clothes, even the holy garments. [33] And he shall make an atonement for the holy Sanctuary, and he shall make an atonement for the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and for the Altar, and he shall make an atonement for the Priests, and for all the People of the Congregation. [34] And [h]this shall be an everlasting statute unto you, to make an atonement for the children of Israel for all their sins [i]once a year." And he did as the LORD commanded Moses.

SECT. XXXIII.—Blood to be offered to the Lord;—Its eating forbidden.

LEV. xvii.

The blood of all slain beasts must be offered to the Lord at the door of the tabernacle. 7 They must not offer to devils. 10 All eating of blood is forbidden, 15 and all that dieth alone, or is torn.

[1] AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [2] "Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the children of Israel, and say unto them; This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, saying, [3] What man soever there be of the house of Israel, [a]that killeth an ox, or lamb, or goat, in the camp, or that killeth it out of the camp, [4] and [b]bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer an offering unto the LORD before the tabernacle of the LORD; blood [c]shall be imputed unto that man, he hath shed blood, [d]and that man shall be cut off from among his people; [5] to the end that the children of Israel may bring their sacrifices, [e]which they offer in the open field, even that they may bring them unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, unto the priest, and offer them for peace offerings unto the LORD. [6] And the [f]priest shall sprinkle the blood upon the altar of the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and [g]burn the fat for a sweet savour unto the LORD. [7] And they shall no more offer their sacrifices [h]unto devils, after whom they [i]have gone a whoring. This shall be a statute for ever unto them throughout their generations.

[8] "And thou shalt say unto them, Whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers which sojourn among you, [j]that offereth a burnt offering or sacrifice, [9] and bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer it unto the LORD; even that man shall be cut off from among his people.

[10] "And [k]whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn among you, that eateth any manner of blood; [l]I will even set my face against that soul that eateth blood, and will cut him off from among his people. [11] For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar [m]to make an atonement for your souls; [n]for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul. [12] Therefore I said unto the children of Israel, 'No soul of you shall eat blood, neither shall any stranger that sojourneth among you eat blood.' [13] And whatsoever man there be of the children of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn among you, *which hunteth and catcheth any beast or fowl that may be eaten; he shall even [o]pour out the blood thereof, and [p]cover it with dust. [14] For [q]it is the life of all flesh, the blood of it is for the life thereof; therefore I said unto the children of Israel, 'Ye shall eat the blood of no manner of flesh,' for the life of all flesh is the blood thereof; whosoever eateth it shall be cut off.

[15] "And [r]every soul that eateth †that which died of itself, or that which was torn with beasts, whether it be one of your own country, or a stranger, [s]he shall both wash his clothes, [t]and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even; then shall he be clean. [16] But if he wash them not, nor bathe his flesh; then [u]he shall bear his iniquity."

[1] And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [2] "Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, [a]I am the LORD your God. [3] After [b]the doings of the land of Egypt, wherein ye dwelt, shall ye not do; [c]and after the doings of the land of Canaan, whither I bring you, shall ye not do; neither shall ye walk in their ordinances. [4] Ye [d]shall do my judgments, and keep mine ordinances, to walk therein; I am the LORD your God. [5] Ye shall therefore keep my statutes, and my judgments, [e]which if a man do, he shall live in them; [f]I am the LORD.

nakedness. [9] The [i]nakedness of thy sister, the daughter of thy father, or daughter of thy mother, whether she be born at home, or born abroad, even their nakedness thou shalt not uncover. [10] The nakedness of thy son's daughter, or of thy daughter's daughter, even their nakedness thou shalt not uncover: for theirs is thine own nakedness. [11] The nakedness of thy father's wife's daughter, begotten of thy father, she is thy sister, thou shalt not uncover her nakedness. [12] Thou [j]shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy father's sister: she is thy father's near kinswoman. [13] Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy mother's sister: for she is thy mother's near kinswoman. [14] Thou [k]shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy father's brother, thou shalt not approach to his wife: she is thine aunt. [15] Thou [l]shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy daughter-in-law: she is thy son's wife; thou shalt not uncover her nakedness. [16] Thou [m]shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy brother's wife: it is thy brother's nakedness. [17] Thou [n]shalt not uncover the nakedness of a woman and her daughter, neither shalt thou take her son's daughter, or her daughter's daughter, to uncover her nakedness; for they are her near kinswomen: it is wickedness. [18] Neither shalt thou take †a wife to her sister, [o]to vex her, to uncover her nakedness, besides the other in her life time.

[19] "Also [p]thou shalt not approach unto a woman to uncover her nakedness, as long as she is put apart for her uncleanness. [20] Moreover [q]thou shalt not lie carnally with thy neighbour's wife, to defile thyself with her. [21] And thou shalt not let any of thy seed [r]pass through the fire to [s]Molech, neither shalt thou [t]profane the name of thy God: I am the LORD. [22] Thou [u]shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is abomination. [23] Neither [v]shalt thou lie with any beast to defile thyself therewith: neither shall any woman stand before a beast to lie down thereto: [w]it is confusion.

[24] "Defile [x]not ye yourselves in any of these things: [y]for in all these the nations are defiled which I cast out before you. [25] And [z]the land is defiled; therefore I do [a]visit the iniquity thereof upon it, and the land itself vomiteth out her inhabitants. [26] Ye [b]shall therefore keep my statutes and my judgments, and shall not commit any of these abominations; neither any of your own nation, nor any stranger that sojourneth among you; [27] (for all these abominations have the men of the land done, which were before you, and the land is defiled:) [28] that [c]the land spue not you out also, when ye defile it, as it spued out the nations that were before you. [29] For whosoever shall commit any of these abominations, even the souls that commit them, shall be cut off from among their people. [1] AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [2] "Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them, [a]Ye shall be holy; for I the LORD your God am holy.

[3] "Ye [b]shall fear every man his mother, and his father, [c]and keep my Sabbaths: I am the LORD your God.

[4] "Turn [d]ye not unto idols, [e]nor make to yourselves molten gods: I am the LORD your God.

[5] "And [f]if ye offer a sacrifice of peace offerings unto the LORD, ye shall offer it at your own will. [6] It shall be eaten the same day ye offer it, and on the morrow: and if aught remain until the third day, it shall be burnt in the fire. [7] And if it be eaten at all on the third day, it is abominable: it shall not be accepted. [8] Therefore every one that eateth it shall bear his iniquity, because he hath profaned the hallowed thing of the Lord: and that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

¶ [9] "And [g]when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest. [10] And thou shalt not glean thy vineyard, neither shalt thou gather every grape of thy vineyard; thou shalt leave them for the poor and stranger: I am the Lord your God.

[11] "Ye [h]shall not steal, neither deal falsely, [i]neither lie one to another. [12] And ye shall not [j]swear by my name falsely, [k]neither shalt thou profane the name of thy God: I am the Lord. [13] Thou [l]shalt not defraud thy neighbour, neither rob him: [m]the wages of him that is hired shall not abide with thee all night until the morning.

[14] "Thou shalt not curse the deaf, [n]nor put a stumblingblock before the blind, but shalt [o]fear thy God: I am the Lord.

[15] "Ye [p]shall do no unrighteousness in judgment: thou shalt not respect the person of the poor, nor honor the person of the mighty; but in righteousness shalt thou judge thy neighbour.

[16] "Thou [q]shalt not go up and down 'as a talebearer among thy people; neither shalt thou [r]stand against the blood of thy neighbour: I am the Lord. [17] Thou [s]shalt not hate thy brother in thy heart; [t]thou shalt in any wise rebuke thy neighbour, *and not suffer sin upon him. [18] Thou [u]shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people, [v]but thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself: I am the Lord.

[19] "Ye shall keep my statutes. Thou shalt not let thy cattle gender with a diverse kind; [w]thou shalt not sow thy field with mingled seed; [x]neither shall a garment mingled of linen and woollen come upon thee.

[20] "And whosoever lieth carnally with a woman, that is a bondmaid, †betrothed to a husband, and not at all redeemed, nor freedom given her; ‡she shall be scourged; they shall not be put to death, because she was not free. [21] And [y]he shall bring his trespass offering unto the Lord, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, even a ram for a trespass offering. [22] And the priest shall make an atonement for him with the ram of the trespass offering before the Lord for his sin which he hath done; and the sin which he hath done shall be forgiven him.

[23] "And when ye shall come into the land, and shall have planted all manner of trees for food, then ye shall count the fruit thereof as uncircumcised; three years shall be as uncircumcised unto you; it shall not be eaten of. [24] But in the fourth year all the fruit thereof shall be *holy [z]to praise the Lord withal. [25] And in the fifth year shall ye eat of the fruit thereof, that it may yield unto you the increase thereof: I am the Lord your God.

[26] "Ye [a]shall not eat any thing with the blood; [b]neither shall ye use enchantment, nor observe times. [27] Ye [c]shall not round the corners of your heads, neither shalt thou mar the corners of thy beard. [28] Ye shall not [d]make any cuttings in your flesh for the dead, nor print any marks upon you: I am the Lord.

[29] "Do not †prostitute thy daughter, to cause her to be a whore; lest the land fall to whoredom, and the land become full of wickedness.

[30] "Ye [e]shall keep my Sabbaths, and [f]reverence my sanctuary: I am the Lord.

[31] "Regard [g]not them that have familiar spirits, neither seek after wizards, to be defiled by them: I am the Lord your God.

[32] "Thou [h]shalt rise up before the hoary head, and honor the face of the old man, and fear thy God: I am the Lord.

[v] Le. 18. 23.

[1] AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [2] "Again, thou [a]shalt say to the children of Israel, [b]Whosoever he be of the children of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn in Israel, that giveth any of his seed unto (24)Molech, he shall surely be put to death; the people of the land shall stone him with stones. [3] And [c]I will set my face against that man, and will cut him off from among his people; because he hath given of his seed unto Molech, [d]to defile my sanctuary, and [e]to profane my Holy Name. [4] And if the people of the land do any ways hide their eyes from the man, when he giveth of his seed unto Molech, and [f]kill him not; [5] then [g]I will set my face against that man, and [h]against his family, and will cut him off, and all that [i]go a whoring after him, to commit whoredom with Molech, from among their people.

[6] "And [j]the soul that turneth after such as have familiar spirits, and after wizards, to go a whoring after them, I will even set my face against that soul, and will cut him off from among his people.

[7] "Sanctify [k]yourselves therefore, and be ye holy; for I am the LORD your God. [8] And [l]ye shall keep my statutes, and do them: [m]I am the LORD which sanctify you.

[9] "For [n]every one that curseth his father or his mother shall be surely put to death: he hath cursed his father or his mother; [o]his blood shall be upon him.

[10] "And [p]the man that committeth adultery with another man's wife, (even he that committeth adultery with his neighbour's wife), the adulterer and the adulteress shall surely be put to death. [11] And [q]the man that lieth with his father's wife hath uncovered his father's nakedness: both of them shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be upon them. [12] And [r]if a man lie with his daughter-in-law, both of them shall surely be put to death: [s]they have wrought confusion; their blood shall be upon them. [13] If [t]a man also lie with mankind, as he lieth with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination: they shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be upon them. [14] And [u]if a man take a wife and her mother, it is wickedness; they shall be burnt with fire, both he and they, that there be no wickedness among you. [15] And [v]if a man lie with a beast, he shall surely be put to death, and ye shall slay the beast. [16] And if a woman approach unto any beast,

(24) Idolatry was punished by the Mosaic Law, because it was treason and rebellion against their Sovereign. God assumed the title of King of Israel, that adherence to his worship might be a proof of allegiance, and idolatry be more certainly and rigorously prohibited. And the justice and wisdom of this law will be more evident, if we consider that the idolatry of the nations which surrounded Israel did not consist in speculative opinions only, but in acts of open homage to the personified powers of nature, or to the spirits of deified men; and murder and every abomination were enumerated among the proofs of homage to these false gods. Human sacrifices—offering up their children, and passing them through the fire to Molech—the prostitution of their young women—the shameful rites of Baal Peor, &c., were crimes deserving of death in every well-ordered community. Vide Michaelis, Com. &c., b. v. ch. ii. art. 246.

and lie down thereto, thou shalt kill the woman, and the beast: they shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be upon them. [17] And [w]if a man shall take his sister, his father's daughter, or his mother's daughter, and see her nakedness, and she see his nakedness; it is a wicked thing; and they shall be cut off in the sight of their people:
he hath uncovered his sister's nakedness; he shall bear his iniquity.
[17] And [x]if a man shall lie with a woman having her sickness, and shall uncover her nakedness; he hath *discovered her fountain, and she hath uncovered the fountain of her blood: and both of them shall be cut off from among their people. [19] And [y]thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy mother's sister, nor of thy father's sister; [z]for he uncovereth his near kin: they shall bear their iniquity. [20] And [a]if a man shall lie with his uncle's wife, he hath uncovered his uncle's nakedness; they shall bear their sin, they shall die childless. [21] And [b]if a man shall take his brother's wife, it is †an unclean thing; he hath uncovered his brother's nakedness, they shall be childless.

[22] "Ye shall therefore keep all my [c]statutes, and all my judgments, and do them; that the land, whither I bring you to dwell therein, [d]spue you not out. [23] And [e]ye shall not walk in the manners of the nations, which I cast out before you: for they committed all these things, and [f]therefore I abhorred them. [24] But [g]I have said unto you, Ye shall inherit their land, and I will give it unto you to possess it, a land that floweth with milk and honey: [h]I am the Lord your God, which have separated you from other people.

[25] "Ye [i]shall therefore put difference between clean beasts and unclean, and between unclean fowls and clean; [j]and ye shall not make your souls abominable by beast, or by fowl, or by any manner of living thing that ‡creepeth on the ground, which I have separated from you as unclean. [26] And ye shall be holy unto me; [k]for I the Lord am holy, [l]and have severed you from other people, that ye should be mine.

[27] "A [m]man also or a woman that hath a familiar spirit, or that is a wizard, shall surely be put to death; they shall stone them with stones; their blood shall be upon them."

of Aaron, and say unto them, [a]There shall none be defiled for the dead among his people. [2] But for his kin, that is near unto him, that is, for his mother, and for his father, and for his son, and for his daughter, and for his brother, [3] and for his sister a virgin, that is nigh unto him, which hath had no husband; for her may he be defiled. [4] But *he shall not defile himself, being a chief man among his people, to profane himself. [5] They [b]shall not make baldness upon their head, neither shall they shave off the corner of their beard, nor make any cuttings in their flesh. [6] They shall be holy unto their God, and [c]not profane the name of their God; for the offerings of the Lord made by fire, and [d]the bread of their God, they do offer, therefore they shall be holy. [7] They [e]shall not take a wife that is a whore, or profane, neither shall they take a woman [f]put away from her husband; for he is holy unto his God. [8] Thou shalt sanctify him therefore; for he offereth the SECTION XXXIX.—Shelomith's Son is stoned for Blasphemy; Various Laws.

LEV. XXIV.

The oil for the lamps. 5 The show-bread. 10 Shelomith's son blasphemeth. 13 The law of blasphemy. 17 Of murder. 18 Of damage. 23 The blasphemer is stoned.

[1] AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [2] "Command [a]the children of Israel, that they bring unto thee pure oil olive beaten for the light; *to cause the lamps to burn continually. [3] Without the veil of the testimony, in the tabernacle of the congregation, shall Aaron order it from the evening unto the morning before the LORD continually: it shall be a statute for ever in your generations. [4] He shall order the lamps upon [b]the pure candlestick before the LORD continually.

[7] And thou shalt put pure frankincense upon each row, that it may be on the bread [e]for a memorial, even an offering made by fire unto the LORD. [8] Every [f]Sabbath he shall set it in order before the LORD continually, being taken from the children of Israel by an everlasting covenant. [9] And [g]it shall be Aaron's and his sons', [h]and they shall eat it in the holy place; for it is most holy unto him of the offerings of the LORD made by fire by a perpetual statute."

[13] And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [14] "Bring forth him that hath cursed without the camp; and let all that heard him [l]lay their hands upon his head, and let all the congregation stone him. [15] And thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel, saying, Whosoever curseth his God [m]shall bear his sin. [16] And he that [n]blasphemeth the name of the LORD, he shall surely be put to death, and all the congregation shall certainly stone him: as well the stranger, as he that is born in the land, when he blasphemeth the name [b]of the LORD, shall be put to death.

SECTION XL.——Of the Sabbaths of Years;—The Jubilee.

LEV. XXV.

The Sabbath of the seventh year. 8 The jubilee in the fiftieth year. 14 Of oppression. 18 A blessing of obedience. 23 The redemption of land, 29 of houses. 35 Compassion of the poor. 39 The usage of bondmen. 47 The redemption of servants.

[1] AND the LORD spake unto Moses in Mount Sinai, saying, [2] "Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land which I give you, then shall the land *keep a Sabbath unto the LORD. [3] Six years thou shalt sow thy field, and six years thou shalt prune thy vineyard, and gather in the fruit thereof; [4] but in the seventh year shall be a Sabbath of rest unto the land, a Sabbath for the LORD: thou shalt neither sow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard. [5] That [a]which groweth of its own accord of thy harvest thou shalt not reap, neither gather the grapes †of thy vine undressed; for it is a year of rest unto the land. [6] And the Sabbath of the land shall be meat for you; for thee, and for thy servant, and for thy maid, and for thy hired servant, and for thy stranger that sojourneth with thee, [7] and for thy cattle, and for the beast that are in thy land, shall all the increase thereof be meat.

[8] "And thou shalt number seven Sabbaths of years unto thee, seven times seven years; and the space of the seven Sabbaths of years shall be unto thee, forty and nine years. [9] Then shalt thou cause the trumpet ‡of the jubilee to sound on the tenth day of the seventh month, [b]in the day of atonement shall ye make the trumpet sound throughout all your land. [10] And ye shall hallow the fiftieth year, and [c]proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof: it shall be a jubilee unto you; [d]and ye shall return every man unto his possession, and ye shall return every man unto his family. [11] A jubilee shall that fiftieth year be unto you, ye shall not sow, neither reap that which groweth of itself in it, nor gather the grapes in it of thy vine undressed. [12] For it is the jubilee; it shall be holy unto you; ye shall eat the increase thereof out of the field. [13] In [e]the year of this jubilee ye shall return every man unto his possession. [14] And if thou sell aught unto thy neighbour, or buyest aught of thy neighbour's hand, [f]ye shall not oppress one another. [15] According [g]to the number of years after the jubilee thou shalt buy of thy neighbour, and according unto the number of years of the fruits he shall sell unto thee. [16] According to the multitude of years thou shalt increase the price thereof, and according to the fewness of years thou shalt diminish the price of it; for according to the number of the years of the fruits doth he sell unto thee. [17] Ye shall not therefore oppress one another; [h]but thou shalt fear thy God: for I am the LORD your God.

[18] "Wherefore [i]ye shall do my statutes, and keep my judgments, and do them; [j]and ye shall dwell in the land in safety. [19] And the land shall yield her fruit, and [k]ye shall eat your fill, and dwell therein in safety. [20] And if ye shall say, [l]What shall we eat the seventh year? behold, we shall not sow, nor gather in our increase. [21] Then I will [m]command my blessing upon you in the sixth year, and it shall bring forth fruit for three years. [22] And [n]ye shall sow the eighth year, and eat yet of [o]old fruit until the ninth year; until her fruits come in ye shall eat of the old store.

[23] "The land shall not be sold *for ever; for [p]the land is mine, for ye are [q]strangers and sojourners with me. [24] And in all the land of your possession ye shall grant a redemption for the land.

[25] "If [r]thy brother be waxen poor, and hath sold away some of his possession, and if [s]any of his kin come to redeem it, then shall he redeem that which his brother sold. [26] And if the man have none to redeem it, and †himself be able to redeem it; [27] then let him count the years of the sale thereof, and restore the overplus unto the man to whom he sold it; that he may return unto his possession. [28] But if he be not able to restore it to him, then that which is sold shall remain in the hand of him that hath bought it until the year of jubilee; and in the jubilee it shall go out, and he shall return unto his possession.

[29] "And if a man sell a dwelling house in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole year after it is sold; within a full year may he redeem it. [30] And if it be not redeemed within the space of a full year, then the house that is in the walled city shall be established for ever to him that bought it throughout his generations; it shall not go out in the jubilee. [31] But the houses of the villages which have no walls round about them shall be counted as the fields of the country: ‡they may be redeemed, and they shall go out in the jubilee. [32] Notwithstanding [t]the cities of the Levites, and the houses of the cities of their possession, may the Levites redeem at any time. [33] And if *a man purchase of the Levites, then the house that was sold, and the city of his possession, shall go out in the year of jubilee; for the houses of the cities of the Levites are their possession among the children of Israel. [34] But [u]the field of the suburbs of their cities may not be sold; for it is their perpetual possession.

[35] "And if thy brother be waxen poor, and †fallen in decay with thee, then thou shalt ‡relieve him, (yea, though he be a stranger, or a sojourner;) that he may live with thee. [36] Take [v]thou no usury of him, or increase, but [w]fear thy God; that thy brother may live with thee. [37] Thou shalt not give him thy money upon usury, nor lend him thy victuals for increase. [38] I [x]am the LORD your God, which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan, and to be your God.

[39] "And [y]if thy brother that dwelleth by thee be waxen poor, and be sold unto thee; thou shalt not *compel him to serve as a bondservant. [40] But as a hired servant, and as a sojourner, he shall be with thee, and shall serve thee unto the year of jubilee. [14] "But [t]if ye will not hearken unto me, and will not do all these commandments; [15] and if ye shall [u]despise my statutes, or if your soul abhor my judgments, so that ye will not do all my commandments, but that ye break my covenant: [16] I also will do this unto you; I will even appoint *over you terror, [v]consumption, and the burning ague, that shall [w]consume the eyes, and cause sorrow of heart; and [x]ye shall sow your seed in vain, for your enemies shall eat it. of you [d]shall pine away in their iniquity in your enemies' lands; and also in the iniquities of their fathers shall they pine away with them.

[40] “If [e]they shall confess their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their trespass which they trespassed against me, and that also they have walked contrary unto me; [41] and that I also have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if then their [f]uncircumcised hearts be [g]humbled, and they then accept of the punishment of their iniquity: [42] then will I [h]remember my covenant with Jacob, and also my covenant with Isaac, and also my covenant with Abraham will I remember; and I will [i]remember the land. [43] The land also shall be left of them, and shall enjoy her Sabbaths, while she lieth desolate without them, and they shall accept of the punishment of their iniquity; because, even because they despised my judgments, and because their soul abhorred my statutes. [44] And yet for all that, when they be in the land of their enemies, [j]I will not cast them away, neither will I abhor them, to destroy them utterly, and to break my covenant with them; for I am the Lord their God. [45] But I will [k]for their sakes remember the covenant of their ancestors, [l]whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt [m]in the sight of the heathen, that I might be their God: I am the Lord.”

[46] These [n]are the statutes and judgments and laws, which the Lord made between him and the children of Israel in Mount Sinai by the hand of Moses.

Section XLII.—Of Vows, Things devoted, and Tithes.

Lev. xxvii.

He that maketh a singular vow must be the Lord's. 3 The estimation of the person. 9 Of a beast given by vow. 14 Of a house. 16 Of a field, and the redemption thereof. 28 No devoted thing may be redeemed. 32 The tithe may not be changed.

[1] And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, [2] “Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, [a]When a man shall make a singular vow, the persons shall be for the Lord by thy estimation. [3] And thy estimation shall be of the male from twenty years old even unto sixty years old, even thy estimation shall be fifty shekels of silver, after the shekel of the sanctuary. [4] And if it be a female, then thy estimation shall be thirty shekels. [5] And if it be from five years old even unto twenty years old, then thy estimation shall be of the male twenty shekels, and for the female ten shekels. [6] And if it be from a month old even unto five years old, then thy estimation shall be of the male five shekels of silver, and for the female thy estimation shall be three shekels of silver. [7] And if it be from sixty years old and above; if it be a male, then thy estimation shall be fifteen shekels, and for the female ten shekels. [8] But if he be poorer than thy estimation, then he shall present himself before the priest, and the priest shall value him; according to his ability that vowed shall the priest value him.

[9] “And if it be a beast, whereof men bring an offering unto the Lord, all that any man giveth of such unto the Lord shall be holy. [10] He shall not alter it, nor change it, a good for a bad, or a bad for a good; and if he shall at all change beast for beast, then it and the exchange thereof shall be holy. [11] And if it be any unclean beast, of which they do not offer a sacrifice unto the Lord, then he shall present the beast before the priest. [12] And the priest shall value it, whether it be good or bad: *as thou valuest it, who art the priest, so shall it be. [13] But [b]if he will at all redeem it, then he shall add a fifth part thereof unto thy estimation.

[14] “And when a man shall sanctify his house to be holy unto the Lord, then the priest shall estimate it, whether it be good or bad: as the priest shall estimate it, so shall it stand. [15] And if he that sanctified it will redeem his house, then he shall add the fifth part of the money of thy estimation unto it, and it shall be his.

[16] "And if a man shall sanctify unto the Lord some part of a field of his possession, then thy estimation shall be according to the seed thereof: †a homer of barley seed shall be valued at fifty shekels of silver. [17] If he sanctify his field from the year of jubilee, according to thy estimation it shall stand. [18] But if he sanctify his field after the jubilee, then the priest shall [c]reckon unto him the money according to the years that remain, even unto the year of the jubilee, and it shall be abated from thy estimation. [19] And if he that sanctified the field will in any wise redeem it, then he shall add the fifth part of the money of thy estimation unto it, and it shall be assured to him. [20] And if he will not redeem the field, or if he have sold the field to another man, it shall not be redeemed any more. Section XLIII.—The Numbering of the Tribes, and their Order.

Num. i. and ii.

[1] And the Lord spake unto Moses [a]in the wilderness of Sinai, [b]in the tabernacle of the congregation, on the first day of the second month, in the second year after they were come out of the land of Egypt, saying, [2] "Take [c]ye the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel, after their families, by the house of their fathers, with the number of their names, every male by their polls; [3] from twenty years old and upward, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel: thou and Aaron shall number them by their armies. [4] And with you there shall be a man of every tribe; every one head of the house of his fathers.

[a] Ex. 19. 1.
[b] Ex. 25. 22.
[c] Ex. 30. 12.

[5] "And these are the names of the men that shall stand with you:—of the tribe of Reuben, Elizur the son of Shedeur; [6] of Simeon, Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai; [7] of Judah, Nahshon the son of Amminadab; [8] of Issachar, Nethaneel the son of Zuar; [9] of Zebulun, Eliab the son of Helon; [10] of the children of Joseph—of Ephraim, Elishama the son of Ammihud; of Manasseh, Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur; [11] of Benjamin, Abidan the son of Gideoni; [12] of Dan, Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai; [13] of Asher, Pagiel the son of Ocran; [14] of Gad, Eliasaph the son of [d]Deuel; [15] of Naphtali, Ahira the son of Enan." [16] These [e]were the renowned of the congregation, princes of the tribes of their fathers, [f]heads of thousands in Israel.

[17] And Moses and Aaron took these men which are expressed by their names; [18] and they assembled all the congregation together on the first day of the second month, and they declared their pedigrees after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, by their polls. [19] As the Lord commanded Moses, so he numbered them in the wilderness of Sinai.

[20] And the children of Reuben, Israel's eldest son, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; [21] those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Reuben, were forty and six thousand and five hundred.

[22] Of the children of Simeon, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, those that were numbered of them, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; [23] those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Simeon, were fifty and nine thousand and three hundred.

[24] Of the children of Gad, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; [25] those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Gad, were forty and five thousand six hundred and fifty.

[26] Of the children of Judah, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; [27] those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Judah, were threescore and fourteen thousand and six hundred.

[28] Of the children of Issachar, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; [29] those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Issachar, were fifty and four thousand and four hundred.

[30] Of the children of Zebulun, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; [31] those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Zebulun, were fifty and seven thousand and four hundred.

[32] Of the children of Joseph, namely, of the children of Ephraim, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; [33] those that were [g]numbered of them, even of the tribe of Ephraim, were forty thousand and five hundred.

families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; [35] those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Manasseh, were thirty and two thousand and two hundred.

[36] Of the children of BENJAMIN, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; [37] those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Benjamin, were thirty and five thousand and four hundred.

[38] Of the children of DAN, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; [39] those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Dan, were threescore and two thousand and seven hundred.

[40] Of the children of ASHER, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; [41] those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Asher, were forty and one thousand and five hundred.

[42] Of the children of NAPHTALI, throughout their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; [43] those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Naphtali, were fifty and three thousand and four hundred. [44] These [h]are those that were numbered, which Moses and Aaron numbered, and the princes of Israel, being twelve men; each one was for the house of his fathers. [45] So were all those that were numbered of the children of Israel, by the house of their fathers, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war in Israel; [46] even all they that were numbered were [i]six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty.

[40] And the Lord said unto Moses, "Number all the firstborn of the males of the children of Israel from a month old and upward, and take the number of their names. [41] And thou shalt take the Levites for me (I am the Lord) instead of all the firstborn among the children of Israel; and the cattle of the Levites instead of all the firstlings among the cattle of the children of Israel." [42] And Moses numbered, as the Lord commanded him, all the firstborn among the children of Israel. [43] And all the firstborn males by the number of names, from a month old and upward, of those that were numbered of them, were twenty and two thousand two hundred and threescore and thirteen.

[12] And he that offered his offering the first day was [i]Nahshon the son of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah. [13] And his offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after [j]the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them were full of fine flour mingled with oil for a [k]meat offering; [14] one spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of [l]incense; [15] one [m]young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt offering; [16] one kid of the goats for a [n]sin offering; [17] and for [o]a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year; this was the offering of Nahshon the son of Amminadab.

[18] On the second day Nethaneel the son of Zuar, prince of Issachar, did offer. [19] He offered for his offering one silver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering; [20] one spoon of gold of ten shekels, full of incense; [21] one young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt offering; [22] one kid of the goats for a sin offering; [23] and for a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year; this was the offering of Nethaneel the son of Zuar.

[24] On the third day Eliab the son of Helon, prince of the children of Zebulun, did offer. [25] His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering; [26] one golden spoon of ten shekels, full of incense; [27] one young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt offering; [28] one kid of the goats for a sin offering; [29] and for a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year; this was the offering of Eliab the son of Helon.

[30] On the fourth day Elizur the son of Shedeur, prince of the children of Reuben, did offer. [31] His offering was one silver charger of the weight of an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering; [32] one golden spoon of ten shekels, full of incense; [33] one young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt offering; [34] one kid of the goats for a sin offering; [35] and for a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year; this was the offering of Elizur the son of Shedeur.

[36] On the fifth day Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai, prince of the children of Simeon, did offer. [37] His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering; [38] one golden spoon of ten shekels, full of incense; [39] one young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt offering; [40] one kid of the goats for a sin offering; [41] and for a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year; this was the offering of Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai.

[42] On the sixth day Eliasaph the son of Deuel, prince of the children of Gad, offered. [43] His offering was one silver charger of the weight of an hundred and thirty shekels, a silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering; [44] one golden spoon of ten shekels, full of incense; [45] one young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt offering; [46] one kid of the goats for a sin offering; [47] and for a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year; this was the offering of Eliasaph the son of Deuel.

[48] On the seventh day Elishama the son of Ammihud, prince of the children of Ephraim, offered. [49] His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering; [50] one golden spoon of ten shekels, full of incense; [51] one young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt offering; [52] one kid of the goats for a sin offering; [53] and for a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year; this was the offering of Elishama the son of Ammihud.

[54] On the eighth day offered Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur, prince of the children of Manasseh. [55] His offering was one silver charger of the weight of an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering; [56] one golden spoon of ten shekels, full of incense; [57] one young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt offering; [58] one kid of the goats for a sin offering; [59] and for a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year; this was the offering of Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur.

[60] On the ninth day Abidan the son of Gideoni, prince of the children of Benjamin, offered. [61] His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering; [62] one golden spoon of ten shekels, full of incense; [63] one young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt offering; [64] one kid of the goats for a sin offering; [65] and for a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year; this was the offering of Abidan the son of Gideoni.

[66] On the tenth day Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai, prince of the children of Dan, offered. [67] His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering; [68] one golden spoon of ten shekels, full of incense; [69] one young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt offering; [70] one kid of the goats for a sin offering; [71] and for a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year; this was the offering of Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai.

[72] On the eleventh day Pagiel the son of Ocran, prince of the children of Asher, offered. [73] His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering; [74] one golden spoon of ten shekels, full of incense; [75] one young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt offering; [76] one kid of the goats for a sin offering; [77] and for a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year; this was the offering of Pagiel the son of Ocran.

[78] On the twelfth day Ahira the son of Enan, prince of the children of Naphtali, offered. [79] His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering; [80] one golden spoon of ten shekels, full of incense; [81] one young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt offering; [82] one kid of the goats for a sin offering; [83] and for a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year; this was the offering of Ahira the son of Enan.

[84] This was the Dedication of the Altar, in the day when it was anointed, by the princes of Israel: twelve chargers of silver, twelve silver bowls, twelve spoons of gold; [85] each charger of silver weighing an hundred and thirty shekels, each bowl seventy; all the silver vessels weighed two thousand and four hundred shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary. [86] The golden spoons were twelve, full of incense, weighing ten shekels apiece, after the shekel of the sanctuary: all the gold of the spoons was an hundred and twenty shekels. [87] All the oxen for the burnt offering were twelve bullocks, the rams twelve, the lambs of the first year twelve, with their meat offering; and the kids of the goats for sin offering twelve. [88] And all the oxen for the sacrifice of the peace offerings were twenty and four bullocks, the rams sixty, the he goats sixty, the lambs of the first year sixty. This was the Dedication of the Altar, after that it was anointed.

[89] And when Moses was gone into the tabernacle of the congregation [p]to speak with †Him, then he heard [q]the voice of One speaking unto him from off the mercy seat that was upon the ark of testimony, from between the two cherubim; and He spake unto him.

[15] And after that shall the Levites go in to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation; and thou shalt cleanse them, and offer them for an offering. [1] AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [2] "Make thee two trumpets of silver, (of a whole piece shalt thou make them;) that thou mayest use them for the [a]calling of the assembly, and for the journeying of the camps. [3] And when [b]they shall blow with them, all the assembly shall assemble themselves to thee at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. [4] And if they blow but with one trumpet, then the princes, which are [c]heads of the thousands of Israel, shall gather themselves unto thee. [5] When ye blow an alarm, then [d]the camps that lie on the east parts shall go forward. [6] When ye blow an alarm the second time, then the camps that lie [e]on the south side shall take their journey; they shall blow an alarm for their journeys. [7] But when the congregation is to be gathered together, ye shall blow, but ye shall not [f]sound an alarm. [8] And [g]the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall blow with the trumpets; and they shall be to you for an ordinance for ever throughout your generations. [9] And [h]if ye go to war in your land against the enemy that [i]oppresseth you, then ye shall blow an alarm with the trumpets; and ye shall be [j]remembered before the LORD your God, and ye shall be saved from your enemies. [10] Also [k]in the day of your gladness, and in your solemn days, and in the beginnings of your months, ye shall blow with the trumpets over your burnt offerings, and over the sacrifices of your peace offerings; that they may be to you for a memorial before your God: I am the LORD your God."

SECTION XLIX.—Arrival of Jethro, with Moses' Wife and Sons;—Institution of the Sanhedrin.(25)

EXOD. xviii. 1–26.

[1] WHEN [a]Jethro, the priest of Midian, Moses' father-in-law, heard of all that [b]God had done for Moses, and for Israel his people, and that the LORD had brought Israel out of Egypt; [2] then Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, took Zipporah, Moses' wife, [c]after he had sent her back, [3] and her [d]two sons; of which the name of the one was *Gershom; for he said, "I have been an alien in a strange land;" [4] and the name of the other was †Eliezer; "For the God of my father," said he, "was my help, and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh." [5] And Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, came with his sons and his wife unto Moses into the wilderness, where he encamped at [e]the mount of God. [6] And he said unto Moses, "I, thy father-in-law Jethro, am come unto thee, and thy wife, and her two sons with her."

[7] And Moses [f]went out to meet his father-in-law, and did obeisance, and [g]kissed him; and they asked each other of their ‡welfare, and they came into the tent. [8] And Moses told his father-in-law all that the LORD had done unto Pharaoh and to the Egyptians for Israel's sake, and all the travail that had *come upon them by the way, and how the LORD [h]delivered them. [9] And Jethro rejoiced for all the goodness which the LORD had done to Israel, whom he had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians. [10] And Jethro said, "Blessed [i]be the LORD, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh, who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians. [11] Now I know that the LORD is [j]greater than all gods; [k]for in the thing wherein they dealt [l]proudly He was above them!" [12] And Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, took a burnt offering and sacrifices for God; and Aaron came, and all the elders of Israel, to eat bread with Moses' father-in-law [m]before God.

[13] And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses sat to judge the people; and the people stood by Moses from the morning unto the evening. [14] And when Moses' father-in-law saw all that he did to the people, he said, "What is this thing that thou doest to the people? why sittest thou thyself alone, and all the people stand by thee from morning unto even?" [15] And Moses said unto his father-in-law, "Because [n]the people come unto me to inquire of God; [16] when they have [o]a matter, they come unto me, and I judge between †one and another, and I do [p]make them know the statutes of God, and his laws." [17] And Moses' father-in-law said unto him, "The thing that thou doest is not good. [18] ‡Thou wilt surely wear away, both thou, and this people that is with thee; for this thing is too heavy for thee, [q]thou art not able to perform it thyself alone. [19] Hearken now unto my voice, I will give thee counsel, and [r]God shall be with thee. Be thou [s]for the people to Godward, that thou mayest [t]bring the causes unto God; [20] and thou shalt [u]teach them ordinances and laws, and shalt show them [v]the way wherein they must walk, and [w]the work that they must do. [21] Moreover thou shalt provide out of all the people [x]able men, such as [y]fear God, [z]men of truth, [a]hating covetousness; and place such over them, to be rulers of thousands, and rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. [22] And let them judge the people at all seasons; [b]and it shall be, that every great matter they shall bring unto thee, but every small matter they shall judge: so shall it be easier for thyself, [c]and they shall

[15] AND [a]on the day that the tabernacle was reared up the cloud covered the tabernacle (namely, the tent of the testimony); and [b]at even there was upon the tabernacle, as it were, the appearance of fire, until the morning. [16] So it was always; the cloud covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night. [17] And when the cloud [c]was taken up from the tabernacle, then after that the children of Israel journeyed; and in the place where the cloud abode, there the children of Israel pitched their tents. [18] At the commandment of the LORD the children of Israel journeyed, and at the commandment of the LORD they pitched; [d]as long as the cloud abode upon the tabernacle they rested in their tents. [19] And when the cloud *tarried long upon the tabernacle many days, then the children of Israel [e]kept the charge of the LORD, and journeyed not. [20] And so it was, when the cloud was a few days upon the tabernacle; according to the commandment of the LORD they abode in their tents, and according to the commandment of the LORD they journeyed. [21] And so it was, when the cloud †abode from even unto the morning, and that the cloud was taken up in the morning, then they journeyed; whether it was by day or by night that the cloud was taken up, they journeyed. Num. x. 11–28, 33, to end.

[11] And it came to pass on the twentieth day of the second month, in the second year, that the cloud [g]was taken up from off the tabernacle of the testimony. [12] And the children of Israel took [h]their journeys out of the [i]wilderness of Sinai; and the cloud rested in the [j]wilderness of Paran. [13] And they first took their journey [k]according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

[14] In [l]the first place went the standard of the camp of the children of Judah according to their armies; and over his host was [m]Nahshon the son of Amminadab. [15] And over the host of the tribe of the children of Issachar was Nethaneel the son of Zuar. [16] And over the host of the tribe of the children of Zebulun was Eliab the son of Helon. [17] And [n]the tabernacle was taken down; and the sons of Gershon and the sons of Merari set forward, [o]bearing the tabernacle.

[18] And [p]the standard of the camp of Reuben set forward according to their armies; and over his host was Elizur the son of Shedeur. [19] And over the host of the tribe of the children of Simeon was Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai. [20] And over the host of the tribe of the children of Gad was Eliasaph the son of Deuel. [21] And the Kohathites set forward, bearing the [q]sanctuary; and ‡the other did set up the tabernacle against they came.

[22] And [r]the standard of the camp of the children of Ephraim set forward according to their armies; and over his host was Elishama the son of Ammihud. [23] And over the host of the tribe of the children of Manasseh was Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur. [24] And over the host of the tribe of the children of Benjamin was Abidan the son of Gideoni.

[25] And [s]the standard of the camp of the children of Dan set forward, which was the rereward of all the camps throughout their hosts: and over his host was Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai. [26] And over the host of the tribe of the children of Asher was Pagiel the son of Ocran. [27] And over the host of the tribe of the children of Naphtali was Ahira the son of Enan. [28] *Thus were the journeyings of the children of Israel according to their armies, when they set forward.

[33] And they departed from [t]the mount of the LORD three days' journey; and the ark of the covenant of the LORD [u]went before them in the three days' journey, to search out a resting place for them. [34] And [v]the cloud of the LORD was upon them by day, when they went out of the camp. [35] And it came to pass, when the ark set forward, that Moses said,—

"Rise [w]up, LORD! and let thine enemies be scattered;
And let them that hate thee flee before thee."

[36] And when it rested, he said,—

"Return, O LORD! unto the †many thousands of Israel."

was as coriander seed, and the *color thereof as the color of bdellium. [8] And the people went about, and gathered it, and ground it in mills, or beat it in a mortar, and baked it in pans, and made cakes of it; and the taste of it was as the taste of fresh oil. [9] And when the dew fell upon the camp in the night, the manna fell upon it.

[10] Then Moses heard the people weep throughout their families, every man in the door of his tent. And [i]the anger of the Lord was kindled greatly; Moses also was displeased. [11] And [j]Moses said unto the Lord, "Wherefore hast thou afflicted thy servant? and wherefore have I not found favor in thy sight, that thou layest the burden of all this people upon me? [12] Have I conceived all this people? have I begotten them, that thou shouldest say unto me, [k]Carry them in thy bosom, as a [l]nursing father beareth the sucking child, unto the land which thou [m]swarest unto their fathers? [13] Whence [n]should I have flesh to give unto all this people? for they weep unto me, saying, 'Give us flesh, that we may eat.' [14] I [o]am not able to bear all this people alone, because it is too heavy for me. [15] And if thou deal thus with me, [p]kill me, I pray thee, out of hand, if I have found favor in thy sight; and let me not [q]see my wretchedness."

[16] And the Lord said unto Moses, "Gather unto me [r]seventy men of the elders of Israel, whom thou knowest to be the elders of the people, and [s]officers over them; and bring them unto the tabernacle of the congregation, that they may stand there with thee. [17] And I will [t]come down and talk with thee there; and [u]I will take of the Spirit which is upon thee, and will put it upon them, and they shall bear the burden of the people with thee, that thou bear it not thyself alone. [18] And say thou unto the people, [v]Sanctify yourselves against to-morrow, and ye shall eat flesh; for ye have wept [w]in the ears of the Lord, saying, 'Who shall give us flesh to eat? [x]for it was well with us in Egypt;' therefore the Lord will give you flesh, and ye shall eat. [19] Ye shall not eat one day, nor two days, nor five days, neither ten days, nor twenty days, [20] but even a †whole month, until it come out at your nostrils, and it be loathsome unto you; because that ye have despised the Lord which is among you, and have wept before him, saying, 'Why [y]came we forth out of Egypt?'"

[21] And Moses said, "The [z]people among whom I am, are six hundred thousand footmen; and thou hast said, 'I will give them flesh, that they may eat a whole month.' [22] Shall [a]the flocks and the herds be slain for them, to suffice them? or shall all the fish of the sea be gathered together for them, to suffice them?" [23] And the Lord said unto Moses, "Is [b]the Lord's hand waxed short? thou shalt see now whether [c]my word shall come to pass unto thee or not."

[24] And Moses went out, and told the people the words of the Lord, and gathered the seventy men of the elders of the people, and set them round about the tabernacle. [25] And the Lord [d]came down in a cloud, and spake unto him, and took of the Spirit that was upon him, and gave it unto the seventy elders; and it came to pass, that, [e]when the Spirit rested upon them, [f]they prophesied, and did not cease. [26] But there remained two of the men in the camp, the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad; and the Spirit rested upon them, and they were of them that were written, but [g]went not out unto the tabernacle, and they prophesied in the camp. [27] And there ran a young man, and told Moses, and said, "Eldad and Medad do prophesy in the camp." [28] And Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of Moses, one of his young men, answered and said, "My lord Moses, [h]forbid them!" [29] And Moses said unto him, "Enviest thou for my sake? [1] And Miriam and Aaron spake against Moses because of the †Ethiopian woman whom he had married, (for he had ‡married an Ethiopian woman); [2] and they said, "Hath the Lord indeed spoken only by Moses? [a]hath he not spoken also by us?" And the Lord [b]heard it; [3] (Now the man Moses was very meek, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth); [4] and [c]the Lord spake suddenly unto Moses, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, "Come out ye three unto the tabernacle of the congregation." And they three came out. [5] And [d]the Lord came down in the pillar of the cloud, and stood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam; and they both came forth. [6] And he said, "Hear now my words. If there be a prophet among you, I the Lord will make myself known unto him [e]in a vision, and will speak unto him [f]in a dream. [7] My servant Moses is not so, [g]who is faithful in all [h]my house. [8] With him will I speak [i]mouth to mouth, even [j]apparently, and not in dark speeches; and [k]the similitude of the Lord shall he behold—wherefore then [l]were ye not afraid to speak against my servant Moses?" [9] And the anger of the Lord was kindled against them; and he departed. [10] And the cloud departed from off the tabernacle; and, [m]behold, Miriam became [n]leprous, white as snow! and Aaron looked upon Miriam, and, behold, she was leprous! [11] And Aaron said unto Moses, "Alas! my lord, I beseech thee, [o]lay not the sin upon us, wherein we have done foolishly, and wherein we have sinned. [12] Let her not be [p]as one dead, of whom the flesh is half consumed when he cometh out of his mother's womb." [13] And Moses cried unto the Lord, saying, "Heal [q]her now, O God, I beseech thee!"

[14] And the Lord said unto Moses, "If [r]her father had but spit in her face, should she not be ashamed seven days? let her be [s]shut out from the camp seven days, and after that let her be received in again." [15] And [t]Miriam was shut out from the camp seven days; and the people journeyed not till Miriam was brought in again.

[16] And afterward the people removed from [a]Hazeroth, and pitched in the wilderness of Paran.

Num. xiii.

[1] And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, [2] "Send [b]thou men, that they may search the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Israel; of every tribe of their fathers shall ye send a man, every one a ruler among them." [3] And Moses, by the commandment of the Lord, sent them [c]from the wilderness of Paran; all those men were heads of the children of Israel.

[4] And these were their names:—of the tribe of Reuben, Shammua the son of Zaccur; [5] of the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the son of Hori; [6] of [d]the tribe of Judah, [e]Caleb the son of Jephunneh; [7] of the tribe of Issachar, Igal the son of Joseph; [8] of the tribe of Ephraim, Oshea the son of Nun; [9] of the tribe of Benjamin, Palti the son of Raphu; [10] of the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel the son of Sodi; [11] of the tribe of Joseph, (namely, of the tribe of Manasseh), Gaddi the son of Susi; [12] of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the son of Gemalli; [13] of the tribe of Asher, Sethur the son of Michael; [14] of the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi the son of Vophsi; [15] of the tribe of Gad, Geuel the son of Machi: [16] these are the names of the men which Moses sent to spy out the land. And Moses called [f]Oshea, the son of Nun, Jehoshua.

[17] And Moses sent them to spy out the land of Canaan, and said unto them, "Get you up this way southward, and go up into [g]the mountain. [18] And see the land, what it is; and the people that dwelleth therein, whether they be strong or weak, few or many; [19] and what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad; and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents, or in strong holds; [20] and what the land is, whether it be [h]fat or lean, whether there be wood therein, or not. And [i]be ye of good courage, and bring of the fruit of the land." Now the time was the time of the first ripe grapes.

[21] So they went up, and searched the land [j]from the wilderness of Zin unto [k]Rehob, as men come to Hamath. [22] And they ascended by the south, and came unto Hebron: where [l]Ahiman, Sheshai, and Talmai, the children of Anak, were. (Now [m]Hebron was built seven years before [n]Zoan in Egypt.) [23] And [o]they came unto the *brook of Eshcol, and cut down from thence a branch with one cluster of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a staff; and they brought of the pomegranates, and of the figs. [24] The place was called the †brook ‡Eshcol, because of the cluster of grapes which the children of Israel cut down from thence. [25] And they returned from searching of the land after forty days.

[26] And they went and came to Moses, and to Aaron, and to all the congregation of the children of Israel unto the wilderness of Paran, to [p]Kadesh; and brought back word unto them, and unto all the congregation, and showed them the fruit of the land. [27] And they told him, and said, "We came unto the land whither thou sentest us, and surely it floweth with [q]milk and honey; [r]and this is the fruit of it. NUM. xiv.

[1] And all the congregation [b]lifted up their voice, and cried; and [c]the people wept that night. [2] And [d]all the children of Israel murmured against Moses and against Aaron; and the whole congregation said unto them, "Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt! or [e]would God we had died in this wilderness! [3] And wherefore hath the LORD brought us unto this land, to fall by the sword, that our wives and our children should be a prey? were it not better for us to return into Egypt?" [4] And they said one to another, "Let [f]us make a captain, and [g]let us return into Egypt." [5] Then [h]Moses and Aaron fell on their faces before all the assembly of the congregation of the children of Israel.

[6] And Joshua the son of Nun, and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, which were of them that searched the land, rent their clothes. [7] And they spake unto all the company of the children of Israel, saying, "The land, which we passed through to search it, is an exceeding good land. [8] If the LORD [i]delight in us, then he will bring us into this land, and give it us; [j]a land which floweth with milk and honey. [9] Only [k]rebel not ye against the LORD, [l]neither fear ye the people of the land; for [m]they are bread for us: their †defence is departed from them, [n]and the LORD is with us: fear them not." [10] But [o]all the congregation bade stone them with stones. And [p]the glory of the LORD appeared in the tabernacle of the congregation before all the children of Israel.

[11] And the LORD said unto Moses, "How long will this people [q]provoke me? and how long will it be ere they [r]believe me, for all the signs which I have showed among them? [12] I will smite them with the pestilence, and disinherit them, and [s]will make of thee a greater nation and mightier than they.

[13] And [t]Moses said unto the LORD, "Then the Egyptians shall hear it, (for thou broughtest up this people in thy might from among them,) [14] and they will tell it to the inhabitants of this land; [u]for they have heard that thou LORD art among this people, that thou LORD art seen face to face, and that [v]thy cloud standeth over them, and that thou goest before them, by day time in a pillar of a cloud, and in a pillar of fire by night. [15] Now if thou shalt kill all this people as one man, then the nations which have heard the fame of thee will speak, saying, [16] Because the LORD was not [w]able to bring this people into the land which he sware unto them, therefore he hath slain them in the wilderness. [17] And now, I beseech thee, let the power of my LORD be great, according as thou hast spoken, saying, [18] 'The LORD is [x]longsuffering, and of great mercy, forgiving iniquity and transgression, and by no means clearing the guilty, [y]visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation.' [19] Pardon, [z]I beseech thee, the iniquity of this people [a]according unto the greatness of thy mercy, and [b]as thou hast forgiven this people, from Egypt even ‡until now."

[20] And the LORD said, "I have pardoned [c]according to thy word:

[21] but as truly as I live, [d]all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the LORD. [22] Because [e]all those men which have seen my glory, and my miracles, which I did in Egypt and in the wilderness, have tempted me now [f]these ten times, and have not hearkened to my voice; [23] *surely they shall not see the land which I sware unto their fathers, neither shall any of them that provoked me see it: [24] but my servant [g]Caleb, because he had another spirit with him, and [h]hath followed me fully, him will I bring into the land whereinto he went; and his seed shall possess it. [25] (Now the Amalekites and the Canaanites dwelt in the valley.) To-morrow turn you, [i]and get you into the wilderness by the way of the Red Sea."

[26] And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying, [27] "How [j]long shall I bear with this evil congregation, which murmur against me? [k]I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel, which they murmur against me. [28] Say unto them, [l]As truly as I live, saith the LORD, [m]as ye have spoken in mine ears, so will I do to you: [29] your carcasses shall fall in this wilderness; and [n]all that were numbered of you, according to your whole number, from twenty years old and upward, which have murmured against me, [30] doubtless ye shall not come into the land, concerning which I †sware to make you dwell therein, [o]save Caleb the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua the son of Nun. [31] But [p]your little ones, which ye said should be a prey, them will I bring in, and they shall know the land which [q]ye have despised. [32] But as for you, [r]your carcasses, they shall fall in this wilderness. [33] And your children shall ‡wander in the wilderness [s]forty years, and [t]bear your whoredoms, until your carcasses be wasted in the wilderness. [34] After [u]the number of the days in which ye searched the land, even [v]forty days, each day for a year, shall ye bear your iniquities, even forty years, [w]and ye shall know *my breach of promise. [35] I [x]the LORD have said, I will surely do it unto all [y]this evil congregation, that are gathered together against me: in this wilderness they shall be consumed, and there they shall die." [36] And [z]the men, which Moses sent to search the land, who returned, and made all the congregation to murmur against him, by bringing up a slander upon the land, [37] even those men that did bring up the evil report upon the land, [a]died by the plague before the LORD. [38] But [b]Joshua the son of Nun, and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, which were of the men that went to search the land, lived still. [39] And Moses told these sayings unto all the children of Israel: [c]and the people mourned greatly.

[40] And they rose up early in the morning, and gat them up into the top of the mountain, saying, "Lo! [d]we be here, and will go up unto the place which the LORD hath promised: for we have sinned." [41] And Moses said, "Wherefore now do ye transgress [e]the commandment of the LORD? but it shall not prosper. [42] Go [f]not up, for the LORD is not among you; that ye be not smitten before your enemies. [43] For the Amalekites and the Canaanites are there before you, and ye shall fall by the sword; [g]because ye are turned away from the LORD, therefore the LORD will not be with you." [44] But [h]they presumed to go up unto the hill top; nevertheless the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and Moses, departed not out of the camp. [45] Then the Amalekites came down, and the Canaanites which dwelt in that hill, and smote them, and discomfited them, even unto [i]Hormah.

PSALM XC.(26)

*A Prayer of †Moses the man of God.

Moses, setting forth God's providence, 3 complaineth of human fragility, 7 divine chastisements, 10 and brevity of life. 12 He prayeth for the knowledge and sensible experience of God's good providence.

[1] Lord! [a]thou hast been our dwelling-place ‡in all generations.
[2] Before [b]the mountains were brought forth,
Or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world,
Even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God.
[3] Thou turnest man to destruction;
And sayest, [c]Return, ye children of men.
[4] For [d]a thousand years in thy sight
Are but as yesterday *when it is past,
And as a watch in the night.
[5] Thou carriest them away as with a flood;
They [e]are as a sleep:
In the morning [f]they are like grass which †groweth up.
[6] In [g]the morning it flourisheth, and groweth up;
In the evening it is cut down, and withereth.
[7] For we are consumed by thine anger,
And by thy wrath are we troubled.
[8] Thou [h]hast set our iniquities before thee,
Our [i]secret sins in the light of thy countenance.
[9] For all our days are ‡passed away in thy wrath:
We spend our years *as a tale that is told.
[10] †The days of our years are threescore years and ten;
And if by reason of strength they be fourscore years,
Yet is their strength labor and sorrow;
For it is soon cut off, and we fly away.
[11] Who knoweth the power of thine anger?
Even according to thy fear, so is thy wrath.
[12] So [j]teach us to number our days,
That we may ‡apply our hearts unto wisdom.
[13] Return, O LORD! how long?
And let it [k]repent thee concerning thy servants.
[14] O satisfy us early with thy mercy!
That [l]we may rejoice and be glad all our days.
[15] Make us glad according to the days wherein thou hast afflicted us,
And the years wherein we have seen evil.
[16] Let [m]thy work appear unto thy servants,
And thy glory unto their children.
[17] And [n]let the beauty of the LORD our God be upon us,
And [o]establish thou the work of our hands upon us;
Yea, the work of our hands establish thou it.

as ye are, so shall the stranger be before the Lord. [16] One law and one manner shall be for you, and for the stranger that sojourneth with you."

[17] And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, [18] "Speak [n]unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land whither
I bring you, [19] then it shall be, that, when ye eat of [o]the bread of the land,

[1] Now [a]Korah, the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, and Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, and On, the son of Peleth, sons of Reuben, took men. [2] And they rose up before Moses, with certain of the children of Israel, two hundred and fifty princes of the assembly, [b]famous in the congregation, men of renown. [3] And [c]they gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron, and said unto them, "*Ye take too much upon you, seeing [d]all the congregation are holy, every one of them, [e]and the LORD is among them; wherefore then lift ye up yourselves above the congregation of the LORD?"

[15] And Moses was very wroth, and said unto the Lord, "Respect [o]not thou their offering; [p]I have not taken one ass from them, neither have I hurt one of them." [16] And Moses said unto Korah, "Be thou and all thy company [q]before the Lord, thou, and they, and Aaron, to-morrow; [17] and take every man his censer, and put incense in them, and bring ye before the Lord every man his censer, two hundred and fifty censers; thou also, and Aaron, each of you his censer."

[22] And they [u]fell upon their faces, and said, "O God! [v]the God of the spirits of all flesh, shall one man sin, and wilt thou be wroth with all the congregation?"

[23] And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, [24] "Speak unto the congregation, saying, Get you up from about the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram." [25] And Moses rose up and went unto Dathan and Abiram; and the elders of Israel followed him. [26] And he spake unto the congregation, saying, "Depart, [w]I pray you, from the tents of these wicked men, and touch nothing of theirs, lest ye be consumed in all their sins." [27] So they gat up from the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, on every side; and Dathan and Abiram came out, and stood in the door of their tents, and their wives, and their sons, and their little children. [28] And Moses said, "Hereby [x]ye shall know that the Lord hath sent me to do all these works; for I have not done them [y]of mine own mind. [29] If these men die ‡the common death of all men, or if they be [z]visited after the visitation of all men; then the Lord hath not sent me. [30] But if the Lord *make [a]a new thing, and the earth open her mouth, and swallow them up, with all that appertain unto them, and they [b]go down quick into the pit; then ye shall understand that these men have provoked the Lord."

[31] And [c]it came to pass, as he had made an end of speaking all these words, that the ground clave asunder that was under them. [32] And the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up, and their houses, [d]and all the men that appertained unto Korah, and all their goods. [33] They, and all that appertained to them, went down alive into the pit, and the earth closed upon them; and they perished from among the congregation! [34] And all Israel that were round about them fled at the cry of them; for they said, "Lest the earth swallow us up also!" [35] And there [e]came out a fire from the Lord, and consumed the two hundred and fifty men that offered incense.

[36] And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, [37] "Speak unto Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, that he take up the censers out of the burning, and scatter thou the fire yonder; [f]for they are hallowed. [38] The censers of these [g]sinners against their own souls, let them make them broad plates for a covering of the altar; for they offered them before the Lord, therefore they are hallowed, [h]and they shall be a sign unto the children of Israel. [39] And Eleazar the priest took the brazen censers, wherewith they that were burnt had offered; and they were made broad plates for a covering of the altar, [40] to be a memorial unto the children of Israel, [i]that no stranger, which is not of the seed of Aaron, come near to offer incense before the LORD, that he be not as Korah, and as his company; as the LORD said to him by the hand of Moses.

[41] But on the morrow [j]all the congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and against Aaron, saying, "Ye have killed the people of the LORD." [42] And it came to pass, when the congregation was gathered against Moses and against Aaron, that they looked toward the tabernacle of the congregation; and, behold, [k]the cloud covered it, and [l]the glory of the LORD appeared! [43] And Moses and Aaron came before the tabernacle of the congregation.

[44] And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [45] "Get you up from among this congregation, that I may consume them as in a moment." And they fell upon their faces.

[46] And Moses said unto Aaron, "Take a censer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incense, and go quickly unto the congregation, and make an atonement for them; [m]for there is wrath gone out from the LORD—the plague is begun!" [47] And Aaron took as Moses commanded, and ran into the midst of the congregation; and, behold, the plague was begun among the people! and he put on incense, and made an atonement for the people. [48] And he stood between the dead and the living, and the plague was stayed. [49] Now they that died in the plague were fourteen thousand and seven hundred, besides them that died about the matter of Korah. [50] And Aaron returned unto Moses unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation; and the plague was stayed.

NUM. xvii.

[1] And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [2] "Speak unto the children of Israel, and take of every one of them a rod according to the house of their fathers, of all their princes according to the house of their fathers, twelve rods; write thou every man's name upon his rod. [3] And thou shalt write Aaron's name upon the rod of Levi; for one rod shall be for the head of the house of their fathers. [4] And thou shalt lay them up in the tabernacle of the congregation before the testimony, [n]where I will meet with you. [5] And it shall come to pass, that the man's rod, [o]whom I shall choose, shall blossom; and I will make to cease from me the murmurings of the children of Israel, [p]whereby they murmur against you."

[6] And Moses spake unto the children of Israel, and every one of their princes gave him †a rod apiece, for each prince one, according to their fathers' houses, even twelve rods; and the rod of Aaron was among their rods. [7] And Moses laid up the rods before the LORD in [q]the tabernacle of witness.

[8] And it came to pass, that on the morrow Moses went into the tabernacle of witness; and, behold, the rod of Aaron for the house of Levi was budded, and brought forth buds, and bloomed blossoms, and yielded almonds. [9] And Moses brought out all the rods from before the LORD unto all the children of Israel; and they looked, and took every man his rod.

[10] And the LORD said unto Moses, "Bring [r]Aaron's rod again before the testimony, to be kept for a token against the ‡rebels; and thou shalt quite take away their murmurings from me, that they die not. [11] And Moses did so; as the LORD commanded him, so did he. [12] And the children of Israel spake unto Moses, saying, "Behold, we die! we perish! we all perish! [13] whosoever [s]cometh any thing near unto the tabernacle of the LORD shall die: shall we be consumed with dying?"

Num. xviii.

The charge of the priests and Levites. 9 The priests' portion. 21 The Levites' portion. 25 The heave offering to the priests out of the Levites' portion.

[1] And the Lord said unto Aaron, "Thou and thy sons and thy father's house with thee, shall [a]bear the iniquity of the sanctuary; and thou and thy sons with thee shall bear the iniquity of your priesthood. [2] And thy brethren also of the tribe of Levi, the tribe of thy father, bring thou with thee, that they may be [b]joined unto thee, and [c]minister unto thee; but [d]thou and thy sons with thee shall minister before the tabernacle of witness. [3] And they shall keep thy charge, and [e]the charge of all the tabernacle; [f]only they shall not come nigh the vessels of the sanctuary and the altar, [g]that neither they, nor ye also, die. [4] And they shall be joined unto thee, and keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, for all the service of the tabernacle; [h]and a stranger shall not come nigh unto you. [5] And ye shall keep [i]the charge of the sanctuary, and the charge of the altar; [j]that there be no wrath any more upon the children of Israel. [6] And I, behold, I have [k]taken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Israel; [l]to you they are given as a gift for the Lord, to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation. [7] Therefore thou and thy sons with thee shall keep your priest's office for every thing of the altar, and [m]within the veil; and ye shall serve. I have given your priest's office unto you as a service of gift; and the stranger that cometh nigh shall be put to death."

[8] And the Lord spake unto Aaron, "Behold, [n]I also have given thee the charge of my heave offerings of all the hallowed things of the children of Israel; unto thee have I given them [o]by reason of the anointing, and to thy sons, by an ordinance for ever. [9] This shall be thine of the most holy things, reserved from the fire; every oblation of theirs, every [p]meat offering of theirs, and every [q]sin offering of theirs, and every [r]trespass offering of theirs, which they shall render unto me, shall be most holy for thee and for thy sons. [10] In [s]the most holy place shalt thou eat it; every male shall eat it; it shall be holy unto thee. [11] And this is thine; [t]the heave offering of their gift, with all the wave offerings of the children of Israel: I have given them unto [u]thee, and to thy sons and to thy daughters with thee, by a statute for ever; [v]every one that is clean in thy house shall eat of it. [12] All [w]the *best of the oil, and all the best of the wine, and of the wheat, [x]the firstfruits of them which they shall offer unto the Lord, them have I given thee. [13] And whatsoever is first ripe in the land, [y]which they shall bring unto the Lord, shall be thine; every one that is clean in thy house shall eat of it. [14] Every [z]thing devoted in Israel shall be thine. [15] Every thing that openeth [a]the matrix in all flesh, which they bring unto the Lord, whether it be of men or beasts, shall be thine; nevertheless [b]the firstborn of man shalt thou surely redeem, and the firstling of unclean beasts shalt thou redeem. [16] And those that are to be redeemed from a month old shalt thou redeem, [c]according to thine estimation, for the money of five shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, [d]which is twenty gerahs. [17] But [e]the firstling of a cow, or the firstling of a sheep, or the firstling of a goat, thou shalt not redeem; they are holy: [f]thou shalt sprinkle their blood upon the altar, and shalt burn their fat for an offering made by fire, for a sweet savour unto the Lord. [18] And the flesh of them shall be thine, as the [g]wave breast and as the right shoulder are thine. [19] All the heave offerings of the holy things, which the children of Israel offer unto the Lord, have I given thee, and thy sons and thy daughters with thee, by a statute for ever;

[1] THEN came the children of Israel, even the whole congregation, into the desert of Zin in the first month. And the people abode in Kadesh; and [a]Miriam died there, and was buried there.

[2] And [b]there was no water for the congregation; [c]and they gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron. [3] And the people chode with Moses, and spake, saying, "Would God that we had died [d]when our brethren died before the LORD! [4] And [e]why have ye brought up the congregation of the LORD into this wilderness, that we and our cattle should die there? [5] And wherefore have ye made us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us in unto this evil place? it is no place of seed, or of figs, or of vines, or of pomegranates; neither is there any water to drink." [6] And Moses and Aaron went from the presence of the assembly unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and [f]they fell upon their faces; and [g]the Glory of the LORD appeared unto them.

[7] And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [8] "Take [h]the rod, and gather thou the assembly together, thou and Aaron thy brother, and speak ye unto the rock before their eyes; and it shall give forth his water, and [i]thou shalt bring forth to them water out of the rock: so thou shalt give the congregation and their beasts drink." [9] And Moses took the rod from before the LORD, as he commanded him. [10] And Moses and Aaron gathered the congregation together before the rock, and he said unto them, "Hear [j]now, ye rebels! must we fetch you water out of this rock?" [11] And Moses lifted up his hand, and with his rod he smote the rock twice: and [k]the water came out abundantly, and the congregation drank, and their beasts also.

[12] And the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron, "Because [l]ye believed me not, to [m]sanctify me in the eyes of the children of Israel, therefore ye shall not bring this congregation into the land which I have given them." [13] This [n]is the water of *Meribah; because the children of Israel strove with the LORD, and he was sanctified in them.

[14] AND [a]Moses sent messengers from Kadesh unto the king of Edom, "Thus [b]saith thy brother Israel, Thou knowest all the travel that hath *befallen us; [15] how [c]our fathers went down into Egypt, [d]and we have dwelt in Egypt a long time: [e]and the Egyptians vexed us, and our fathers. [16] And [f]when we cried unto the LORD, he heard our voice, and [g]sent an angel, and hath brought us forth out of Egypt; and, behold, we are in Kadesh, a city in the uttermost of thy border. [17] Let [h]us pass, I pray thee, through thy country; we will not pass through the fields, or through the vineyards, neither will we drink of the water of the wells; we will go by the king's highway, we will not turn to the right hand nor to the left, until we have passed thy borders."

(27) This conquest of Arad is supposed to be spoken of prophetically; its final subjugation being completed by Joshua (Joshua xii. 14.) Arad is situated on the very border of Canaan; it is not improbable, therefore, that the king began the war against the Israelites, not only when they were comparatively unused to war, but at the very time when they were repulsed by the king of Edom. Though Arad was unsuccessful in his present attack, the people of Arad were not finally subdued till the days of Joshua; and I have therefore inserted this narrative after Edom refuses to permit the Israelites to pass through his territory, and immediately before the removal from Kadesh-barnea.—Vide Horsley's Bib. Crit. vol. i. p. 174.

[18] And Edom said unto him, "Thou shalt not pass by me, lest I come out against thee with the sword." [19] And the children of Israel said unto him, "We will go by the highway; and if I and my cattle drink of thy water, then I will pay for it. I will only, without doing any thing else, go through on my feet." [20] And he said, "Thou [i]shalt not go through." And Edom came out against him with much people, and with a strong hand. [21] Thus Edom [j]refused to give Israel passage through his border; wherefore Israel turned away from him.

(28) There were various modes in which the divine will was communicated to man: one of which was, compelling the prophet, whether contrary, or agreeably, to his inclination, to utter certain prophetic truths and oracular responses. Of all the patriarchal prophets at this period of the world, Balaam appears to have been the most celebrated; and Balak, fearing the Israelites, who "cover the face of the earth," sends to Balaam, entreating him to come and curse these invaders. The seer professes his desire to please the king. but at the same time, gives him to understand, that he is the mere instrument of making known the decree of the Almighty. The Angel Jehovah was justly considered to have established the patriarchal dispensation, and as this system was now on the eve of being abrogated, it was to be expected that the same Divine Being, who had introduced it, would effect its abolition. We read accordingly, that when Balaam received the messengers of Balak, the Lord, the Angel Jehovah, appeared unto him; and God said unto him, "Thou shalt not go with them; thou shalt not curse the people; for they are blessed." This annunciation checked for a time the ambition and covetousness of the prophet; the messengers returned with more honorable offers to Balaam, when the Angel of the Lord appears as the captain of the Lord's host, "standing in the way, his sword drawn

[2] And [b]Balak the son of Zippor saw all that Israel had done to the Amorites. [3] And [c]Moab was sore afraid of the people, because they were many; and Moab was distressed because of the children of Israel. [4] And Moab said unto [d]the elders of Midian, "Now shall this company lick up all that are round about us, as the ox licketh up the grass of the field." And Balak the son of Zippor was king of the Moabites at that time. [5] He [e]sent messengers therefore unto Balaam the son of Beor to [f]Pethor, which is by the river of the land of the children of his people, to call him, saying, "Behold, there is a people come out from Egypt; behold, they cover the *face of the earth, and they abide over against me. [6] Come now therefore, I pray thee, curse me this people; for they are too mighty for me: peradventure I shall prevail, that we may smite them, and that I may drive them out of the land; for I wot that he whom thou blessest is blessed, and he whom thou cursest is cursed." [7] And the elders of Moab and the elders of Midian departed with [g]the rewards of divination in their hand; and they came unto Balaam, and spake unto him the words of Balak. [8] And he said unto them, "Lodge here this night, and I will bring you word again, as the LORD shall speak unto me." And the princes of Moab abode with Balaam.

[15] And Balak sent yet again princes, more, and more honorable than they. [16] And they came to Balaam, and said to him, "Thus saith Balak the son of Zippor, ‡Let nothing, I pray thee, hinder thee from coming unto me. [17] For I will promote thee unto very great honor, and I will do whatsoever thou sayest unto me; come therefore, I pray thee, curse me this people." [18] And Balaam answered and said unto the servants of Balak, "If Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, [j]I cannot go beyond the word of the LORD my God, to do less or more. [19] Now therefore, I pray you, tarry ye also here this night, that I may know what the LORD will say unto me more."

in his hand," and He declares to the prophet, that whatever he may himself wish to predict, from the desire of promotion, "only the word that I shall speak unto thee, that thou shalt speak." Every evidence, therefore, that the Israelites were the peculiar chosen people of God, separated by him from the apostate Gentiles, and that patriarchism was consequently abolished, was thus afforded to the people of the East. From this time, except through the medium of God's chosen people, the apostate children of Noah had no intercourse with God: and Balaam, with whatever reluctance, was constrained by the Holy Spirit, to pronounce the inauguration of a new system, and thereby dissolve the old one.

The prophecies of Balaam, then, may be considered as the "death song of patriarchism," and at the very moment when this primeval system was formally abrogated, God, in his mercy, gives to the penitent Gentiles, an assurance of a future Saviour:

"There shall come a Star out of Jacob,
And a Sceptre shall rise out of Israel."

It is supposed that this prophecy of the Messiah, together with the more ancient tradition of Noah, never ceased to prevail in a greater or less degree throughout the pagan world; until the eastern magi came to seek the Messiah, having seen his star in the east. Balaam, after having announced the national prosperity of the chosen people of God, in the Holy Land (Numb. xxiii. 21-24.), predicts the subjugation of the nations whose princes then surrounded him; and concludes by his prophecy of the captivity of the Jews, and the punishment of their oppressors. Thus was the goodness of Providence displayed, in permitting a Gentile prophet to declare to the Gentiles, the same truths which he revealed to his own people by the Hebrew prophets; which is an earnest and evidence, that all nations are interested in the mission of his Son; and that the Gentiles shall be again received into God's visible Church upon earth.—Vide Witsius, De Prophetis et Prophetiâ; Faber's Horæ Mosaicæ, vol. i. p. 92, and following; Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 219-230; Allix, Reflections, ch. xi.; Calmet, art. Balaam; Bishop Newton On the Prophecies, vol. i.; and Calvin, quoted by Witsius, Misc. Sac. p. 178.

[20] And God came unto Balaam at night, and said unto him, "If the men come to call thee, rise up, and go with them; but yet the word which I shall say unto thee, that shalt thou do." [21] And Balaam rose up in the morning, and saddled his ass, and went with the princes of Moab.

[22] And God's anger was kindled because he went; and [k]the Angel of the Lord stood in the way for an adversary against him. Now he was riding upon his ass, and his two servants were with him. [23] And [l]the ass saw the Angel of the Lord standing in the way, and his sword drawn in his hand; and the ass turned aside out of the way, and went into the field, and Balaam smote the ass, to turn her into the way. [24] But the Angel of the Lord stood in a path of the vineyards, a wall being on this side, and a wall on that side. [25] And when the ass saw the Angel of the Lord, she thrust herself unto the wall, and crushed Balaam's foot against the wall; and he smote her again. [26] And the Angel of the Lord went further, and stood in a narrow place, where was no way to turn either to the right hand or to the left. [27] And when the ass saw the Angel of the Lord, she fell down under Balaam; and Balaam's anger was kindled, and he smote the ass with a staff. [28] And the Lord opened the mouth of the ass, and she said unto Balaam, "What have I done unto thee, that thou hast smitten me these three times?" [29] And Balaam said unto the ass, "Because thou hast mocked me; I would there were a sword in my hand, [m]for now would I kill thee." [30] And the ass said unto Balaam, "Am not I thine ass, *upon which thou hast ridden †ever since I was thine unto this day? was I ever wont to do so unto thee?" And he said, "Nay." [31] Then the Lord [n]opened the eyes of Balaam, and he saw the Angel of the Lord standing in the way, and his sword drawn in his hand; and he [o]bowed down his head, and ‡fell flat on his face. [32] And the Angel of the Lord said unto him, "Wherefore hast thou smitten thine ass these three times? behold, I went out *to withstand thee, because thy way is [p]perverse before me. [33] And the ass saw me, and turned from me these three times: unless she had turned from me, surely now also I had slain thee, and saved her alive." [34] And Balaam said unto the Angel of the Lord, "I [q]have sinned, for I knew not that thou stoodest in the way against me; now, therefore, if it †displease thee, I will get me back again." [35] And the Angel of the Lord said unto Balaam, "Go with the men; but only the word that I shall speak unto thee, that thou shalt speak." So Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

‡ Or, a city of streets.

[41] And it came to pass on the morrow, that Balak took Balaam, and brought him up into the [t]high places of Baal, that thence he might see the utmost part of the people. [1] And Balaam said unto Balak, Num. xxiii.
"Build me here seven altars, and prepare me here [u]seven oxen and seven rams." [2] And Balak did as Balaam had spoken; and Balak and Balaam offered on every altar a bullock and a ram. [3] And Balaam said unto Balak, "Stand by thy burnt offering, and I will go.

[u] Job 42. 8.

Peradventure the LORD will come to meet me; and whatsoever he showeth me I will tell thee." And *he went to a high place, [4] and God met Balaam. And he said unto Him, "I have prepared seven altars, and I have offered upon every altar a bullock and a ram." [5] And the LORD [v]put a word in Balaam's mouth, and said, "Return unto Balak, and thus thou shalt speak." [6] And he returned unto him, and lo, he stood by his burnt sacrifice, he, and all the princes of Moab. [7] And he [w]took up his parable, and said,—

"Balak the king of Moab hath brought me from Aram,
Out of the mountains of the East, saying,
'Come—curse me Jacob,
And come—defy [x]Israel.'
[8] How [y]shall I curse, whom God hath not cursed?
Or how shall I defy, whom the LORD hath not defied?
[9] For from the top of the rocks I see him,
And from the hills I behold him.
Lo! [z]the people shall dwell alone,
And [a]shall not be reckoned among the nations.
[10] Who [b]can count the dust of Jacob,
And the number of the fourth part of Israel?
Let †me die the death of the righteous,
And let my last end be like his!"

[11] And Balak said unto Balaam, "What hast thou done unto me? I took thee to curse mine enemies, and, behold, thou hast blessed them altogether!" [12] And he answered and said, "Must I not take heed to speak that which the LORD hath put in my mouth?" [13] And Balak said unto him, "Come, I pray thee, with me unto another place, from whence thou mayest see them, (thou shalt see but the utmost part of them, and shalt not see them all;) and curse me them from thence."

[14] And he brought him into the field of Zophim, to the top of ‡Pisgah, and built seven altars, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar. [15] And he said unto Balak, "Stand here by thy burnt offering, while I meet the LORD yonder." [16] And the LORD met Balaam, and put a word in his mouth, and said, "Go again unto Balak, and say thus." [17] And when he came to him, behold, he stood by his burnt offering, and the princes of Moab with him. And Balak said unto him, "What hath the LORD spoken?" [18] And he took up his parable, and said,—

"Rise [c]up, Balak, and hear!
Hearken unto me, thou son of Zippor!
[19] God [d]is not a man, that he should lie;
Neither the son of man, that he should repent:
Hath he said—and shall he not do it?
Or hath he spoken—and shall he not make it good?
[20] Behold! I have received commandment to bless:
And [e]he hath blessed; and I cannot reverse it.
[21] He [f]hath not beheld iniquity in Jacob,
Neither hath he seen perverseness in Israel:
The [g]LORD his God is with him,
And [h]the shout of a king is among them.
[22] God brought them out of Egypt;
He hath as it were [i]the strength of a unicorn.
[23] Surely there is no enchantment *against Jacob,
Neither is there any divination against Israel:
According to this time it shall be said of Jacob
And of Israel, [j]What hath God wrought!
[24] Behold! the people shall rise up [k]as a great lion,

[27] And Balak said unto Balaam, "Come, I pray thee, I will bring thee unto another place; peradventure it will please God that thou mayest curse me them from thence." [30] And Balak did as Balaam had said, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

[1] And when Balaam saw that it pleased the Lord to bless Num. xxiv. Israel, he went not, as at other times, †to seek for enchantments, but he set his face toward the wilderness. [2] And Balaam lifted up his eyes, and he saw Israel [n]abiding in his tents according to their tribes; and [o]the Spirit of God came upon him, [3] and he took up his parable, and said,—

"Balaam the son of Beor hath said,
And the man ‡whose eyes are open hath said:

Which saw the vision of the Almighty,
Falling [p]into a trance, but having his eyes open:
[5] How goodly are thy tents, O Jacob!
And thy tabernacles, O Israel!
[6] As the valleys are they spread forth,
As gardens by the river's side,
As [q]the trees of lign aloes [r]which the Lord hath planted,
And as cedar trees beside the waters.
[7] He shall pour the water out of his buckets,
And his seed shall be [s]in many waters,
And his king shall be higher than [t]Agag,
And his [u]kingdom shall be exalted.

[9] He [y]couched—he lay down as a lion,
And as a great lion—who shall stir him up?
Blessed [z]is he that blesseth thee,
And cursed is he that curseth thee!"

[10] And Balak's anger was kindled against Balaam, and he [a]smote his hands together; and Balak said unto Balaam, "I [b]called thee to curse mine enemies, and, behold, thou hast altogether blessed them these three times. [11] Therefore now flee thou to thy place; I thought to promote thee unto great honor, but, lo! the Lord hath kept thee back from honor." [12] And Balaam said unto Balak, "Spake I not also to thy messengers which thou sentest unto me, saying, [13] 'If Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, I cannot go beyond the commandment of the Lord, to do either good or bad of mine own mind: but what the Lord saith, that will I speak?' [14] And now, behold, I go unto my people: come therefore, [c]and I will advertise thee what this people shall do to thy people [d]in the latter days." [15] And he took up his parable, and said,—

The sum of all Israel is taken in the plains of Moab. 52 The law of dividing among them the inheritance of the land. 57 The families and number of the Levites. 63 None were left of them which were numbered at Sinai, but Caleb and Joshua.

[1] And it came to pass after the plague, that the Lord spake unto Moses and unto Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, saying, [2] "Take [a]the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel, from twenty years old and upward, throughout their fathers' house, all that are able to go to war in Israel." [3] And Moses and Eleazar the priest spake with them [b]in the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho, saying, [4] "Take the sum of the people, from twenty years old and upward; as the Lord [c]commanded Moses and the children of Israel, which went forth out of the land of Egypt."

[36] And the half, which was the portion of them that went out to war, was in number three hundred thousand and seven and thirty thousand and five hundred sheep; [37] and the Lord's tribute of the sheep was six hundred and threescore and fifteen. [38] And the beeves were thirty and six thousand; of which the Lord's tribute was threescore and twelve. [39] And the asses were thirty thousand and five hundred; of which the Lord's tribute was threescore and one. [40] And the persons were sixteen thousand; of which the Lord's tribute was thirty and two persons. [41] And Moses gave the tribute, which was the Lord's heave

[42] And of the children of Israel's half, which Moses divided from the men that warred, [43] (now the half that pertained unto the congregation was three hundred thousand and thirty thousand and seven thousand and five hundred sheep, [44] and thirty and six thousand beeves, [45] and thirty thousand asses and five hundred, [46] and sixteen thousand persons;) [47] even of the children of Israel's half, Moses took one portion of fifty, both of man and of beast, and gave them unto the Levites, which kept the charge of the tabernacle of the Lord; as the Lord commanded Moses.

[48] And the officers which were over thousands of the host, the captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds, came near unto Moses.
[49] And they said unto Moses, "Thy servants have taken the sum of one man of us. [50] We have therefore brought an oblation for the LORD, what every man hath †gotten, of jewels of gold, chains, and bracelets, rings, earrings, and tablets, [v]to make an atonement for our souls before the LORD." [51] And Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of them, even all wrought jewels. [52] And all the gold of the ‡offering that they offered up to the LORD, of the captains of thousands, and of the captains of hundreds, was sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels. [53] (For [w]the men of war had taken spoil, every man for himself.) [54] And Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of the captains of thousands and of hundreds, and brought it into the tabernacle of the congregation, [x]for a memorial for the children of Israel before the LORD.

[1] Now the children of Reuben and the children of Gad had a very great multitude of cattle; and when they saw the land of [a]Jazer, and the land of Gilead, that, behold, the place was a place for cattle; [2] the children of Gad and the children of Reuben came and spake unto Moses, and to Eleazar the priest, and unto the princes of the congregation, saying, [3] "Ataroth, and Dibon, and Jazer, and [b]Nimrah, and Heshbon, and Elealeh, and [c]Shebam, and Nebo, and [d]Beon, [4] even the country [e]which the LORD smote before the congregation of Israel, is a land for cattle, and thy servants have cattle. [6] And Moses said unto the children of Gad and to the children of Reuben, "Shall your brethren go to war, and shall ye sit here? [7] And wherefore *discourage ye the heart of the children of Israel from going over into the land which the LORD hath given them? [8] Thus did your fathers, [f]when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea [g]to see the land. [9] For [h]when they went up unto the valley of Eshcol, and saw the land, they discouraged the heart of the children of Israel, that they should not go into the land which the LORD had given them. [10] And [i]the LORD's anger was kindled the same time, and he sware, saying, [11] 'Surely none of the men that came up out of Egypt, [j]from twenty years old and upward, shall see [k]the land which I sware unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob; [l]because they have not †wholly followed me: [12] save Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite, and Joshua the son of Nun; [m]for they have wholly followed the LORD.' [13] And the LORD's anger was kindled against Israel, and he made them [n]wander in the wilderness forty years, [o]until all the generation, that had done evil in the sight of the LORD, was consumed. [14] And, behold! ye are risen up in your fathers' stead, an increase of sinful men, to augment yet the [p]fierce anger of the LORD toward Israel. [9] "And [h]I spake unto you at that time, saying, 'I am not able to bear you myself alone; [10] the Lord your God hath multiplied you, and, behold, [i]ye are this day as the stars of heaven for multitude! [11] (The [j]Lord God of your fathers make you a thousand times so many more as ye are, and bless you, [k]as he hath promised you!) [12] How [l]can I myself alone bear your cumbrance, and your burden, and your strife? [13] *Take you wise men, and understanding, and known among your tribes, and I will make them rulers over you.' [14] And ye answered me, and said, 'The thing which thou hast spoken is good for us to do.' [15] So I took the chief of your tribes, wise men, and known, and †made them heads over you, captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, and captains over fifties, and captains over tens, and officers among your tribes. [16] And I charged your judges at that time, saying, 'Hear the causes between your brethren, and [m]judge righteously between every man and his [n]brother, and the stranger that is with him. [17] Ye [o]shall not ‡respect persons in judgment, but ye shall hear the small as well as the great; ye shall not be afraid of the face of man, for [p]the judgment is God's: and the cause that is too hard for you, [q]bring it unto me, and I will hear it.' [18] And I commanded you at that time all the things which ye should do.

[19] "And when we departed from Horeb, [r]we went through all that great and terrible wilderness, which ye saw by the way of the mountain of the Amorites, as the Lord our God commanded us; [s]and we came to Kadesh-barnea. [20] And I said unto you, 'Ye are come unto the mountain of the Amorites, which the Lord our God doth give unto us. [21] Behold, the Lord thy God hath set the land before thee: go up and possess it, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath said unto thee; [t]fear not, neither be discouraged.'

[22] "And ye came near unto me every one of you, and said, 'We will send men before us, and they shall search us out the land, and bring us word again by what way we must go up, and into what cities we shall come.' [23] And the saying pleased me well; and [u]I took twelve men of you, one of a tribe, [24] and [v]they turned and went up into the mountain, and came unto the valley of Eshcol, and searched it out. [25] And they took of the fruit of the land in their hands, and brought it down unto us, and brought us word again, and said, 'It [w]is a good land which the Lord our God doth give us.'

[26] "Notwithstanding [x]ye would not go up, but rebelled against the commandment of the Lord your God. [27] And ye murmured in your tents, and said, 'Because the Lord [y]hated us, he hath brought us forth out of the land of Egypt, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us. [28] Whither shall we go up? our brethren have ‡discouraged our heart, saying, 'The [z]people is greater and taller than we; the cities are great and walled up to heaven; and moreover we have seen the sons of the [a]Anakims there!'' [29] Then I said unto you, 'Dread not, neither be afraid of them. [30] The [b]Lord your God which goeth before you, he shall fight for you, according to all that he did for you in Egypt before your eyes; [31] and in the wilderness, where thou hast seen how that the Lord thy God [c]bare thee, as a man doth bear his son, in all the way that ye went, until ye came into this place.' [32] Yet in this thing [d]ye did not believe the Lord your God, [33] who [e]went in the way before you, [f]to search you out a place to pitch your tents in, in fire by night, to show you by what way ye should go, and in a cloud by day.

[34] "And the Lord heard the voice of your words, and was wroth, and sware, saying, [35] 'Surely [g]there shall not one of these men of this evil generation see that good land, which I sware to give unto your fathers, [36] save [h]Caleb the son of Jephunneh; he shall see it, and to him will I

(29) These four verses are inserted here on the authority of Dr. Kennicott, (Horsley's Bib. Crit. vol. i. p. 195.) For the reconciling the apparent contradiction of this passage, with that in Numbers xxxiii. 31, 32; in the former of which Aaron is said to have died at Moserah, and in the latter at Mount Hor, see Lightfoot, vol. i. p. 39, and Pfeiffer in loc. Pfeiffer supposes Moserah to have been a part of Mount Hor; and that the Jaakan mentioned in Deut. x. 6, is different from the city of Bene-jaakan. ness of Moab. [9] And the Lord said unto me, '*Distress not the Moabites, neither contend with them in battle; for I will not give thee of their land for a possession, because I have given [h]Ar unto [i]the children of Lot for a possession.' [10] The [j]Emims dwelt therein in times past, a people great, and many, and tall, as [k]the Anakims; [11] which also were accounted giants, as the Anakims, but the Moabites call them Emims. [12] The [l]Horims also dwelt in Seir beforetime; but the children of Esau †succeeded them, when they had destroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their ‡stead; as Israel did unto the land of his possession, which the Lord gave unto them. [13] 'Now rise up,' said I, 'and get you over the *brook Zered.' And we went over the brook Zered.

[14] "And the space in which we came [m]from Kadesh-barnea, until we were come over the brook Zered, was thirty and eight years; [n]until all the generation of the men of war were wasted out from among the host, [o]as the Lord sware unto them. [15] For indeed [p]the hand of the Lord was against them, to destroy them from among the host, until they were consumed.

[16] "So it came to pass, when all the men of war were consumed and dead from among the people, [17] that the Lord spake unto me, saying, [18] 'Thou art to pass over through Ar, the coast of Moab, this day. [19] And when thou comest nigh over against the children of Ammon, distress them not, nor meddle with them; for I will not give thee of the land of the children of Ammon any possession, because I have given it unto [q]the children of Lot for a possession.' [20] (That also was accounted a land of giants: giants dwelt therein in old time; and the Ammonites call them [r]Zamzummims. [21] A people great, and many, and tall, as the Anakims, but the Lord destroyed them before them, and they succeeded them, and dwelt in their stead. [22] As he did to the children of Esau, [s]which dwelt in Seir, when he destroyed [t]the Horims from before them; and they succeeded them, and dwelt in their stead even unto this day. [23] And [u]the Avims which dwelt in Hazerim, even unto [v]Azzah, [w]the Caphtorims, which came forth out of Caphtor, destroyed them, and dwelt in their stead.) [24] 'Rise ye up, take your journey, and [x]pass over the river Arnon. Behold, I have given into thy hand Sihon the Amorite, king of Heshbon, and his land; †begin to possess it, and contend with him in battle. [25] This [y]day will I begin to put the dread of thee and the fear of thee upon the nations that are under the whole heaven, who shall hear report of thee, and shall tremble, and be in anguish because of thee.'

[26] "And I sent messengers out of the wilderness of Kedemoth unto Sihon king of Heshbon [z]with words of peace, saying, [27] 'Let [a]me pass through thy land: I will go along by the high way, I will neither turn unto the right hand nor to the left. [28] Thou shalt sell me meat for money, that I may eat; and give me water for money, that I may drink: [b]only I will pass through on my feet, [29] (as [c]the children of Esau which dwell in Seir, and the Moabites which dwell in Ar, did unto me;) until I shall pass over Jordan into the land which the Lord our God giveth us. [30] But [d]Sihon king of Heshbon would not let us pass by him; for [e]the Lord thy God hardened his spirit, and made his heart obstinate, that he might deliver him into thy hand, as appeareth this day.

[31] "And the Lord said unto me, 'Behold, I have begun [f]to give Sihon and his land before thee; begin to possess, that thou mayest inherit his land.' [32] Then [g]Sihon came out against us, he and all his people, to fight at Jahaz. [33] And [h]the Lord our God delivered him before us; and [i]we smote him, and his sons, and all his people. women, and the little ones, of every city, we left none to remain; [35] only the cattle we took for a prey unto ourselves, and the spoil of the cities which we took. [36] From [j]Aroer, which is by the brink of the river of Arnon, and from the city that is by the river, even unto Gilead, there was not one city too strong for us; [k]the Lord our God delivered all unto us: [37] only unto the land of the children of Ammon thou camest not, nor unto any place of the river [l]Jabbok, nor unto the cities in the mountains, nor unto whatsoever the Lord our God forbad us.

Deut. iii.

[1] "Then we turned, and went up the way to Bashan; and [m]Og the king of Bashan came out against us, he and all his people, to battle at Edrei. [2] And the Lord said unto me, 'Fear him not; for I will deliver him, and all his people, and his land, into thy hand, and thou shalt do unto him as thou didst unto [n]Sihon king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heshbon.' [3] So the Lord our God delivered into our hands Og also, the king of Bashan, and all his people; [o]and we smote him until none was left to him remaining. [4] And we took all his cities at that time, there was not a city which we took not from them, threescore cities, [p]all the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan. [5] All these cities were fenced with high walls, gates, and bars; besides unwalled towns a great many. [6] And we utterly destroyed them, as we did unto Sihon king [q]of Heshbon, utterly destroying the men, women, and children, of every city. [7] But all the cattle, and the spoil of the cities, we took for a prey to ourselves. [8] And we took at that time out of the hand of the two kings of the Amorites the land that was on this side Jordan, from the river of Arnon unto Mount Hermon, [9] (which [r]Hermon the Sidonians call Sirion; and the Amorites call it [s]Shenir); [10] all the cities of the plain, and all Gilead, and [t]all Bashan, unto Salchah and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan. [11] For [u]only Og king of Bashan remained of the remnant of [v]giants; behold, his bedstead was a bedstead of iron; is it not in [w]Rabbath of the children of Ammon? nine cubits was the length thereof, and four cubits the breadth of it, after the cubit of a man.

[12] "And this land, which we possessed at that time, [x]from Aroer, which is by the river Arnon, and half Mount Gilead, [y]and the cities thereof, gave I unto the Reubenites and to the Gadites. [13] And [z]the rest of Gilead, and all Bashan, being the kingdom of Og, gave I unto the half tribe of Manasseh; all the region of Argob, with all Bashan, which was called the land of giants. [14] Jair [a]the son of Manasseh took all the country of Argob [b]unto the coasts of Geshuri and Maachathi; and [c]called them after his own name, Bashan-havoth-jair, unto this day. [15] And [d]I gave Gilead unto Machir. [16] And unto the Reubenites [e]and unto the Gadites I gave from Gilead even unto the river Arnon half the valley, and the border even unto the river Jabbok, [f]which is the border of the children of Ammon; [17] the plain also, and Jordan, and the coast thereof, from [g]Chinnereth [h]even unto the sea of the plain, [i]even the Salt Sea, *under Ashdoth-pisgah eastward.

[18] "And I commanded you at that time, saying, 'The Lord your God hath given you this land to possess it: [j]ye shall pass over armed before your brethren the children of Israel, all that are †meet for the war. [19] But your wives, and your little ones, and your cattle, (for I know that ye have much cattle), shall abide in your cities which I have given you, until the Lord have given rest unto your brethren, as well as unto you, and until they also possess the land which the Lord your God hath given them beyond Jordan; and then shall ye [k]return every man unto his possession, which I have given you.'

[21] "And [l]I commanded Joshua at that time, saying, 'Thine eyes have seen all that the Lord your God hath done unto these two kings; so

DEUT. iv. 1–40.

[1] "Now therefore hearken, O Israel! unto [v]the statutes and unto the judgments, which I teach you, for to do them, that ye may live, and go in and possess the land which the LORD God of your fathers giveth you. [2] Ye [w]shall not add unto the word which I command you, neither shall ye diminish aught from it, that ye may keep the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you. [3] Your eyes have seen what the LORD did because of [x]Baal-peor; for all the men that followed Baal-peor, the LORD thy God hath destroyed them from among you. [4] But ye that did cleave unto the LORD your God are alive every one of you this day. [5] Behold, I have taught you statutes and judgments, even as the LORD my God commanded me, that ye should do so in the land whither ye go to possess it. [6] Keep therefore and do them; for this is [y]your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the nations, which shall hear all these statutes, and say, Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people! [7] For [z]what nation is there so great, who hath [a]God so nigh unto them, as the LORD our God is in all things that we call upon him for? [8] And what nation is there so great that hath statutes and judgments so righteous as all this law, which I set before you this day? [9] Only take heed to thyself, [b]and keep thy soul diligently, [c]lest thou forget the things which thine eyes have seen, and lest they depart from thy heart all the days of thy life; but [d]teach them thy sons, and thy sons' sons. [10] Specially [e]the day that thou stoodest before the LORD thy God in Horeb, when the LORD said unto me, 'Gather me the people together, and I will make them hear my words, that they may learn to fear me all the days that they shall live upon the earth, and that they may teach their children.' [11] And ye came near and stood under the mountain; and [f]the mountain burned with fire unto the *midst of heaven, with darkness, clouds, and thick darkness. thing that creepeth on the ground, the likeness of any fish that is in the waters beneath the earth; [19] and lest thou [q]lift up thine eyes unto heaven, and when thou seest the sun, and the moon, and the stars, even [r]all the host of heaven, shouldest be driven to [s]worship them, and serve them, which the LORD thy God hath ‡divided unto all nations under the whole heaven. [20] But the LORD hath taken you, and [t]brought you forth out of the iron furnace, even out of Egypt, [u]to be unto him a people of inheritance, as ye are this day.

[21] "Furthermore [v]the LORD was angry with me for your sakes, and sware that I should not go over Jordan, and that I should not go in unto that good land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance: [22] but [w]I must die in this land, I must not go over Jordan; but ye shall go over, and possess that good land. [23] Take heed unto yourselves, lest ye forget the covenant of the LORD your God, which he made with you, [x]and make you a graven image, or the likeness of any thing, which the LORD thy God hath forbidden thee. [24] For [y]the LORD thy God is a consuming fire—even [z]a jealous God!

[25] "When thou shalt beget children, and children's children, and ye shall have remained long in the land, and shall corrupt yourselves, and make a graven image, or the likeness of any thing, [a]and shall do evil in the sight of the LORD thy God, to provoke him to anger; [26] I [b]call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that ye shall soon utterly perish from off the land whereunto ye go over Jordan to possess it; ye shall not prolong your days upon it, but shall utterly be destroyed. [27] And the LORD [c]shall scatter you among the nations, and ye shall be left few in number among the heathen, whither the LORD shall lead you. [28] And [d]there ye shall serve gods, the work of men's hands, wood and stone, [e]which neither see, nor hear, nor eat, nor smell. [29] But [f]if from thence thou shalt seek the LORD thy God, thou shalt find him, if thou seek him with all thy heart and with all thy soul. [30] When thou art in tribulation, and all these things *are come upon thee, even [g]in the latter days, if thou [h]turn to the LORD thy God, and shalt be obedient unto his voice, [31] (for the LORD thy God is [i]a merciful God,) he will not forsake thee, neither destroy thee, nor forget the covenant of thy fathers which he sware unto them.

[32] "For [j]ask now of the days that are past, which were before thee, since the day that God created man upon the earth, and ask [k]from the one side of heaven unto the other, whether there hath been any such thing as this great thing is, or hath been heard like it? [33] Did [l]ever people hear the voice of God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as thou hast heard, and live? [34] Or hath God assayed to go and take him a nation from the midst of another nation, [m]by temptations, [n]by signs, and by wonders, and by war, and [o]by a mighty hand, and [p]by a stretched-out arm, [q]and by great terrors, according to all that the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes? [35] Unto thee it was showed, that thou mightest know that the LORD he is God; [r]there is none else besides him. [36] Out [s]of heaven he made thee to hear his voice, that he might instruct thee: and upon earth he showed thee his great fire; and thou heardest his words out of the midst of the fire. [37] And because [t]he loved thy fathers, therefore he chose their seed after them, and [u]brought thee out in his sight with his mighty power out of Egypt; [38] to [v]drive out nations from before thee greater and mightier than thou art, to bring thee in, to give thee their land for an inheritance, as it is this day.

[39] "Know therefore this day, and consider it in thy heart, that [w]the LORD he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else. [40] Thou [x]shalt keep therefore his statutes, and his command-

SECT. LXXVIII.—Moses appoints three Cities of Refuge.

DEUT. iv. 41, to the end.

[41] THEN Moses [a]severed three cities on this side Jordan toward the sun rising; [42] that [b]the slayer might flee thither, which should kill his neighbour unawares, and hated him not in times past; and that fleeing unto one of these cities he might live: [43] namely, [c]Bezer in the wilderness, in the plain country, of the Reubenites; and Ramoth in Gilead, of the Gadites; and Golan in Bashan, of the Manassites.

[44] And this is the law which Moses set before the children of Israel. [45] These are the testimonies, and the statutes, and the judgments, which Moses spake unto the children of Israel, after they came forth out of Egypt, [46] on this side Jordan, [d]in the valley over against Beth-peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon, whom Moses and the children of Israel [e]smote, after they were come forth out of Egypt. [47] And they possessed his land, and the land [f]of Og king of Bashan, two kings of the Amorites, which were on this side Jordan toward the sun rising; [48] from [g]Aroer, which is by the bank of the river Arnon, even unto Mount Sion, which is [h]Hermon, [49] and all the plain on this side Jordan eastward, even unto the sea of the plain, under the [i]springs of Pisgah.

DEUT. v. and vi.

The covenant in Horeb. 6 The ten commandments. 22 At the people's request Moses receiveth the law from God. — Chap. vi. The end of the law is obedience. 3 An exhortation thereto.

[1] AND Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, "Hear, O Israel! the statutes and judgments which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and [*]keep, and do them. [2] The [a]LORD our God made a covenant with us in Horeb. [3] The LORD [b]made not this covenant with our fathers, but with us, even us, who are all of us here alive this day. [4] The [c]LORD talked with you face to face in the mount out of the midst of the fire, [5] (I [d]stood between the LORD and you at that time, to show you the word of the LORD; for [e]ye were afraid by reason of the fire, and went not up into the mount;) saying,—

[6] "'I [f]am the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of †bondage. [7] Thou [g]shalt have none other gods before me.

[8] "'Thou [h]shalt not make thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or or that is in the waters beneath the earth. [9] Thou shalt not bow down thyself unto them, nor serve them; for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, [i]visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me, [10] and [j]showing mercy unto thousands of them that love me and keep my commandments.

[11] "'Thou [k]shalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain; for the LORD will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

[12] "'Keep [l]the Sabbath day to sanctify it, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee. [13] Six [m]days thou shalt labor, and do all thy work: [14] but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thine ox, nor thine ass, nor any of thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates; that thy manservant and thy maidservant may rest as well as thou. member that thou wast a servant in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD thy God brought thee out thence through a mighty hand and by a stretched-out arm: therefore the LORD thy God commanded thee to keep the Sabbath day.

[16] “‘Honor [o]thy father and thy mother, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee; that thy days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

[17] “‘Thou [p]shalt not kill.

[18] “‘Neither [q]shalt thou commit adultery.

[19] “‘Neither [r]shalt thou steal.

[20] “‘Neither [s]shalt thou bear false witness against thy neighbour.

[21] “‘Neither [t]shalt thou desire thy neighbour’s wife, neither shalt thou covet thy neighbour’s house, his field, or his manservant, or his maidservant, his ox, or his ass, or any thing that is thy neighbour’s.’

[22] “These words the LORD spake unto all your assembly in the mount out of the midst of the fire, of the cloud, and of the thick darkness, with a great voice: and he added no more. And [u]he wrote them in two tables of stone, and delivered them unto me. [23] And [v]it came to pass, when ye heard the voice out of the midst of the darkness, (for the mountain did burn with fire,) that ye came near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders; [24] and ye said, ‘Behold, the LORD our God hath showed us his glory and his greatness, and [w]we have heard his voice out of the midst of the fire: we have seen this day that God doth talk with man, and he [x]liveth. [25] Now therefore why should we die? for this great fire will consume us: if we ‡hear the voice of the LORD our God any more, then we shall die. [26] For who is there of all flesh, that hath heard the voice of the living God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as we have, and lived? [27] Go thou near, and hear all that the LORD our God shall say; and [y]speak thou unto us all that the LORD our God shall speak unto thee, and we will hear it, and do it.’

[28] “And the LORD heard the voice of your words, when ye spake unto me; and the LORD said unto me, ‘I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they have spoken unto thee. [z]They have well said all that they have spoken—[29] O [a]that there were such a heart in them, that they would fear me, and keep all my commandments always, that it might be well with them, and with their children for ever! [30] Go say to them, Get you into your tents again. [31] But as for thee, stand thou here by me, [b]and I will speak unto thee all the commandments, and the statutes, and the judgments, which thou shalt teach them, that they may do them in the land which I give them to possess it.’ [32] Ye shall observe to do therefore as the LORD your God hath commanded you; [c]ye shall not turn aside to the right hand or to the left. [33] Ye shall walk in [d]all the ways which the LORD your God hath commanded you, that ye may live, and that it may be well with you, and that ye may prolong your days in the land which ye shall possess.

[1] “Now these are [e]the commandments, the statutes, and the judgments, which the LORD your God commanded to teach you, that ye might do them in the land whither ye *go to possess it; [2] that [f]thou mightest fear the LORD thy God, to keep all his statutes, and his commandments, which I command thee, thou, and thy son, and thy son’s son, all the days of thy life; [g]and that thy days may be prolonged.

[3] “Hear therefore, O Israel! and observe to do it; that it may be well with thee, and that ye may increase mightily, [h]as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promised thee, in [i]the land that floweth with milk and honey. [4] Hear, [j]O Israel! The LORD our God is one LORD; [5] and [k]thou shalt love the LORD thy God [l]with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, be kindled against you, and destroy thee suddenly. [5] But thus shall ye deal with them; ye shall [h]destroy their altars, and break down their [*]images, and cut down their groves, and burn their graven images with fire. [6] For [i]thou art a holy people unto the Lord thy God; the Lord thy God hath chosen thee to be a special people unto himself, above all people that are upon the face of the earth. [7] The Lord did not set his love upon you, nor choose you, because ye were more in number than any people, (for ye were [j]the fewest of all people;) [8] but [k]because the Lord loved you, and because he would keep [l]the oath which he had sworn unto your fathers, [m]hath the Lord brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the house of bondmen, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt. [9] Know therefore that the Lord thy God, he is God, [n]the faithful God, [o]which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him and keep his commandments to a thousand generations, [10] and [p]repayeth them that hate him to their face, to destroy them: [q]he will not be slack to him that hateth him, he will and the statutes, and the judgments, which I command thee this day, to do them.

[12] "Wherefore [r]it shall come to pass, †if ye hearken to these judgments, and keep, and do them, that the Lord thy God shall keep unto thee the covenant and the mercy which he sware unto thy fathers; [13] and he will [s]love thee, and bless thee, and multiply thee; [t]he will also bless shalt be blessed above all people; [u]there shall not be male or female barren among you, or among your cattle. [15] And the Lord will take away from thee all sickness, and will put none of the [v]evil diseases of Egypt, which thou knowest, upon thee; but will lay them upon all them that hate thee.

[16] "And thou shalt consume all the people which the Lord thy God shall deliver thee, [w]thine eye shall have no pity upon them; neither shalt thou serve their gods, for that will be [x]a snare unto thee. [17] If thou shalt say in thy heart, These nations are more than I; how can I [y]dispossess them? [18] Thou [z]shalt not be afraid of them, but shalt well
[a]remember what the Lord thy God did unto Pharaoh, and unto all Egypt; [19] the great temptations which thine eyes saw, and the signs, and the wonders, and the mighty hand, and the stretched-out arm, whereby the Lord thy God brought thee out: so shall the Lord thy God do unto all the people of whom thou art afraid. [20] Moreover [b]the Lord thy God will send the hornet among them, until they that are left, and hide themselves from thee, be destroyed. [21] Thou shalt not be affrighted at them; for the Lord thy God [c]is among you, [d]a mighty God and terrible! [22] And [e]the Lord thy God will ‡put out those nations before thee by little and little; thou mayest not consume them at once, lest the beasts of the field increase upon thee. [23] But the Lord thy God shall deliver them [*]unto thee, and shall destroy them with a mighty destruction, until they be destroyed. [24] And [f]he shall deliver their kings into thy hand, and thou shalt destroy their name [g]from under heaven; [h]there shall no man be able to stand before thee, until thou have destroyed them. [25] The graven images of their gods [i]shall ye burn with fire; thou [j]shalt not desire the silver or gold that is on them, nor take it unto thee, lest thou be [k]snared therein; for it is [l]an abomination to the Lord thy God. [26] Neither shalt thou bring an abomination into thy house, lest thou be a cursed thing like it; but thou shalt utterly detest it, and thou shalt utterly abhor it, [m]for it is a cursed thing.

DEUT. viii.

[1] "All the commandments which I command thee this day shall [n]ye observe to do, that ye may live, and multiply, and go in and possess the land which the LORD sware unto your fathers. [2] And thou shalt remember all the way which the LORD thy God [o]led thee these forty years in the wilderness, to humble thee, and [p]to prove thee, [q]to know what was in thy heart, whether thou wouldest keep his commandments, or no. [3] And he humbled thee, and [r]suffered thee to hunger, and [s]fed thee with manna, which thou knewest not, neither did thy fathers know; that he might make thee know that man doth [t]not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the LORD doth man live. [4] Thy [u]raiment waxed not old upon thee, neither did thy foot swell, these forty years. [5] Thou [v]shalt also consider in thy heart, that, as a man chasteneth his son, so the LORD thy God chasteneth thee. [6] Therefore thou shalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, [w]to walk in his ways, and to fear him.

[7] For the LORD thy God bringeth thee into a good land, [x]a land of brooks of water, of fountains and depths that spring out of valleys and hills; [8] a land of wheat, and barley, and vines, and fig trees, and pomegranates; a land †of oil olive, and honey; [9] a land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, thou shalt not lack any thing in it; a land [y]whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass. [10] When thou hast eaten, and art full, then thou shalt bless the LORD thy God for the good land which he hath given thee. [11] Beware that thou forget not the LORD thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his statutes, which I command thee this day! [12] Lest [z]when thou hast eaten and art full, and hast built goodly houses, and dwelt therein; [13] and when thy herds and thy flocks multiply, and thy silver and thy gold is multiplied, and all that thou hast is multiplied: [14] then [a]thy heart be lifted up, and thou [b]forget the LORD thy God, (which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage; [15] who [c]led thee through that great and terrible wilderness [d]wherein were fiery serpents, and scorpions, and drought, where there was no water; [e]who brought thee forth water out of the rock of flint; [16] who fed thee in the wilderness with [f]manna, which thy fathers knew not, that he might humble thee, and that he might prove thee, [g]to do thee good at thy latter end;) [17] and [h]thou say in thy heart, My power and the might of my hand hath gotten me this wealth. SECT. LXXXI.—Moses' Speech continued;—Repetition of the Israelites' Rebellions;—His Exhortation to Obedience.

DEUT. ix. and x. 1–5, 10, to the end, and xi.

Moses dissuadeth them from the opinion of their own righteousness, by rehearsing their several rebellions. — Chap. x. God's mercy in restoring the two tables, 10 in hearkening unto Moses' suit for the people. 12 An exhortation to obedience (Chap. xi. 2) by their own experience of God's great works, 8 by promise of God's great blessings, 16 and by threatenings. 18 A careful study is required in God's words. 26 The blessing and curse is set before them.

[1] "HEAR, O Israel! Thou art to [a]pass over Jordan this day, to go in to possess nations [b]greater and mightier than thyself, cities great and fenced up to heaven, [2] a people great and tall, [c]the children of the Anakims, whom thou knowest, and of whom thou hast heard say, 'Who can stand before the children of Anak!'

b De. 4. 38.
c Nu. 13. 22, 28, 32, 33.

[3] "Understand therefore this day, that the Lord thy God is he [d]which goeth over before thee; as a [e]consuming fire [f]he shall destroy them, and he shall bring them down before thy face: [g]so shalt thou drive them out, and destroy them quickly, as the Lord hath said unto thee.
[4] Speak [h]not thou in thy heart, after that the Lord thy God hath cast them out from before thee, saying, For my righteousness the Lord hath brought me in to possess this land; but [i]for the wickedness of these nations the Lord doth drive them out from before thee. [5] Not [j]for thy righteousness, or for the uprightness of thy heart, dost thou go to possess their land; but for the wickedness of these nations the Lord thy God doth drive them out from before thee, and that he may perform [k]the word which the Lord sware unto thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. [6] Understand therefore, that the Lord thy God giveth thee not this good land to possess it for thy righteousness; for thou art [l]a stiffnecked people.

[7] "Remember, and forget not, how thou provokedst the Lord thy God to wrath in the wilderness; [m]from the day that thou didst depart out of the land of Egypt, until ye came unto this place, ye have been rebellious against the Lord. [8] Also [n]in Horeb ye provoked the Lord to wrath, so that the Lord was angry with you to have destroyed you.

[9] "When [o]I was gone up into the mount to receive the tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant which the Lord made with you, then [p]I abode in the mount forty days and forty nights, I neither did eat bread nor drink water. [10] And [q]the Lord delivered unto me two tables of stone written with the finger of God; and on them was written according to all the words, which the Lord spake with you in the mount out of the midst of the fire [r]in the day of the assembly. [11] And it came to pass at the end of forty days and forty nights, that the Lord gave me the two tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant.
[12] And the Lord said unto me, 'Arise, [s]get thee down quickly from hence; for thy people which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt have corrupted themselves; they are [t]quickly turned aside out of the way which I commanded them; they have made them a molten image.' [13] Furthermore [u]the Lord spake unto me, saying, 'I have seen this people, and, behold, [v]it is a stiffnecked people! [14] Let me alone, that I may destroy them, and [w]blot out their name from under heaven;
[x]and I will make of thee a nation mightier and greater than they.'
[15] So [y]I turned and came down from the mount, and [z]the mount burned with fire; and the two tables of the covenant were in my two hands.
[16] And [a]I looked, and, behold, ye had sinned against the Lord your God, and had made you a molten calf; ye had turned aside quickly out of the way which the Lord had commanded you. [17] And I took the two tables, and cast them out of my two hands, and brake them before your eyes. [18] And I fell down before the Lord, as at the first, forty days and forty nights; I did neither eat bread, nor drink water, because of all your sins which ye sinned, in doing wickedly in the sight of the Lord to provoke him to anger. [19] For [b]I was afraid of the anger and hot displeasure, wherewith the Lord was wroth against you to destroy you. [c]But the Lord hearkened unto me at that time also.
[20] And the Lord was very angry with Aaron to have destroyed him; and I prayed for Aaron also the same time. [21] And [d]I took your sin, the calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and stamped it, and ground it very small, even until it was as small as dust; and I cast the dust thereof into the brook that descended out of the mount.

[22] "And at [e]Taberah, and at [f]Massah, and at [g]Kibroth-hattaavah, ye provoked the Lord to wrath. [23] Likewise [h]when the Lord sent you from Kadesh-barnea, saying, 'Go up and possess the land which I have given you; then ye rebelled against the commandment of the Lord your God, and [i]ye believed him not, nor hearkened to his voice. [24] Ye have been rebellious against the Lord from the day that I knew you.

[25] "Thus I fell down before the Lord forty days and forty nights, as I fell down at the first; because the Lord had said he would destroy you. [26] I [j]prayed therefore unto the Lord, and said, 'O Lord God! destroy not thy people and thine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed through thy greatness, which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand. [27] Remember thy servants, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; look not unto the stubbornness of this people, nor to their wickedness, nor to their sin; [28] lest [k]the land whence thou broughtest us out say, [l]Because the Lord was not able to bring them into the land which he promised them, and because he hated them, he hath brought them out to slay them in the wilderness. [29] Yet [m]they are thy people and thine inheritance, which thou broughtest out by thy mighty power and by thy stretched-out arm.'

Deut. x. 1–5, 10, to the end.

[1] "At that time the Lord said unto me, 'Hew [n]thee two tables of stone like unto the first, and come up unto me into the mount, and [o]make thee an ark of wood. [2] And I will write on the tables the words that were in the first tables which thou brakest, and [p]thou shalt put them in the ark.' [3] And I made an ark of [q]shittim wood, and [r]hewed two tables of stone like unto the first, and went up into the mount, having the two tables in my hand. [4] And [s]he wrote on the tables, according to the first writing, the ten [*]commandments, which the Lord spake unto you in the mount out of the midst of the fire [t]in the day of the assembly; and the Lord gave them unto me. [5] And I turned myself and came down from the mount, and put the tables in the ark which I had made; [u]and there they be, as the Lord commanded me.

[10] And [v]I stayed in the mount, according to the [†]first time, forty days and forty nights; and [w]the Lord hearkened unto me at that time also, and the Lord would not destroy thee. [11] And the Lord said unto me, 'Arise, [‡]take thy journey before the people, that they may go in and possess the land, which I sware unto their fathers to give unto them.'

[12] "And now, Israel, [x]what doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all his ways, and [y]to love him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, [13] to keep the commandments of the Lord, and his statutes, which I command thee this day for thy good? [14] Behold, [z]the heaven and the heaven of heavens is the Lord's thy God, [a]the earth also, with all that therein is! [15] Only the Lord had a delight in thy fathers to love them, and he chose their seed after them, even you above all people, as it is this day. [16] Circumcise therefore [b]the foreskin of your heart, and be no more stiffnecked. [17] For the Lord your God is [c]God of gods, and [d]Lord of lords, a great God, a mighty, and a terrible, which [e]regardeth not persons, nor taketh reward. [18] He [f]doth execute the judgment of the fatherless and widow, and loveth the stranger, in giving him food and raiment. [19] Love [g]ye therefore the stranger; for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt. [20] Thou [h]shalt fear the Lord thy God; him shalt thou serve, and to him shalt thou cleave, and [i]swear by his name. [21] He [j]is thy praise, and he is thy God, [k]that hath done for thee these great and terrible things, which thine eyes have seen. [22] Thy fathers went down into Egypt [l]with threescore and ten persons; and now the Lord thy God hath made thee [m]as the stars of heaven for multitude.

mandments, always. [2] And know ye this day; for I speak not with your children which have not known, and which have not seen the chastisement of the Lord your God, his greatness, his mighty hand, and his stretched-out arm, [3] and [o]his miracles, and his acts, which he did in the midst of Egypt, unto Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and unto all his land, [4] (and what he did unto the army of Egypt, unto their horses, and to their chariots; [p]how he made the water of the Red Sea to overflow them as they pursued after you, and how the Lord hath destroyed them unto this day; [5] and what he did unto you in the wilderness, until ye came into this place; [6] and [q]what he did unto Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, the son of Reuben: how the earth opened her mouth and swallowed them up, and their households, and their tents, and all the *substance that †was in their possession, in the midst of all Israel;) [7] but your eyes have seen all the great acts of the Lord which he did. [8] Therefore shall ye keep all the commandments which I command you this day, that ye may [r]be strong, and go in and possess the land, whither ye go to possess it; [9] and [s]that ye may prolong your days in the land, [t]which the Lord sware unto your fathers to give unto them and to their seed, [u]a land that floweth with milk and honey.

[10] "For the land, whither thou goest in to possess it, is not as the land of Egypt, from whence ye came out, [v]where thou sowedst thy seed, and wateredst it with thy foot, as a garden of herbs; [11] but the land, whither ye go to possess it, is a land of hills and valleys, and drinketh water of the rain of heaven. [12] A land which the Lord thy God ‡careth for; [w]the eyes of the Lord thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year.

[13] "And it shall come to pass, if ye shall hearken [x]diligently unto my commandments which I command you this day, to love the Lord your God, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul, [14] that [y]I will give you the rain of your land in his due season, [z]the first rain and the latter rain, that thou mayest gather in thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil. [15] And I will *send grass in thy fields for thy cattle, that thou mayest [a]eat and be full. [16] Take heed to yourselves, [b]that your heart be not deceived, and ye turn aside, and serve other gods, and worship them; [17] and then the Lord's wrath be kindled against you, and he [c]shut up the heaven, that there be no rain, and that the land yield not her fruit; and lest [d]ye perish quickly from off the good land which the Lord giveth you.

[18] "Therefore [e]shall ye lay up these my words in your heart and in your soul, and [f]bind them for a sign upon your hand, that they may be as frontlets between your eyes. [19] And [g]ye shall teach them your children, speaking of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, when thou liest down, and when thou risest up. [20] And thou shalt write them upon the door posts of thy house, and upon thy gates. [21] That [h]your days may be multiplied, and the days of your children, in the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers to give them, [i]as the days of heaven upon the earth.

[22] "For if ye shall diligently keep all these commandments which I command you, to do them, to love the Lord your God, to walk in all his ways, and to cleave unto him; [23] then will the Lord drive out all these nations from before you, and ye shall possess greater nations and mightier than yourselves. [24] Every [j]place whereon the soles of your feet shall tread shall be yours; [k]from the wilderness and Lebanon, from the river, the river Euphrates, even unto the uttermost sea shall your coast be. [25] There shall no man be able to stand before you; for the Lord your God shall [l]lay the fear of you and the dread of you upon all the land that ye shall tread upon, [m]as he hath said unto you.

[26] "Behold, [n]I set before you this day a blessing and a curse; [27] a [o]blessing, if ye obey the commandments of the Lord your God, which I command you this day; [28] and [p]a curse, if ye will not obey the commandments of the Lord your God, but turn aside out of the way which I command you this day, to go after other gods, which ye have not known.—[29] And it shall come to pass, when the Lord thy God hath brought thee in unto the land whither thou goest to possess it, that thou shalt put [q]the blessing upon Mount Gerizim, and the curse upon Mount Ebal. [30] Are they not on the other side Jordan, by the way where the sun goeth down, in the land of the Canaanites, which dwell in the champaign over against Gilgal, [r]beside the plains of Moreh? [31] For [s]ye shall pass over Jordan to go in to possess the land which the Lord your God giveth you, and ye shall possess it, and dwell therein. and your sons, and your daughters, and your menservants, and your maidservants, and the Levite that is within your gates; forasmuch as he hath no part nor inheritance with you.

[13] "Take [h]heed to thyself that thou offer not thy burnt offerings in every place that thou seest; [14] but in the place which the Lord shall choose in one of thy tribes, there thou shalt offer thy burnt offerings, and there thou shalt do all that I command thee.—[15] Notwithstanding thou mayest kill and eat flesh in all thy gates, whatsoever thy soul lusteth after, according to the blessing of the Lord thy God which he hath given thee; the unclean and the clean may eat thereof, as of the roebuck, and as of the hart. [16] Only [i]ye shall not eat the blood; ye shall pour it upon the earth as water.

[17] "Thou mayest not eat within thy gates the tithe of thy corn, or of thy wine, or of thine oil, or the firstlings of thy herds, or of thy flock, nor any of thy vows which thou vowest, nor thy freewill offerings, or heave offering of thy hand: [18] but thou must eat them before the Lord longeth to eat flesh; thou mayest eat flesh, whatsoever thy soul lusteth after. [21] If the place which the Lord thy God hath chosen to put his name there be too far from thee, then thou shalt kill of thy herd and of thy flock, which the Lord hath given thee, as I have commanded thee, and thou shalt eat in thy gates whatsoever thy soul lusteth after.

[22] Even as the roebuck and the hart is eaten, so thou shalt eat them;
the unclean and the clean shall eat of them alike. [23] Only be †sure that thou eat not the blood; [k]for the blood is the life, and thou mayest not eat the life with the flesh. [24] Thou shalt not eat it; thou shalt pour it upon the earth as water. [25] Thou shalt not eat it; [l]that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee, [m]when thou shalt do that which is right in the sight of the Lord.—[26] Only thy [n]holy things which thou hast, and [o]thy vows, thou shalt take, and go unto the place which the Lord shall choose; [27] and [p]thou shalt offer thy burnt offerings, the flesh and the blood, upon the altar of the Lord thy God; and the blood of thy sacrifices shall be poured out upon the altar of the Lord thy God, and thou shalt eat the flesh.—[28] Observe and hear all these words which I command thee, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee for ever, when thou doest that which is good and right in the sight of the Lord thy God.

[29] "When [q]the Lord thy God shall cut off the nations from before thee, whither thou goest to possess them, and thou ‡succeedest them, and dwellest in their land; [30] take heed to thyself that thou be not snared *by following them, after that they be destroyed from before [12] "When thou hast made an end of tithing all the [s]tithes of thine increase the third year, which is the year of tithing, and hast given it unto the Levite, the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, that they may eat within thy gates, and be filled; [13] then thou shalt say before the LORD thy God, I have brought away the hallowed things out of my house, and also have given them unto the Levite, and unto the stranger, to the fatherless, and to the widow, according to all thy commandments which thou hast commanded me: I have not transgressed thy commandments, [t]neither have I forgotten them. [14] I [u]have not eaten thereof in my mourning, neither have I taken away aught thereof for any unclean use, nor given aught thereof for the dead; but I have hearkened to the voice of the LORD my God, and have done according to all that thou hast commanded me. [15] Look [v]down from thy holy habitation, from heaven, and bless thy people Israel, and [w]the land which thou hast given us, as thou swarest unto our fathers, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

(30) The continued fulfilment of prophecy is the perpetual miracle by which God is constantly appealing to mankind. Prophecy may be defined, anticipated history. History may be defined, the fulfilment of prophecy. In no instance throughout Scripture is the grandeur of the scheme of prophecy more discernible than in the prophecies of Moses; some of which are still fulfilling, or remain to be fulfilled. Moses resumes the predictions of Jacob, and of Balaam; and describes the Messiah in still clearer terms, as the Prophet who should arise, like unto him; that is, a Lawgiver, who should abolish one dispensation of Providence to introduce a better.

He predicts, in the plainest terms, the Assyrian and Babylonish captivities, Deut. xxviii. 32, 33, 36, 37, 47, 48. Lev. xxvi. 23, 34, 39, the import of which passages is fully explained by Jeremiah v. 15, 17.

He describes the desolation of the country, and the captivity of the Jews under the Romans—Deut. xxviii. 49, to the end.—He announces the ultimate restoration of the Jews, Lev. xxvi. 44. Deut. xxx. 1–6; and concludes with proclaiming the punishment of God upon their enemies. In the sublime ode written immediately preceding his death, he gives a bold outline of the whole history of the Jews, and repeats the predictions of their future destiny; concluding with an anticipation of the day, when the Gentiles shall unite in the praises of the Jewish converts to the God of their fathers, who will finally bring about their restoration. Succeeding prophets have frequently only amplified the prophecies of Moses. Of all beings merely human, the Jewish legislator was the first, the greatest, the most highly gifted. His prophecies, therefore, are the interpreters of the plans and conduct of Providence, from his own day until the end of the Christian dispensation, and the commencement of an unknown era. They shine like a meteor through the dark night of history, illumining the past, the present, and the future, and they will always remain, as Moses declared they should remain, "a sign, and a wonder for ever."—Vide Jortin's Remarks on Eccl. History, last edit. Works, vol. i. p. 203, 222; Chandler's Defence of Christianity, ch. 6. sect. ii.; Bishop Newton On the Prophecies, vol. i. p. 94, 120; Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 250, 254.

great stones, and plaster them with plaster; [3] and thou shalt write upon them all the words of this law, when thou art passed over, that thou mayest go in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, a land that floweth with milk and honey; as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promised thee. [4] Therefore it shall be when ye be gone over Jordan, that ye shall set up these stones, which I command you this day, [c]in Mount Ebal, and thou shalt plaster them with plaster. [5] And there shalt thou build an altar unto the LORD thy God, an altar of stones; [d]thou shalt not lift up any iron tool upon them. [6] Thou shalt build the altar of the LORD thy God of whole stones; and thou shalt offer burnt offerings thereon unto the LORD thy God: [7] and thou shalt offer peace offerings, and shalt eat there, and rejoice before the LORD thy God. [3] "Blessed [w]shalt thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be [x]in the field.

[4] "Blessed shall be [y]the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep.

[5] "Blessed shall be thy basket and thy †store.

[6] "Blessed [z]shalt thou be when thou comest in, and blessed shalt thou be when thou goest out.

[7] "The LORD [a]shall cause thine enemies that rise up against thee to be smitten before thy face: they shall come out against thee one way, and flee before thee seven ways. [8] The LORD shall [b]command the blessing upon thee in thy ‡storehouses, and in all that thou settest thy hand unto; and he shall bless thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee. [9] The [c]LORD shall establish thee a holy people unto himself, as he hath sworn unto thee, if thou shalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, and walk in his ways. [10] And all the people of the earth shall see that thou art [d]called by the name of the LORD; and they shall be afraid of thee. [11] And [e]the LORD shall make thee plenteous *in goods, in the fruit of thy †body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, in the land which the LORD sware unto thy fathers to give thee. [13] And the LORD shall make thee [g]the head, and not the tail, and thou shalt be above only, and thou shalt not be beneath; if that thou hearken unto the commandments of the LORD thy God, which I command thee this day, to observe and to do them. [14] And thou shalt not go aside from any of the words which I command thee this day, to the right hand, or to the left, to go after other gods to serve them.

[15] "But it shall come to pass, [h]if thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all his commandments and his statutes which I command thee this day; that all these curses shall come upon thee, and overtake thee:—

DEUT. xxix. and xxx. and NUM. xxxvi. 13.

Moses exhorteth them to obedience, by the memory of the works they had seen. 10 All are presented before the Lord to enter into his covenant. 18 The great wrath on him that flattereth himself in his wickedness. 29 Secret things belong unto God. — Chap. xxx. 1 Great mercies promised unto the repentant. 11 The commandment is manifest. 15 Death and life are set before them.

[1] THESE are the words of the covenant, which the LORD commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, besides [a]the covenant which he made with them in Horeb.

[2] And Moses called unto all Israel, and said unto them, "Ye [b]have seen all that the Lord did before your eyes in the land of Egypt unto Pharaoh, and unto all his servants, and unto all his land, [3] (the [c]great temptations which thine eyes have seen, the signs and those great miracles;) [4] yet [d]the Lord hath not given you a heart to perceive, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, unto this day. [5] And I have led you forty years in the wilderness: your clothes are not waxen old upon you, and thy shoe is not waxen old upon thy foot. [6] Ye [e]have not eaten bread, neither have ye drunk wine or strong drink; that ye might know that I am the Lord your God. [7] And when ye came unto this place, [f]Sihon the king of Heshbon, and Og the king of Bashan, came out against us unto battle, and we smote them; [8] and we took their land, and [g]gave it for an inheritance unto the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to the half tribe of Manasseh. [9] Keep [h]therefore the words of this covenant, and do them, that ye may prosper in all that ye do.

[10] “Ye stand this day all of you before the Lord your God, (your captains of your tribes, your elders, and your officers, with all the men of Israel, [11] your little ones, your wives, and thy stranger that is in thy camp, from [i]the hewer of thy wood unto the drawer of thy water;) [12] that thou shouldest *enter into covenant with the Lord thy God, and [j]into his oath, which the Lord thy God maketh with thee this day; [13] that he may establish thee to-day for a people unto himself, and that he may be unto thee a God, [k]as he hath said unto thee, and [l]as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob. [14] Neither with you only [m]do I make this covenant and this oath; [15] but with him that standeth here with us this day before the Lord our God, [n]and also with him that is not here with us this day, [16] (for ye know how we have dwelt in the land of Egypt, and how we came through the nations which ye passed by, [17] and ye have seen their abominations, and their †idols, wood and stone, silver and gold, which were among them;) [18] lest there should be among you man, or woman, or family, or tribe, whose heart turneth away this day from the Lord our God, to go and serve the gods of these nations; [o]lest there should be among you a root that beareth ‡gall and wormwood; [19] and it come to pass, when he heareth the words of this curse, that he bless himself in his heart, saying, I shall have peace, though I walk [p]in the *imagination of my heart, [q]to add †drunkenness to thirst: [20] the [r]Lord will not spare him, but then [s]the anger of the Lord and [t]his jealousy shall smoke against that man, and all the curses that are written in this book shall lie upon him, and the Lord [u]shall blot out his name from under heaven. [21] And the Lord [v]shall separate him unto evil out of all the tribes of Israel, according to all the curses of the covenant that ‡are written in this Book of the Law. [22] So that the generation to come of your children that shall rise up after you, and the stranger that shall come from a far land, shall say, when they see the plagues of that land, and the sicknesses *which the Lord hath laid upon it; [23] and that the whole land thereof is brimstone, [w]and salt, and burning, that it is not sown, nor beareth, nor any grass groweth therein, [x]like the overthrow of Sodom, and Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboim, which the Lord overthrew in his anger, and in his wrath; [24] even all nations shall say, [y]Wherefore hath the Lord done thus unto this land? what meaneth the heat of this great anger? [25] Then men shall say, Because they have forsaken the covenant of the Lord God of their fathers, which he made with them when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt; [26] for they went and served other gods, and worshipped them, gods whom they knew not, and †whom he had not ‡given unto them. [27] And the anger of the Lord was kindled against this land, [z]to bring upon it all the curses that are written in this book; [28] and the Lord [a]rooted them out of their land in anger, and in wrath,

(31) The arrangement of this part of the narrative is very difficult. We read of two charges to Joshua, and two charges to the people. We read likewise of the delivery of a copy of the Law to the priests, and of another to the Levites. Whether these charges were given at the same time; or whether two copies of the Law were delivered, one to be deposited in the ark, the other to be copied by the people, is uncertain. It is supposed that some few passages at the end of Deuteronomy have been added by a later writer; either Samuel, or Ezra, or one of the prophets. This would account for the apparent repetition.

Sect. LXXXVII.—Moses completes the writing of the Law, and delivers it to the Priests and Levites;—His second Charge to Joshua;—His Song.

Deut. xxxi. 9, to the end, and xxxii. 1–47.

[9] And Moses wrote this Law, and delivered it unto the priests the sons of Levi, which bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, and unto all the elders of Israel. [10] And Moses commanded them, saying, “At the end of every seven years, in the solemnity of the [a]year of release, [b]in the feast of tabernacles, [11] when all Israel is come to appear before the Lord thy God in the place which he shall choose, [c]thou shalt read this Law before all Israel in their hearing. [12] Gather [d]the people together, men, and women, and children, and thy stranger that is within thy gates, that they [e]may hear, and that they may learn, and fear the Lord your God, and observe to do all the words of this Law; [13] and that their children, which have not known any thing, may hear, and learn to fear the Lord your God, as long as ye live in the land whither ye go over Jordan to possess it.”

[14] And the Lord said unto Moses, “Behold, [f]thy days approach that thou must die. Call Joshua, and present yourselves in the tabernacle of the congregation, that [g]I may give him a charge.” And Moses and Joshua went, and presented themselves in the tabernacle of the congregation. [15] And [h]the Lord appeared in the tabernacle in a pillar of a cloud; and the pillar of the cloud stood over the door of the tabernacle.

[16] And the Lord said unto Moses, “Behold! thou shalt *sleep with thy fathers; and this people will [i]rise up, and [j]go a whoring after the gods of the strangers of the land, whither they go to be among them, and will [k]forsake me, and [l]break my covenant which I have made with them. [17] Then my anger shall be kindled against them in that day, and [m]I will forsake them, and I will [n]hide my face from them, and they shall be devoured, and many evils and troubles shall †befall them; so that they will say in that day, [o]Are not these evils come upon us, because our God is [p]not among us? [18] And I will surely hide my face in that day for all the evils which they shall have wrought, in that they are turned unto other gods. [19] Now therefore write ye this song for you, and teach it the children of Israel; put it in their mouths, that this song may be a witness for me against the children of Israel. [20] For when I shall have brought them into the land which I sware unto your fathers, that floweth with milk and honey, and they shall have eaten and filled themselves, [q]and waxen fat; then will they turn unto other gods, and serve them, and provoke me, and break my covenant. [21] And it shall come to pass, when many evils and troubles are befallen them, that this song shall testify ‡against them as a witness, (for it shall not be forgotten out of the mouths of their seed;) for [r]I know their imagination, which *they go about, even now, before [s]I have brought them into the land which I sware.”

[24] And it came to pass, when Moses had made an end of writing the words of this Law in a book, until they were finished, [25] that Moses commanded the Levites, which bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, saying, [26] “Take this Book of the Law, [t]and put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of the Lord your God, that it may be there for a witness against thee. [27] For I know thy rebellion, and thy stiff neck; behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, ye have been rebellious against the Lord—and how much more after my death! [28] Gather unto me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may speak these words in their ears, and call heaven and earth to record against them. [29] For I know that after my death ye will utterly [u]corrupt yourselves, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you; and evil will befall you [v]in the latter days, because ye will do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger through the work of your hands."

[22] Moses therefore wrote this song the same day, and taught it the children of Israel. [30] And Moses spake in the ears of all the congregation of Israel the words of this song, until they were ended:—

[1] "Give [w]ear, O ye heavens! and I will speak;
And hear, O earth! the words of my mouth.
[2] My [x]doctrine shall drop as the rain,
My speech shall distil as the dew,
As [y]the small rain upon the tender herb,

[6] "Do ye thus [g]requite the LORD,
O foolish people and unwise?

Hath he not [j]made thee, and established thee?
[7] Remember the days of old,
Consider the years of *many generations:
Ask [k]thy father—and he will show thee;

[8] When the Most High [l]divided to the nations their inheritance,
When he [m]separated the sons of Adam,
He set the bounds of the people

30 How should [y]one chase a thousand,
And two put ten thousand to flight,
Except their Rock [z]had sold them,
And the LORD had shut them up?
31 For [a]their rock is not as our Rock,
Even [b]our enemies themselves being judges.
32 For their vine ‡is of the vine of Sodom,
And of the fields of Gomorrah;
Their grapes are grapes of gall,
Their clusters are bitter;
33 Their wine is [c]the poison of dragons,
And the cruel [d]venom of asps.
34 Is not this [e]laid up in store with Me,

[48] AND the LORD spake unto Moses that selfsame day, saying, [49] "Get thee up into this [a]Mountain Abarim, unto Mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, that is over against Jericho; and behold the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Israel for a possession. [50] And die in the mount whither thou goest up, and be gathered unto thy people; as [b]Aaron thy brother died in Mount Hor, and was gathered unto his people. [51] Because [c]ye trespassed against me among the children of Israel at the waters of *Meribah-Kadesh, in the wilderness of Zin; because ye [d]sanctified me not in the midst of the children of Israel. Deut. xxxiii.

[1] And this is the blessing, wherewith Moses [f]the man of God blessed the children of Israel before his death.
[2] And he said,—
" The [g]Lord came from Sinai,
And rose up from Seir unto them;
He shined forth from Mount Paran,
And he came with [h]ten thousands of saints:
From his right hand went a †fiery law for them.
[3] Yea, [i]he loved the people,
All [j]his saints are in thy hand:
And they [k]sat down at thy feet;
Every one shall [l]receive of thy words.
[4] Moses [m]commanded us a law,
Even the inheritance of the congregation of Jacob.
[5] And he was king in Jeshurun,
When the heads of the people
And the tribes of Israel were gathered together.
[6] "Let Reuben live, and not die;
And let not his men be few."
[7] And this is the blessing of Judah. And he said,—
" Hear, Lord! the voice of Judah,
And bring him unto his people.
Let his hands be sufficient for him,
And be thou [n]a help to him from his enemies."
[8] And of Levi he said,—
" Let [o]thy Thummim and thy Urim be with thy holy [a]one,
Whom [p]thou didst prove at Massah,
And with whom thou didst strive at the waters of Meribah;
[9] Who said unto his father and to his mother, I have not [q]seen him,
Neither [r]did he acknowledge his brethren,
Nor knew his own children;
For [s]they have observed thy word, and kept thy covenant.
[10] ‡They shall teach Jacob thy judgments,
And Israel thy law;
*They shall put incense †before Thee,
And [t]whole burnt sacrifice upon thine altar.
[11] Bless, Lord! his substance,
And [u]accept the work of his hands;
Smite through the loins of them that rise against him,
And of them that hate him, that they rise not again."
[12] And of Benjamin he said,—
" The beloved of the Lord shall dwell in safety by him;
And the Lord shall cover him all the day long,
And He shall dwell between his [b]shoulders."
[13] And of Joseph he said,—
" Blessed [v]of the Lord be his land,
For the precious things of heaven,
For [w]the dew, and for the deep that coucheth beneath,
[14] And for the precious fruits brought forth by the sun,
And for the precious things ‡put forth by the *moon,
[15] And for the chief things of [x]the ancient mountains,
And for the precious things [y]of the lasting hills,
[16] And for the precious things of the earth, and fulness thereof,
And for the goodwill of [z]Him that dwelt in the bush!
Let the blessing [a]come upon the head of Joseph,
And upon the top of the head of him that was separated from his brethren.

[24] And of Asher he said,—
"Let [m]Asher be blessed with children,
Let him be acceptable to his brethren,
And let him [n]dip his foot in oil.
[25] *Thy shoes shall be iron and brass;
And as thy days, so shall thy strength be.

Who [p]rideth upon the heaven [b]in thy help,
And in his excellency on the sky.
[27] The Eternal God is thy [q]refuge,
And underneath are the everlasting arms:
And he shall thrust out the enemy from before thee;
And shall say, Destroy them.
[28] Israel [r]then shall dwell in safety alone;
The fountain of Jacob shall be upon a land of corn and wine;
Also his [s]heavens shall drop down dew.
[29] Happy [t]art thou, O Israel!
Who [u]is like unto thee, O people saved by the Lord!

(1) The conduct of Providence towards the people of Israel had now made them the only nation in the world, which maintained in its entire purity the doctrine of the Unity of God. The nations around them professed the grossest polytheism; and though many have been of opinion that the more philosophical part of mankind saw through the absurdity of idolatry, we have no proof whatever, that they worshipped the one only true God, which was revealed to their fathers, and was adored by the Israelites. The one God of the heathens was a mysterious, undefinable, existing, nameless first cause; which received various epithets at various times. He was something comprising the properties of matter with the attributes of spirit; which every attempt to describe rendered only more unintelligible and absurd. It was sometimes called the plastic energy of nature—fate—destiny—the soul of the world—or whatever other term the fancy or superstition of the pagans might please to assign it; and we have every reason to suppose the philosopher, the magistrate, and the vulgar, among the idolatrous nations, differed only in their degrees of absurdity. The people of Israel alone, not by the efforts of their own reasoning, but by the proofs which had appealed so strongly and so undeniably to their senses, believed and professed the religion of the true God, the Omnipotent, Omniscient, Omnipresent Creator, Preserver, and Judge of the world.

The worship of Jehovah being thus established among the Israelites, it could not be supposed that they were designed to wander perpetually in the wilderness. So long as the Israelites continued an obscure and wandering people in the deserts of Arabia, the great and merciful purposes, for which they had been so conspicuously favored by the Almighty, could not be considered as fulfilled.

From the miracles and wonders they had witnessed, they would naturally conclude they were not to continue for ever in the wilderness; they would anticipate the possession of some fertile country where they might establish their religion in its purity. The land of Canaan, which was now in the possession of the Canaanites, appeared from its central situation best adapted for this purpose; but this circumstance could give them no right or title to the territory. Yet we read they claimed this country as if it was their inheritance: they fought, they conquered, they put to death, or dispossessed the inhabitants. The question therefore which has been proposed by many, on reading this part of the narrative, is worthy of attention:—By what right did the Israelites invade the land of Palestine?

God, the Great Governor, who possesses all power over his creatures, and may justly punish those who violate his laws, in that manner which to his wisdom may seem most impressive and useful, commanded the Israelites to exterminate the Canaanites, as the just retribution for their crimes and idolatries. God might have destroyed them by famine, by ter, saying, [2] "Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them, even to the children of Israel. [3] Every [a]place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you, as I said unto earthquake, by pestilence; He might have drowned by a local deluge, or consumed them by fire from heaven: instead of these He commissioned the people of Israel to root them out by the sword. In so doing, the Almighty not only demonstrated to the whole world his hatred of the corruptions and pollutions of superstition, but He more particularly enforced on the Israelites the purity of his Law, the certainty of their own punishment if they apostatized, and the freedom from temporal evil which they should consequently enjoy if they persevered in their allegiance to Him, their Sovereign.

Lest this invasion of Canaan by the Israelites however should be drawn into precedent by other nations, for ambition or religious persecution; they were assured by continued and powerful miracles, that their cause was just, that they should be successful, and that they were not subject at that period to the common laws of nations. The people of Israel was the sword of God, the Great Magistrate of earth; and they were no more to be condemned in thus acting in conformity to the commands of God, than the executioner can be who fulfils the last sentence of the law. Before, then, other nations invade the territory of their neighbours on the same supposed authority as the Israelites, the same commission from heaven must be given; and that commission must be authenticated by miracles equally evident, perpetual, and wonderful.

Many however have not been satisfied with this argument, and would discard the doctrine of the peculiar Providence, which regulated by a visible theocracy the conduct of the chosen people; they would defend the invasion of Palestine on other grounds. They would judge of the transactions of that period, (regardless of the peculiar circumstances under which they took place,) by modern ideas, and the present law of nations. Some suppose that the conduct of the Israelites was solely defensible, on the supposition that there had been a partition of the whole earth by the sons of Noah, and that Canaan had been allotted to Shem; the sons of Shem therefore were justified in claiming their ancient inheritance from the Canaanites who were descended from Ham. Others have asserted that the Canaanites commenced the war by attacking the Israelites; an assertion which cannot be defended from the history. While others have affirmed, without any well-grounded arguments, that the Israelites, as a wandering people, having no certain home, were justified in forcibly invading, and taking possession of an adjoining territory. But Michaelis is of opinion that the right of the Israelites originated in their being actually the proprietors of Canaan, of which they had been unjustly dispossessed by the intruding and hostile Canaanites.

The laws of nations are always the same. If any nation, or tribe, or part of a tribe, take possession of an unknown, undiscovered, unoccupied, or uninhabited country, the right of property vests in them; they are its proprietors and owners. After the Deluge, the world might be said to be in this state; and Michaelis has endeavoured to prove, that the ancestors of Abraham were the original occupiers of the pasture land of Canaan. Canaan, therefore, by the law of nations, as well as by the promises of God, was the lot of Abraham's inheritance, and the rightful land of his descendants. The Canaanite and the Perizzite had only just established themselves in Canaan when Abraham removed from Haran to that country; and were so weak and few in number, that they never interfered with the rights of sovereignty assumed and exerted by Abraham. The Canaanites were merchants and adventurers who had been originally settled near the borders of the Indian ocean; and who having been dispossessed by the Cuthic Sidonians, had migrated westward, to form establishments on the sea coasts of Palestine, and carry on commerce with the herdsmen who traversed it. They were for some time contented with their factories on the sea coasts, but they gradually obtained possession of the inland country. The Perizzites, too, were a warlike tribe, who now first made their appearance in Canaan; they had originally inhabited the north-east of Babylonia. Whether they had been dispossessed of their settlements; whether they were seeking new establishments; or for whatsoever purpose they were now in Palestine, they gave no interruption to the progress of Abraham, although Abraham entered upon the Holy Land, and continued his journeyings with a large retinue, and as a powerful prince. He took possession of Canaan as the territory of his ancestors; not indeed as a fixed habitation, but as pasture land adapted to his numerous flocks and herds. He traversed the whole country as a proprietor, without a competitor. He had the power of arming three hundred and eighteen of his own servants, born in his own house: and it is most probable that he had others who are not enumerated. He declared war as an independent prince of this country against five neighbouring princes; and formed an alliance with Abimelech, as an equal, and as a sovereign. It is true, he purchased land of the Canaanitish family of Heth, but this was because the Hittites had gradually made a more fixed settlement in that part of the country; their intrusion had not been at first prevented by the ancestors of Abraham; and by this sufferance they made that district their peculiar property.

As Abraham thus traversed and possessed Canaan, with undisputed authority, so too did Isaac and Jacob in like manner. No one opposed their right. They exercised, as Abraham had done before them, sovereign power; they never resigned that power, nor gave up to others the property of that land, which now, by long prescription, as well as by the promise of God, had become entirely their own.

The ancestors, then, of the Israelites, Michaelis argues, were either the sole sovereigns, or the most powerful of those princes who possessed, in early ages, the Holy Land. By the famine which occurred in the days of Joseph, they were compelled to leave their own country, and take refuge in Egypt; yet they never lost sight of the sepulchre of their fathers. And though we do not read that acts of ownership were continued to maintain and perpetuate their right, we can have but little doubt that something of the kind took place, for Jacob was taken from Egypt to be buried there; Joseph assured them that they should return; and the Egyptians, their oppressors, a kindred branch of the powerful tribes which had by this time entirely taken possession of Palestine, kept them in bondage, and refused to let them go, lest they should claim the inheritance of their fathers.

If this claim of the Israelites can be proved to be well founded, they would have been entitled, by the law of nations, forcibly to take possession of the Holy Land; and it will be interesting to observe how the merciful providence of God afforded them the opportunity of successfully regaining their lawful inheritance, and at the same time accomplishing his own divine purposes, to the fulfilment of his prophecies, and to the happiness and security of his Church. The Israelites may be considered as the

Moses. [4] From [b]the wilderness and this Lebanon even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the Great Sea toward the going down of the sun, shall be your coast. [5] There [c]shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life; as I was with Moses, so [d]I will be with thee, [e]I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee. [6] Be [f]strong and of a good courage; for *unto this people shalt thou divide for an inheritance the land, which I sware unto their fathers to give them. [7] Only be thou strong and very courageous, that thou mayest observe to do according to all the law, [g]which Moses my servant commanded thee; [h]turn not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest †prosper whithersoever thou goest. [8] This [i]Book of the Law shall not depart out of thy mouth, but [j]thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein; for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt ‡have good success. (3) Throughout the whole of this Arrangement of the Old Testament, I have not attempted to transpose a sentence, to make the mere language or the composition of the inspired writers appear to more advantage. My only object has been to relate the facts in their order, according to the best authorities. The third chapter of the book of Joshua contains an account of the passage of the Israelites over the river Jordan. The fact, as related by the sacred historian, is inserted in the Bible in its proper place: but Bishop Horsley is of opinion, that the narration of the fact itself is confused; he has, therefore, altered the arrangement of the sentences and verses, to give a more orderly and clear account: and he has done the same with other passages. In the present case the Bishop's arrangement has undoubtedly given greater elegance to the relation of the passage of the river Jordan, and I have therefore added it in this note, as one specimen of the manner in which that learned and ingenious author has proceeded in his proposed emendations of the sacred text; though the boldness of his criticisms is not always to be approved. The twelfth verse of this third chapter of Joshua he places after the first of chapter the fourth.

CHAPTER III.

[2] And it came to pass after three days, [1] that they removed from Shittim, and came unto Jordan, Joshua and all the children of Israel, and there they passed the night, before they passed over. [5] And Joshua said unto the people, "Sanctify yourselves, for to-morrow Jehovah will perform wonders among you." [1] And Joshua arose early in the morning, [7] and Jehovah said unto Joshua, "This day will I begin to magnify thee in the eyes of all Israel, that they may understand that as I was with Moses I will be with thee. [2] And the officers went through the camp, [3] and they commanded the people, saying, "So soon as ye shall see the priests the Levites take up the ark of the covenant of Jehovah your God, then ye shall march from your place, and go after it. [4] Only there shall be a space between you and it. Ye shall not approach it within the distance of full two thousand cubits, in order that ye may know the way which ye must go, for ye have not passed this way heretofore." [6] And Joshua spake unto the priests, saying, "Take up the ark of the covenant, and pass over before the people." So they took up the ark of the covenant, and marched before the people. [9] And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, "Come hither, and hear the words of Jehovah your God." [10] And Joshua said, "By this ye shall know that the living God is among you, and assuredly he will drive out before you the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Hivite, and the Perizzite, and the Amorite, and the Jebusite. [11] Behold the ark of the covenant of the Lord of the whole earth goeth on before you into Jordan. [13] And it shall be, as soon as the soles of the feet of the priests bearing the ark of Jehovah, the Lord of all the earth, shall rest in the waters of Jordan, the waters of Jordan shall be intercepted, the waters that come down from above, and they shall stand up in one heap." [14] And it came to pass, when the people marched from their tents to pass over Jordan, with the priests bearing the ark of the covenant before the people, [15] when they that bare the ark came unto Jordan, and the feet of the priests bearing the ark were dipped in the water upon the brink, (now Jordan is swollen over all his banks all the season of harvest,) [16] then the waters which came down from the upper parts [of the river] stood still*; they rose up in one heap to a great distance above the city Adam†, which is hard by Zaredan. And those that were going down toward the sea of the plain, the salt sea, ran quite off, being separated [from the upper stream]. So the people crossed over opposite to Jericho. [17] And the priests bearing the ark of the covenant of Jehovah stood firm upon dry land in the midst of Jordan. And all Israel crossed over upon dry land, until the whole army had crossed over Jordan.

[14] And it came to pass, when the people removed from their tents, to pass over Jordan, and the priests bearing the [m]ark of the covenant before the people; [15] and as they that bare the ark were come unto Jordan, and the feet of the priests that bare the ark were dipped in the brim of the water (for [n]Jordan overfloweth all his banks all the time of harvest), [16] that the waters which came down from above stood and rose up upon a heap very far from the city Adam, that is beside [o]Zaretan; and those that came down [p]toward the sea of the plain, even [q]the salt sea, failed, and were cut off: and the people passed over right against Jericho. [17] And the priests that bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord stood firm on dry ground in the midst of Jordan, [r]and all the Israelites passed over on dry ground, until all the people were passed clean over Jordan.

Jos. iv.

[1] And it came to pass, when all the people were clean [s]passed over Jordan, that the Lord spake unto Joshua, saying, [2] "Take you twelve men out of the people, out of every tribe a man, [3] and command ye them, saying, Take you hence out of the midst of Jordan, out of the place where the priests' feet stood firm, twelve stones, and ye shall carry them over with you, and leave them in the lodging place, where ye shall lodge this night." [4] Then Joshua called the twelve men, whom he had prepared of the children of Israel, out of every tribe a man; [5] and Joshua said unto them, "Pass over before the ark of the Lord your God into the midst of Jordan, and take you up every man of you a stone upon his shoulder, according unto the number of the tribes of the children of Israel, [6] that this may be a sign among you, that [t]when your children ask their fathers ‡in time to come, saying, What mean ye by these stones? [8] And the children of Israel did so as Joshua commanded, and took up twelve stones out of the midst of Jordan, as the Lord spake unto Joshua, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Israel, and carried them over with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there. [9] And Joshua set up twelve stones in the midst of Jordan, in the place where the feet of the priests which bare the ark of the covenant stood; and they are there unto this day.

[13] And it came to pass, when Joshua was by Jericho, that (4) he lifted up his eyes and looked, and, behold, there stood [a]a Man over against him with his sword drawn in his hand; and Joshua went unto him, and said unto him, "Art thou for us, or for our adversaries?" [2] And the Lord said unto Joshua, "See! I have given into thy hand Jericho, and the [d]king thereof, and the mighty men of valor. [3] And ye shall compass the city, all ye men of war, and go round about the city once. Thus shalt thou do six days. [4] And seven priests shall bear before the ark seven [e]trumpets of rams' horns; and the seventh day ye shall compass the city seven times, and [f]the priests shall blow with the trumpets. [5] And it shall come to pass, that when they make a long blast with the ram's horn, and when ye hear the sound of the trumpet, all the people shall shout with a great shout; and the wall of the city shall fall down flat, and the people shall ascend up every man straight before him."

[6] And Joshua the son of Nun called the priests, and said unto them, "Take up the ark of the covenant, and let seven priests bear seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the Lord." [7] And he said unto the people, "Pass on, and compass the city, and let him that is armed pass on before the ark of the Lord."

[8] And it came to pass, when Joshua had spoken unto the people, that the seven priests bearing the seven trumpets of rams' horns passed on before the Lord, and blew with the trumpets; and the ark of the covenant of the Lord followed them.

The Angel who appeared to Moses, now appears to Joshua; assumes the same exalted name, "Jehovah;" and challenges the same divine honors, as the Son of God.—Faber's Horæ Mosaicæ, vol. ii. p. 107; and Horsley's Biblical Criticisms, vol. i. p. 255.

the city, going about it once; and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp.

[12] And Joshua rose early in the morning, [g]and the priests took up the ark of the LORD. [13] And seven priests bearing seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD went on continually, and blew with the trumpets; and the armed men went before them, but the rereward came after the ark of the LORD, the priests going on, and blowing with the trumpets. [14] And the second day they compassed the city once, and returned into the camp: so they did six days.

g De. 31. 25.

[15] And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they rose early about the dawning of the day, and compassed the city after the same manner seven times; only on that day they compassed the city seven times. [16] And it came to pass at the seventh time, when the priests blew with the trumpets, Joshua said unto the people, "Shout! for the LORD hath given you the city. [17] And the city shall be †accursed, even it, and all that are therein, to the LORD; only Rahab the harlot shall live, she and all that are with her in the house, because she hid the messengers that we sent. [18] And ye, [h]in any wise keep yourselves from the accursed thing, lest ye make yourselves accursed, when ye take of the accursed thing, and make the camp of Israel a curse, [i]and trouble it. [20] So the people shouted when the priests blew with the trumpets; and it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that [j]the wall fell down *flat, so that the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and they took the city. [21] And they [k]utterly destroyed all that was in the city, both man and woman, young and old, and ox, and sheep, and ass, with the edge of the sword. [22] (But Joshua had said unto the two men that had spied out the country, "Go into the harlot's house, and bring out thence the woman, and all that she hath, [l]as ye sware unto her." [23] And the young men that were spies went in, and brought out Rahab, and her father, and her mother, and her brethren, and all that she had; and they brought out all her †kindred, and left them without the camp of Israel. [24] And they burnt the city with fire, and all that was therein; only the silver, and the gold, and the vessels of brass and of iron, they put into the treasury of the house of the LORD. [25] And Joshua saved Rahab the harlot alive, and her father's household, and all that she had; and [m]she dwelleth in Israel even unto this day; because she hid the messengers, which Joshua sent to spy out Jericho.

[1] BUT the children of Israel committed a trespass in the accursed thing; for *Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of †Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, took of the accursed thing, and the anger of the LORD was kindled against the children of Israel.

* 1 Ch. 2. 7, Achar. Jos. 22. 20.
† Or, Zimri, 1 Ch. 2. 6.

[2] And Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, which is beside Beth-aven, on the east side of Beth-el, and spake unto them, saying, "Go up and view the country." And the men went up and viewed Ai. [3] And they returned to Joshua, and said unto him, "Let not all the people go up, but let ‡about two or three thousand men go up and smite Ai; and make not all the people to labor thither, for they are but few." [4] So there went up thither of the people about three thousand men; [a]and they fled before the men of Ai. [5] And the men of Ai smote of them about thirty and six men; for they chased them from before the gate even unto Shebarim, and smote them *in the going down: wherefore [b]the hearts of the people melted, and became as water.

[6] And Joshua [c]rent his clothes, and fell to the earth upon his face before the ark of the LORD until the even-tide, he and the elders of Israel, and [d]put dust upon their heads. [7] And Joshua said, "Alas, O Lord GOD! [e]wherefore hast thou at all brought this people over Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us? would to God we had been content, and dwelt on the other side Jordan! [8] O LORD, what shall I say, when Israel turneth their †backs before their enemies! [9] For the Canaanites and all the inhabitants of the land shall hear of it, and shall environ us round, and [f]cut off our name from the earth; and [g]what wilt thou do unto thy great name?"

[10] And the LORD said unto Joshua, "Get thee up; wherefore ‡liest thou thus upon thy face? [11] Israel hath sinned, and they have also transgressed my covenant which I commanded them; for they have even taken of the accursed thing, and have also stolen, and [h]dissembled also, and they have put it even among their own stuff. [12] Therefore [i]the children of Israel could not stand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, because [j]they were accursed; neither will I be with you any more, except ye destroy the accursed from among you. [13] Up, [k]sanctify the people, and say, Sanctify yourselves against to-morrow; for thus saith the LORD God of Israel, There is an accursed thing in the midst of thee, O Israel! thou canst not stand before thine enemies, until ye take away the accursed thing from among you. [14] In the morning therefore ye shall be brought according to your tribes: and it shall be, that the tribe which [l]the LORD taketh shall come according to the families thereof; and the family which the LORD shall take shall come by households; and the household which the LORD shall take shall come man by man. [15] And [m]it shall be, that he that is taken with the accursed thing shall be burnt with fire, he and all that he hath; because he hath transgressed the covenant of the LORD, and because he hath wrought *folly in Israel."

[16] So Joshua rose up early in the morning, and brought Israel by their tribes; and the tribe of Judah was taken. [17] And he brought the family of Judah; and he took the family of the Zarhites: and he brought the family of the Zarhites man by man; and Zabdi was taken. [18] And he brought his household man by man; and Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, [n]was taken.

[19] And Joshua said unto Achan, "My son! [o]give, I pray thee, glory to the LORD God of Israel, [p]and make confession unto him; and [q]tell me now what thou hast done; hide it not from me." [20] And Achan answered Joshua, and said, "Indeed I have sinned against the LORD God of Israel, and thus and thus have I done. [21] When I saw among the spoils a goodly Babylonish garment, and two hundred shekels of silver, and a †wedge of gold of fifty shekels weight, then I coveted them, and took them; and, behold, they are hid in the earth in the midst of my tent, and the silver under it." [1] And the Lord said unto Joshua, "Fear [x]not, neither be thou dismayed; take all the people of war with thee, and arise, go up to Ai. See, I have given into thy hand the king of Ai, and his people, and his city, and his land. [2] And thou shalt do to Ai and her and the cattle thereof, shall ye take for a prey unto yourselves. Lay thee an ambush for the city behind it."

[3] So Joshua arose, and all the people of war, to go up against Ai; and Joshua chose out thirty thousand mighty men of valor, and sent them z Ju. 20. 29. away by night. [4] And he commanded them, saying, "Behold, [z]ye shall lie in wait against the city, even behind the city; go not very far from the city, but be ye all ready. [5] And I, and all the people that are with me, will approach unto the city; and it shall come to pass, when they † Heb. pulled. they will come out after us), till we have †drawn them from the city; for they will say, They flee before us, as at the first; therefore we will flee before them. [7] Then ye shall rise up from the ambush, and seize upon the city; for the Lord your God will deliver it into your hand. [8] And it shall be, when ye have taken the city, that ye shall set the city on b 2 Sa. 13. 28. fire; according to the commandment of the Lord shall ye do. [b]See!

I have commanded you."

[9] Joshua therefore sent them forth; and they went to lie in ambush, and abode between Beth-el and Ai, on the west side of Ai: but Joshua lodged that night among the people. [10] And Joshua rose up early in the morning, and numbered the people, and went up, he and the elders of Israel, before the people to Ai. [11] And all the people, even the people of war that were with him, went up, and drew nigh, and came before the city, and pitched on the north side of Ai: now there was a valley between them and Ai. [12] And he took about five thousand men, and set

Joshua went that night into the midst of the valley.

[14] And it came to pass, when the king of Ai saw it, that they hasted and rose up early, and the men of the city went out against Israel to battle, he and all his people, at a time appointed, before the plain; but he d Ju. 20. 36, &c. [15] And Joshua and all Israel [d]made as if they were beaten before them, and fled by the way of the wilderness. [16] And all the people that were

Joshua, and were drawn away from the city. [17] And there was not a man left in Ai or Beth-el, that went not out after Israel; and they left the city open, and pursued after Israel.

[18] And the LORD said unto Joshua, "Stretch out the spear that is in thy hand toward Ai; for I will give it into thy hand." And Joshua stretched out the spear that he had in his hand toward the city. [19] And the ambush arose quickly out of their place, and they ran as soon as he had stretched out his hand; and they entered into the city, and took it, and hasted and set the city on fire. [20] And when the men of Ai looked behind them, they saw, and, behold! the smoke of the city ascended up to heaven, and they had no †power to flee this way or that way; and the people that fled to the wilderness turned back upon the pursuers. [21] And when Joshua and all Israel saw that the ambush had taken the city, and that the smoke of the city ascended, then they turned again, and slew the men of Ai. [22] And the other issued out of the city against them; so they were in the midst of Israel, some on this side, and some on that side: and they smote them, so that they [e]let none of them remain or escape. [23] And the king of Ai they took alive, and brought him to Joshua.

[24] And it came to pass, when Israel had made an end of slaying all the inhabitants of Ai in the field, in the wilderness wherein they chased them, and when they were all fallen on the edge of the sword, until they were consumed, that all the Israelites returned unto Ai, and smote it with the edge of the sword. [25] And so it was, that all that fell that day, both of men and women, were twelve thousand, even all the men of Ai. [26] For Joshua drew not his hand back, wherewith he stretched out the spear, until he had utterly destroyed all the inhabitants of Ai. [27] Only [f]the cattle and the spoil of that city Israel took for a prey unto themselves, according unto the word of the LORD which he commanded Joshua. [28] And Joshua burnt Ai, and made it [g]a heap for ever, even a desolation unto this day. [29] And [h]the king of Ai he hanged on a tree until even-tide; [i]and as soon as the sun was down, Joshua commanded that they should take his carcass down from the tree, and cast it at the entering of the gate of the city, and [j]raise thereon a great heap of stones, that remaineth unto this day.(5)

(5) The last six verses of this chapter are misplaced. Joshua at this time was at a great distance from Mount Ebal, namely at Gilgal, where he made his head quarters till the total reduction of the southern quarter of the country. See chap. ix. 6, and chap. x. 6, 7, 9, 43. The erection of the pillar and altar at Mount Ebal was probably after the conquest of the northern kingdoms, when the land rested from war, for the remainder of Joshua's days. I should conjecture that these six verses should be annexed to chapter xi., after the words "and the land rested from war."—Horsley's Bib. Crit. vol. i. p. 260.

come from a far country; now therefore make ye a league with us." [7] And the men of Israel said unto the [g]Hivites, "Peradventure ye dwell among us; [h]and how shall we make a league with you?" [8] And they said unto Joshua, "We [i]are thy servants." And Joshua said unto them, "Who are ye? and from whence come ye?" [9] And they said unto him, "From [j]a very far country thy servants are come because of the name of the LORD thy God: for we have [k]heard the fame of him, and all that he did in Egypt, [10] and [l]all that he did to the two kings of the Amorites, that were beyond Jordan, to Sihon king of Heshbon, and to Og king of Bashan, which was at Ashtaroth. [11] Wherefore our elders and all the inhabitants of our country spake to us, saying, 'Take victuals †with you for the journey, and go to meet them, and say unto them, We are your servants; therefore now make ye a league with us.' [12] This our bread we took hot for our provision out of our houses on the day we came forth to go unto you; but now, behold, it is dry, and it is mouldy: [13] and these bottles of wine, which we filled, were new; and, behold, they be rent: and these our garments and our shoes are become old by reason of the very long journey." [14] And ‡the men took of their victuals, [m]and asked not counsel at the mouth of the LORD. [15] And Joshua [n]made peace with them, and made a league with them, to let them live; and the princes of the congregation sware unto them.

[16] And it came to pass at the end of three days after they had made a league with them, that they heard that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt among them. [17] And the children of Israel journeyed, and came unto their cities on the third day. Now their cities were [o]Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth, and Kirjath-jearim. [18] And the children of Israel smote them not, [p]because the princes of the congregation had sworn unto them by the LORD God of Israel. And all the congregation murmured against the princes. [19] But all the princes said unto all the congregation, "We have sworn unto them by the LORD God of Israel: now therefore we may not touch them. [20] This we will do to them; we will even let them live, lest [q]wrath be upon us, because of the oath which we sware unto them." [21] And the princes said unto them, "Let them live, but let them be [r]hewers of wood and drawers of water unto all the congregation;" [a]as the princes had promised them.

[22] And Joshua called for them, and he spake unto them, saying, "Wherefore have ye beguiled us, saying, 'We are very far from you;' when ye dwell among us? [23] Now therefore ye are [s]cursed, and there shall *none of you be freed from being bondmen, and hewers of wood and drawers of water for the house of my God." [24] And they answered Joshua, and said, "Because it was certainly told thy servants, how that the LORD thy God [t]commanded his servant Moses to give you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you, [u]therefore we were sore afraid of our lives because of you, and have done this thing. [25] And now, behold, we are [v]in thy hand; as it seemeth good and right unto thee to do unto us, do." [26] And so did he unto them, and delivered them out of the hand of the children of Israel, that they slew them not. [27] And Joshua †made them that day hewers of wood and drawers of water for the congregation, and for the altar of the LORD, even unto this day, [w]in the place which he should choose.

(6) The Gibeonites, being thus preserved among the Israelites, became a standing monument to all future generations of the truth of the events recorded in the Book of Joshua. The people beheld peace with Israel, and were among them; [2] that they [z]feared greatly, because Gibeon was a great city, as one of the ‡royal cities, and because it was greater than Ai, and all the men thereof were mighty. [3] Wherefore Adoni-zedec king of Jerusalem sent unto Hoham king of Hebron, and unto Piram king of Jarmuth, and unto Japhia king of Lachish, and unto Debir king of Eglon, saying, [4] "Come up unto me, and help me, that we may smite Gibeon; for it hath made peace with Joshua and with the children of Israel." [5] Therefore the five kings of the Amorites, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon, gathered themselves together, and went up, they and all their hosts, and encamped before Gibeon, and made war against it.

a Jos. 5. 10.

[6] And the men of Gibeon sent unto Joshua [a]to the camp to Gilgal, saying, "Slack not thy hand from thy servants, come up to us quickly, and save us, and help us; for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the mountains are gathered together against us." [7] So Joshua ascended from Gilgal, he, and all the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valor.

[8] And the LORD said unto Joshua, "Fear [b]them not; for I have delivered them into thy hand, [c]there shall not a man of them stand before thee." [9] Joshua therefore came unto them suddenly, and went up from Gilgal all night. [10] And the LORD [d]discomfited them before Israel, and slew them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them along the way that goeth up [e]to Beth-horon, and smote them to [f]Azekah, and unto Makkedah. [11] And it came to pass, as they fled from before Israel, and were in the going down to Beth-horon, [g]that the LORD cast down great stones from heaven upon them unto Azekah, and they died: they were more which died with hailstones than they whom the children of Israel slew with the sword.

"Sun, *stand thou still upon Gibeon!
And thou, Moon, in the valley of [h]Ajalon!"

[13] And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed, until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies. [i]Is not this written in The Book of †Jasher? So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and hasted not to go down about a whole day. [14] And there was [j]no day like that before it, or after it, that the LORD hearkened unto the voice of a man; for [k]the LORD fought for Israel.(7) among them a tribe of the ancient Canaanites reduced to servitude; and they must have received the same kind of lesson from observing them, and associating with them, as the Christian of the present day may derive from looking upon the Jews, and remembering the ancient prophecies of Moses, Isaiah, and others; who have as clearly described their present degraded condition and dispersion, as they have their future restoration.

(7) The object of this miracle, which Mr. Bryant, Whiston, and others have endeavoured to explain away, was one of the most important and impressive nature. The Sun and the Moon, the two principal gods of the idolators, were commanded to yield miraculous obedience to the chief servant of the true God; and thereby to contribute to the more effectual conquest of their own worshippers. It was a miracle of the same description as those which had been wrought in Egypt. With respect to the objections to the probability of this miracle, which originate in a consideration of its supposed consequences, it is justly observed by Bishop Watson, "The machine of the universe is in the hand of God; he can stop the motion of any part, or of the whole, with less trouble, than either of us can stop a watch."—How absurd then is the reasoning of those men, who believe in the existence of an Omnipotent God; yet deny the possibility of the exertion of his power, in other ways, than those which are known to their limited experience!

them; suffer them not to enter into their cities, for the LORD your God hath delivered them into your hand." [20] And it came to pass, when Joshua and the children of Israel had made an end of slaying them with a very great slaughter, till they were consumed, that the rest which remained of them entered into fenced cities. [21] And all the people returned to the camp to Joshua at Makkedah in peace; [l]none moved his tongue against any of the children of Israel.

[22] Then said Joshua, "Open the mouth of the cave, and bring out those five kings unto me out of the cave." [23] And they did so, and brought forth those five kings unto him out of the cave, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, and the king of Eglon. [24] And it came to pass, when they brought out those kings unto Joshua, that Joshua called for all the men of Israel, and said unto the captains of the men of war which went with him, "Come near, [m]put your feet upon the necks of these kings." And they came near, and put their feet upon the necks of them. [25] And Joshua said unto them, "Fear [n]not, nor be dismayed, be strong and of good courage; for [o]thus shall the LORD do to all your enemies against whom ye fight." [26] And afterward Joshua smote them, and slew them, and hanged them on five trees; and they [p]were hanging upon the trees until the evening. [27] And it came to pass at the time of the going down of the sun, that Joshua commanded, and they [q]took them down off the trees, and cast them into the cave wherein they had been hid, and laid great stones in the cave's mouth, which remain until this very day.

[29] Then Joshua passed from Makkedah, and all Israel with him, unto Libnah, and fought against Libnah. [31] And Joshua passed from Libnah, and all Israel with him, unto Lachish, and encamped against it, and fought against it. [32] And the LORD delivered Lachish into the hand of Israel, which took it on the second day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the souls that were therein, according to all that he had done to Libnah.

[33] Then Horam king of Gezer came up to help Lachish; and Joshua smote him and his people, until he had left him none remaining.

[41] And Joshua smote them from Kadesh-barnea even unto [v]Gaza, [w]and all the country of Goshen, even unto Gibeon. kings he took, and smote them, and slew them. [18] Joshua †made war a long time with all those kings.

[19] There was not a city that made peace with the children of Israel, save the Hivites the inhabitants of Gibeon; all other they took in battle. [20] For [k]it was of the LORD to harden their hearts, that they should come against Israel in battle, that he might destroy them utterly, and that they might have no favor, but that he might destroy them, [l]as the LORD commanded Moses.

[21] And at that time came Joshua, and cut off [m]the Anakims from the mountains, from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, and from all the mountains of Judah, and from all the mountains of Israel; Joshua destroyed them utterly with their cities. [22] There was none of the Anakims left in the land of the children of Israel; only in Gaza, in Gath, and [o]in Ashdod, there remained. [23] So Joshua took the whole land, [p]according to all that the LORD said unto Moses; and Joshua gave it for an inheritance unto Israel [q]according to their divisions by their tribes. [r]And the land rested from war.

Jos. viii. 30, to end.

[30] Then Joshua built an altar unto the LORD God of Israel in [s]Mount Ebal, [31] as Moses the servant of the LORD commanded the children of Israel, as it is written in [t]the Book of the Law of Moses, an altar of whole stones, over which no man hath lifted up any iron; [u]and they offered thereon burnt offerings unto the LORD, and sacrificed peace offerings.

[32] And [v]he wrote there upon the stones a copy of the Law of Moses, which he wrote in the presence of the children of Israel. [33] And all Israel, and their elders, and officers, and their judges, stood on this side the ark and on that side before the priests the Levites, [w]which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, as well [x]the stranger, as he that was born among them; half of them over against Mount Gerizim, and half of them over against Mount Ebal; [y]as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded before, that they should bless the people of Israel. [34] And afterward [z]he read all the words of the Law, [a]the blessings and cursings, according to all that is written in the Book of the Law. [35] There was not a word of all that Moses commanded, which Joshua read not before all the congregation of Israel, [b]with the women, and the little ones, and the strangers that ‡were conversant among them.

[1] THEN Joshua called the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh, [2] and said unto them, "Ye have kept [a]all that Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, [b]and have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you; [3] ye have not left your brethren these many days unto this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of the LORD your God. (8) We read (Josh. i. 16.) that the wives and children of the Reubenites were directed to remain on the other side of the river, in the settlements assigned to them by Moses; which had been conquered previously to the rest of the promised land. The men, however, who were fit for war, in compliance with an offer made to Moses, were directed by Joshua to assist their brethren in taking possession of Canaan. The war had now lasted seven years; the country was conquered, and the land at rest. It is but natural to conclude, that the Reubenites and their brethren would return to their homes when their presence was no longer indispensably necessary to their brethren. I have therefore placed this chapter immediately after the accounts of the conquest, and before the division of the provinces of Palestine among the remaining tribes.

[32] And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, and the princes, returned from the children of Reuben, and from the children of Gad, out of the land of Gilead, unto the land of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and brought them word again. [33] And the thing pleased the children of Israel; and the children of Israel [a]blessed God, and did not intend to go up against them in battle, to destroy the land wherein the children of Reuben and Gad dwelt.—[34] And the children of Reuben and the children of Gad called the altar †Ed: for, 'It shall be a witness between us that the LORD is God.'

[1] NOW these are the kings of the land, which the children of Israel smote, and possessed their land on the other side Jordan toward the rising of the sun, [a]from the river Arnon [b]unto Mount Hermon, and all the plain on the east. [2] Sihon [c]king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon, and ruled from Aroer, which is upon the bank of the river Arnon, and from the middle of the river, and from half Gilead, even unto the river Jabbok, which is the border of the children of Ammon; [3] and [d]from the plain to the sea of Chinneroth on the east, and unto the Sea of the Plain, even the Salt Sea on the east, the way to Beth-jeshimoth; and from *the south, under †Ashdoth-pisgah.

[4] And [e]the coast of Og king of Bashan, which was of [f]the remnant of the giants, [g]that dwelt at Ashtaroth and at Edrei, [5] and reigned [h]in Mount Hermon, and [i]in Salcah, and in all Bashan, [j]unto the border of the Geshurites and the Maachathites, and half Gilead, the border of Sihon king of Heshbon. [6] Them [k]did Moses the servant of the LORD and the children of Israel smite; and [l]Moses the servant of the LORD gave it for a possession unto the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh.

[7] And these are the kings of the country [m]which Joshua and the children of Israel smote on this side Jordan on the west, from Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon even unto the Mount Halak, that goeth up to [n]Seir; which Joshua gave unto the tribes of Israel for a possession according to their divisions; [8] in the mountains, and in the valleys, and in the plains, and in the springs, and in the wilderness, and in the south country; [o]the Hittites, the Amorites, and the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites:—

[9] The king of Jericho, one; the king of Ai, which is beside Beth-el, one; [10] the king of Jerusalem, one; the king of Hebron, one; [11] the king of Jarmuth, one; the king of Lachish, one; [12] the king of Eglon, one; the king of Gezer, one; [13] the king of Debir, one; the king of Geder, one; [14] the king of Hormah, one; the king of Arad, one; [15] the king of Libnah, one; the king of Adullam, one; [16] the king of Makkedah, one; [p]the king of Beth-el, one; [17] the king of Tappuah, one; [q]the king of Hepher, one; [18] the king of Aphek, one; the king of ‡Lasharon, one; [19] the king of Madon, one; the king of Hazor, one; [20] the king of Shimron-meron, one; the king of Achshaph, one; [21] the king of Taanach, one; the king of Megiddo, one; [22] the king of Kedesh, one; the king of Jokneam of Carmel, one; [23] the king of Dor in the coast of Dor, one; the king of [r]the nations of Gilgal, one; [24] the king of Tirzah, one: all the kings thirty and one.

Jos. xiii. 1–14.

[1] Now Joshua [s]was old and stricken in years; and the LORD said unto him, "Thou art old and stricken in years, and there remaineth yet very much land *to be possessed. [2] This [t]is the land that yet remaineth: [u]all the borders of the Philistines, and all [v]Geshuri, [3] from [w]Sihor, which is before Egypt, even unto the borders of Ekron northward, which is counted to the Canaanite: [x]five lords of the Philistines; the Gazathites, and the Ashdothites, the Eshkalonites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites; also [y]the Avites: [4] from the south, all the land of the Canaanites, and †Mearah that is beside the Sidonians, [z]unto Aphek, to the borders of [a]the Amorites: [5] and the land of the [b]Giblites, and all Lebanon, toward the sunrising, from Baal-gad under Mount Hermon unto the entering into Hamath. [6] All the inhabitants of the hill country from Lebanon unto Misrephoth-maim, and all the Sidonians, them [c]will I drive out from before the children of Israel: [d]only divide thou it by lot unto the Israelites for an inheritance, as I have commanded thee. [7] Now therefore divide this land for an inheritance unto the nine tribes, and the half tribe of Manasseh, [8] with whom the Reubenites and the Gadites have received their inheritance, [e]which Moses gave them, beyond Jordan eastward, even as Moses the servant of the LORD gave them; [9] (from Aroer, that is upon the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midst of the river, [f]and all the plain of Medeba unto Dibon; [10] and [g]all the cities of Sihon king of the Amorites, which reigned in Heshbon, unto the border of

Jos. xiv. 1–5.

[1] And these are the countries which the children of Israel inherited in the land of Canaan, [a]which Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, distributed for inheritance to them. [2] By [b]lot was their inheritance, as the Lord commanded by the hand of Moses, for the nine tribes, and for the half tribe. [3] For Moses had given the inheritance of two tribes and a half tribe on the other side Jordan ; but unto the Levites he gave none inheritance among them. [4] For [c]the children of Joseph were two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim ; therefore they gave no part unto the Levites in the land, save cities to dwell in, with their suburbs for their cattle and for their substance. [5] As [d]the Lord commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did, and they divided the land.

(9) An instructive lesson was taught to each of the tribes, on their taking possession of their respective allotted settlements. They were well acquainted with the prophecies of their ancestor Jacob. On his death bed he had predicted the nature of the territory they should severally possess, at the future appointed time of obtaining the promised land. If the descriptive allusions of this patriarch, contained in the forty-ninth chapter of Genesis, be compared with the nature of the settlements of the various tribes, they will be found to correspond beautifully throughout. So true was the declaration of Moses, that the word was nigh them ; the evidences of their religion were continually before them, appealing to their hearts, and demonstrating, every day, the faithfulness and truth of God.

the children of Gad according to their families. [25] And [l]their coast was Jazer, and all the cities of Gilead, [m]and half the land of the children of Ammon, unto Aroer that is before [n]Rabbah; [26] and from Heshbon unto Ramath-mizpeh, and Betonim; and from Mahanaim unto the border of Debir; [27] and in the valley, Beth-aram, and Beth-nimrah, [o]and Succoth, and Zaphon, the rest of the kingdom of Sihon king of Heshbon, Jordan and his border, even unto the edge of the Sea of Chinneroth on the other side Jordan eastward. [28] This is the inheritance of the children of Gad after their families, the cities, and their villages.

[29] And Moses gave inheritance unto the half tribe of Manasseh: and this was the possession of the half tribe of the children of Manasseh by their families. [30] And their coast was from Mahanaim, all Bashan, all the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, and [p]all the towns of Jair, which are in Bashan, threescore cities. [31] And half Gilead, and Ashtaroth, and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan, were pertaining unto the children of Machir the son of Manasseh, even to the one half of the [q]children of Machir by their families.

[32] These are the countries which Moses did distribute for inheritance in the plains of Moab, on the other side Jordan, by Jericho, eastward.—[33] But unto the tribe of Levi Moses gave not any inheritance: the Lord God of Israel was their inheritance, [r]as he said unto them

Jos. xiv. 6, to end.

[6] Then the children of Judah came unto Joshua in Gilgal. And Caleb the son of Jephunneh the [s]Kenezite said unto him, "Thou knowest [t]the thing that the Lord said unto Moses the man of God concerning me and thee in [u]Kadesh-barnea. [7] Forty years old was I when Moses the servant of the Lord [v]sent me from Kadesh-barnea to espy out the land; and I brought him word again as it was in my heart. [8] Nevertheless [w]my brethren that went up with me made the heart of the people melt; but I wholly [x]followed the Lord my God. [9] And Moses sware on that day, saying, 'Surely the land [y]whereon thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance, and thy children's for ever, because thou hast wholly followed the Lord my God.' [10] And now, behold! the Lord hath kept me alive, as he said, these forty and five years, even since the Lord spake this word unto Moses, while the children of Israel *wandered in the wilderness; and now, lo, I am this day fourscore and five years old. [11] As [z]yet I am as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me; as my strength was then, even so is my strength now, for war, [a]both to go out, and to come in. [12] Now therefore give me this mountain, whereof the Lord spake in that day; for thou heardest in that day how [b]the Anakims were there, and that the cities were great and fenced: [c]if so be the Lord will be with me, then [d]I shall be able to drive them out, as the Lord said."

[13] And Joshua blessed him, [e]and gave unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh Hebron for an inheritance. [14] Hebron [f]therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite unto this day, because that he wholly followed the Lord God of Israel. [15] And [g]the name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba; which Arba was a great man among the Anakims. And the land had rest from war.

Jos. xv. 13–19, and 1–12, and 20, to the end.

[13] And unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh he gave a part among the children of Judah, according to the commandment of the Lord to Joshua, even †the city of Arba the father of Anak, which city is Hebron. [14] And Caleb drove thence [h]the three sons of Anak, [i]Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai, the children of Anak. [15] And [j]he went up thence to the inhabitants of Debir; and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher. [16] And Caleb said, "He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife." [17] And Othniel the son of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb, took it; and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife. [18] And it came to pass, as she came unto him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and [k]she lighted off her ass; and Caleb said unto her, "What wouldest thou?" [19] Who answered, "Give me [l]a blessing; for thou hast given me a south land; give me also springs of water." And he gave her the upper springs, and the nether springs.

[1] This then was the lot of the tribe of the children of Judah by their families; [m]even to the border of Edom the [n]wilderness of Zin southward was the uttermost part of the south coast.

[2] And their south border was from the shore of the Salt Sea, from the ‡bay that looketh southward. [3] And it went out to the south side to *Maaleh-acrabbim, and passed along to Zin, and ascended up on the south side unto Kadesh-barnea, and passed along to Hezron, and went up to Adar, and fetched a compass to Karkaa. [4] From thence it passed [o]toward Azmon, and went out unto the river of Egypt; and the goings out of that coast were at the sea: this shall be your south coast.

[5] And the east border was the Salt Sea, even unto the end of Jordan.

And their border in the north quarter was from the bay of the sea at the uttermost part of Jordan. [6] And the border went up to Beth-hogla, and passed along by the north of Beth-arabah; and the border went up to the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben. [7] And the border went up toward Debir from the valley of Achor, and so northward, looking toward Gilgal, that is before the going up to Adummim, which is on the south side of the river; and the border passed toward the waters of En-shemesh, and the goings out thereof were at [p]En-rogel. [8] And the border went up [q]by the valley of the son of Hinnom unto the south side of the [r]Jebusite, (the same is Jerusalem); and the border went up to the top of the mountain that lieth before the valley of Hinnom westward, which is at the end of the valley of the giants northward. [9] And the border was drawn from the top of the hill unto the fountain of the water of Nephtoah, and went out to the cities of Mount Ephron; and the border was drawn [s]to Baalah, which is [t]Kirjath-jearim. [10] And the border compassed from Baalah westward unto Mount Seir, and passed along unto the side of Mount Jearim, which is Chesalon, on the north side, and went down to Beth-shemesh, and passed on to [u]Timnah. [11] And the border went out unto the side of [v]Ekron northward; and the border was drawn to Shicron, and passed along to Mount Baalah, and went out unto Jabneel; and the goings out of the border were at the sea.

[12] And the west border was to [w]the Great Sea, and the coast thereof. This is the coast of the children of Judah round about according to their families. [20] This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah according to their families:—[21] and the uttermost cities of the tribe of the children of Judah toward the coast of Edom southward were Kabzeel, and Eder, and Jagur, [22] and Kinah, and Dimonah, and Adadah, [23] and Kedesh, and Hazor, and Ithnan, [24] Ziph, and Telem, and Bealoth, [25] and Hazor, Hadattah, and Kerioth, and Hezron, which is Hazor, [26] Amam, and Shema, and Moladah, [27] and Hazar-gaddah, and Heshmon, and Beth-palet, [28] and Hazar-shual, and Beer-sheba, and Bizjothjah, [29] Baalah, and Iim, and Azem, [30] and Eltolad, and Chesil, and Hormah, [31] and [x]Ziklag, and Madmannah, and Sansannah, [32] and Lebaoth, and Shilhim, and Ain, and Rimmon: all the cities are twenty and nine, with their villages.

[33] And in the valley, [y]Eshtaol, and Zoreah, and Ashnah, [34] and Zanoah, and En-gannim, Tappuah, and Enam, [35] Jarmuth, and Adullam, Socoh, and Azekah, [36] and Sharaim, and Adithaim, and Gederah, †and

Jos. xvi.

[1] And the lot of the children of Joseph †fell from Jordan by Jericho, unto the water of Jericho on the east, to the wilderness that goeth up from Jericho throughout Mount Beth-el, [2] and goeth out from Beth-el to [d]Luz, and passeth along unto the borders of Archi to Ataroth, [3] and goeth down westward to the coast of Japhleti, [e]unto the coast of Beth-horon the nether, and to [f]Gezer: and the goings out thereof are at the sea. [4] So the children of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, took their inheritance.

[5] And the border of the children of Ephraim according to their families was thus: even the border of their inheritance on the east side was Ataroth-adar, [g]unto Beth-horon the upper; [6] and the border went out toward the sea to Michmethah on the north side; and the border went about eastward unto Taanath-shiloh, and passed by it on the east to Janohah; [7] and it went down from Janohah to Ataroth, [h]and to Naarath, and came to Jericho, and went out at Jordan. [8] The border went out from Tappuah westward unto the river Kanah; and the goings out thereof were at the sea. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim by their families. [9] And the separate cities for the children of Ephraim were among the inheritance of the children of Manasseh, all the cities with their villages. [10] And [i]they drave not out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer; but the Canaanites dwell among the Ephraimites unto this day, and serve under tribute.

[1] There was also a lot for the tribe of Manasseh, for he was the [j]firstborn of Joseph, (to wit, for [k]Machir the firstborn of Manasseh, the father of Gilead); because he was a man of war, therefore he had [l]Gilead and Bashan. [2] There was also a lot for [m]the rest of the children of Manasseh by their families; [n]for the children of ‡Abiezer, and for the children of Helek, [o]and for the children of Asriel, and for the children of Shechem, and for the children of Hepher, and for the children of Shemida: these were the male children of Manasseh the son of Joseph by their families.

[3] But Zelophehad, the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, had no sons, but daughters: and these are the names of his daughters, Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. [4] And they came near before Eleazar the priest, and before Joshua the son of Nun, and before the princes, saying, "The [p]LORD commanded Moses to give us an inheritance among our brethren." Therefore according to the commandment of the LORD he gave them an inheritance among the brethren of their father. [5] And there fell ten portions to Manasseh, besides the land of Gilead and Bashan, which were on the other side Jordan; [6] because the daughters of Manasseh had an inheritance among his sons; and the rest of Manasseh's sons had the land of Gilead.

p Nu. 27. 6, 7.

[7] And the coast of Manasseh was from Asher to Michmethah, that lieth before Shechem; and the border went along on the right hand unto the inhabitants of En-tappuah. [8] Now Manasseh had the land of Tappuah: but Tappuah on the border of Manasseh belonged to the children of Ephraim; [9] and the coast descended unto the [*]river Kanah, southward of the river: these cities of Ephraim are among the cities of Manasseh. The coast of Manasseh also was on the north side of the river, and the outgoings of it were at the sea: [10] southward it was Ephraim's, and northward it was Manasseh's, and the sea is his border; and they met together in Asher on the north, and in Issachar on the east. [11] And [q]Manasseh had in Issachar and in Asher [r]Beth-shean and her towns, and Ibleam and her towns, and the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of En-dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of Taanach and her towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns, even three countries. [12] Yet [s]the children of Manasseh could not drive out the inhabitants of those cities; but the Canaanites would dwell in that land. [13] Yet it came to pass, when the children of Israel were waxen strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute; but did not utterly drive them out.

[14] And the children of Joseph spake unto Joshua, saying, "Why hast thou given me but [t]one lot and one portion to inherit, seeing I am [u]a great people, forasmuch as the LORD hath blessed me hitherto?" [15] And Joshua answered them, "If thou be a great people, then get thee up to the wood country, and cut down for thyself there in the land of the Perizzites and of the [†]giants, if Mount Ephraim be too narrow for thee." [16] And the children of Joseph said, "The hill is not enough for us; and all the Canaanites that dwell in the land of the valley have [v]chariots of iron, both they who are of Beth-shean and her towns, and they who are [w]of the valley of Jezreel." [17] And Joshua spake unto the house of Joseph, even to Ephraim and to Manasseh, saying, "Thou art a great people, and hast great power. Thou shalt not have one lot only; [18] but the mountain shall be thine; for it is a wood, and thou shalt cut it down. And the outgoings of it shall be thine; for thou shalt drive out the Canaanites, [x]though they have iron chariots, and though they be strong."

[2] And there remained among the children of Israel seven tribes, which had not yet received their inheritance. [3] And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, "How [a]long are ye slack to go to possess the land, which the LORD God of your fathers hath given you? [4] Give out from among you three men for each tribe; and I will send them, and they shall rise, and go through the land, and describe it according to the inheritance of them; and they shall come again to me. [5] And they shall divide it into seven parts; Judah shall abide in their coast on the south, and the house of Joseph shall abide in their coast on the north. [6] Ye shall therefore describe the land into seven parts, and bring the description hither to me, that I may cast lots for you here before the Lord our God. [7] But the Levites have no part among you, for the priesthood of the Lord is their inheritance; and Gad, and Reuben, and half the tribe of Manasseh, have received their inheritance beyond Jordan on the east, which Moses the servant of the Lord gave them."

[8] And the men arose, and went away; and Joshua charged them that went to describe the land, saying, "Go and walk through the land, and describe it, and come again to me, that I may here cast lots for you before the Lord in Shiloh." [9] And the men went and passed through the land, and described it by cities into seven parts in a book, and came again to Joshua to the host at Shiloh. [10] And Joshua cast lots for them in Shiloh before the Lord; and there Joshua divided the land unto the children of Israel according to their divisions.

[11] And the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up according to their families; and the coast of their lot came forth between the children of Judah and the children of Joseph.—[12] And [b]their border on the north side was from Jordan; and the border went up to the side of Jericho on the north side, and went up through the mountains westward; and the goings out thereof were at the wilderness of Beth-aven. [13] And the border went over from thence toward Luz, to the side of Luz, [c]which is Beth-el, southward; and the border descended to Ataroth-adar, near the hill that lieth on the south side of the nether Beth-horon. [14] And the border was drawn thence, and compassed the corner of the sea southward from the hill that lieth before Beth-horon southward; and the goings out thereof were at [d]Kirjath-baal, which is Kirjath-jearim, a city of the children of Judah: this was the west quarter.—[15] And the south quarter was from the end of Kirjath-jearim, and the border went out on the west, and went out to the well of waters of Nephtoah. [16] And the border came down to the end of the mountain that lieth before the valley of the son of Hinnom, and which is in the valley of the giants on the north, and descended to the valley of Hinnom, to the side of Jebusi on the south, and descended to En-rogel, [17] and was drawn from the north, and went forth to En-shemesh, and went forth toward Geliloth, which is over against the going up of Adummim, and descended to the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben, [18] and passed along toward the side over against ‡Arabah northward, and went down unto Arabah. [19] And the border passed along to the side of Beth-hoglah northward; and the outgoings of the border were at the north *bay of the Salt Sea at the south end of Jordan: this was the south coast.—[20] And Jordan was the border of it on the east side. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, by the coasts thereof round about, according to their families.—[21] Now the cities of the tribe of the children of Benjamin according to their families were Jericho, and Beth-hoglah, and the valley of Keziz. [22] And Beth-arabah, and Zemaraim, and Beth-el, [23] and Avim, and Parah, and Ophrah, [24] and Chephar-haammonai, and Ophni, and Gaba; twelve cities with their villages: [25] Gibeon, and Ramah, and Beeroth, [26] and Mizpeh, and Chephirah, and Mozah, [27] and Rekem, and Irpeel, and Taralah, [28] and Zelah, Eleph, and Jebusi, which is Jerusalem, Gibeath, and Kirjath; fourteen cities with their villages. [1] And the second lot came forth to Simeon, even for the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families; and their inheritance was within the inheritance of the children of Judah. [2] And [e]they had in their inheritance Beer-sheba, and Sheba, and Moladah, [3]and Hazar-shual, and Balah, and Azem, [4]and Eltolad, and Bethul, and Hormah, [5]and Ziklag, and Beth-marcaboth, and Hazar-susah, [6]and Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuhen; thirteen cities and their villages: [7]Ain, Remmon, and Ether, and Ashan; four cities and their villages: [8]and all the villages that were round about these cities to Baalath-beer, Ramath of the south.—This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families. [9]Out of the portion of the children of Judah was the inheritance of the children of Simeon: for the part of the children of Judah was too much for them; therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of them.

[10]And the third lot came up for the children of Zebulun according to their families. And the border of their inheritance was unto Sarid: [11]and [f]their border went up toward the sea, and Maralah, and reached to Dabbasheth, and reached to the river that is before Jokneam; [12]and turned from Sarid eastward toward the sunrising unto the border of Chisloth-tabor, and then goeth out to Daberath, and goeth up to Japhia, [13]and from thence passeth on along on the east to Gittah-hepher, to Ittah-kazin, and goeth out to Remmon-†methoar, to Neah; [14]and the border compasseth it on the north side to Hannathon: and the outgoings thereof are in the valley of Jiphthah-el: [15]and Kattath, and Nahallal, and Shimron, and Idalah, and Beth-lehem; twelve cities with their villages.—[16]This is the inheritance of the children of Zebulun according to their families, these cities with their villages.

[17]And the fourth lot came out to Issachar, for the children of Issachar according to their families. [18]And their border was toward Jezreel, and Chesulloth, and Shunem, [19]and Hapharaim, and Shihon, and Anaharath, [20]and Rabbith, and Kishion, and Abez, [21]and Remeth, and En-gannim, and En-haddah, and Beth-pazzez; [22]and the coast reacheth to Tabor, and Shahazimah, and Beth-shemesh; and the outgoings of their border were at Jordan; sixteen cities with their villages. —[23]This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Issachar according to their families, the cities and their villages.

[24]And the fifth lot came out for the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families. [25]And their border was Helkath, and Hali, and Beten, and Achshaph, [26]and Alammelech, and Amad, and Misheal; and reacheth to Carmel westward, and to Shihor-libnath; [27]and turneth toward the sunrising to Beth-dagon, and reacheth to Zebulun, and to the valley of Jiphthah-el toward the north side of Beth-emek, and Neiel, and goeth out to Cabul on the left hand, [28]and Hebron, and Rehob, and Hammon, and Kanah, [g]even unto great Zidon; [29]and then the coast turneth to Ramah, and to the strong city ‡Tyre; and the coast turneth to Hosah; and the outgoings thereof are at the sea from the coast to [h]Achzib: [30]Ummah also, and Aphek, and Rehob; twenty and two cities with their villages.—[31]This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families, these cities with their villages.

[32]The sixth lot came out to the children of Naphtali, even for the children of Naphtali according to their families. [33]And their coast was from Heleph, from Allon to Zaanannim, and Adami, Nekeb, and Jabneel, unto Lakum; and the outgoings thereof were at Jordan: [34]and then [i]the coast turneth westward to Aznoth-tabor, and goeth out from thence to Hukkok, and reacheth to Zebulun on the south side, and reacheth to Asher on the west side, and to Judah upon Jordan toward the sunrising. [35]And the fenced cities are Ziddim, Zer, and Hammath, Rakkath, and Chinneroth, [36]and Adamah, and Ramah, and [40] And the seventh lot came out for the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families. [41] And the coast of their inheritance was Zorah, and Eshtaol, and Ir-shemesh, [42] and [j]Shaalabbin, and Ajalon, and Jethlah, [43] and Elon, and Thimnathah, and Ekron, [44] and Eltekeh, and Gibbethon, and Baalath, [45] and Jehud, and Bene-berak, Gath-rimmon, [46] and Me-jarkon, and Rakkon, with the border *before †Japho. [47] And [k]the coast of the children of Dan went out too little for them; therefore the children of Dan went up to fight against Leshem, and took it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and possessed it, and dwelt therein, and called Leshem, Dan, after the name of Dan their father.—[48] This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families, these cities with their villages.

[51] These [n]are the inheritances, which Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, divided for an inheritance by lot in Shiloh before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. [1] THE LORD also spake unto Joshua, saying, [2] "Speak to the children of Israel, saying, [a]Appoint out for you cities of refuge, whereof I spake unto you by the hand of Moses; [3] that the slayer that killeth any person unawares and unwittingly may flee thither; and they shall be your refuge from the avenger of blood. [4] And when he that doth flee unto one of those cities shall stand at the entering of [b]the gate of the city, and shall declare his cause in the ears of the elders of that city, they shall take him into the city unto them, and give him a place, that he may dwell among them. [5] And [c]if the avenger of blood pursue after him, then they shall not deliver the slayer up into his hand; because he smote his neighbour unwittingly, and hated him not beforetime. [6] And he shall dwell in that city, [d]until he stand before the congregation for judgment, and until the death of the high priest that shall be in those days; then shall the slayer return, and come unto his own city, and unto his own house, unto the city from whence he fled."

[20] And [f]the families of the children of Kohath, the Levites which remained of the children of Kohath, even they had the cities of their lot out of the tribe of Ephraim. [c] De. 7. 24.

[43] AND the Lord gave unto Israel [a]all the land which he sware to give unto their fathers; and they possessed it, and dwelt therein. [44] And [b]the Lord gave them rest round about, according to all that he sware unto their fathers: [c]and there stood not a man of all their enemies before them; the Lord delivered all their enemies into their hand. [45] There failed not aught of any good thing which the Lord had spoken unto the house of Israel; all came to pass.

Jos. xxiv.

[1] And Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel to Shechem, and called for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers; and they [w]presented themselves before God.

[2] And Joshua said unto all the people, "Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, [x]Your fathers dwelt on the other side of the flood in old time, even Terah, the father of Abraham, and the father of Nachor: and [y]they served other gods. [3] And [z]I took your father Abraham from the other side of the flood, and led him throughout all the land of Canaan, and multiplied his seed, and [a]gave him Isaac. [4] And I gave unto Isaac [b]Jacob and Esau: and I gave unto [c]Esau, Mount Seir, to possess it; [d]but Jacob and his children went down into Egypt. [5] I [e]sent Moses also and Aaron, and [f]I plagued Egypt, according to that which I did among them; and afterward I brought you out. [6] And I brought your fathers out of Egypt, and [g]ye came unto the sea; and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers with chariots and horsemen unto the Red Sea. [7] And when they cried unto the LORD, he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, and brought the sea upon them, and covered them; and [h]your eyes have seen what I have done in Egypt, and ye dwelt in the wilderness [i]a long season. [8] And I brought you into the land of the Amorites, which dwelt on the other side Jordan, [j]and they fought with you; and I gave them into your hand, that ye might possess their land, and I destroyed them from before you. [9] Then [k]Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab, arose and warred against Israel, and [l]sent and called Balaam the son of Beor to curse you. [10] But [m]I would not hearken unto Balaam, [n]therefore he blessed you still; so I delivered you out of his hand. [11] And [o]ye went over Jordan, and came unto Jericho; and [p]the men of Jericho fought against you, the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Girgashites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites; and I delivered them into your hand. before you, even the two kings of the Amorites; but [r]not with thy sword, nor with thy bow. [13] And I have given you a land for which ye did not labor, and [s]cities which ye built not, and ye dwell in them; of the vineyards and oliveyards which ye planted not do ye eat.

[14] "Now [t]therefore fear the LORD, and serve him in [u]sincerity and in truth; and [v]put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the flood, and [w]in Egypt, and serve ye the LORD. [15] And if it seem evil unto you to serve the LORD, [x]choose you this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood, or [y]the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: [z]but as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD."

[16] And the people answered and said, "God forbid that we should forsake the LORD, to serve other gods; [17] for the LORD our God, he it is that brought us up and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, and which did those great signs in our sight, and preserved us in all the way wherein we went, and among all the people through whom we passed. [18] And the LORD drave out from before us all the people, even the Amorites which dwelt in the land; therefore will we also serve the LORD, for he is our God." [19] And Joshua said unto the people, "Ye [a]cannot serve the LORD; for he is [b]a holy God, he is [c]a jealous God, [d]he will not forgive your transgressions nor your sins. [20] If [e]ye forsake the LORD, and serve strange gods, [f]then he will turn and do you hurt, and consume you, after that he hath done you good." [21] And the people said unto Joshua, "Nay; but we will serve the LORD." [22] And Joshua said unto the people, "Ye are witnesses against yourselves, that [g]ye have chosen you the LORD, to serve him." And they said, "We are witnesses." [23] "Now therefore [h]put away," said he, "the strange gods which are among you, and incline your heart unto the LORD God of Israel." [24] And the people said unto Joshua, "The LORD our God will we serve, and his voice will we obey." [25] So Joshua [i]made a covenant with the people that day, and set them a statute and an ordinance in Shechem.(10)

[26] And Joshua [j]wrote these words in the Book of the Law of God, and took [k]a great stone, and [l]set it up there [m]under an oak, that was by the sanctuary of the LORD. [27] And Joshua said unto all the people, "Behold, this stone shall be [n]a witness unto us; [o]for it hath heard all the words of the LORD which he spake unto us, it shall be therefore a witness unto you, lest ye deny your God." [28] So [p]Joshua let the people depart, every man unto his inheritance.

[29] And it came to pass after these things, that Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died, being an hundred and ten years old. [30] And they buried him in the border of his inheritance in [q]Timnath-serah, which is in Mount Ephraim, on the north side of the hill of Gaash. [31] And [r]Israel served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders that ‡overlived Joshua, and which had [s]known all the works of the LORD, that he had done for Israel.

[32] And [t]the bones of Joseph, which the children of Israel brought up out of Egypt, buried they in Shechem, in a parcel of ground [u]which Jacob bought of the sons of Hamor the father of Shechem for an hundred *pieces of silver; and it became the inheritance of the children of Joseph.

[33] And Eleazar the son of Aaron died; and they buried him in a hill that pertained to [v]Phinehas his son, which was given him in Mount Ephraim.

(10) This sanctuary at Shechem, in the opinion of the learned Jos. Mede, was a proseucha, or place for prayer; which differed from the synagogue, in not being covered in. The synagogues were places of worship, and likewise for the hearing of the Law. The synagogue had its minister and congregation; the proseucha was merely a piece of ground enclosed, and considered sacred for the use of any stranger or inhabitant who might wish to pray.—Mede's Works, Discourse xviii. p. 66, &c.

Section I.—State of Israel after the Death of Joshua.

Judges i. and ii. 1–5.

[1] NOW after the death of Joshua it came to pass, that the children of Israel [a]asked the Lord, saying, "Who shall go up for us against the Canaanites first, to fight against them?" [2] And the Lord said, "Judah [b]shall go up; behold, I have delivered the land into his hand." [3] And Judah said unto Simeon his brother, "Come up with me into my lot, that we may fight against the Canaanites: and I likewise will go with thee into thy lot." So Simeon went with him. [4] And Judah went up, and the Lord delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand; and they slew of them in [c]Bezek ten thousand men. [5] And they found Adoni-bezek in Bezek; and they fought against him, and they slew the Canaanites and the Perizzites. [6] But Adoni-bezek fled; and they pursued after him, and caught him, and cut off his thumbs and his great toes. [7] And Adoni-bezek said, "Threescore and ten kings, having *their thumbs and their great toes cut off, †gathered their meat under my table: [d]as I have done, so God hath requited me." And they brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died.

[8] Now [e]the children of Judah had fought against Jerusalem, and had taken it, and smitten it with the edge of the sword, and set the city on fire. [9] And [f]afterward the children of Judah went down to fight against the Canaanites that dwelt in the mountain, and in the south, and in the ‡valley. [10] And Judah went against the Canaanites that dwelt in Hebron, (now the name of Hebron before was [g]Kirjath-arba;) and they slew Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai. [11] And from thence he went against the inhabitants of Debir; and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher. [12] And Caleb said, "He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife." [13] And Othniel the son of Kenez, [h]Caleb's younger brother, took it; and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife. [14] And it came to pass, when she came to him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and she lighted from off her ass; and Caleb said unto her, "What wilt thou?" [15] And she said unto him, "Give [i]me a blessing; for thou hast given me a south land, give me also springs of water." And Caleb gave her the upper springs and the nether springs.(11)

[17] And Judah went with Simeon his brother, and they slew the Canaanites that inhabited Zephath, and utterly destroyed it. And the name of the city was called Hormah. [18] Also Judah took [m]Gaza with the coast thereof, and Askelon with the coast thereof, and Ekron with the coast thereof. (11) This passage, relating to the conquest of Kirjath-sepher by Caleb, was mentioned before (Josh. xv. 13–20.) that the possessions of Judah might be enumerated together. Bishop Horsley, however, wishes it to be expunged from the text, as an interpolation; a proposition to which it appears impossible to assent. "No reason," he adds, "can be assigned for its insertion." It is not certainly known at what time the city was taken. Bishop Patrick is of opinion, that it was not captured till after the death of Joshua, owing to the indolence of the tribe of Judah. Dr. Wells, on the contrary, supposes that it was taken by Caleb, immediately after it was allotted to him by Joshua. It is preserved in its place in this arrangement, because the narrative is not otherwise complete. Vide Horsley's Bib. Crit. vol. i.; Dr. Wells; and Bp. Patrick in loc.

[p]they gave Hebron unto Caleb, as Moses said; and he expelled thence the three sons of Anak.

[21] And [q]the children of Benjamin did not drive out the Jebusites that inhabited Jerusalem; but the Jebusites dwell with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem unto this day.

[22] And the house of Joseph, they also went up against Beth-el: and the Lord was with them. [23] And the house of Joseph [r]sent to descry Beth-el; (now the name of the city before was [s]Luz). [24] And the spies saw a man come forth out of the city, and they said unto him, "Show us, we pray thee, the entrance into the city, and [t]we will show thee mercy." [25] And when he showed them the entrance into the city, they smote the city with the edge of the sword; but they let go the man and all his family. [26] And the man went into the land of the Hittites, and built a city, and called the name thereof Luz; which is the name thereof unto this day.

[27] Neither [u]did Manasseh drive out the inhabitants of Beth-shean and her towns, nor Taanach and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Ibleam and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns; but the Canaanites would dwell in that land. [28] And it came to pass, when Israel was strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute, and did not utterly drive them out.

[29] Neither [v]did Ephraim drive out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer; but the Canaanites dwelt in Gezer among them.

[30] Neither did Zebulun drive out the inhabitants of Kitron, nor the [w]inhabitants of Nahalol; but the Canaanites dwelt among them, and became tributaries.

[31] Neither did Asher drive out the inhabitants of Accho, nor the inhabitants of Zidon, nor of Ahlab, nor of Achzib, nor of Helbah, nor of Aphik, nor of Rehob; [32] but the Asherites [x]dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land, for they did not drive them out.

[33] Neither did Naphtali drive out the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh, nor the inhabitants of Beth-anath; but he dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land: nevertheless the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh and of Beth-anath became tributaries unto them. [34] And the Amorites forced the children of Dan into the mountain; for they would not suffer them to come down to the valley. [35] But the Amorites would dwell in Mount Heres in Aijalon, and in Shaalbim; yet the hand of the house of Joseph †prevailed, so that they became tributaries. [36] And the coast of the Amorites was from ‡the going up to Akrabbim, from the rock, and upward.

Judges ii. 1–5.

[1] And *an Angel of the Lord came up from Gilgal to Bochim, and said, "I made you to go up out of Egypt, and have brought you unto the land which I sware unto your fathers; and [y]I said, I will never break my covenant with you.(12) [2] And [z]ye shall make no league with the inhabitants of this land, [a]ye shall throw down their altars; [b]but ye have not obeyed my voice: why have ye done this? [3] Wherefore I also said, I will not drive them out from before you; but they shall be [c]as thorns in your sides, and [d]their gods shall be [e]a snare unto you." [4] And it came to pass, when the Angel of the Lord spake these words unto all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up their voice, and wept. [5] And they called the name of that place †Bochim: and they sacrificed there unto the Lord.

(12) The Israelites having now obtained possession of the promised land, it remained with them only to secure their conquests. They omitted to do so. The Angel Jehovah again therefore appeared to them after the death of Joshua, to remonstrate with them for having neglected, according to his commands, to extirpate idolatry. They had hitherto been triumphant over all their opponents; they were now in their turn to be punished for disobedience, to be brought into subjection, and to learn that lesson from adversity, which they had refused to acquire in prosperity.

(13) The death of Joshua is repeated as an introduction to the ensuing history of the origin and progress of idolatry, and of the apostacy among the Israelites.

(14) That these chapters, from the seventeenth to the twenty-first, inclusive, ought to be inserted here, will be evident, from considering among other reasons—

I. The Danites were still unsettled when the transactions recorded in chapters xvii. and xviii. took place; which must therefore have been soon after Joshua's death.

II. Phinehas was alive at the battle of Gibea.

III. The wickedness at Gibea is mentioned (Hos. x. 9.) as the first open wickedness of Israel, after they had taken possession of Canaan. It must therefore have preceded the offences for which they were brought into slavery by the surrounding nations. Vide Lightfoot in loc.; Bishop Patrick, and others.

apparel, and thy victuals." So the Levite went in. [11] And the Levite was content to dwell with the man; and the young man was unto him as one of his sons. [12] And Micah consecrated the Levite; and the young man became his priest, and was in the house of Micah. [13] Then said Micah, "Now know I that the LORD will do me good, seeing I have a Levite to my priest."

JUD. xviii.

[1] In those days there was no king in Israel. And in those days [p]the tribe of the Danites sought them an inheritance to dwell in; for unto that day all their inheritance had not fallen unto them among the tribes of Israel. [2] And the children of Dan sent of their family five men from their coasts, †men of valor, from [q]Zorah, and from Eshtaol, [r]to spy out the land, and to search it; and they said unto them, "Go, search the land:" who when they came to Mount Ephraim, to the house of Micah, they lodged there. [3] When they were by the house of Micah, they knew the voice of the young man the Levite: and they turned in thither, and said unto him, "Who brought thee hither? and what makest thou in this place? and what hast thou here?" [4] And he said unto them, "Thus and thus dealeth Micah with me, and hath hired me, and I am his priest." [5] And they said unto him, "Ask [s]counsel, we pray thee, of God, that we may know whether our way which we go shall be prosperous." [6] And the priest said unto them, "Go [t]in peace: before the LORD is your way wherein ye go."

[8] And they came unto their brethren to Zorah and Eshtaol; and their brethren said unto them, "What say ye?" [1] AND it came to pass in those days, [a]when there was no king in Israel, that there was a certain Levite sojourning on the side of Mount Ephraim, who took to him *a concubine out of [b]Beth-lehem-judah. [2] And his concubine played the whore against him, and went away from him unto her father's house to Beth-lehem-judah, and was there †four whole months.

[3] And her husband arose, and went after her, to speak ‡friendly unto her, and to bring her again, having his servant with him, and a couple of asses; and she brought him into her father's house, and when the father of the damsel saw him, he rejoiced to meet him. [4] And his father-in-law, the damsel's father, retained him; and he abode with him three days: so they did eat and drink, and lodged there.

* Heb. Strengthen. Ge. 18. 5.

[5] And it came to pass on the fourth day, when they arose early in the morning, that he rose up to depart: and the damsel's father said unto his son-in-law, "*Comfort thy heart with a morsel of bread, and afterward go your way." [6] And they sat down, and did eat and drink both of them together; for the damsel's father had said unto the man, "Be content, I pray thee, and tarry all night, and let thy heart be merry." [7] And when the man rose up to depart, his father-in-law urged him; therefore he lodged there again. [8] And he arose early in the morning on the fifth day to depart; and the damsel's father said, "Comfort thy heart, I pray thee." And they tarried until †afternoon, and they did eat both of them. [9] And when the man rose up to depart, he, and his concubine, and his servant, his father-in-law, the damsel's father, said unto him, "Behold, now the day ‡draweth toward evening, I pray you tarry all night: behold, *the day groweth to an end, lodge here, that thy heart may be merry; and to-morrow get you early on your way, that thou mayest go †home." [10] But the man would not tarry that night, but he rose up and departed, and came ‡over against Jebus, which is Jerusalem; and there were with him two asses saddled, his concubine also was with him. [11] And when they were by Jebus, the day was far spent; and the servant said unto his master, "Come, I pray thee, and let us turn in unto this city [c]of the Jebusites, and lodge in it." [12] And his master said unto him, "We will not turn aside hither into the city of a stranger, that is not of the children of Israel; we will pass over [d]to Gibeah." [13] And he said unto his servant, "Come, and let us draw near to one of these places to lodge all night, in Gibeah, or in [e]Ramah." [14] And they passed on and went their way; and the sun went down upon them when they were by Gibeah, which belongeth to Benjamin. [15] And they turned aside thither, to go in and to lodge in Gibeah: and when he went in, he sat him down in a street of the city; for there was no man that [f]took them into his house to lodging.

[16] And, behold, [g]there came an old man from his work out of the field at even, which was also of Mount Ephraim; and he sojourned in Gibeah, but the men of the place were Benjamites. [17] And when he had lifted up his eyes, he saw a wayfaring man in the street of the city; and the old man said, "Whither goest thou? and whence comest thou?" [18] And he said unto him, "We are passing from Beth-lehem-judah toward the side of Mount Ephraim; from thence am I: and I went to Beth-lehem-judah, but I am now going to [h]the house of the Lord; and there is no man that *receiveth me to house. [19] Yet there is both straw and provender for our asses; and there is bread and wine also for me, and for thy handmaid, and for the young man which is with thy servants: there is no want of any thing." [20] And the old man said, "Peace [i]be with thee; howsoever let all thy wants lie upon me; [j]only lodge not in the street." [21] So [k]he brought him into his house, and gave provender unto the asses; [l]and they washed their feet, and did eat and drink.

[22] Now as they were making their hearts merry, behold, [m]the men of the city, certain [n]sons of Belial, beset the house round about, and beat at the door, and spake to the master of the house, the old man, saying, "Bring forth the man that came into thy house, that we may know him." [23] And the man, the master of the house, went out unto them, and said unto them, "Nay, my brethren, nay, I pray you, do not so wickedly; seeing that this man is come into my house, [o]do not this folly. [24] Behold, here is my daughter a maiden, and his concubine; them I will bring out now, and [p]humble ye them, and do with them what seemeth good unto you: but unto this man do not †so vile a thing." [25] But the men would not hearken to him; so the man took his concubine, and brought her forth unto them. And they knew her, and abused her all the night until the morning; and when the day began to spring, they let her go.

[26] Then came the woman in the dawning of the day, and fell down at the door of the man's house where her lord was till it was light.

[3] (Now the children of Benjamin heard that the children of Israel were gone up to Mizpeh.) Then said the children of Israel, "Tell us how was this wickedness?" [4] And ‡the Levite, the husband of the woman that was slain, answered and said, "I came into Gibeah that belongeth to Benjamin, I and my concubine, to lodge. [5] And the men of Gibeah rose against me, and beset the house round about upon me by night, and thought to have slain me; and my concubine have they *forced that she is dead. But the children of Benjamin would not hearken to the voice of their brethren the children of Israel; [14] but the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together out of the cities unto Gibeah, to go out to battle against the children of Israel. [15] And the children of Benjamin were numbered at that time out of the cities twenty and six thousand men that drew sword, besides the inhabitants of Gibeah, which were numbered seven hundred chosen men. [16] Among all this people there were seven hundred chosen men [a]left-handed; every one could sling stones at a hair breadth, and not miss. ‡ Heb. were found.

[45] And they turned and fled toward the wilderness unto the rock of [l]Rimmon; and they gleaned of them in the highways five thousand men, and pursued hard after them unto Gidom, and slew two thousand men of them. [46] So that all which fell that day of Benjamin were twenty and five thousand men that drew the sword; all these were men of valor. [47] But six hundred men turned and fled to the wilderness unto the rock Rimmon, and abode in the rock Rimmon four months. [48] And the men of Israel turned again upon the children of Benjamin, and smote them with the edge of the sword, as well the men of every city, as the beast, and all that †came to hand; also they set on fire all the cities that ‡they came to.

[1] Now the men of Israel had sworn in Mizpeh, saying, "There shall not any of us give his daughter unto Benjamin to wife." [2] And the people came to the house of God, and abode there till even before God, and lifted up their voices, and wept sore; [3] and said, "O LORD God of Israel, why is this come to pass in Israel, that there should be to-day one tribe lacking in Israel?" [4] And it came to pass on the morrow, that the people rose early, [m]and built there an altar, and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings.

n Ju. 5. 23.

[5] And the children of Israel said, "Who is there among all the tribes of Israel that came not up with the congregation unto the LORD?" [n]For they had made a great oath concerning him that came not up to the LORD to Mizpeh, saying, "He shall surely be put to death." [6] And the children of Israel repented them for Benjamin their brother, and said, "There is one tribe out off from Israel this day. [7] How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing we have sworn by the LORD that we will not give them of our daughters to wives?"

[8] And they said, "What one is there of the tribes of Israel that came not up to Mizpeh to the LORD?" And, behold, there came none to the camp from [o]Jabesh-gilead to the assembly. [9] For the people were numbered, and, behold, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead there. [10] And the congregation sent thither twelve thousand men of the valiantest, and commanded them, saying, "Go [p]and smite the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead with the edge of the sword, with the women and the children. [11] And this is the thing that ye shall do, [q]Ye shall utterly destroy every male, and every woman that *hath lain by man." [12] And they found among the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead four hundred †young virgins, that had known no man by lying with any male; and they brought them unto the camp to [r]Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan.

[13] And the whole congregation sent some ‡to speak to the children of Benjamin that were in the rock Rimmon, and to *call peaceably unto them. [14] And Benjamin came again at that time; and they gave them wives which they had saved alive of the women of Jabesh-gilead: and yet so they sufficed them not. [15] And the people repented them for Benjamin, because that the LORD had made a breach in the tribes of Israel.

[16] Then the elders of the congregation said, "How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing the women are destroyed out of Benjamin?" [17] And they said, "There must be an inheritance for them that be escaped of Benjamin, that a tribe be not destroyed out of Israel. [18] Howbeit we may not give them wives of our daughters; [s]for the children of Israel have sworn, saying, ‘Cursed be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin!’” s Ju. 11. 35.

[19] Then they said, “Behold, there is a feast of the Lord in Shiloh †yearly in a place which is on the north side of Beth-el, ‡on the east side *of the highway that goeth up from Beth-el to Shechem, and on the south of Lebonah.” [20] Therefore they commanded the children of Benjamin, saying, “Go and lie in wait in the vineyards; [21] and see, and, behold, if the daughters of Shiloh come out [t]to dance in dances, then come ye out of the vineyards, and catch you every man his wife of the daughters of Shiloh, and go to the land of Benjamin. [22] And it shall be, when their fathers or their brethren come unto us to complain, that we will say unto them, †Be favorable unto them for our sakes; because we reserved not to each man his wife in the war: for ye did not give unto them at this time, that ye should be guilty.” [23] And the children of Benjamin did so, and took them wives, according to their number, of them that danced, whom they caught; and they went and returned unto their inheritance, and repaired the cities, and dwelt in them. [24] And the children of Israel departed thence at that time, every man to his tribe and to his family, and they went out from thence every man to his inheritance. [25] In [u]those days there was no king in Israel; [v]every man did that which was right in his own eyes.

[14] And [a]the anger of the Lord was hot against Israel, and he [b]delivered them into the hands of spoilers that spoiled them, and [c]he sold them into the hands of their enemies round about, so that they [d]could not any longer stand before their enemies. [15] Whithersoever they went out, the hand of the Lord was against them for evil, as the Lord had said, and [e]as the Lord had sworn unto them; and they were greatly distressed.

[16] Nevertheless [f]the Lord raised up judges, which *delivered them out of the hand of those that spoiled them. [17] And yet they would not hearken unto their judges, but they [g]went a whoring after other gods, and bowed themselves unto them: they turned quickly out of the way which their fathers walked in, obeying the commandments of the Lord; but they did not so. [18] And when the Lord raised them up judges, then [h]the Lord was with the judge, and delivered them out of the hand of their enemies all the days of the judge; [i]for it repented the Lord because of their groanings by reason of them that oppressed them and vexed them. [19] And it came to pass, when the judge was dead, that they returned, and †corrupted themselves more than their fathers, in following other gods to serve them, and to bow down unto them; they ‡ceased not from their own doings, nor from their stubborn way.

[1] Now these are the nations which the LORD left, to prove Israel by them, even as many of Israel as had not known all the wars of Canaan; [2] only that the generations of the children of Israel might know, to teach them war, at the least such as before knew nothing thereof; [3] namely, [m]five lords of the Philistines, and all the Canaanites, and the Sidonians, and the Hivites that dwelt in Mount Lebanon, from Mount Baal-hermon unto the entering in of Hamath. [4] And they were to prove Israel by them, to know whether they would hearken unto the commandments of the LORD, which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

[5] And [n]the children of Israel dwelt among the Canaanites, Hittites, and Amorites, and Perizzites, and Hivites, and Jebusites; [6] and [o]they took their daughters to be their wives, and gave their daughters to their sons, and served their gods. Deborah and Barak deliver the Israelites from Jabin and Sisera. 18 Joel killeth Sisera. The song of Deborah and Barak.

[1] And [a]the children of Israel again did evil in the sight of the Lord, when Ehud was dead. [2] And the Lord sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, that reigned in [b]Hazor; the captain of whose host was [c]Sisera, which dwelt in Harosheth of the Gentiles. [3] And the children of Israel cried unto the Lord: for he had nine hundred [d]chariots of iron; and twenty years [e]he mightily oppressed the children of Israel.

[4] And Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, she judged Israel at that time. [5] And [f]she dwelt under the palm tree of Deborah between Ramah and Beth-el in Mount Ephraim; and the children of Israel came up to her for judgment. [6] And she sent and called [g]Barak the son of Abinoam out [h]of Kedesh-naphtali, and said unto him, "Hath not the Lord God of Israel commanded, saying, 'Go and draw toward Mount Tabor, and take with thee ten thousand men of the children of Naphtali and of the children of Zebulun? [7] And [i]I will draw unto thee, to the [j]river Kishon, Sisera, the captain of Jabin's army, with his chariots and his multitude; and I will deliver him into thy hand.'" [8] And Barak said unto her, "If thou wilt go with me, then I will go; but if thou wilt not go with me, then I will not go." [9] And she said, "I will surely go with thee: notwithstanding the journey that thou takest shall not be for thine honor; for the Lord shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman." And Deborah arose, and went with Barak to Kedesh.

the father-in-law of Moses, had severed himself from the Kenites, and pitched his tent unto the plain of Zaanaim, which is by Kedesh. [12] And they showed Sisera, that Barak the son of Abinoam was gone up to Mount Tabor. [13] And Sisera *gathered together all his chariots, even nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people that were with him, from Harosheth of the Gentiles unto the river of Kishon. [14] And Deborah said unto Barak, "Up! for this is the day in which the LORD hath delivered Sisera into thy hand: [m]is not the LORD gone out before thee?" So Barak went down from Mount Tabor, and ten thousand men after him. [15] And [n]the LORD discomfited Sisera, and all his chariots, and all his host, with the edge of the sword before Barak; so that Sisera lighted down off his chariot, and fled away on his feet. [16] But Barak pursued after the chariots, and after the host, unto Harosheth of the Gentiles: and all the host of Sisera fell upon the edge of the sword; and there was not †a man left. [17] Howbeit Sisera fled away on his feet to the tent of Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite; for there was peace between Jabin the king of Hazor and the house of Heber the Kenite.

[18] And Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said unto him, "Turn in, my lord, turn in to me; fear not!" And when he had turned in unto her into the tent, she covered him with a ‡mantle. [19] And he said unto her, "Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink; for I am thirsty." And she opened a bottle of milk, and gave him drink, and covered him. [20] Again he said unto her, "Stand in the door of the tent, and it shall be, when any man doth come and inquire of thee, and say, Is there any man here? that thou shalt say, No." [21] Then Jael Heber's wife took a nail of the tent, and *took a hammer in her hand, and went softly unto him, and smote the nail into his temples, and fastened it into the ground; for he was fast asleep and weary. So he died. [22] And, behold, as Barak pursued Sisera, Jael came out to meet him, and said unto him, Come, and I will show thee the man whom thou seekest." And when he came into her tent, behold, Sisera lay dead, and the nail was in his temples!

[23] So [o]God subdued on that day Jabin the king of Canaan before the children of Israel. [24] And the hand of the children of Israel †prospered, and prevailed against Jabin the king of Canaan, until they had destroyed Jabin king of Canaan.

(15) The oppression of the Israelites under Midian seems to have been more severe than that under any of their other conquerors. The people were entirely subdued; they were driven (Judg. vi. 2.) to mountains, and caves, and dens; they were consumed by famine; and the first movement of Gideon was effected by night, lest he should be put to death by the Midianites, if he attempted to act in the day. While they were in this deplorable condition, another change in the conduct of Providence took place. A prophet was inspired for the occasion, to address the people. This at least is the first time we read of a prophet coming among them, for the purpose only of reproving their folly, while their calamity lasted. The Angel Jehovah too again appeared among them, to convince them that this prophet was commissioned from on high; and very possibly to establish the new dispensation, under which a continued succession of prophets was to arise till the time of the Great Prophet, like unto Moses. The angel revealed himself to Gideon. He commanded Gideon to attempt the release of the people, and assured him of the certainty of success, by miracles adapted, as all the miracles recorded in the Old Testament, to the peculiar circumstances of the persons for whom they were wrought.—Vide Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 311; Lightfoot in loc.

[1] Now it came to pass in the days when [a]the judges *ruled, that there was [b]a famine in the land. And a certain man of [c]Beth-lehem-judah went to sojourn in the country of Moab, he, and his wife, and his two sons. [2] And the name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wife Naomi, and the name of his two sons Mahlon and Chilion, [d]Ephrathites of Beth-lehem-judah. And they came [e]into the country of Moab, and †continued there.

[3] And Elimelech Naomi's husband died; and she was left, and her name of the one was Orpah, and the name of the other Ruth; and they dwelled there about ten years. [5] And Mahlon and Chilion died also both of them; and the woman was left of her two sons and her husband.

how that the LORD had [f]visited his people in [g]giving them bread.
[7] Wherefore she went forth out of the place where she was, and her two daughters-in-law with her; and they went on the way to return unto the land of Judah. [8] And Naomi said unto her two daughters-in-law, "Go, [h]return each to her mother's house: the LORD deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with the dead, and with me. [9] The LORD grant you that ye may find rest, each of you in the house of her husband."

(16) The history of Ruth was added to the canon of Scripture, because from her David and the Messiah descended. By recording the adoption of a Gentile into the family from which Christ was to derive his origin, the Holy Spirit intended to intimate the comprehensive design of the Christian dispensation. The book is placed here on the authority of Bp. Patrick, who observes, that no other famine is said to have happened during the administration of the judges, than that caused, in the time of Gideon, by the invasion of the Midianites.—Gray's Key, p. 166; Bp. [22] So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabitess, her daughter-in-law, with her, which returned out of the country of Moab; and they came to Beth-lehem in the beginning of barley harvest.

RUTH ii.

[1] And Naomi had a kinsman of her husband's, a mighty man of wealth, of the family of Elimelech; and his name was *Boaz. [2] And Ruth the Moabitess said unto Naomi, "Let me now go to the field, and [u]glean ears of corn after him in whose sight I shall find grace." And she said unto her, "Go, my daughter." [3] And she went, and came, and gleaned in the field after the reapers; and her †hap was to light on a part of the field belonging unto Boaz, who was of the kindred of Elimelech.

[4] And, behold, Boaz came from Beth-lehem, and said unto the reapers, "The [v]LORD be with you!" And they answered him, "The LORD bless thee!" [5] Then said Boaz unto his servant that was set over the reapers, "Whose damsel is this?" [6] And the servant that was set over the reapers answered and said, "It is the Moabitish damsel that came back with Naomi out of the country of Moab. [7] And she said, 'I pray you, let me glean and gather after the reapers among the sheaves;' so she came, and hath continued even from the morning until now, that she tarried a little in the house." [8] Then said Boaz unto Ruth, 'Hearest thou not, my daughter? go not to glean in another field, neither go from hence, but abide here fast by my maidens; [9] let thine eyes be on the field that they do reap, and go thou after them: have I not charged the young men that they shall not touch thee? and when thou art athirst, go unto the vessels, and drink of that which the young men have drawn." [10] Then she [w]fell on her face, and bowed herself to the ground, and said unto him, "Why have I found grace in thine eyes, that thou shouldest take knowledge of me, seeing I am a stranger?" [11] And Boaz answered and said unto her, "It hath fully been showed me, all that thou hast done unto thy mother-in-law since the death of thy husband; and how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy nativity, and art come unto a people which thou knewest not heretofore. [12] The [x]LORD recompense thy work, and a full reward be given thee of the LORD God of Israel, [y]under whose wings thou art come to trust!" [13] Then she said, "‡Let me [z]find favor in thy sight, my lord! for that thou hast comforted me, and for that thou hast spoken *friendly unto thy handmaid, [a]though I be not like unto one of thy handmaidens." [14] And Boaz said unto her, "At meal-time come thou hither, and eat of the bread, and dip thy morsel in the vinegar." And she sat beside the reapers; and he reached her parched corn, and she did eat, and was sufficed, and left. [15] And when she was risen up to glean, Boaz commanded his young men, saying, "Let her glean even among the sheaves, and †reproach her not; [16] and let fall also some of the handfuls of purpose for her, and leave them, that she may glean them, and rebuke her not." [17] So she gleaned in the field until even, and beat out that she had gleaned; and it was about an ephah of barley.

wroughtest thou? blessed be he that did [b]take knowledge of thee!" And she showed her mother-in-law with whom she had wrought, and said, "The man's name with whom I wrought to-day is Boaz." [20] And Naomi said unto her daughter-in-law, "Blessed [c]be he of the Lord, who [d]hath not left off his kindness to the living and to the dead!" And Naomi said unto her, "The man is near of kin unto us, ‡one of our next kinsmen." Ruth iv.

[1] Then went Boaz up to the gate, and sat him down there: and, behold, the kinsman of whom Boaz spake came by; unto whom he said, "Ho, such a one! turn aside, sit down here." And he turned aside, and sat down. [2] And he [n]took ten men of the elders of the city, and said, "Sit ye down here." And they sat down. [3] And he said unto the kinsman, "Naomi, that is come again out of the country of Moab, selleth a parcel of land, which was our brother Elimelech's. [4] And *I thought to advertise thee, saying, [o]Buy it [p]before the inhabitants, and before the elders of my people. If thou wilt redeem it, redeem it: but if thou wilt not redeem it, then tell me, that I may know; [q]for there is none to redeem it besides thee, and I am after thee." And he said, "I will redeem it." [5] Then said Boaz, "What day thou buyest the field of the hand of Naomi, thou must buy it also of Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of the dead, [r]to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance."

[6] And the kinsman said, "I cannot redeem it for myself, lest I mar mine own inheritance; redeem thou my right to thyself, for I cannot redeem it." [7] Now [s]this was the manner in former time in Israel concerning redeeming and concerning changing, for to confirm all things, a man plucked off his shoe, and gave it to his neighbour; and this was a testimony in Israel. [8] Therefore the kinsman said unto Boaz, "Buy it for thee." So he drew off his shoe.

[9] And Boaz said unto the elders, and unto all the people, "Ye are witnesses this day, that I have bought all that was Elimelech's, and all that was Chilion's and Mahlon's, of the hand of Naomi. [10] Moreover Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of Mahlon, have I purchased to be my wife, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance, [t]that the name of the dead be not cut off from among his brethren, and from the gate of his place: ye are witnesses this day." [11] And all the people that were in the gate, and the elders, said, "We are witnesses. [u]The LORD make the woman that is come into thy house like Rachel and like Leah, which two did [v]build the house of Israel; and †do thou worthily in [w]Ephratah, and ‡be famous in Beth-lehem. [12] And let thy house be like the house of Pharez, [x]whom Tamar bare unto Judah, of [y]the seed which the LORD shall give thee of this young woman."

[13] So Boaz took Ruth, and she was his wife; and when he went in unto her, [z]the LORD gave her conception, and she bare a son. [14] And [a]the women said unto Naomi, "Blessed be the LORD, which hath not *left thee this day without a †kinsman, that his name may be famous in Israel. [15] And he shall be unto thee a restorer of thy life, and ‡a nourisher of *thine old age; for thy daughter-in-law, which loveth thee, which is [b]better to thee than seven sons, hath born him." [16] And Naomi took the child, and laid it in her bosom, and became nurse unto it. [17] And [c]the women her neighbours gave it a name, saying, "There is a son born to Naomi;" and they called his name Obed: he is the father of Jesse, the father of David.

[18] Now these are the generations of Pharez: [d]Pharez begat Hezron, [19] and Hezron begat Ram, and Ram begat Amminadab, [20] and Amminadab begat [e]Nahshon, and Nahshon begat †Salmon, [21] and Salmon begat Boaz, and Boaz begat Obed, [22] and Obed begat Jesse, and Jesse begat [f]David.

[12] And [e]the Angel of the Lord appeared unto him, and said unto him, "The Lord is [f]with thee, thou mighty man of valor!" [13] And Gideon said unto him, "Oh my lord! if the Lord be with us, why then is all this befallen us? and [g]where be all his miracles which our fathers told us of, saying, 'Did not the Lord bring us up from Egypt?' but now the Lord hath [h]forsaken us, and delivered us into the hands of the Midianites." [14] And the Lord looked upon him, and said, "Go [i]in this thy might, and thou shalt save Israel from the hand of the Midianites: [j]have not I sent thee?" [15] And he said unto him, "Oh my lord! wherewith shall I save Israel? [k]behold, ‡my family is poor in Manasseh, and I am the least in my father's house." [16] And the Lord said unto him, "Surely [l]I will be with thee, and thou shalt smite the Midianites as one man." [17] And he said unto Him, "If now I have found grace in thy sight, then [m]show me a sign that thou talkest with me. [18] Depart [n]not hence, I pray thee, until I come unto thee, and bring forth my *present, and set it before thee." And he said, "I will tarry until thou come again."

[19] And [o]Gideon went in, and made ready †a kid, and unleavened cakes of an ephah of flour: the flesh he put in a basket, and he put the broth in a pot, and brought it out unto him, under the oak, and presented it. [20] And the Angel of God said unto him, "Take the flesh and the unleavened cakes, and lay them upon this rock, and [p]pour out the broth." And he did so. [21] Then the Angel of the Lord put forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and touched the flesh and the unleavened cakes; and [q]there rose up fire out of the rock, and consumed the flesh and the unleavened cakes. Then the Angel of the Lord departed out of his sight.

[22] And when Gideon perceived that he was an Angel of the Lord, Gideon said, "Alas, O Lord God! [r]for because I have seen an Angel of the Lord face to face." [23] And the Lord said unto him, "Peace [s]be unto thee! fear not; thou shalt not die." [24] Then Gideon built an altar there unto the Lord, and called it ‡Jehovah-shalom; unto this day it is yet in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrites.

[25] And it came to pass the same night, that the Lord said unto him, "Take thy father's young bullock, *even the second bullock of seven years old, and throw down the altar of Baal that thy father hath, and [t]cut down the grove that is by it; [26] and build an altar unto the Lord thy God upon the top of this †rock, ‡in the ordered place, and take the second bullock, and offer a burnt sacrifice with the wood of the grove which thou shalt cut down." [27] Then Gideon took ten men of his servants, and did as the Lord had said unto him; and so it was, because he feared his father's household, and the men of the city, that he could not do it by day, that he did it by night.

[28]And when the men of the city arose early in the morning, behold, the altar of Baal was cast down, and the grove was cut down that was by it, and the second bullock was offered upon the altar that was built. [29]And they said one to another, "Who hath done this thing?" And when they inquired and asked, they said, "Gideon the son of Joash hath done this thing." [30]Then the men of the city said unto Joash, "Bring out thy son, that he may die; because he hath cast down the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the grove that was by it." [31]And Joash said unto all that stood against him, "Will ye plead for Baal? will ye save him? he that will plead for him, let him be put to death whilst it is yet morning: if he be a god, let him plead for himself, because one hath cast down his altar." [32]Therefore on that day he called him *Jerubbaal, saying, "Let Baal plead against him, because he hath thrown down his altar."

[38]And it was so: for he rose up early on the morrow, and thrust the fleece together, and wringed the dew out of the fleece, a bowl full of water. [39]And Gideon said unto God, "Let [y]not thine anger be hot against me, and I will speak but this once. Let me prove, I pray thee, but this once with the fleece; let it now be dry only upon the fleece, and upon all the ground let there be dew." JUD. vii.

[1]Then Jerubbaal, who is Gideon, and all the people that were with him, rose up early, and pitched beside the well of Harod; so that the host of the Midianites were on the north side of them, by the hill of Moreh, in the valley. [2]And the LORD said unto Gideon, "The people that are with thee are too many for me to give the Midianites into their hands, lest Israel [z]vaunt themselves against me, saying, Mine own hand hath saved me. [3]Now therefore go to, proclaim in the ears of the people, saying, [a]Whosoever is fearful and afraid, let him return and depart early from Mount Gilead." And there returned of the people twenty and two thousand; and there remained ten thousand. [4]And the LORD said unto Gideon, "The people are yet too many; bring them down unto the water, and I will try them for thee there. And it shall be, that of whom I say unto thee, This shall go with thee, the same shall go with thee; and of whomsoever I say unto thee, This shall not go with thee, the same shall not go." [5]So he brought down the people unto the water; and the LORD said unto Gideon, "Every one that lappeth of the water with his tongue, as a dog lappeth, him shalt thou set by himself; likewise every one that boweth down upon his knees to drink." [6]And the number of them that lapped, putting their hand to their mouth, were three hundred men; but all the rest of the people bowed down upon their knees to drink water. [7]And the LORD said unto Gideon, "By [b]the three hundred men that lapped will I save you, and deliver the Midianites into thy hand; and let all the other people go every man unto his place." [8] So the people took victuals in their hand, and their trumpets; and he sent all the rest of Israel every man unto his tent, and retained those three hundred men: and the host of Midian was beneath him in the valley.

[9] And it came to pass the same [c]night, that the LORD said unto him, "Arise, get thee down unto the host; for I have delivered it into thy hand. [10] But if thou fear to go down, go thou with Phurah thy servant down to the host. [11] And thou shalt [d]hear what they say; and afterward shall thy hands be strengthened to go down unto the host." Then went he down with Phurah his servant unto the outside of the *armed men that were in the host. [12] And the Midianites and the Amalekites and all the children of the East lay along in the valley like grasshoppers for multitude; and their camels were without number, as the sand by the sea side for multitude. [13] And when Gideon was come, behold, there was a man that told a dream unto his fellow, and said, "Behold, I dreamed a dream, and, lo! a cake of barley bread tumbled into the host of Midian, and came unto a tent, and smote it that it fell, and overturned it, that the tent lay along." [14] And his fellow answered and said, "This is nothing else save the sword of Gideon the son of Joash, a man of Israel; for into his hand hath God delivered Midian, and all the host."

[15] And it was so, when Gideon heard the telling of the dream, and †the interpretation thereof, that he worshipped, and returned into the host of Israel, and said, "Arise! for the LORD hath delivered into your hand the host of Midian." [16] And he divided the three hundred men into three companies, and he put ‡a trumpet in every man's hand, with empty pitchers, and *lamps within the pitchers. [17] And he said unto them, "Look on me, and do likewise; and, behold, when I come to the outside of the camp, it shall be that, as I do, so shall ye do. [19] So Gideon, and the hundred men that were with him, came unto the outside of the camp in the beginning of the middle watch; and they had but newly set the watch: and they blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers that were in their hands. [20] And the three companies blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held the lamps in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands to blow withal: and they cried, "The sword of the LORD, and of Gideon." [21] And they [e]stood every man in his place round about the camp; [f]and all the host ran, and cried, and fled. [22] And the three hundred [g]blew the trumpets, and [h]the LORD set [i]every man's sword against his fellow, even throughout all the host; and the host fled to Beth-shittah †in Zererath, and to the ‡border of Abel-meholah, unto Tabbath. [23] And the men of Israel gathered themselves together out of Naphtali, and out of Asher, and out of all Manasseh, and pursued after the Midianites.

†sharply. [2] And he said unto them, “What have I done now in comparison of you? is not the gleaning of the grapes of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abi-ezer? [3] God [o]hath delivered into your hands the princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb: and what was I able to do in comparison of you?” Then their ‡anger was abated toward him, when he had said that.

[4] And Gideon came to Jordan, and passed over, he, and the three hundred men that were with him, faint, yet pursuing them. [5] And he said unto the men of [p]Succoth, “Give, I pray you, loaves of bread unto the people that follow me; for they be faint, and I am pursuing after Zebah and Zalmunna, kings of Midian.”

[6] And the princes of Succoth said, “Are [q]the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thy hand, that [r]we should give bread unto thine army?” [7] And Gideon said, “Therefore when the Lord hath delivered Zebah and Zalmunna into my hand, then I will *tear your flesh with the thorns of the wilderness and with briers.”

[8] And he went up thence [s]to Penuel, and spake unto them likewise; and the men of Penuel answered him as the men of Succoth had answered him. [9] And he spake also unto the men of Penuel, saying, “When I [t]come again in peace, I will break down this tower.”

[10] Now Zebah and Zalmunna were in Karkor, and their hosts with them, about fifteen thousand men, all that were left of all the hosts of the children of the East; for there fell †an hundred and twenty thousand men that drew sword. [11] And Gideon went up by the way of them that dwelt in tents on the east of [u]Nobah and Jogbehah, and smote the host; for the host was [v]secure. [12] And when Zebah and Zalmunna fled, he pursued after them, and [w]took the two kings of Midian, Zebah and Zalmunna, and ‡discomfited all the host.

[13] And Gideon the son of Joash returned from battle before the sun was up, [14] and caught a young man of the men of Succoth, and inquired of him; and he *described unto him the princes of Succoth, and the elders thereof, even threescore and seventeen men. [15] And he came unto the men of Succoth, and said, “Behold Zebah and Zalmunna, with whom ye did upbraid me, saying, ‘Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thy hand, that we should give bread unto thy men that are weary?’” [16] And he took the elders of the city, and thorns of the wilderness and briers, and with them he †taught the men of Succoth. [17] And he beat down the tower of [x]Penuel, and slew the men of the city.

[18] Then said he unto Zebah and Zalmunna, “What manner of men were they whom ye slew at [y]Tabor?” And they answered, “As thou art, so were they; each one ‡resembled the children of a king.” [19] And he said, “They were my brethren, even the sons of my mother: as the Lord liveth, if ye had saved them alive, I would not slay you.” [20] And he said unto Jether his firstborn, “Up, and slay them.” But the youth drew not his sword; for he feared, because he was yet a youth. [21] Then Zebah and Zalmunna said, “Rise thou, and fall upon us; for as the man is, so is his strength.” And Gideon arose, and [z]slew Zebah and Zalmunna, and took away the *ornaments that were on their camels’ necks.

[22] Then the men of Israel said unto Gideon, “Rule thou over us, both thou, and thy son, and thy son’s son also; for thou hast delivered us from the hand of Midian.” [23] And Gideon said unto them, “I will not rule over you, neither shall my son rule over you: [a]the Lord shall rule over you.”

[24] And Gideon said unto them, “I would desire a request of you, that you would give me every man the earrings of his prey.” (For they had golden earrings, [b]because they were Ishmaelites.) [25] And they

* Heb. go up and down for other trees.

[1] And Abimelech the son of Jerubbaal went to Shechem unto [a]his mother's brethren, and communed with them, and with all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying, [2] "Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all the men of Shechem, *Whether is better for you, either that all the sons of Jerubbaal, which are threescore and ten persons, reign over you, or that one reign over you? remember also that I am [b]your bone and your flesh." [3] And his mother's brethren spake of him in the ears of all the men of Shechem all these words: and their hearts inclined †to follow Abimelech; for they said, "He is our brother." [4] And they gave him threescore and ten pieces of silver out of the house of Baal-berith, wherewith Abimelech hired [c]vain and light persons, which followed him. [5] And he went unto his father's house at Ophrah, and [d]slew his brethren the sons of Jerubbaal, being threescore and ten persons, upon one stone: notwithstanding yet Jotham the youngest son of Jerubbaal was left; for he hid himself. [6] And all the men of Shechem gathered together, and all the house of Millo, and went, and made Abimelech king, ‡by the plain of the pillar that was in Shechem.

[7] And when they told it to Jotham, he went and stood in the top of [e]Mount Gerizim, and lifted up his voice, and cried, and said unto them, "Hearken unto me, ye men of Shechem, that God may hearken unto you. [8] The [f]trees went forth on a time to anoint a king over them; and they said unto the olive tree, 'Reign thou over us.' [9] But the olive tree said unto them, 'Should I leave my fatness, [g]wherewith by me they honor God and man, and *go to be promoted over the trees?' [10] And the trees said to the fig tree, 'Come thou, and reign over us.' [11] But the fig tree said unto them, 'Should I forsake my sweetness, and my good fruit, and go to be promoted over the trees?' [12] Then said the trees unto the vine, 'Come thou, and reign over us.' [13] And the vine said unto them, 'Should I leave my wine, [h]which cheereth God and man, and go to be promoted over the trees?' [14] Then said all the trees unto the †bramble, 'Come thou, and reign over us.' [15] And the bramble said unto the trees, 'If in truth ye anoint me king over you, then come and put your trust in my [i]shadow; and if not, [j]let fire come out of the bramble, and devour the [k]cedars of Lebanon.' [16] Now therefore, if ye have done truly and sincerely, in that ye have made Abimelech king, and if ye have dealt well with Jerubbaal and his house, and have done unto him according to the deserving of his hands, [17] (for my father fought for you, and ‡adventured his life far, and delivered you out of the hand of Midian; [18] and ye are risen up against my father's house this day, and have slain his sons, threescore and ten persons, upon one stone, and have made Abimelech, the son of his maidservant, king over the men of Shechem, because he is your brother;) [19] if ye then have dealt truly and sincerely with Jerubbaal and with his house this day, then [l]rejoice ye in Abimelech, and let him also rejoice in you. [20] But if not, let fire come out from Abimelech, and devour the men of Shechem, and the house of Millo; and let fire come out from the men of Shechem, and from the house of Millo, and devour Abimelech." [21] And Jotham ran away, and fled, and went to [m]Beer, and dwelt there, for fear of Abimelech his brother.

[22] When Abimelech had reigned three years over Israel, [23] then [n]God sent an evil spirit between Abimelech and the men of Shechem; and the men of Shechem [o]dealt treacherously with Abimelech: [24] that [p]the cruelty done to the threescore and ten sons of Jerubbaal might come, and their blood be laid upon Abimelech their brother, which slew them; and upon the men of Shechem, which *aided him in the killing of his brethren. [25] And the men of Shechem set liers in wait for him in the top of the mountains, and they robbed all that came along that way by them; and it was told Abimelech. [26] And Gaal the son of Ebed came with his brethren, and went over to Shechem; and the men of Shechem put their confidence in him. [27] And they went out into the fields, and gathered their vineyards, and trode the grapes, and made †merry, and went into the house of their god, and did eat and drink, and cursed Abimelech. [28] And Gaal the son of Ebed said, "Who [q]is Abimelech, and who is Shechem, that we should serve him? is not he the son of Jerubbaal? and Zebul his officer? serve the men of [r]Hamor the father of Shechem: for why should we serve him? [29] And [s]would to God this people were under my hand! then would I remove Abimelech." And he said to Abimelech, "Increase thine army, and come out."

[30] And when Zebul the ruler of the city heard the words of Gaal the son of Ebed, his anger was ‡kindled. [31] And he sent messengers unto Abimelech *privily, saying, "Behold, Gaal the son of Ebed and his brethren be come to Shechem; and, behold, they fortify the city against thee. [32] Now therefore up by night, thou and the people that is with thee, and lie in wait in the field. [33] And it shall be, that in the morning, as soon as the sun is up, thou shalt rise early, and set upon the city: and, behold, when he and the people that is with him come out against thee, then mayest thou do to them †as thou shalt find occasion."

[34] And Abimelech rose up, and all the people that were with him, by night, and they laid wait against Shechem in four companies. [35] And Gaal the son of Ebed went out, and stood in the entering of the gate of the city; and Abimelech rose up, and the people that were with him, from lying in wait. [39] And Gaal went out before the men of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech. [40] And Abimelech chased him, and he fled before him, and many were overthrown and wounded, even unto the entering of the gate. [41] And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah; and Zebul thrust out Gaal and his brethren, that they should not dwell in Shechem. [42] And it came to pass on the morrow, that the people went out into the field; and they told Abimelech. [43] And he took the people, and divided them into three companies, and laid wait in the field, and looked, and, behold, the people were come forth out of the city; and he rose up against them, and smote them. [44] And Abimelech, and the company that was with him, rushed forward, and stood in the entering of the gate of the city; and the two other companies ran upon all the people that were in the fields, and slew them. [48] And Abimelech gat him up to [v]Mount Zalmon, he and all the people that were with him; and Abimelech took an axe in his hand, and cut down a bough from the trees, and took it, and laid it on his shoulder, and said unto the people that were with him, "What ye have seen †me do, make haste, and do as I have done." [49] And all the people likewise cut down every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and put them to the hold, and set the hold on fire upon them; so that all the men of the tower of Shechem died also, about a thousand men and women.

[50] Then went Abimelech to Thebez, and encamped against Thebez, and took it. [51] But there was a strong tower within the city, and thither fled all the men and women, and all they of the city, and shut it to them, and gat them up to the top of the tower. [52] And Abimelech came unto the tower, and fought against it, and went hard unto the door of the tower to burn it with fire. [53] And a certain woman [w]cast a piece of a millstone upon Abimelech's head, and all to break his skull. [4] And it came to pass †in process of time, that the children of Ammon made war against Israel. [5] And it was so, that when the children of Ammon made war against Israel, the elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah out of the land of Tob; [6] and they said unto Jephthah, "Come, and be our captain, that we may fight with the children of Ammon."

[7] And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, "Did [r]not ye hate me, and expel me out of my father's house? and why are ye come unto me now when ye are in distress?" [8] And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, "Therefore we [s]turn again to thee now, that thou mayest go with us, and fight against the children of Ammon, and be our head over all the inhabitants of Gilead." [9] And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, "If ye bring me home again to fight against the children of Ammon, and the Lord deliver them before me, shall I be your head?" [10] And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, "The Lord ‡be witness between us, if we do not so according to thy words." [11] Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people made him head and captain over them; and Jephthah uttered all his words [t]before the Lord in Mizpeh.

[12] And Jephthah sent messengers unto the king of the children of Ammon, saying, "What hast thou to do with me, that thou art come against me to fight in my land?" [13] And the king of the children of Ammon answered unto the messengers of Jephthah, "Because [u]Israel took away my land, when they came up out of Egypt, from Arnon even unto [v]Jabbok, and unto Jordan; now therefore restore those lands again peaceably."

[14] And Jephthah sent messengers again unto the king of the children of Ammon; [15] and said unto him, "Thus saith Jephthah, [w]Israel took not away the land of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon. [16] But when Israel came up from Egypt, and [x]walked through the wilderness unto the Red Sea, and [y]came to Kadesh; [17] then [z]Israel sent messengers unto the king of Edom, saying, 'Let me, I pray thee, pass through thy land:' [a]but the king of Edom would not hearken thereto. And in like manner they sent unto the king of Moab; but he would not consent: and Israel abode in Kadesh. [18] Then they went along through the wilderness, and [b]compassed the land of Edom, and the land of Moab, [c]and came by the east side of the land of Moab, [d]and pitched on the other side of Arnon, but came not within the border of Moab; for Arnon was the border of Moab. [19] And [e]Israel sent messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, the king of Heshbon; and Israel said unto him, 'Let us pass, we pray thee, through thy land unto my place. [20] But [f]Sihon trusted not Israel to pass through his coast; but Sihon gathered all his people together, and pitched in Jahaz, and fought against Israel. [21] And the Lord God of Israel delivered Sihon and all his people into the hand of Israel, and they smote them; so Israel possessed all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that country. [22] And they possessed [g]all the coasts of the Amorites, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and from the wilderness even unto Jordan.—[23] So now the Lord God of Israel hath dispossessed the Amorites from before his people Israel, and shouldest thou possess it? [24] Wilt not thou possess that which [h]Chemosh thy god giveth thee to possess? So whomsoever [i]the Lord our God shall drive out from before us, them will we possess. [25] And now art thou any thing better than [j]Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab? did he ever strive against Israel, or did he ever fight against them, [26] while Israel dwelt in Heshbon and her towns, and in Aroer and her towns, and in all the cities that be along by the coasts of Arnon, three hundred years? why therefore did ye not recover them within that time? [27] Wherefore I have not sinned against thee, but thou doest me wrong to war against me; the Lord [k]the Judge [l]be judge this day between the children of Israel and the children of Ammon." over Gilead, and Manasseh, and passed over Mizpeh of Gilead, and from Mizpeh of Gilead he passed over unto the children of Ammon. [30] And Jephthah [m]vowed a vow unto the Lord, and said, “If thou shalt without fail deliver the children of Ammon into my hands, [31] then it shall be, that †whatsoever cometh forth of the doors of my house to meet me, when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, [n]shall surely be the Lord's, ‡and I will offer it up for a burnt offering.”

[32] So Jephthah passed over unto the children of Ammon to fight against them; and the Lord delivered them into his hands. [33] And he smote them from Aroer, even till thou come to [o]Minnith, even twenty cities, and unto *the plain of the vineyards, with a very great slaughter. Thus the children of Ammon were subdued before the children of Israel.

[34] And Jephthah came to Mizpeh unto his house, and, behold, [p]his daughter came out to meet him with timbrels and with dances: and she was his only child; †besides her he had neither son nor daughter. [35] And it came to pass, when he saw her, that he [q]rent his clothes, and said, “Alas, my daughter! thou hast brought me very low, and thou art one of them that trouble me: for I [r]have opened my mouth unto the Lord, and [s]I cannot go back.” [36] And she said unto him, “My father, if thou hast opened thy mouth unto the Lord, [t]do to me according to that which hath proceeded out of thy mouth; forasmuch as [u]the Lord hath taken vengeance for thee of thine enemies, even of the children of Ammon.” [37] And she said unto her father, “Let this thing be done for me: let me alone two months, that I may ‡go up and down upon the mountains, and bewail my virginity, I and my fellows.” [38] And he said, “Go.” And he sent her away for two months; and she went with her companions, and bewailed her virginity upon the mountains. [39] And it came to pass at the end of two months, that she returned unto her father, who [v]did with her according to his vow which he had vowed; and she knew no man. And it was a *custom in Israel, [40] that the daughters of Israel went †yearly ‡to lament the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite four days in a year.

[1] And [w]the men of Ephraim *gathered themselves together, Jud. xii. 1–7. and went northward, and said unto Jephthah, “Wherefore passedst thou over to fight against the children of Ammon, and didst not call us to go with thee? we will burn thy house upon thee with fire.” [2] And Jephthah said unto them, “I and my people were at great strife with the children of Ammon; and, when I called you, ye delivered me not out of their hands. [3] And when I saw that ye delivered me not, [x]I put my life in my hands, and passed over against the children of Ammon, and the Lord delivered them into my hand: wherefore then are ye come up unto me this day, to fight against me?”

[4] Then Jephthah gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim: and the men of Gilead smote Ephraim, because they said, “Ye Gileadites [y]are fugitives of Ephraim among the Ephraimites, and among the Manassites.” [5] And the Gileadites took the [z]passages of Jordan before the Ephraimites: and it was so, that when those Ephraimites which were escaped, said, “Let me go over;” that the men of Gilead said unto him, “Art thou an Ephraimite?” If he said, “Nay;” [6] then said they unto him, “Say now †Shibboleth:” and he said, “Sibboleth;” for he could not frame to pronounce it right. Then they took him, and slew him at the passages of Jordan: and there fell at that time of the Ephraimites forty and two thousand. [7] And Jephthah judged Israel six years. Then died Jephthah the Gileadite, and was buried in one of the cities of Gilead.

(17) The arrangement of the contents of this section is made on the united authorities of the Bible Chronology and Calmet. The events therein related seem to have taken place in the following order:—

Samson and Samuel are born in the same year, at the commencement of the servitude of the Israelites to the Philistines mentioned in (Judges xiii 1.) the year in which Abdon dies, and the forty years' administration of Eli (1 Sam. iv. 18.) begin (B. C. 1155.)

Samuel is called, aged twelve years, according to Josephus. (B. C. 1143.) (Samuel continued to prophesy till his death.)

Samson, having arrived at years of maturity, revenges the cause of his country upon the Philistines from 1136 to 1117: in which last year he was killed. He is said to have judged Israel these twenty years. (Judges xv 20.)

In the year of Samson's death a prophet is sent to Eli to warn him of the impending fate of his house. And the prediction is fulfilled within two years after Samson's death; when the Philistines began to recover from the loss occasioned by Samson; and revenged that loss by the capture of the ark—the defeat of the Israelites—and the slaughter of the sons of Eli. (B. C. 1116.)

On the death of Eli the sole administration of Samuel commences, and continues twenty-one years, till the ark is recovered, and brought from Kirjath-jearim to the house of Abinadab. (B. C. 1096.)

The people demand a king, and the forty years' government of Saul commences, and continues till 1055.

The administration of Samuel lasted either solely, or in conjunction with Eli and Saul, eighty years.

(18) The appearance of the Angel Jehovah to Manoah and his wife was the last open vision, the last miraculous interposition, till the voice which called Samuel.

ened to the voice of Manoah; and the Angel of God came again unto the woman as she sat in the field, but Manoah her husband was not with her. [10] And the woman made haste, and ran, and showed her husband, and said unto him, "Behold, the man hath appeared unto me, that came unto me the other day!" [11] And Manoah arose, and went after his wife, and came to the man, and said unto him, "Art thou the man that spakest unto the woman?" And he said, "I am." [12] And Manoah said, "Now let thy words come to pass. ‡How shall we order the child, and *how shall we do unto him?" [13] And the Angel of the LORD said unto Manoah, "Of all that I said unto the woman let her beware. [14] She may not eat of any thing that cometh of the vine, neither let her drink wine or strong drink, nor eat any unclean thing: all that I commanded her let her observe."

[15] And Manoah said unto the Angel of the LORD, "I pray thee, [j]let us detain thee, until we shall have made ready a kid †for thee." [16] And the Angel of the LORD said unto Manoah, "Though thou detain me, I will not eat of thy bread: and if thou wilt offer a burnt offering, thou must offer it unto the LORD." For Manoah knew not that he was an Angel of the LORD. [17] And Manoah said unto the Angel of the LORD, "What is thy name, that when thy sayings come to pass we may do thee honor?" [18] And the Angel of the LORD said unto him, "Why [k]askest thou thus after my name, seeing it is ‡secret?" [19] So Manoah took a kid with a meat offering, and offered it upon a rock unto the LORD: and the Angel did wondrously; and Manoah and his wife looked on. [20] For it came to pass, when the flame went up toward heaven from off the altar, that the Angel of the LORD ascended in the flame of the altar. And Manoah and his wife looked on it, and [l]fell on their faces to the ground. [21] But the Angel of the LORD did no more appear to Manoah and to his wife. Then Manoah knew that he was an Angel of the LORD. [22] And Manoah said unto his wife, "We [m]shall surely die, because we have seen God!" [23] But his wife said unto him, "If the LORD were pleased to kill us, he would not have received a burnt offering and a meat offering at our hands, neither would he have showed us all these things, nor would as at this time have told us such things as these."

1 SAMUEL i. and ii. 1–21, and iii.

Elkanah a Levite, having two wives, worshippeth yearly at Shiloh. 4 He cherisheth Hannah, though barren, and provoked by Peninnah. 9 Hannah in grief prayeth for a child. 12 Eli first rebuking her, afterwards blesseth her. 19 Hannah, having born Samuel, stayeth at home till he is weaned. 24 She presenteth him, according to her vow, to the Lord.—Chap. ii. 1 Hannah's song in thankfulness. 12 The sin of Eli's sons. 18 Samuel's ministry. 20 By Eli's blessing Hannah is more fruitful.—Chap. iii. 1 How the word of the Lord was first revealed to Samuel. 11 God telleth Samuel the destruction of Eli's house. 15 Samuel, though loath, telleth Eli the vision. 19 Samuel groweth in credit.

[1] Now there was a certain man of Ramathaim-zophim, of Mount Ephraim, and his name was [a]Elkanah, the son of Jeroham, the son of Elihu, the son of Tohu, the son of Zuph, [b]an Ephrathite. [2] And he had two wives, the name of the one was Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah; and Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children. [3] And this man went up out of his city *yearly [c]to worship and to sacrifice unto the LORD of hosts in Shiloh. And the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, the priests of the LORD, were there.

[4] And when the time was that Elkanah [d]offered, he gave to Peninnah his wife, and to all her sons and her daughters, portions. [5] But unto

Hannah he gave †a worthy portion, for he loved Hannah; [e]but the LORD had shut up her womb. [6] And her adversary also ‡provoked her sore, for to make her fret, because the LORD had shut up her womb. [7] And as he did so year by year, *when she went up to the house of the LORD, so she provoked her; therefore she wept, and did not eat. [8] Then said Elkanah her husband to her, "Hannah, why weepest thou? and why eatest thou not? and why is thy heart grieved? am not I [f]better to thee than ten sons?"

[9] So Hannah rose up after they had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk. Now Eli the priest sat upon a seat by a post of the temple of the LORD. [10] And she was †in bitterness of soul, and prayed unto the LORD, and wept sore. [11] And she [g]vowed a vow, and said, "O LORD of hosts! if thou wilt indeed [h]look on the affliction of thy handmaid, and [i]remember me, and not forget thy handmaid, but wilt give unto thy handmaid ‡a man child, then I will give him unto the LORD all the days of his life, and [j]there shall no razor come upon his head." [12] And it came to pass, as she *continued praying before the LORD, that Eli marked her mouth. [13] Now Hannah, she spake in her heart; only her lips moved, but her voice was not heard: therefore Eli thought she had been drunken. [14] And Eli said unto her, "How long wilt thou be drunken? put away thy wine from thee." [15] And Hannah answered and said, "No, my lord, I am a woman †of a sorrowful spirit: I have drunk neither wine nor strong drink, but have [k]poured out my soul before the LORD. [16] Count not thy handmaid for a daughter of [l]Belial; for out of the abundance of my ‡complaint and grief have I spoken hitherto." [17] Then Eli answered and said, "Go [m]in peace: and [n]the God of Israel grant thee thy petition that thou hast asked of him." [18] And she said, "Let [o]thy handmaid find grace in thy sight." So the woman [p]went her way, and did eat, and her countenance was no more sad.

[19] And they rose up in the morning early, and worshipped before the LORD, and returned, and came to their house to Ramah. And Elkanah [q]knew Hannah his wife; and [r]the LORD remembered her. [20] Wherefore it came to pass *when the time was come about after Hannah had conceived, that she bare a son, and called his name †Samuel, saying, "Because I have asked him of the LORD." [21] And the man Elkanah, and all his house, went up to offer unto the LORD the yearly sacrifice, and his vow. [22] But Hannah went not up; for she said unto her husband, "I will not go up until the child be weaned, and then I will [s]bring him, that he may appear before the LORD, and there abide [t]for ever." [23] And [u]Elkanah her husband said unto her, "Do what seemeth thee good; tarry until thou have weaned him; [v]only the LORD establish his word." So the woman abode, and gave her son suck until she weaned him.

[24] And when she had weaned him, she [w]took him up with her, with three bullocks, and one ephah of flour, and a bottle of wine, and brought him unto [x]the house of the LORD in Shiloh; and the child was young. [25] And they slew a bullock, and [y]brought the child to Eli. [26] And she said, "Oh my lord, [z]as thy soul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that stood by thee here, praying unto the LORD. [27] For [a]this child I prayed; and the LORD hath given me my petition which I asked of him. [28] Therefore also I have ‡lent him to the LORD; as long as he liveth *he shall be lent to the LORD." And he [b]worshipped the LORD there.

(19) The song of Hannah is chiefly remarkable for its predicting the dominion of the promised Saviour of the world as a king, before there was any king in Israel; and as being likewise the first composition in which He is described by the term Messiah, the Christ, or the Anointed. The same epithet was

My [e]horn is exalted in the LORD;
My mouth is enlarged over mine enemies;
Because I [f]rejoice in thy salvation.
2 "There [g]is none holy as the LORD;
For [h]there is none besides thee,
Neither is there any rock like our God.
3 Talk no more so exceeding proudly;
Let [i]not †arrogancy come out of your mouth:
For the LORD is a God of knowledge,
And by him actions are weighed.
4 "The [j]bows of the mighty men are broken,
And they that stumbled are girded with strength.
5 They [k]that were full have hired out themselves for bread,
And they that were hungry ceased;
So that [l]the barren hath born seven,
And [m]she that hath many children is waxed feeble.
6 The [n]LORD killeth and maketh alive:
He bringeth down to the grave, and bringeth up.
7 "The LORD [o]maketh poor, and maketh rich:
He [p]bringeth low, and lifteth up.
8 He [q]raiseth up the poor out of the dust,
And lifteth up the beggar from the dunghill,
To [r]set them among princes,
And to make them inherit the throne of glory;
For [s]the pillars of the earth are the LORD's,
And he hath set the world upon them.
9 He [t]will keep the feet of his saints,
And the wicked shall be silent in darkness;
For by strength shall no man prevail.
10 The adversaries of the LORD shall be [u]broken to pieces;
Out [v]of heaven shall he thunder upon them:
The [w]LORD shall judge the ends of the earth;
And he shall give strength unto his King,
And [x]exalt the horn of his Anointed."

11 And Elkanah went to Ramah to his house. And the child did minister unto the LORD before Eli the priest.

12 Now the sons of Eli were [y]sons of Belial; [z]they knew not the LORD. 13 And the priest's custom with the people was, that, when any man offered sacrifice, the priest's servant came, while the flesh was in seething, with a fleshhook of three teeth in his hand; 14 and he struck it into [a]the pan, or kettle, or caldron, or pot; all that the fleshhook brought up the priest took for himself. So they did in Shiloh unto all the Israelites that came thither. 15 Also before they [b]burnt the fat, the priest's servant came, and said to the man that sacrificed, "Give flesh to roast for the priest; for he will not have sodden flesh of thee, but raw." 16 And if any man said unto him, "Let them not fail to burn the fat ‡presently, and then take as much as thy soul desireth;" then he would answer him, "Nay; but thou shalt give it me now: and if not, I will take it by(20) force." 17 Wherefore the sin of the young men was very great [c]before the LORD; for men [d]abhorred the offering of the LORD.

afterwards used by David, Nathan, Ethan, Isaiah, Daniel, and the succeeding prophets of the Old Testament; and by the apostles and inspired writers of the New. (20) The priests, according to the Mosaic ordinance, were invited to the offering feasts: when they either would not, or could not, accept the invitation, a part of it, in civility only, was sent home to them: this courtesy was at length converted into a right; and they demanded a portion of the sacrifice in the unwarrantable manner described. 1 Sam. ii. 15–17.—Michaelis' Comment. vol. i. p. 262, note.

[20] And Eli [f]blessed Elkanah and his wife, and said, "The Lord give thee seed of this woman for the *loan which is lent to the Lord." And they went unto their own home. [21] And the Lord [g]visited Hannah, so that she conceived, and bare three sons and two daughters. And the child Samuel [h]grew before the Lord.

1 Sam. iii.

[1] And the child Samuel ministered unto the Lord before Eli. And [i]the word of the Lord was precious in those days; there was no open vision. [2] And it came to pass at that time, when Eli was laid down in his place, [j]and his eyes began to wax dim, that he could not see; [3] and ere [k]the lamp of God went out in the temple of the Lord, where the ark of God was, and Samuel was laid down to(21) sleep; [4] that the Lord called Samuel; and he answered, "Here am I." [5] And he ran unto Eli, and said, "Here am I; for thou calledst me." And he said, "I called not; lie down again." And he went and lay down. [6] And the Lord called yet again, "Samuel." And Samuel arose and went to Eli, and said, "Here am I; for thou didst call me." And he answered, "I called not, my son; lie down again." [7] †Now Samuel did not yet know the Lord, neither was the word of the Lord yet revealed unto him. [8] And the Lord called Samuel again the third time. And he arose and went to Eli, and said, "Here am I; for thou didst call me." And Eli perceived that the Lord had called the child. [9] Therefore Eli said unto Samuel, "Go, lie down: and it shall be, if He call thee, that thou shalt say, Speak, Lord; for thy servant heareth." So Samuel went and lay down in his place. [10] And the Lord came, and stood, and called as at other times, "Samuel! Samuel!" Then Samuel answered, "Speak; for thy servant heareth."

[11] And the Lord said to Samuel, "Behold, I will do a thing in Israel, [l]at which both the ears of every one that heareth it shall tingle. [12] In that day I will perform against Eli all things which I have spoken concerning his house: ‡when I begin, I will also make an end. [13] *For I have told him that I will [m]judge his house for ever for the iniquity which he knoweth; because his sons made themselves †vile, and he ‡restrained them not. [14] And therefore I have sworn unto the house of Eli, that the iniquity of Eli's house [n]shall not be purged with sacrifice nor offering for ever."

[15] And Samuel lay until the morning, and opened the doors of the house of the Lord. And Samuel feared to show Eli the vision. [16] Then Eli called Samuel, and said, "Samuel, my son!" And he answered, "Here am I." [17] And he said, "What is the thing that the Lord hath said unto thee? I pray thee hide it not from me: [o]God do so to thee, and *more also, if thou hide any †thing from me of all the things that he said unto thee." [18] And Samuel told him ‡every whit, and hid nothing from him. And he said, "It [p]is the Lord: let him do what seemeth him good!"

(21) The Israelites had again become so corrupt, and the priesthood itself so degraded by the vices of the sons of Eli, that the oracular voice in the sanctuary given by Urim and Thummim had for some time ceased. Eli is warned of the ruin of his family, not by the usual answer from between the cherubim over the ark, but by a prophet, sent to him expressly for that purpose. There had been no open manifestation of the presence of the God of Israel since the appearance of the Angel to Manoah. The expectation of Eli, however, that the Angel Jehovah would again appear, is well described in his answer to Samuel, when the youthful Levite inquired if he had called him. The God of Israel in the present instance revealed himself to a child; and Eli immediately perceived that it was the Angel Jehovah, the Lord who had called him. The assertion of the inspired writer is express: "the Lord came, and stood, and called, 'Samuel, Samuel!'" (1 Sam. iii. 10.) The destruction of Eli's house is now denounced; and from this period through the whole of the life of Samuel, the oracle was regularly uttered as in former times. See Exod. xxv. 32; Num. vii. 89.—Vide Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 334; Horsley's Bib. Crit. vol. i. p. 317.

[1] AND Samson went down [a]to Timnath, and [b]saw a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines. [2] And he came up, and told his father and his mother, and said, "I have seen a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines: now therefore [c]get her for me to wife." [3] Then his father and his mother said unto him, "Is there never a woman among the daughters of [d]thy brethren, or among all my people, that thou goest to take a wife of [e]the uncircumcised Philistines?" And Samson said unto his father, "Get her for me; for *she pleaseth me well." [4] But his father and his mother knew not that it was [f]of the LORD, that he sought an occasion against the Philistines: for at that time [g]the Philistines had dominion over Israel.

[6] And [h]the Spirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and he rent him as he would have rent a kid, and he had nothing in his hand; but he told not his father or his mother what he had done. [7] And he went down, and talked with the woman; and she pleased Samson well.

[8] And after a time he returned to take her, and he turned aside to see the carcass of the lion; and, behold, there was a swarm of bees and honey in the carcass of the lion! [9] And he took thereof in his hands, and went on eating, and came to his father and mother, and he gave them, and they did eat; but he told not them that he had taken the honey out of the carcass of the lion.

[10] So his father went down unto the woman; and Samson made there a feast, for so used the young men to do. [11] And it came to pass, when they saw him, that they brought thirty companions to be with him. [12] And Samson said unto them, "I will now [i]put forth a riddle unto you: if ye can certainly declare it me [j]within the seven days of the feast, and find it out, then I will give you thirty ‡sheets and thirty [k]change of garments; [13] but if ye cannot declare it me, then shall ye give me thirty sheets and thirty change of garments." "Out of the eater came forth meat,
And out of the strong came forth sweetness."

And they could not in three days expound the riddle. [15] And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they said unto Samson's wife, "Entice thy husband, that he may declare unto us the riddle, lest we burn thee and thy father's house with fire: have ye called us *to take that we have? is it not so?" [16] And Samson's wife wept before him, and said, "Thou dost but hate me, and lovest me not; thou hast put forth a riddle unto the children of my people, and hast not told it me." And he said unto her, "Behold, I have not told it my father nor my mother, and shall I tell it thee?" [17] And she wept before him †the seven days, while their feast lasted: and it came to pass on the seventh day, that he told her, because she lay sore upon him; and she told the riddle to the children of her people. [18] And the men of the city said unto him on the seventh day before the sun went down,—

"What is sweeter than honey?
And what is stronger than a lion?"

And he said unto them, "If ye had not ploughed with my heifer, ye had not found out my riddle."

[19] And the Spirit of the Lord came upon him, and he went down to Ashkelon, and slew thirty men of them, and took their ‡spoil, and gave change of garments unto them which expounded the riddle. And his anger was kindled, and he went up to his father's house. [20] But Samson's wife was given to his companion, whom he had used as [l]his friend.

[1] But it came to pass within a while after, in the time of wheat harvest, that Samson visited his wife with a kid; and he said, "I will go in to my wife into the chamber." [3] And Samson said concerning them, "Now shall †I be more blameless than the Philistines, though I do them a displeasure." [5] And when he had set the brands on fire, he let them go into the standing corn of the Philistines, and burnt up both the shocks, and also the standing corn, with the vineyards and olives.

[6] Then the Philistines said, "Who hath done this?" And they answered, "Samson, the son-in-law of the Timnite, because he had taken his wife, and given her to his companion." And the Philistines came up, and burnt her and her father with fire.

[7] And Samson said unto them, "Though ye have done this, yet will I be avenged of you, and after that I will cease." [8] And he smote them hip and thigh with a great slaughter: and he went down and dwelt in the top of the rock Etam.

* Heb. went down.

[9] Then the Philistines went up, and pitched in Judah, and spread themselves in Lehi. [10] And the men of Judah said, "Why are ye come up against us?" And they answered, "To bind Samson are we come up, to do to him as he hath done to us." [11] Then three thousand men of Judah *went to the top of the rock Etam, and said to Samson, "Knowest thou not that the Philistines are rulers over us? what is this that thou hast done unto us?" And he said unto them, "As they did unto me, so have I done unto them." [12] And they said unto him, "We are come down to bind thee, that we may deliver thee into the hand of the Philistines." And Samson said unto them, "Swear unto me, that ye will not fall upon me yourselves." [13] And they spake unto him, saying, "No; but we will bind thee fast, and deliver thee into their hand: but surely we will not kill thee." And they bound him with two new cords, and brought him up from the rock.

[15] And he found a ‡new jawbone of an ass, and put forth his hand, and took it, and [m]slew a thousand men therewith. [16] And Samson said,—

"With the jawbone of an ass, *heaps upon heaps,
With the jaw of an ass have I slain a thousand men."

[17] And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking, that he cast away the jawbone out of his hand, and called that place †Ramath-lehi.

[18] And he was sore athirst, and called on the Lord, and said, "Thou [n]hast given this great deliverance into the hand of thy servant: and now shall I die for thirst, and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised?" The sins of Eli's sons. 23 He reproveth them. 28 A prophecy against his house.

[22] Now Eli was very old, and heard all that his sons did unto all Israel; and how they lay with the women that *assembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. [23] And he said unto them, "Why do ye such things? for †I hear of your evil dealings by all this people. [24] Nay, my sons; for it is no good report that I hear: ye make the Lord's people ‡to transgress. [25] If one man sin against another, the judge shall judge him: but if a man [a]sin against the Lord, who shall entreat for him?" Notwithstanding they hearkened not unto the voice of their father, [b]because the Lord would slay them. [26] And the child Samuel grew on, and was [c]in favor both with the Lord, and also with men.

[27] And [d]there came a man of God unto Eli, and said unto him, "Thus saith the Lord, Did [e]I plainly appear unto the house of thy father, when they were in Egypt in Pharaoh's house? [28] And did I [f]choose him out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priest, to offer upon mine altar, to burn incense, to wear an ephod before me? and [g]did I give unto the house of thy father all the offerings made by fire of the children of Israel? [29] Wherefore [h]kick ye at my sacrifice and at mine offering, which I have commanded in my [i]habitation; and honorest thy sons above me, to make yourselves fat with the chiefest of all the offerings of Israel my people? [30] Wherefore the Lord God of Israel saith, I [j]said indeed that thy house, and the house of thy father, should walk before me for ever: but now the Lord saith, Be [k]it far from me; for them that honor me [l]I will honor, and [m]they that despise me shall be lightly esteemed. [31] Behold [n]the days come, that I will cut off thine arm, and the arm of thy father's house, that there shall not be an old man in thy house. [32] And thou shalt see *an enemy in my habitation, in all the wealth which God shall give Israel; and there shall not be [o]an old man in thy house for ever. Samson at Gaza escapeth, and carrieth away the gates of the city. 4 Delilah, corrupted by the Philistines, enticeth Samson. 6 Thrice she is deceived. 15 At last she overcometh him. 21 The Philistines take him, and put out his eyes. 22 His strength renewing, he pulleth down the house upon the Philistines, and dieth.

[1] THEN went Samson to Gaza, and saw there *a harlot, and went in unto her. [2] And it was told the Gazites, saying, "Samson is come hither." And they [a]compassed him in, and laid wait for him all night in the gate of the city, and were †quiet all the night, saying, "In the morning, when it is day, we shall kill him." [3] And Samson lay till midnight, and arose at midnight, and took the doors of the gate of the city, and the two posts, and went away with them, ‡bar and all, and put them upon his shoulders, and carried them up to the top of a hill that is before Hebron.

[8] Then the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green withes which had not been dried, and she bound him with them. [9] Now there were men lying in wait, abiding with her in the chamber. And she said unto him, "The Philistines be upon thee, Samson!" And he brake the withes, as a thread of tow is broken when it †toucheth the fire. So his strength was not known. [10] And Delilah said unto Samson, "Behold, thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: now tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound." [11] And he said unto her, "If they bind me fast with new ropes ‡that never were occupied, then shall I be weak, and be as another man." [12] Delilah therefore took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and said unto him, "The Philistines be upon thee, Samson!" And there were liers in wait abiding in the chamber. And he brake them from off his arms like a thread. [13] And Delilah said unto Samson, "Hitherto thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: tell me wherewith thou mightest be bound." And he said unto her, "If thou weavest the seven locks of my head with the web." [14] And she fastened it with the pin, and said unto him, "The Philistines be upon thee, Samson!" [21] But the Philistines took him, and †put out his eyes, and brought him down to Gaza, and bound him with fetters of brass; and he did grind in the prison-house. [22] Howbeit the hair of his head began to grow again ‡after he was shaven. [23] Then the lords of the Philistines gathered them together for to offer a great sacrifice unto Dagon their god, and to rejoice; for they said, "Our god hath delivered Samson our enemy into our hand." [24] And when the people saw him, they [g]praised their god; for they said, "Our god hath delivered into our hands our enemy, and the destroyer of our country, *which slew many of us." [25] And it came to pass, when their hearts were merry, that they said, "Call for Samson, that he may make us sport." And they called for Samson out of the prison-house; and he made †them sport: and they set him between the pillars. [26] And Samson said unto the lad that held him by the hand, "Suffer me that I may feel the pillars whereupon the house standeth, that I may lean upon them." [27] Now the house was full of men and women; and all the lords of the Philistines were there; and there were upon the [h]roof about three thousand men and women, that beheld while Samson made sport. [28] And Samson called unto the LORD, and said, "O Lord GOD! [i]remember me, I pray thee, and strengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God! that I may be at once avenged of the Philistines for my two eyes." [29] And Samson took hold of the two middle pillars upon which the house stood, and ‡on which it was borne up, of the one with his right hand, and of the other with his left. [30] And Samson said, "Let *me die with the Philistines." And he bowed himself with all his might; and the house fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein. So the dead which he slew at his death were more than they which he slew in his life. [31] Then his brethren and all the house of his father came down, and took him, and brought him up, and buried him between Zorah and Eshtaol in the burying-place of Manoah his father. SECTION XVIII.—History of the Ark after its Capture.

1 SAMUEL v., vi., and vii. 1.

The Philistines having brought the ark into Ashdod, set it in the house of Dagon. 3 Dagon is smitten down and cut in pieces, and they of Ashdod smitten with emerods. 8 So God dealeth with them of Gath, when it was brought thither, 10 and so with them of Ekron, when it was brought thither.—Chap. vi. 1 After seven months the Philistines take counsel how to send back the ark. 10 They bring it on a new cart with an offering unto Beth-shemesh. 19 The people are smitten for looking into the ark. 21 They send to them of Kirjath-jearim to fetch it, (Chap. vii. 1) who place it in the house of Abinadab.

a 1 Sa. 4. 1. & 7. 12.
b Ju. 16. 23.

[1] AND the Philistines took the ark of God, and brought it [a]from Ebenezer unto Ashdod. [2] When the Philistines took the ark of God, they brought it into the house of [b]Dagon, and set it by Dagon. [3] And when they of Ashdod arose early on the morrow, behold, Dagon was [c]fallen upon his face to the earth before the ark of the Lord. And they took Dagon, and [d]set him in his place again. [4] And when they arose early on the morrow morning, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the ground before the ark of the Lord; and [e]the head of Dagon and both the palms of his hands were cut off upon the threshold; only *the stump of Dagon was left to him. [5] Therefore neither the priests of Dagon, nor any that come into Dagon's house, [f]tread on the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod unto this day.

[6] But [g]the hand of the Lord was heavy upon them of Ashdod, and he destroyed them, and smote them with [h]emerods, even Ashdod and the coasts thereof. [7] And when the men of Ashdod saw that it was so, they said, "The ark of the God of Israel shall not abide with us; for his hand is sore upon us, and upon Dagon our god." [8] They sent therefore and gathered all the lords of the Philistines unto them, and said, "What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel?" And they answered, "Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried about unto Gath." And they carried the ark of the God of Israel about thither. [9] And it was so, that, after they had carried it about, [i]the hand of the Lord was against the city with a very great destruction; and [j]he smote the men of the city, both small and great, and they had emerods in their secret parts.

[10] Therefore they sent the ark of God to Ekron. And it came to pass, as the ark of God came to Ekron, that the Ekronites cried out, saying, "They have brought about the ark of the God of Israel to †us, to slay us and our people!" [11] So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said, "Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and let it go again to his own place, that it slay ‡us not, and our people." For there was a deadly destruction throughout all the city; the hand of God was very heavy there. [12] And the men that died not were smitten with the emerods; and the cry of the city went up to heaven.

1 Sam. vi.

[1] And the ark of the Lord was in the country of the Philistines seven months. [2] And the Philistines [k]called for the priests and the diviners, saying, "What shall we do to the ark of the Lord? tell us wherewith we shall send it to his place." [3] And they said, "If ye send away the ark of the God of Israel, send it not [l]empty; but in any wise return him [m]a trespass offering: then ye shall be healed, and it shall be known to you why his hand is not removed from you." [4] Then said they, "What shall be the trespass offering which we shall return to him?" They answered, "Five golden emerods, and five golden mice, [n]according to the number of the lords of the Philistines; for one plague was on *you all, and on your lords. [5] Wherefore ye shall make images of your emerods, and images of your mice that mar the land; and ye shall [o]give glory unto the God of Israel: peradventure he will [p]lighten his hand from off you, and from off your gods, and from off your land. [6] Wherefore then do ye harden your hearts, [q]as the Egyptians and Pharaoh hardened their hearts? when he had wrought †wonderfully among them, did they not let ‡the people go, and they departed? [8] And take the ark of the Lord, and lay it upon the cart; and put the jewels of gold, which ye return him for a trespass offering, in a coffer by the side thereof; and send it away, that it may go. [9] And see, if it goeth up by the way of his own coast to [t]Beth-shemesh, then *He hath done us this great evil; but if not, then we shall know that it is not his hand that smote us: it was a chance that happened to us."

Section XIX.—Government of Samuel;—The Israelites repent.

(22)1 Samuel vii. 2, to the end, and chap. viii.

After twenty years, the Israelites, by Samuel's means, solemnly repent at Mizpeh. 9 While Samuel prayeth and sacrificeth, the Lord discomfiteth the Philistines by thunder at Eben-ezer. 13 The Philistines are subdued. 15 Samuel peaceably and religiously judgeth Israel. — Chap. viii. 1 By occasion of the ill government of Samuel's sons, the Israelites ask a king. 6 Samuel praying in grief, is comforted by God. 10 He telleth the manner of a king. 19 God willeth Samuel to yield unto the importunity of the people.

[2] And it came to pass, while the ark abode in Kirjath-jearim, that the time was long; for it was (23)twenty years: and all the house of Israel

(22) Bishop Horsley thinks this seventh chapter is merely introductory to the several events related in those which follow it, as far as the twenty-fifth.—Bib. Crit. vol. i. p. 321.

(23) The meaning is not, that the ark was at Kirjath-jearim only twenty years, but that twenty years elapsed before the people received from Samuel any hope of Jehovah's interposition for their deliverance. The expression (1 Sam. vii. 1.) "the men of Kirjath-jearim came, and fetched up the ark of the Lord, and brought it into the house of Abinadab in the hill," means that they removed it, not from the city altogether, but to the highest part, the citadel, which was consecrated to its service. The word Kirjath-jearim signifies the City of the Woods. The continuance of the ark in this place explains the difficulty in Psalm cxxxii. 6.

then [b]put away the strange gods and [c]Ashtaroth from among you, and [d]prepare your hearts unto the LORD, and [e]serve him only; and he will deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines." [4] Then the children of Israel did put away [f]Baalim and Ashtaroth, and served the LORD only.

[5] And Samuel said, "Gather [g]all Israel to Mizpeh, and I will pray for you unto the LORD." [6] And they gathered together to Mizpeh, and [h]drew water, and poured it out before the LORD, and [i]fasted on that day, and said there, "We [j]have sinned against the LORD." And [k]Samuel judged the children of Israel in Mizpeh. [7] And when the Philistines heard that the children of Israel were gathered together to Mizpeh, the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel. And when the children of Israel heard it, they were afraid of the Philistines. [8] And the children of Israel said to Samuel, "*Cease not to cry unto the LORD our God for us, that he will save us out of the hand of the Philistines."

[9] And [l]Samuel took a sucking lamb, and offered it for a burnt offering wholly unto the LORD: and [m]Samuel cried unto the LORD for Israel; and the LORD †heard him. [10] And as Samuel was offering up the burnt offering, the Philistines drew near to battle against Israel: [n]but the LORD thundered with a great thunder on that day upon the Philistines, and discomfited them; and they were smitten before Israel. [11] And the men of Israel went out of Mizpeh, and pursued the Philistines, and smote them, until they came under Beth-car. [12] Then Samuel [o]took a stone, and set it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name of it ‡Eben-ezer, saying, "Hitherto hath the LORD helped us."

[13] So the Philistines were subdued, and they came no more into the coast of Israel; and the hand of the LORD was against the Philistines all the days of Samuel. [14] And the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israel were restored to Israel, from Ekron even unto Gath; and the coasts thereof did Israel deliver out of the hands of the Philistines. And there was peace between Israel and the Amorites. [15] And Samuel judged Israel all the days of his life. [16] And he went from year to year *in circuit to Beth-el, and Gilgal, and Mizpeh, and judged Israel in all those places. [17] And his return was to Ramah, for there was his house; and there he judged Israel, and there he built an altar unto the LORD.

[1] And it came to pass, when Samuel was old, that he I SAM. viii. [p]made his [q]sons judges over Israel. [2] Now the name of his firstborn was †Joel; and the name of his second, Abiah: they were judges in Beer-sheba. [3] And his sons [r]walked not in his ways, but turned aside [s]after lucre, and [t]took bribes, and perverted judgment.

[4] Then all the elders of Israel gathered themselves together, and came to Samuel unto Ramah, [5] and said unto him, "Behold, thou art old, and thy sons walk not in thy ways: now [u]make us a king to judge us like all the (24)nations." [6] But the thing ‡displeased Samuel, when they said, "Give us a king to judge us." And Samuel prayed unto the LORD. [7] And the LORD said unto Samuel, "Hearken unto the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee; for [v]they have not rejected thee, but [w]they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them. [8] According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt even unto this day, wherewith they have forsaken me, and served other gods, so do they also unto thee. (24) The Laws of Moses will appear to be drawn up with the most perfect wisdom. Knowing the changeableness of the human mind, he had anticipated the decision to which the people had now arrived by demanding a king. He specifies, therefore (Deut. xvii. 14, &c.), the duties the king was required to perform; and Samuel, at the coronation of Saul, prepared a writing in which the powers and privileges of the sovereign were distinctly laid down; and this writing was carefully deposited in the sanctuary. [10] And Samuel told all the words of the Lord unto the people that asked of him a king. [11] And he said, "This [x]will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you. [y]He will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots. [12] And he will appoint him captains over thousands, and captains over fifties; and will set them to ear his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots. [13] And he will take your daughters to be confectionaries, and to be cooks, and to be bakers. [14] And [z]he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants. [15] And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his ‡officers, and to his servants. [16] And he will take your menservants, and your maidservants, and your goodliest young men, and your asses, and put them to his work. [17] He will take the tenth of your sheep; and ye shall be his servants. [18] And ye shall cry out in that day because of your king which ye shall have chosen you; and the Lord [a]will not hear you in that day."

b Je. 44. 16.
c Ho. 13. 11.

[19] Nevertheless the people [b]refused to obey the voice of Samuel; and they said, "Nay; but we will have a king over us; [20] that we also may be like all the nations; and that our king may judge us, and go out before us, and fight our battles." [21] And Samuel heard all the words of the people, and he rehearsed them in the ears of the Lord. [22] And the Lord said to Samuel, "Hearken [c]unto their voice, and make them a king." And Samuel said unto the men of Israel, "Go ye every man unto his city."

[2] And he had a son, whose name was Saul, a choice young man, and a goodly; and there was not among the children of Israel a goodlier person than he; from his shoulders and upward he was higher than any of the people.

[3] And the asses of Kish, Saul's father, were lost. And Kish said to Saul his son, "Take now one of the servants with thee, and arise, go seek the asses." [4] And he passed through Mount Ephraim, and passed through the land of [b]Shalisha, but they found them not; then they passed through the land of Shalim, and there they were not; and he passed through the land of the Benjamites, but they found them not. [5] And when they were come to the land of Zuph, Saul said to his servant that was with him, "Come, and let us return; lest my father leave caring for the asses, and take thought for us." [6] And he said unto him, "Behold, now, there is in this city [c]a man of God, and he is an honorable man; [d]all that he saith cometh surely to pass: now let us go thither; peradventure he can show us our way that we should go." [7] Then said Saul to his servant, "But, behold, if we go, [e]what shall we bring the man? for the bread ‡is spent in our vessels, and there is not a present to bring to the man of God: what *have we?" [8] And the servant answered Saul again, and said, "Behold, †I have here at hand the fourth part of a shekel of silver; that will I give to the man of God, to tell us our way." [9] (Beforetime in Israel, when a man [f]went to inquire of God, thus he spake, "Come, and let us go to the seer:" for he that is now called a Prophet was beforetime called [g]a Seer.) [10] Then said Saul to his servant, "‡Well said; come, let us go." So they went unto the city where the man of God was.

[17] And when Samuel saw Saul, the Lord said unto him, "Behold [l]the man whom I spake to thee of! this same shall †reign over my people." [18] Then Saul drew near to Samuel in the gate, and said, "Tell me, I pray thee, where the seer's house is." [19] And Samuel answered Saul, and said, "I am the seer: go up before me unto the high place; for ye shall eat with me to-day, and to-morrow I will let thee go, and will tell thee all that is in thy heart. [1] Then [s]Samuel took a vial of oil, and poured it upon his head, [t]and kissed him, and said, “Is it not because [u]the LORD hath anointed thee to be captain over [v]his inheritance? [2] When thou art departed from me to-day, then thou shalt find two men by [w]Rachel's sepulchre in the border of Benjamin at Zelzah; and they will say unto thee, The asses which thou wentest to seek are found: and, lo, thy father hath left *the care of the asses, and sorroweth for you, saying, What shall I do for my son? [3] Then shalt thou go on forward from thence, and thou shalt come to the plain of Tabor, and there shall meet thee three men going up [x]to God to Beth-el, one carrying three kids, and another carrying three loaves of bread, and another carrying a bottle of wine: [4] and they will †salute thee, and give thee two loaves of bread; which thou shalt receive of their hands. [5] After that thou shalt come to [y]the hill of God, where is the garrison of the Philistines: and it shall come to pass, when thou art come thither to the city, that thou shalt meet a company of prophets coming down from the high place with a psaltery, and a tabret, and a pipe, and a harp, before them; [z]and they shall prophesy. [6] And [a]the Spirit of the LORD will come upon thee, and [b]thou shalt prophesy with them, and shalt be turned into another man. [7] And ‡let it be, when these [c]signs are come unto thee, *that thou do as occasion shall serve thee; for [d]God is with thee. [8] And thou shalt go down before me [e]to Gilgal; and, behold, I will come down unto thee, to offer burnt offerings, and to sacrifice sacrifices of peace offerings: seven days shalt thou tarry, till I come to thee, and show thee what thou shalt do.”

[9] And it was so, that when he had turned his †back to go from Samuel, God ‡gave him another heart; and all those signs came to pass that day. [10] And when they came thither to the hill, behold, [f]a company of prophets met him; and the Spirit of God came upon him, and he prophesied among them. [11] And it came to pass, when all that knew him beforetime saw that, behold, he prophesied among the prophets, then the people said *one to another, “What is this that is come unto the son of Kish? [g]is Saul also among the prophets?” [12] And one †of the same place answered and said, “But [h]who is their father?” Therefore it became a proverb, “Is Saul also among the prophets?” [13] And when he had made an end of prophesying, he came to the high place.

[14] And Saul's uncle said unto him and to his servant, “Whither went ye?” And he said, “To seek the asses; and when we saw that they were no where, we came to Samuel.” [15] And Saul's uncle said, “Tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said unto you.” [16] And Saul said unto his uncle, “He told us plainly that the asses were found.” But of the matter of the kingdom, whereof Samuel spake, he told him not.

[17] And Samuel called the people together unto the LORD to Mizpeh; [18] and said unto the children of Israel, “Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, ‘I brought up Israel out of Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all kingdoms, and of them that oppressed you:’ [19] and [i]ye have this day rejected your God, who himself saved you out of all your adversities and your tribulations; and ye have said unto him, ‘Nay, but set a king over us.’ Now therefore present yourselves before the LORD by your tribes, and by your thousands.” [20] And when Samuel had [j]caused all the tribes of Israel to come near, the tribe of Benjamin was taken. [21] When he had caused the tribe of Benjamin to come near by their families, the family of Matri was taken, and Saul the son of Kish was taken; and when they sought him, he could not be found. [22] Therefore they inquired of the LORD further, if the man should yet come thither. And the LORD answered, "Behold, he hath hid himself among the stuff." [23] And they ran and fetched him thence; and when he stood among the people, he was higher than any of the people from his shoulders and upward. [24] And Samuel said to all the people, "See ye him whom the LORD hath chosen, that there is none like him among all the people?" And all the people shouted, and said, "‡God save the king!" [25] Then Samuel told the people [k]the manner of the kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the LORD. And Samuel sent all the people away, every man to his house.

[26] And Saul also went home to Gibeah; and there went with him a band of men, whose hearts God had touched. [27] But the children of Belial said, "How shall this man save us?" And they despised him, [l]and brought him no presents. But *he held his peace.

Jabesh-gilead.

SECTION II.—Saul defeats the Ammonites;—Samuel's Exhortation.

1 SAMUEL xi. and xii.

Nahash offereth them of Jabesh-gilead a reproachful condition. 4 They send messengers, and are delivered by Saul. 12 Saul thereby is confirmed, and his kingdom renewed. — Chap. xii. 1 Samuel testifieth his integrity. 6 He reproveth the people of ingratitude. 16 He terrifieth them with thunder in harvest time. 20 He comforteth them in God's mercy.

[1] THEN Nahash the Ammonite came up, and encamped against Jabesh-gilead: and all the men of Jabesh said unto Nahash, "Make [a]a covenant with us, and we will serve thee." [2] And Nahash the Ammonite answered them, "On this condition will I make a covenant with you, that I may thrust out all your right eyes, and lay it for [b]a reproach upon all Israel." [3] And the elders of Jabesh said unto him, "*Give us seven days' respite, that we may send messengers unto all the coasts of Israel; and then, if there be no man to save us, we will come out to thee."

[4] Then came the messengers to Gibeah of Saul, and told the tidings in the ears of the people; and [c]all the people lifted up their voices, and wept. [5] And, behold, Saul came after the herd out of the field; and Saul said, "What aileth the people that they weep?" And they told him the tidings of the men of Jabesh. [6] And [d]the Spirit of God came upon Saul when he heard those tidings, and his anger was kindled greatly. [7] And he took a yoke of oxen, and [e]hewed them in pieces, and sent them throughout all the coasts of Israel by the hands of messengers, saying, "Whosoever [f]cometh not forth after Saul and after Samuel, so shall it be done unto his oxen." And the fear of the LORD fell on the people, and they came out †with one consent. [8] And when he numbered them in Bezek, the children [g]of Israel were three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand.

[9] And they said unto the messengers that came, "Thus shall ye say unto the men of Jabesh-gilead, To-morrow, by that time the sun be hot, ye shall have ‡help." And the messengers came and showed it to the men of Jabesh; and they were glad. [10] Therefore the men of Jabesh said, "To-morrow we will come out unto you, and ye shall do with us all that seemeth good unto you." [11] And it was so on the morrow, that Saul put the people in three companies; and they came into the midst of the host in the morning watch, and slew the Ammonites until the heat of the day: and it came to pass, that they which remained were scattered, so that two of them were not left together.

[12] And the people said unto Samuel, "Who [h]is he that said, 'Shall Saul reign over us?' [i]bring the men, that we may put them to death." [13] And Saul said, "There [j]shall not a man be put to death this day; for to-day [k]the LORD hath wrought salvation in Israel." [14] Then said Samuel to the people, "Come, and let us go to Gilgal, and renew the kingdom there." [15] And all the people went to Gilgal; and there they made Saul king [l]before the Lord in Gilgal; and there they sacrificed sacrifices of peace offerings before the Lord; and there Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced greatly.

1 Sam. xii.

[1] And Samuel said unto all Israel, "Behold I have hearkened unto [m]your voice in all that ye said unto me, and have made a king over you. [2] And now, behold, the king walketh before you: and I am old and gray-headed; and, behold, my sons are with you; and I have walked before you from my childhood unto this day. [3] Behold, here I am! witness against me before the Lord, and before his Anointed: [n]whose ox have I taken? or whose ass have I taken? or whom have I defrauded? whom have I oppressed? or of whose hand have I received any *bribe †to blind mine eyes therewith? and I will restore it you." [4] And they said, "Thou hast not defrauded us, nor oppressed us, neither hast thou taken aught of any man's hand." [5] And he said unto them, "The Lord is witness against you, and his Anointed is witness this day, [o]that ye have not found aught [p]in my hand!" And they answered, "He is witness!"

[6] And Samuel said unto the people, "It [q]is the Lord that ‡advanced Moses and Aaron, and that brought your fathers up out of the land of Egypt. [7] Now therefore stand still, that I may [r]reason with you before the Lord, of all the *righteous acts of the Lord, which he did †to you and to your fathers. [8] When [s]Jacob was come into Egypt, and your fathers [t]cried unto the Lord, then the Lord [u]sent Moses and Aaron, which brought forth your fathers out of Egypt, and made them dwell in this place. [9] And when they [v]forgat the Lord their God, [w]he sold them into the hand of Sisera, captain of the host of Hazor, and into the hand of [x]the Philistines, and into the hand of the king [y]of Moab, and they fought against them. [10] And they cried unto the Lord, and said, 'We [z]have sinned, because we have forsaken the Lord, [a]and have served Baalim and Ashtaroth; but now [b]deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and we will serve thee.' [11] And the Lord sent [c]Jerubbaal, and Bedan, and [d]Jephthah, and [e]Samuel, and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies on every side, and ye dwelled safe. [12] And when ye saw that Nahash the king of the children of Ammon came against you, [f]ye said unto me, 'Nay; but a king shall reign over us:' when [g]the Lord your God was your king. [13] Now therefore, behold the king whom ye have chosen, and whom ye have desired! and, behold, [h]the Lord hath set a king over you! [14] If ye will [i]fear the Lord, and serve him, and obey his voice, and not rebel against the ‡commandment of the Lord, then shall both ye and also the king that reigneth over you *continue following the Lord your God; [15] but if ye will [j]not obey the voice of the Lord, but rebel against the commandment of the Lord, then shall the hand of the Lord be against you, as it was against your fathers."

[16] "Now therefore [k]stand and see this great thing, which the Lord will do before your eyes. [17] Is it not [l]wheat harvest to-day? [m]I will call unto the Lord, and he shall send thunder and rain; that ye may perceive and see that your wickedness is great which ye have done in the sight of the Lord, in asking you a king." [18] So Samuel called unto the Lord; and the Lord sent thunder and rain that day: [n]and all the people greatly feared the Lord and Samuel. [19] And all the people said unto Samuel, "Pray [o]for thy servants unto the Lord thy God, that we die not; for we have added unto all our sins this evil, to ask us a king."

[20] And Samuel said unto the people, "Fear not; ye have done all this wickedness; yet turn not aside from following the Lord, but serve the Lord with all your heart. [21] And turn ye not aside; [p]for then should ye go after vain things, which cannot profit nor deliver, for they Saul's selected band. 3 He calleth the Hebrews to Gilgal against the Philistines, whose garrison Jonathan had smitten. 5 The Philistines' great host. 6 The distress of the Israelites. 8 Saul, weary of staying for Samuel, sacrificeth. 11 Samuel reproveth him. 17 The three spoiling bands of the Philistines. 19 The policy of the Philistines to suffer no smith in Israel. — Chap. xiv. 1 Jonathan, unwitting to his father, the priest, or the people, goeth and miraculously smiteth the Philistines' garrison. 15 A divine terror maketh them beat themselves. 17 Saul, not staying the priest's answer, setteth on them. 21 The captivated Hebrews and the hidden Israelites join against them. 24 Saul's unadvised adjuration hindereth the victory. 32 He restraineth the people from eating blood. 35 He buildeth an altar. 36 Jonathan, taken by lot, is saved by the people. 47 Saul's strength and family.

[1] SAUL *reigned one year; and when he had reigned two years over Israel, [2] Saul chose him three thousand men of Israel; whereof two thousand were with Saul in Michmash and in Mount Beth-el, and a thousand were with Jonathan in Gibeah of Benjamin; and the rest of the people he sent every man to his tent. [3] And Jonathan smote the garrison of the Philistines that was in †Geba, and the Philistines heard of it. And Saul blew the trumpet throughout all the land, saying, "Let the Hebrews hear." [4] And all Israel heard say that Saul had smitten a garrison of the Philistines, and that Israel also ‡was had in abomination with the Philistines. And the people were called together after Saul to Gilgal.

[5] And the Philistines gathered themselves together to fight with Israel, thirty thousand chariots, and six thousand horsemen, and people as the sand which is on the seashore in multitude; and they came up, and pitched in Michmash, eastward from Beth-aven. [6] When the men of Israel saw that they were in a strait (for the people were distressed), then the people [a]did hide themselves in caves, and in thickets, and in rocks, and in high places, and in pits. [7] And some of the Hebrews went over Jordan to the land of Gad and Gilead. As for Saul, he was yet in Gilgal, and all the people *followed him trembling.

[8] And [b]he tarried seven days, according to the set time that Samuel had appointed: but Samuel came not to Gilgal; and the people were scattered from him. [9] And Saul said, "Bring hither a burnt offering to me, and peace offerings." And he offered the burnt offering. [10] And it came to pass, that as soon as he had made an end of offering the burnt offering, behold, Samuel came; and Saul went out to meet him, that he might †salute him.

[11] And Samuel said, "What hast thou done?" And Saul said, "Because I saw that the people were scattered from me, and that thou camest not within the days appointed, and that the Philistines gathered themselves together at Michmash; [12] therefore said I, The Philistines will come down now upon me to Gilgal, and I have not ‡made supplication unto the LORD: I forced myself therefore, and offered a burnt offering." [13] And Samuel said to Saul, "Thou [c]hast done foolishly: [d]thou hast not kept the commandment of the LORD thy God, which he commanded thee; for now would the LORD have established thy kingdom upon Israel for ever. [14] But [e]now thy kingdom shall not continue; [f]the LORD hath sought him a man after his own heart, and the LORD hath commanded him to be captain over his people, because thou hast not kept that which the Lord commanded thee." [15] And Samuel arose, and gat him up from Gilgal unto Gibeah of Benjamin.

And Saul numbered the people that were *present with him, about six hundred men. [16] And Saul, and Jonathan his son, and the people that were present with them, abode in †Gibeah of Benjamin: but the Philistines encamped in Michmash.

[17] And the spoilers came out of the camp of the Philistines in three companies; one company turned unto the way that leadeth to Ophrah, unto the land of Shual; [18] and another company turned the way to Beth-horon; and another company turned to the way of the border that looketh to the valley of Zeboim toward the wilderness.

[19] Now [g]there was no smith found throughout all the land of Israel; for the Philistines said, "Lest the Hebrews make them swords or spears." [20] But all the Israelites went down to the Philistines, to sharpen every man his share, and his colter, and his axe, and his mattock. [21] Yet they had ‡a file for the mattocks, and for the coulters, and for the forks, and for the axes, and *to sharpen the goads. [22] So it came to pass in the day of battle, that [h]there was neither sword nor spear found in the hand of any of the people that were with Saul and Jonathan; but with Saul and with Jonathan his son was there found. [23] And the †garrison of the Philistines went out to the passage of Michmash.

[1] Now ‡it came to pass upon a day, that Jonathan the son of Saul said unto the young man that bare his armor, "Come, and let us go over to the Philistines' garrison, that is on the other side." But he told not his father. [2] And Saul tarried in the uttermost part of Gibeah under a pomegranate tree which is in Migron: and the people that were with him were about six hundred men; [3] and [i]Ahiah, the son of Ahitub, I-chabod's brother, the son of Phinehas, the son of Eli, the Lord's priest in Shiloh, wearing an ephod. And the people knew not that Jonathan was gone. 1 Sam. xiv.

[4] And between the passages, by which Jonathan sought to go over unto the Philistines' garrison, there was a sharp rock on the one side, and a sharp rock on the other side; and the name of the one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh. [5] The *forefront of the one was situate northward over against Michmash, and the other southward over against Gibeah. [6] And Jonathan said to the young man that bare his armor, "Come, and let us go over unto the garrison of these uncircumcised; it may be that the Lord will work for us; for there is no restraint to the Lord [j]to save by many or by few." [7] And his armorbearer said unto him, "Do all that is in thy heart: turn thee; behold, I am with thee according to thy heart." [8] Then said Jonathan, "Behold, we will pass over unto these men, and we will discover ourselves unto them. [9] If they say thus unto us, †Tarry until we come to you; then we will stand still in our place, and will not go up unto them. [10] But if they say thus, Come up unto us; then we will go up: [k]for the Lord hath delivered them into our hand; [l]and this shall be a sign unto us."

[11] And both of them discovered themselves unto the garrison of the Philistines: and the Philistines said, "Behold, the Hebrews come forth out of the holes where they had hid themselves." [12] And the men of the garrison answered Jonathan and his armorbearer, and said, "Come up to us, and we will show you a thing." And Jonathan said unto his armorbearer, "Come up after me; for the Lord hath delivered them unto the hand of Israel." [13] And Jonathan climbed up upon his hands and upon his feet, and his armorbearer after him: and they fell before Jonathan; and his armorbearer slew after him. [14] And that first slaughter, which Jonathan and his armorbearer made, was about twenty Jonathan heard not when his father charged the people with the oath; wherefore he put forth the end of the rod that was in his hand, and dipped it in a honeycomb, and put his hand to his mouth, and his eyes were enlightened. [28] Then answered one of the people, and said,

"Thy father straitly charged the people with an oath, saying, 'Cursed of this honey. [30] How much more, if haply the people had eaten freely to-day of the spoil of their enemies which they found! for had there not been now a much greater slaughter among the Philistines?"

(25) What was this ark of God which Saul commands the priests to bring? The ark of the covenant was at Kirjath-jearim; and the Israelites had been already punished for removing it from Shiloh without permission. From the latter part of this First Book of Samuel it appears, that during Saul's life, both Saul and David were possessed at the same time of the instruments of oracular consultation; of which the ark with the cherubic emblems formed an essential part. Mr. Hutchinson's opinion, then, that there were more emblematic arks than one, deserves great attention.—Hutchinson's Works, vol. vi. p. 148–151, quoted by Horsley, Bib. Crit. vol. i. p. 328.

[36] And Saul said, "Let us go down after the Philistines by night, and spoil them until the morning light, and let us not leave a man of them." And they said, "Do whatsoever seemeth good unto thee." Then said the priest, "Let us draw near hither unto God." [37] And Saul asked counsel of God, "Shall I go down after the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Israel?" But [t]He answered him not that day. [38] And Saul said, "Draw [u]ye near hither, all the †chief of the people; and know and see wherein this sin hath been this day. [39] For, as the Lord liveth, which saveth Israel, though it be in Jonathan my son, he shall surely die." But there was not a man among all the people that answered him. [40] Then said he unto all Israel, "Be ye on one side, and I and Jonathan my son will be on the other side." And the people said unto Saul, "Do what seemeth good unto thee." [41] Therefore Saul said unto the Lord God of Israel, "‡Give a perfect lot." [v]And Saul and Jonathan were taken; but the people *escaped. [42] And Saul said, "Cast lots between me and Jonathan my son." And Jonathan was taken. [43] Then Saul said to Jonathan, "Tell me what thou hast done." And Jonathan told him, and said, "I did but taste a little honey with the end of the rod that was in my hand, and, lo, I must die!" [44] And Saul answered, "God do so and more also, for thou shalt surely die, Jonathan." [45] And the people said unto Saul, "Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great salvation in Israel? God forbid! [w]as the Lord liveth, there shall not one hair of his head fall to the ground; for he hath wrought with God this day." So the people rescued Jonathan, that he died not. [46] Then Saul went up from following the Philistines; and the Philistines went to their own place.

Section IV.—Saul defeats the Amalekites.

1 Samuel xv.

Samuel sendeth Saul to destroy Amalek. 6 Saul favoreth the Kenites. 8 He spareth Agag and the best of the spoil. 10 Samuel denounceth unto Saul, commending and excusing himself, God's rejection of him for his disobedience. 24 Saul's humiliation. 32 Samuel killeth Agag. 34 Samuel and Saul part.

[1] Samuel also said unto Saul, "The Lord sent me to anoint thee to be king over his people, over Israel; now therefore hearken thou unto the voice of the words of the Lord. [2] Thus saith the Lord of hosts, I remember that which Amalek did to Israel, [a]how he laid wait for him in the way, when he came up from Egypt. [3] Now go and smite Amalek, and a See Ex. 17. 8, 14.

[b]utterly destroy all that they have, and spare them not; but slay both man and woman, infant and suckling, ox and sheep, camel and ass."

[4] And Saul gathered the people together, and numbered them in Telaim, two hundred thousand footmen, and ten thousand men of Judah. [5] And Saul came to a city of Amalek, and *laid wait in the valley. [6] And Saul said unto [c]the Kenites, "Go, [d]depart, get you down from among the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them; for [e]ye showed kindness to all the children of Israel, when they came up out of Egypt." So the Kenites departed from among the Amalekites. [7] And Saul smote the Amalekites from Havilah until thou comest to Shur, that is over against Egypt. [8] And [f]he took Agag the king of the Amalekites alive, and [g]utterly destroyed all the people with the edge of the sword. [9] But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the best of the sheep, and of the oxen, and †of the fatlings, and the lambs, and all that was good, and would not utterly destroy them; but every thing that was vile and refuse, that they destroyed utterly.

[10] Then came the word of the Lord unto Samuel, saying, [11] "It [h]repenteth me that I have set up Saul to be king; for he is [i]turned back from following me, [j]and hath not performed my commandments." And it [k]grieved Samuel; and he cried unto the Lord all night. [12] And when Samuel rose early to meet Saul in the morning, it was told Samuel, saying, "Saul came to Carmel, and, behold, he set him up a place, and is gone about, and passed on, and gone down to Gilgal."

[13] And Samuel came to Saul; and Saul said unto him, "Blessed [l]be thou of the Lord! I have performed the commandment of the Lord." [14] And Samuel said, "What meaneth then this bleating of the sheep in mine ears, and the lowing of the oxen which I hear?" [15] And Saul said, "They have brought them from the Amalekites: [m]for the people spared the best of the sheep and of the oxen, to sacrifice unto the Lord thy God; and the rest we have utterly destroyed." [16] Then Samuel said unto Saul, "Stay, and I will tell thee what the Lord hath said to me this night." And he said unto him, "Say on."

[17] And Samuel said, "When thou wast little in thine own sight, wast thou not made the head of the tribes of Israel, and the Lord anointed thee king over Israel? [18] And the Lord sent thee on a journey, and said, 'Go and utterly destroy the sinners the Amalekites, and fight against them until ‡they be consumed.' [19] Wherefore then didst thou not obey the voice of the Lord, but didst fly upon the spoil, and didst evil in the sight of the Lord?" [20] And Saul said unto Samuel, "Yea, I have obeyed the voice of the Lord, and have gone the way which the Lord sent me, and have brought Agag the king of Amalek, and have utterly destroyed the Amalekites. [21] But the people took of the spoil, sheep and oxen, the chief of the things which should have been utterly destroyed, to sacrifice unto the Lord thy God in Gilgal." [22] And Samuel said, "Hath [n]the Lord as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the Lord? Behold, [o]to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams. [23] For rebellion is as the sin of *witchcraft, and stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry. Because thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, [p]he hath also rejected thee from being king."

[24] And [q]Saul said unto Samuel, "I have sinned: for I have transgressed the commandment of the Lord, and thy words; because [r]I feared the people, and obeyed their voice. [25] Now therefore, I pray thee, pardon my sin, and turn again with me, that I may worship the Lord." [26] And Samuel said unto Saul, "I will not return with thee; [s]for thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, and the Lord hath rejected thee from being king over Israel." Samuel, sent by God under pretence of a sacrifice, cometh to Beth-lehem. 6 His human judgment is reproved. 13 He anointeth David.

[1] And the Lord said unto Samuel, "How [a]long wilt thou mourn for Saul, seeing I have rejected him from reigning over Israel? [b]fill thy horn with oil, and go, I will send thee to Jesse the Beth-lehemite; for [c]I have provided me a king among his sons." [2] And Samuel said, "How can I go? if Saul hear it, he will kill me." And the Lord said, "Take a heifer *with thee, and say, [d]I am come to sacrifice to the Lord. [3] And call Jesse to the sacrifice, and [e]I will show thee what thou shalt do; and [f]thou shalt anoint unto me him whom I name unto thee." [4] And Samuel did that which the Lord spake, and came to Beth-lehem. And the elders of the town [g]trembled at his †coming, and said, "Comest [h]thou peaceably?" [5] And he said, "Peaceably: I am come to sacrifice unto the Lord; [i]sanctify yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice." And he sanctified Jesse and his sons, and called them to the sacrifice.

And he said, "Neither hath the Lord chosen this." [10] Again, Jesse made seven of his sons to pass before Samuel. And Samuel said unto Jesse, "The Lord hath not chosen these." [11] And Samuel said unto Jesse, "Are here all thy children?" And he said, "There remaineth yet the youngest, and, behold, he keepeth the sheep." Section VI.—David overcomes Goliath.

1 Samuel xvii. 1–40, 55, 56, 41–54, 57, 58, and xviii. 1–4, and Psalm ix.

The armies of the Israelites and Philistines being ready to battle, 4 Goliath cometh proudly forth to challenge a combat. 12 David, sent by his father to visit his brethren, taketh the challenge. 28 Eliab chideth him. 30 He is brought to Saul. 32 He showeth the reason of his confidence. 38 Without armor, armed by faith, he slayeth the giant. 55 Saul taketh notice of David. — Chap. xviii. 1 Jonathan loveth David.

[1] Now the Philistines gathered together their armies to battle, and were gathered together at Shochoh, which belongeth to Judah, and pitched between Shochoh and Azekah, in *Ephes-dammim. [2] And Saul and the men of Israel were gathered together, and pitched by the valley of Elah, and †set the battle in array against the Philistines. [3] And the Philistines stood on a mountain on the one side, and Israel stood on a mountain on the other side; and there was a valley between them.

[4] And there went out a champion out of the camp of the Philistines, named [a]Goliath, of Gath, whose height was six cubits and a span. [5] And he had a helmet of brass upon his head, and he was ‡armed with a coat of mail; and the weight of the coat was five thousand shekels of brass. [6] And he had greaves of brass upon his legs, and a *target of brass between his shoulders. [7] And the staff of his spear was like a weaver's beam; and his spear's head weighed six hundred shekels of iron: and one bearing a shield went before him. [8] And he stood and cried unto the armies of Israel, and said unto them, "Why are ye come out to set your battle in array? am not I a Philistine, and ye servants to Saul? choose you a man for you, and let him come down to me. [9] If he be able to fight with me, and to kill me, then will we be your servants: but if I prevail against him, and kill him, then shall ye be our servants, and serve us." [10] And the Philistine said, "I defy the armies of Israel this day; give me a man, that we may fight together." [11] When Saul and all Israel heard those words of the Philistine, they were dismayed, and greatly afraid.

[12] Now David was the son of that [b]Ephrathite of Beth-lehem-judah, whose name was Jesse; and he had [c]eight sons; and the man went among men for an old man in the days of Saul. [13] And the three eldest sons of Jesse went and followed Saul to the battle; and the names of his three sons that went to the battle were Eliab the firstborn, and next unto him Abinadab, and the third Shammah. [14] And David was the youngest; and the three eldest followed Saul. [15] But David went and returned from Saul to feed his father's sheep at Beth-lehem. ([16] And the Philistine drew near morning and evening, and presented himself forty days.) [17] And Jesse said unto David his son, "Take now for thy brethren an ephah of this parched corn, and these ten loaves, and run to the camp to thy brethren; [18] and carry these ten †cheeses unto the ‡captain of their thousand, and [d]look how thy brethren fare, and take their pledge." Israel said, "Have ye seen this man that is come up? surely to defy Israel is he come up; and it shall be, that the man who killeth him, the king will enrich him with great riches, and [e]will give him his daughter, and make his father's house free in Israel." [26] And David spake to the men that stood by him, saying, "What shall be done to the man that killeth this Philistine, and taketh away the reproach from Israel? for who is this uncircumcised Philistine, that he should defy the armies of [f]the living God?" [27] And the people answered him after this manner, saying, "So shall it be done to the man that killeth him."

[28] And Eliab his eldest brother heard when he spake unto the men; and Eliab's [g]anger was kindled against David, and he said, "Why camest thou down hither? and with whom hast thou left those few sheep in the wilderness? I know thy pride, and the naughtiness of thy heart; for thou art come down that thou mightest see the battle." [29] And David said, "What have I now done? Is there not a cause?"

[30] And he turned from him toward another, and spake after the same ‡manner; and the people answered him again after the former manner. [31] And when the words were heard which David spake, they rehearsed them before Saul; and he *sent for him.

[32] And David said to Saul, "Let [h]no man's heart fail because of him; thy servant will go and fight with this Philistine." [33] And Saul said to David, "Thou [i]art not able to go against this Philistine to fight with him; for thou art but a youth, and he a man of war from his youth." [34] And David said unto Saul, "Thy servant kept his father's sheep, and there came a lion, and a bear, and took a †lamb out of the flock; [35] and I went out after him, and smote him, and delivered it out of his mouth; and when he arose against me, I caught him by his beard, and smote him, and slew him. [36] Thy servant slew both the lion and the bear; and this uncircumcised Philistine shall be as one of them, seeing he hath defied the armies of the living God." [37] David said moreover, "The [j]Lord that delivered me out of the paw of the lion, and out of the paw of the bear, he will deliver me out of the hand of this Philistine." And Saul said unto David, "Go, and [k]the Lord be with thee!"

[38] And Saul ‡armed David with his armor, and he put a helmet of brass upon his head; also he armed him with a coat of mail. [39] And David girded his sword upon his armor, and he assayed to go; for he had not proved it. And David said unto Saul, "I cannot go with these; for I have not proved them." And David put them off him. [40] And he took his staff in his hand, and chose him five smooth stones out of the *brook, and put them in a shepherd's †bag which he had, even in a scrip, and his sling was in his hand; and he drew near to the Philistine.

(26) Towards the conclusion of 1 Sam. xvi. we read Saul sent messengers unto Jesse, saying, "Send David thy son." Pursuant to this order, David played on the harp before the king, when the evil spirit of melancholy was upon him. Saul loved him greatly, and he became his armorbearer, and resided constantly at his court; for Saul sent a second message to Jesse: "Let David, I pray thee, stand before me; for he hath found favor in my sight." Yet in verse 55 of the next chapter, we read that Saul inquired of Abner, whose son was the conqueror of Goliath. He speaks of him as an entire stranger; and Abner, to gratify the king's curiosity, introduces David to him after the combat, with the head of the Philistine in his hand. Bishops Warburton and Hall suppose, that the encounter with Goliath took place before David was required to play the harp before Saul; and this solution of the difficulty is espoused by Bp. Horsley, whose arguments are so satisfactory, that I insert his own words. "It appears, indeed, from many circumstances of the story, that David's combat with Goliath was many years prior in order of time to Saul's madness, and to David's introduction to him as a musician. 1st. David was quite a youth when he engaged Goliath (verses 33, 42); when he was introduced to Saul, as a musician, he was of full age, (chap. xvi. 18.) 2dly. His combat with Goliath was his first appearance in public life, (ver. 56), [זה עלם]; when he was introduced as a musician, he was a man of established character, (chap. xvi. 18.) 3dly. His combat with Goliath was his first military exploit, (verses 38, 39). He was a man of war when he was introduced as a musician, (chap. xvi. 18). He was unknown both to Saul and Abner at the time when he fought Goliath. He had not, therefore, yet been in the office of Saul's armorbearer, or resident in said unto Abner, the captain of the host, "Abner, whose son is this youth?" And Abner said, "As thy soul liveth, O king! I cannot tell." [56] And the king said, "Inquire thou whose son the stripling is."

[41] And the Philistine came on and drew near unto David; and the man that bare the shield went before him. [42] And when the Philistine looked about, and saw David, he [l]disdained him; for he was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair countenance. [43] And the Philistine said unto David, "Am [m]I a dog, that thou comest to me with staves?" And the Philistine cursed David by his gods. [44] And the Philistine [n]said to David, "Come to me, and I will give thy flesh unto the fowls of the air, and to the beasts of the field." [45] Then said David to the Philistine, "Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield: [o]but I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou hast defied. [46] This day will the Lord ‡deliver thee into my hand; and I will smite thee, and take thy head from thee; and I will give [p]the carcasses of the host of the Philistines this day unto the fowls of the air, and to the wild beasts of the earth; [q]that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel. [47] And all this assembly shall know that the Lord [r]saveth not with sword and spear: for [s]the battle is the Lord's, and he will give you into our hands." [48] And it came to pass, when the Philistine arose, and came and drew nigh to meet David, that David hasted, and ran toward the army to meet the Philistine. [49] And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a stone, and slang it, and smote the Philistine in his forehead, that the stone sunk into his forehead; and he fell upon his face to the earth. [50] So [t]David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and with a stone, and smote the Philistine, and slew him; but there was no sword in the hand of David. [51] Therefore David ran, and stood upon the Philistine, and took his sword, and drew it out of the sheath thereof, and slew him, and cut off his head therewith. And when the Philistines saw their champion was dead, [u]they fled. [52] And the men of Israel and of Judah arose, and shouted, and pursued the Philistines, until thou come to the valley, and to the gates of Ekron. And the wounded of the Philistines fell down by the way to Shaaraim, even unto Gath, and unto Ekron. [53] And the children of Israel returned from chasing after the Philistines, and they spoiled their tents. [54] And David took the head of the Philistine, and brought it to Jerusalem; but he put his armor in his tent.

[57] And as David returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner took him, and brought him before Saul with the head of the Philistine in his hand. [58] And Saul said to him, "Whose son art thou, thou young man?" And David answered, "I am the son of thy servant Jesse the Beth-lehemite."

[1] And it came to pass, when he had made an end of 1 Sam. xviii. 1–4.
speaking unto Saul, that [v]the soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, [w]and Jonathan loved him as his own soul. [2] And Saul took him that day, and would let him go no more home to his father's house. [3] Then Jonathan and David made a covenant, because he loved him as his own soul. [4] And Jonathan stripped himself of the robe that was upon him, and gave it to David, and his garments, even to his sword, and to his bow, and to his girdle.

any capacity at the court. Now the just conclusion from these circumstances is, not that these twenty verses are an interpolation, but that the last ten verses of the preceding chapter, which relate Saul's madness and David's introduction to the court upon that occasion, are misplaced. The true place for these ten verses seems to be between the 9th and the 10th of the eighteenth chapter. Let these ten verses be removed to that place, and this seventeenth chapter be connected immediately with the 13th verse of chapter xvi. and the whole disorder and inconsistency that appears in the narrative in its present arrangement will be removed."—Biblical Criticisms, vol. i. p. 331.

PSALM IX.

PSALM IX.(27)

Written on the Victory over Goliath.

David praiseth God for executing of judgment. 11 He inciteth others to praise him. 13 He prayeth that he may have cause to praise him.

To the chief Musician upon Muth-labben, A Psalm of David.

[1] I will praise thee, O LORD! with my whole heart;
I will show forth all thy marvellous works.
[2] I will be glad and [a]rejoice in thee;
I will sing praise to thy name, O [b]thou Most High!
[3] When mine enemies are turned back,
They shall fall and perish at thy presence.
[4] For thou hast *maintained my right and my cause;
Thou satest in the throne judging †right.
[5] Thou hast rebuked the heathen,
Thou hast destroyed the wicked,
Thou hast [c]put out their name for ever and ever.
[6] ‡O thou enemy, destructions are come to a perpetual end:
And thou hast destroyed cities;
Their memorial is perished with them.
[7] But [d]the LORD shall endure for ever:
He hath prepared his throne for judgment.
[8] And [e]he shall judge the world in righteousness,
He shall minister judgment to the people in uprightness.
[9] The [f]LORD also will be *a refuge for the oppressed,
A refuge in times of trouble.
[10] And they that [g]know thy name will put their trust in thee:
For thou, LORD, hast not forsaken them that seek thee.
[11] Sing praises to the LORD, which dwelleth in Zion:
Declare [h]among the people his doings.
[12] When [i]he maketh inquisition for blood, he remembereth them:
He forgetteth not the cry of the †humble.
[13] Have mercy upon me, O LORD!
Consider my trouble which I suffer of them that hate me,
Thou that liftest me up from the gates of death,
[14] That I may show forth all thy praise
In the gates of the daughter of Zion:
I will [j]rejoice in thy salvation.
[15] The [k]heathen are sunk down in the pit that they made;
In the net which they hid is their own foot taken.
[16] The LORD is [l]known by the judgment which he executeth:
The wicked is snared in the work of his own hands. ‡Higgaion. [Selah!
[17] The wicked shall be turned into hell,
And all the nations [m]that forget God.

(27) The ninth Psalm is inserted here on the authority of the Chaldee paraphrast. It is entitled, "To the chief Musician (על־מות לבן) on Muth-labben." Lightfoot translates this phrase, "Upon the Death of the Champion;" and Goliath, in the authorized version (1 Sam. xvii. 4.), is called a champion. The original, ויצא איש־הבנים ממחנית, signifies, "and there came out a man between the two camps:" or, as the margin of Arias Montanus' Bible reads, יצא בין, stans inter duas acies. The Chaldee paraphrast accordingly interprets the words, על־מות לבן, thus: "upon the death of the man that came out between the two armies;" (that is, on the death of the champion Goliath of Gath), על מיתורא דגברא די נפק מביני משריתא. In D'Oyly and Mant's Bible, three various authorities are quoted on the title of this Psalm; Bp. Horne, Dimock, and Dr. S. Clarke. Bp. Horne imagines it was composed to celebrate some victory; but what, is unknown. Dimock mentions the tradition, that Labben was the name of a prince or chief in the enemies' army: and Dr. S. Clarke supposes it to be the title of a tune. Dr. Gray places the Psalm among those composed by David after his accession. Calmet conjectures, that it was written and sung by David, on the occasion of removing the ark from the house of Obed-edom, to Mount Sion. Among these contending authorities (if different conjectures, supported by great names, can be so called), I have preferred the decision of Lightfoot. With respect to the rest of the Psalms, I shall merely notice the authority which may have induced me to give them their respective places, without entering into a variety of criticisms and opinions.

[17] And Saul said unto his servants, "Provide me now a man that can play well, and bring him to me." [18] Then answered one of the servants, and said, "Behold, I have seen a son of Jesse the Beth-lehemite, that is cunning in playing, and a mighty valiant man, and a man of war, and prudent in ‡matters, and a comely person, and the LORD is with him."

[21] And David came to Saul, and [i]stood before him; and he loved him greatly; and he became his armorbearer. [22] And Saul sent to Jesse, saying, "Let David, I pray thee, stand before me; for he hath found favor in my sight." [23] And it came to pass, when the evil spirit from God was upon Saul, that David took a harp, and played with his hand: so Saul was refreshed, and was well, and the evil spirit departed from him.

(28) In confirmation of Bishop Horsley's arrangement (vide Note 26), it may be observed, that it is probable David might retire from court on discovering the jealousy excited in the mind of Saul after the songs and dances of the women, (1 Sam. xviii. 6); he might have gone home to his father, and returned only to the court when the malady of his sovereign required his presence. The apparent capriciousness of Saul's conduct probably arose from the sudden returns of his disorder; and at other times from the suspicions he might entertain towards the anointed successor of his crown.

1 Sam. xviii. 10, to end.

[10] And it came to pass on the morrow, that the evil spirit from God came upon Saul, [j]and he prophesied in the midst of the house: and David played with his hand, as at other times; and there was a javelin in Saul's hand. [11] And Saul cast the javelin; for he said, "I will smite David even to the wall with it." And David avoided out of his presence twice.

[14] And David *behaved himself wisely in all his ways; and [l]the Lord was with him. [15] Wherefore when Saul saw that he behaved himself very wisely, he was afraid of him. [18] And David said unto Saul, "Who [p]am I? and what is my life, or my father's family in Israel, that I should be son-in-law to the king?" [19] But it came to pass at the time when Merab Saul's daughter should have been given to David, that she was given unto [q]Adriel the [r]Meholathite to wife. [20] And Michal Saul's daughter loved David; and they told Saul, and the thing ‡pleased him. [24] And the servants of Saul told him, saying, "*On this manner spake David." [25] And Saul said, "Thus shall ye say to David, The king desireth not any [t]dowry, but an hundred foreskins of the Philistines, to be [u]avenged of the king's enemies." (29) This Psalm seems to have been composed by David, when, in order to avoid the evil designs of Saul, his friends advised him to flee to the mountainous parts of Judea. Edwards; Green; Calmet.

(30) The date of David's marriage with Michal is uncertain. Dr. Hales supposes that five years elapsed between his conquest of Goliath and his marriage; because that time appears to him requisite for the intervening events, and for the establishment of the popularity and character of David. The marriage and the victory over Goliath are supposed in the Bible Chronology to have occurred in the same year. It is probable, however, that it took place some time after the overthrow of the champion of Gath; as David, according to Bishop Horsley's supposition, returned home to his father, and was again invited to court, and made the armor-bearer of Saul. This was a post of confidence and affection; and while David continued in it, he greatly distinguished himself in war, and ingratiated himself with the people. The affections of Saul, however, soon changed; but the son of Jesse still continued firmly established in the hearts of the people. It was attempted therefore to remove him by stratagem. The king's daughter was offered him in marriage, on condition that he killed a certain number of the enemy. But this exposure to danger, instead of the desired effect, only served to increase his fame; and he became the son-in-law of Saul. It is not probable that all these events could have happened in one year; but still five are not required; for if so long a space was given to his residence at the court of Saul, we should too much abridge the time assigned to his wandering in the wilderness, in the hill country, &c. I have on these grounds therefore rejected the date given in the Bible Chronology, as well as that of Dr. Hales; and allowed three years from the victory over Goliath till the marriage, and flight, by means of

1 SAMUEL xix. 18, to the end, and chap xx.

David cometh to Samuel in Naioth. 20 Saul's messengers, sent to take David, 22 and Saul himself, prophesy. — Chap. xx. 1 David consulteth with Jonathan for his safety. 11 Jonathan and David renew their covenant by oath. 18 Jonathan's token to David. 24 Saul, missing David, seeketh to kill Jonathan. 35 Jonathan lovingly taketh his leave of David.

[18] So David fled, and escaped, and came to Samuel to Ramah, and told him all that Saul had done to him. And he and Samuel went and dwelt in Naioth. [19] And it was told Saul, saying, "Behold, David is at Naioth in Ramah." [20] And [a]Saul sent messengers to take David: [b]and when they saw the company of the prophets prophesying, and Samuel standing as appointed over them, the Spirit of God was upon the messengers of Saul, and they also [c]prophesied. [21] And when it was told Saul, he sent other messengers, and they prophesied likewise. And Saul sent messengers again the third time, and they prophesied also. [22] Then went he also to Ramah, and came to a great well that is in Sechu; and he asked and said, "Where are Samuel and David?" And one said, "Behold, they be at Naioth in Ramah." [23] And he went thither to Naioth in Ramah; and the Spirit of God was upon him also, and he went on, and prophesied, until he came to Naioth in Ramah. [24] And [d]he stripped off his clothes also, and prophesied before Samuel in like manner, and *lay down naked all that day and all that night. Wherefore they say, "Is Saul also among the prophets?"

[1] And (32)David fled from Naioth in Ramah, and came and said before Jonathan, "What have I done? what is mine iniquity? and what is my sin before thy father, that he seeketh my life?" [2] And he said unto him, "God forbid! thou shalt not die: behold, my father will do nothing either great or small, but that he will †show it me; and why should my father hide this thing from me? it is not so." [3] And David sware moreover, and said, "Thy father certainly knoweth that I have found grace in thine eyes; and he saith, 'Let not Jonathan know this, lest he be grieved:' but truly as the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, there is but a step between me and death!" [4] Then said Jonathan unto David, "‡Whatsoever thy soul *desireth, I will even do it for thee." [5] And David said unto Jonathan, "Behold, to-morrow is the [e]new-moon, and I should not fail to sit with the king at meat; but let me go, that I may hide myself in the field unto the third day at even. [6] If thy father at all miss me, then say, David earnestly asked leave of me that he might run to Beth-lehem his city; for there is a yearly †sacrifice there for all the family. [7] If [f]he say thus, It is well; thy servant shall have peace: but if he be very wroth, then be sure that [g]evil is determined by him. [8] Therefore thou shalt [h]deal kindly with thy servant; for [i]thou hast brought thy servant into a covenant of the LORD with thee: notwithstanding, [j]if there be in me iniquity, slay me thyself; for why shouldest thou bring me to thy father?" [9] And Jonathan said, "Far be it from thee; for if I knew certainly that evil were determined by my father to come upon thee, then would not I tell it thee?" [10] Then said David to Jonathan, "Who shall tell me? or what if thy father answer thee roughly?"

(32) Bishop Horsley is of opinion that Samuel died about this time, and that, at his death, David fled from Ramah; for in all his ensuing difficulties, David consulted Ahimelech and not Samuel, as he had been accustomed to do (ch. xxi.), or Gad (xxii. 5.), or Abiathar (xxxiii. 9, 12.) I have not, however, altered the Bible arrangement upon these conjectural reasons. Samuel was now ninety years of age. He might have been rendered by infirmity incapable of directing David. In addition to which, it must be remembered that immediately on Samuel's death, we read that David fled to the wilderness, (1 Sam. xxv. 1.) The mere existence of Samuel, from the prophet's influence in the towns and cities of Israel, seems to have been a defence to David.—Horsley, Bib. Crit. in loc.

[11] And Jonathan said unto David, "Come, and let us go out into the field." And they went out both of them into the field. [12] And Jonathan said unto David, "O Lord God of Israel! when I have ‡sounded my father about to-morrow any time, or the third day, and, behold, if there be good toward David, and I then send not unto thee, and *show it thee; [13] the Lord do so and much more to Jonathan: but if it please my father to do thee evil, then I will show it thee, and send thee away, that thou mayest go in peace; and [k]the Lord be with thee, as he hath been with my father. [14] And thou shalt not only while yet I live show me the kindness of the Lord, that I die not; [15] but also [l]thou shalt not cut off thy kindness from my house for ever: no, not when the Lord hath cut off the enemies of David every one from the face of the earth." [16] So Jonathan †made a covenant with the house of David, saying, "Let [m]the Lord even require it at the hand of David's enemies." [17] And Jonathan caused David to swear again, ‡because he loved him; for he loved him as he loved his own soul. [18] Then Jonathan said to David, "To-morrow is the new moon: and thou shalt be missed, because thy seat will be *empty. [19] And when thou hast staid three days, then thou shalt go down †quickly, and come to the place where thou didst hide thyself ‡when the business was in hand, and shalt remain by the stone *Ezel. [20] And I will shoot three arrows on the side thereof, as though I shot at a mark. [21] And, behold, I will send a lad, saying, Go find out the arrows. If I expressly say unto the lad, Behold, the arrows are on this side of thee, take them; then come thou; for there is peace to thee, and †no hurt; as the Lord liveth! [22] But if I say thus unto the young man, Behold, the arrows are beyond thee; go thy way: for the Lord hath sent thee away. [23] And as touching the matter which thou and I have spoken of, behold, the Lord be between thee and me for ever!"

[24] So David hid himself in the field: and when the new moon was come, the king sat him down to eat meat. [25] And the king sat upon his seat, as at other times, even upon a seat by the wall; and Jonathan arose, and Abner sat by Saul's side, and David's place was empty. [26] Nevertheless Saul spake not any thing that day; for he thought, "Something hath befallen him, he is [n]not clean; surely he is not clean." [27] And it came to pass on the morrow, which was the second day of the month, that David's place was empty; and Saul said unto Jonathan his son, "Wherefore cometh not the son of Jesse to meat, neither yesterday nor to-day?" [28] And Jonathan answered Saul, "David earnestly asked leave of me to go to Beth-lehem; [29] and he said, 'Let me go, I pray thee; for our family hath a sacrifice in the city, and my brother, he hath commanded me to be there; and now, if I have found favor in thine eyes, let me get away, I pray thee, and see my brethren.' Therefore he cometh not unto the king's table." [30] Then Saul's anger was kindled against Jonathan, and he said unto him, "‡Thou son of the perverse rebellious woman! do not I know that thou hast chosen the son of Jesse to thine own confusion, and unto the confusion of thy mother's nakedness? [31] For as long as the son of Jesse liveth upon the ground, thou shalt not be established, nor thy kingdom. Wherefore now send and fetch him unto me, for he *shall surely die." [32] And Jonathan answered Saul his father, and said unto him, "Wherefore [o]shall he be slain? what hath he done?" [33] And Saul cast a javelin at him to smite him; whereby Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to slay David. [34] So Jonathan arose from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no meat the second day of the month; for he was grieved for David, because his father had done him shame.

[35] And it came to pass in the morning, that Jonathan went out into the field at the time appointed with David, and a little lad with him. [36] And he said unto his lad, "Run, find out now the arrows which I shoot." And as the lad ran, he shot an arrow †beyond him. [37] And when the lad was come to the place of the arrow which Jonathan had shot, Jonathan cried after the lad, and said, "Is not the arrow beyond thee?" [38] And Jonathan cried after the lad, "Make speed, haste, stay not." And Jonathan's lad gathered up the arrows, and came to his master. [39] But the lad knew not any thing; only Jonathan and David knew the matter. [40] And Jonathan gave his ‡artillery unto *his lad, and said unto him, "Go, carry them to the city."

[1] THEN came David to Nob to [a]Ahimelech the priest; and Ahimelech was [b]afraid at the meeting of David, and said unto him, "Why art thou alone, and no man with thee?" [2] And David said unto Ahimelech the priest, "The king hath commanded me a business, and hath said unto me, 'Let no man know any thing of the business whereabout I send thee, and what I have commanded thee; and I have appointed my servants to such and such a place.' [3] Now therefore what is under thy hand? give me five loaves of bread in my hand, or what there is *present." [4] And the priest answered David, and said, "There is no common bread under my hand, but there is [c]hallowed bread; [d]if the young men have kept themselves at least from women." [5] And David answered the priest, and said unto him, "Of a truth women have been kept from us about these three days, since I came out, and the [e]vessels of the young men are holy, and the bread is in a manner common, †yea, though it were sanctified this day [f]in the vessel." [6] So the priest [g]gave him hallowed bread; for there was no bread there but the showbread, [h]that was taken from before the LORD, to put hot bread in the day when it was taken away. [7] (Now a certain man of the servants of Saul was there that day, detained before the LORD; and his name was [i]Doeg, an Edomite, the chiefest of the herdmen that belonged to Saul.)

(33) Calmet, Gray, and Wells, assign the date of these Psalms to the persecution of David by Saul. The titles prefixed to them in the Hebrew text, though they do not form a part of the Psalm, and may possibly be spurious, are undoubtedly very ancient, and may be considered a better authority for the insertion of the Psalms in their respective places, than the conjectures of later authors. Psalms lvi. and xxxiv. are therefore inserted in this Section on the authority of Lightfoot, and their titles. The title of the xxxivth Psalm informs us, that it was composed when David was sent away by Abimelech, on his feigning himself mad, (1 Sam. xxi. 13.) But we read that the king of Gath was called Achish; Dr. Kennicott therefore supposes, that Abimelech was the common title of the kings of Gath, in the same way as Pharaoh was of the kings of Egypt; and that Achish was only his individual name. That David was an inspired prophet, is evident from the prediction contained in the twentieth and twenty-first verses, that not a bone of Him (the Messiah) shall be broken. The pious Jews were continually looking forward to the Messiah; and they must have been as well aware of the meaning of these passages in the writings of those who were from time to time endued with the spirit of prophecy, as we ourselves are of the meaning of many of the predictions in the book of the Apocalypse; that is, their faith was kept in exercise by the glimpses given them of the future, though they could not entirely comprehend the precise signification of every figurative expression. Their faith, like ours, "was the substance of things not seen;" and "they walked by faith, and not by sight."

(35) Several passages of the First Book of Chronicles, and the Second Book of Samuel, relate the same events, and repeat the same catalogues of ilthe troop of the Philistines pitched in the valley of Rephaim. [14] And David was then in a hold, and the garrison of the Philistines was then in Beth-lehem. [15] And David longed, and said, "Oh that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, which is by the gate!" [16] And the three mighty men brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: nevertheless he would not drink thereof, but poured it out unto the LORD. [17] And he said, "Be it far from me, O LORD! that I should do this: is not this [c]the blood of the men that went in jeopardy of their lives?" Therefore he would not drink it. These things did these three mighty men.

(36) 1 CHRON. xi. 15–19.—[15] Now ‡three of the thirty captains went down to the rock to David, into the cave of Adullam; and the host of the Philistines encamped in the valley of Rephaim. [16] And David was then in the hold, and the Philistines' garrison was then at Beth-lehem. [17] And David longed, and said, "Oh that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, that is at the gate!" [18] And the three brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: but David would not drink of it, but poured it out to the LORD, [19] and said, "My God forbid it me, that I should do this thing! shall I drink the blood of these men *that have put their lives in jeopardy? for with the jeopardy of their lives they brought it!" Therefore he would not drink it. These things did these three mightiest.

Mizpeh, Hareth.

1 SAMUEL xxii. 3–19.—PSALMS lii., cix., xvii., cxl., xxxv. and lxiv.

[3] AND David went thence to Mizpeh of Moab: and he said unto the king of Moab, "Let my father and my mother, I pray thee, come forth, and be with you, till I know what God will do for me." [4] And he brought them before the king of Moab; and they dwelt with him all the while that David was in the hold.

[5] And the prophet [a]Gad said unto David, "Abide not in the hold; depart, and get thee into the land of Judah." Then David departed, and came into the forest of Hareth.

illustrious men, in nearly the same words throughout. The apparent discrepancies are beautifully reconciled by Kennicott, in his Dissertation on the State of the Hebrew Text, by comparing the Hebrew of both passages with the Septuagint. Compare the passage at the end of this Section, (1 Chron. xi. 15–19,) with the parallel passage, (2 Sam. xxiii. 13–17,) and refer to both in Kennicott's Dissert. vol. i. p. 252, 253.

[14] Then Ahimelech answered the king, and said, "And who is so faithful among all thy servants as David, which is the king's son-in-law, and goeth at thy bidding, and is honorable in thy house? [15] Did I then begin to inquire of God for him? be it far from me! let not the king impute any thing unto his servant, nor to all the house of my father: for thy servant knew nothing of all this, *less or more." But the servants of the king [g]would not put forth their hand to fall upon the priests of the Lord. [18] And the king said to Doeg, "Turn thou, and fall upon the priests." And Doeg the Edomite turned, and he fell upon the priests, and [h]slew on that day fourscore and five persons that did wear a linen ephod. (37) In the second and third chapters of the First of Samuel, we read the prediction of the total ruin of Eli's house. Saul, in the blindness of his fury, orders eighty-five priests of the house of Eli with their families, and Ahimelech the high priest with his family, to be slain. This is another specimen of the way in which men pursue their own schemes, whether of good or evil, and of the manner in which they are overruled to the accomplishment of the prophecies and purposes of God. The reflecting part of the Jewish nation must have observed this fulfilment of one part of the prophecies, and inferred from it the eventual accomplishment of the rest. The same observation will apply to many events in the subsequent history. Vide a large collection of the prophecies, with their fulfilment, in Allix's Reflections on the Books of Scripture.

(38) Psalm lii. is here inserted on the joint authorities of its title, Lightfoot, Calmet, and Travell.

Psalm cix. is inserted here on the authority of Archdeacon Randolph, who observes, that it was probable that Doeg the Edomite was particularly alluded to in this Psalm, as he had slain the priests and endeavoured to destroy him whom God had appointed to be king over Israel. It is prophetic; and is applied by St. Paul to Judas.

Psalm xvii. was composed, as Calmet remarks, during Saul's bitterest persecution of David; which was certainly when the inhuman murder of the priests was committed. Vide Horne's Crit. Int. vol. ii. p. 159.

Psalm cxl. is referred to this period by Dr. Hammond.

Psalm xxxv. This Psalm, from its contents, seems to have been composed by David when he was persecuted by Saul, and falsely accused by Doeg and others.—Edwards.

Psalm lxiv. This Psalm was most probably composed by David, when he was persecuted by Saul and his associates.—Edwards.

David prayeth to be delivered from Saul and Doeg. 8 He prayeth against them. 12 He comforteth himself by confidence in God.

1 Deliver me, O Lord! from the evil man,
Preserve me from the [*]violent man;
2 Which imagine mischiefs in their heart;
Continually [a]are they gathered together for war.
3 They have sharpened their tongues like a serpent;

A Psalm of David.

1 Plead [a]my cause, O Lord! with them that strive with me:
Fight [b]against them that fight against me.
2 Take [c]hold of shield and buckler,
And stand up for my help.
3 Draw out also the spear,
And stop the way against them that persecute me:
Say unto my soul, "I am thy salvation."
4 Let [d]them be confounded and put to shame
That seek after my soul:
Let them be [e]turned back and brought to confusion
That devise my hurt.

17 LORD! how long wilt thou [s]look on?
Rescue my soul from their destructions—my *darling from the lions.
18 I [t]will give thee thanks in the great congregation:
I will praise thee among †much people.
19 Let [u]not them that are mine enemies ‡wrongfully rejoice over me;
Neither [v]let them wink with the eye [w]that hate me without a cause.
20 For they speak not peace;
But they devise deceitful matters
Against them that are quiet in the land.
21 Yea, they [x]opened their mouth wide against me,
And said, "[y]Aha! Aha! our eye hath seen it."
22 This thou hast [z]seen, O LORD! [a]keep not silence:
O Lord! be not [b]far from me.
23 Stir [c]up thyself, and awake to my judgment,
Even unto my cause, my God and my Lord!
24 Judge [d]me, O LORD my God! [e]according to thy righteousness;
And let them not rejoice over me.
25 Let [f]them not say in their hearts, *Ah! so would we have it:
Let them not say, [g]We have swallowed him up.
26 Let [h]them be ashamed and brought to confusion together
That rejoice at my hurt:
Let them be [i]clothed with shame and dishonor
That [j]magnify themselves against me.
27 Let [k]them shout for joy, and be glad,
That favor my †righteous cause:
Yea, let them [l]say continually, Let the LORD be magnified,

PSALM LXIV.

PSALM LXIV.

David prayeth for deliverance, complaining of his enemies. 7 He promiseth himself to see such an evident destruction of his enemies, as the righteous shall rejoice at it.

To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David.

1 Hear my voice, O God! in my prayer:

Preserve my life from fear of the enemy.
[2] Hide me from the secret counsel of the wicked,
From the insurrection of the workers of iniquity.
[3] Who [a]whet their tongue like a sword,
And [b]bend their bows to shoot their arrows, even bitter words;
[4] That they may shoot in secret at the perfect:
Suddenly do they shoot at him, and fear not.
[5] They [c]encourage themselves in an evil *matter:
They commune †of laying snares privily;
They [d]say, "Who shall see them?"
[6] They search out iniquities;
‡They accomplish *a diligent search:
Both the inward thought of every one of them, and the heart, is deep.
[7] But [e]God shall shoot at them with an arrow;
Suddenly †shall they be wounded.
[8] So they shall make [f]their own tongue to fall upon themselves:
All [g]that see them shall flee away.
[9] And [h]all men shall fear, and shall [i]declare the work of God;
For they shall wisely consider of his doing.
[10] The [j]righteous shall be glad in the LORD, and shall trust in him;
And all the upright in heart shall glory.

Keilah, Ziph, and Maon.

SECTION XI.—David defeats the Philistines at Keilah;—Saul pursues him, and he flies to Ziph and Maon.

1 SAM. xxiii. 1. xxii. 20, to the end. xxiii. 6, 2–5, 7–12.—PSALM xxxi.—1 SAM. xxiii. 13–23.—PSALM liv.—1 SAM. xxiii. 24–28.

The Philistines invade Keilah. Escape of Ahimelech, who informs David of the murder of the priests by Doeg. David, inquiring of the Lord by Abiathar, rescueth Keilah. God showing him the coming of Saul, and the treachery of the Keilites, he escapeth from Keilah. David's prayer. David retreats to Ziph, where Jonathan cometh and comforteth him. The Ziphites discover him to Saul. David's Psalm. David flies to Maon, where he is rescued from Saul by an invasion of the Philistines.

[1] THEN they told David, saying, "Behold, the Philistines fight against [a]Keilah, and they rob the threshingfloors."

[20] And one of the sons of Ahimelech the son of Ahitub, named Abiathar, [b]escaped, and fled after David. [21] And Abiathar showed David that Saul had slain the LORD's priests. [22] And David said unto Abiathar, "I knew it that day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would surely tell Saul; I have occasioned the death of all the persons of thy father's house. [23] Abide thou with me, fear not: [c]for he that seeketh my life seeketh thy life; but with me thou shalt be in safeguard." [6] And (39) it came to pass, when Abiathar the son of Ahimelech fled to David to Keilah, that he came down with an ephod in his hand. [2] Therefore David [d]inquired of the LORD, saying, "Shall I go and smite these Philistines?" And the LORD said unto David, "Go, and smite the Philistines, and save Keilah." [3] And David's men said unto him, "Behold, we be afraid here in Judah: how much more then if we come to Keilah against the armies of the Philistines!" [4] Then David inquired of the LORD yet again. And the LORD answered him and said, "Arise, go down to Keilah; for I will deliver the Philistines into thy hand." [5] So David and his men went to Keilah, and fought with the Philistines, and brought away their cattle, and smote them with a great slaughter. So David saved the inhabitants of Keilah.

(39) While the Philistines were fighting against Keilah, Doeg was executing the inhuman command of Saul, and murdering the priests of Nob. Abiathar at this time escaped and fled to David, with the ephod and the breastplate, with the Urim and Thummim; thus transferring to David the means of consulting the oracle of God in the sanctuary, which had hitherto been appropriated to the service of Saul. To connect the history, the escape of Abiathar is inserted after the account which was brought to David, that the Philistines were plundering the country round Keilah. The second verse of 1 Samuel xxiii. tells us, that David consulted the oracle: on the authority of Bishop Horsley, therefore, as well as from the internal evidence, the sixth verse is placed before the second.—Vide Horsley's Bib. Crit. vol. i. p. 339; Bishop Patrick in loc.; and Lightfoot.

[7] And it was told Saul that David was come to Keilah. And Saul said, "God hath delivered him into my hand; for he is shut in, by entering into a town that hath gates and bars." [8] And Saul called all the people together to war, to go down to Keilah, to besiege David and his men.

c Nu. 27. 21. 1 Sa. 30. 7.

[9] And David knew that Saul secretly practised mischief against him; and [c]he said to Abiathar the priest, "Bring hither the ephod." [10] Then said David, "O Lord God of Israel! thy servant hath certainly heard that Saul seeketh to come to Keilah, to destroy the city for my sake. [11] Will the men of Keilah deliver me up into his hand? will Saul come down, as thy servant hath heard? O Lord God of Israel! I beseech thee, tell thy servant." And the Lord said, "He will come down."

* Heb. shut up.

[12] Then said David, "Will the men of Keilah *deliver me and my men into the hand of Saul?" And the Lord said, "They will deliver thee up."

(40) David being pursued by his enemies, probably in his return from Keilah, entreats the Lord in this Psalm to deliver him. Dr. Green and Calmet place this Psalm among those composed during the persecution of Saul, but do not fix the exact period.

[14] But I trusted in thee, O LORD!
I said, "Thou art my God."
[15] My times are in thy hand:
Deliver me from the hand of mine enemies,
And from them that persecute me.
[16] Make [t]thy face to shine upon thy servant:
Save me for thy mercies' sake.
[17] Let [u]me not be ashamed, O LORD!
For I have called upon thee:
Let the wicked be ashamed,
And let them be ‡silent in the grave.
[18] Let [v]the lying lips be put to silence;
Which speak *grievous things proudly
And contemptuously against the righteous.
[19] Oh [w]how great is thy goodness,
Which thou hast laid up for them that fear thee;
Which thou hast wrought for them that trust in thee
Before the sons of men!
[20] Thou [x]shalt hide them in the secret of thy presence
From the pride of man:
Thou [y]shalt keep them secretly in a pavilion
From the strife of tongues.
[21] Blessed be the LORD!
For [z]he hath showed me his marvellous kindness in a †strong city.

[1] And it came to pass, when Saul was returned from *following the Philistines, that it was told him, saying, "Behold, David is in the wilderness of En-gedi." [2] Then Saul took three thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and [b]went to seek David and his men upon the rocks of the wild goats. [3] And he came to the sheepcots by the way, where was a cave; and [c]Saul went in to [d]cover his feet: and David and his men remained in the sides of the cave. [4] And the men of David said unto him, "Behold the day of which the Lord said unto thee, 'Behold, I will deliver thine enemy into thy hand, that thou mayest do to him as it shall seem good unto thee.'" Then David arose, and [e]cut off the skirt of †Saul's robe privily. [5] And it came to pass afterward, that [f]David's heart smote him, because he had cut off Saul's skirt. [6] And he said unto his men, "The LORD forbid that I should do this thing unto my master, the LORD's anointed, to stretch forth my hand against him, seeing he is the anointed of the LORD." [7] So David ‡stayed his servants with these words, and suffered them not to rise against Saul. But Saul rose up out of the cave, and went on his way.

[8] David also arose afterward, and went out of the cave, and cried after Saul, saying, "My lord the king!" And when Saul looked behind him, David stooped with his face to the earth, and bowed himself. [9] And David said to Saul, "Wherefore [g]hearest thou men's words saying, 'Behold, David seeketh thy hurt?' [10] Behold, this day thine eyes have seen how that the LORD had delivered thee to-day into my hand in the cave; and some bade me kill thee: but mine eye spared thee, and I said, I will not put forth my hand against my lord; for he is the LORD's anointed. [11] Moreover, my father, see, yea, see the skirt of thy robe in my hand: for in that I cut off the skirt of thy robe, and killed thee not, know thou and see that there is [h]neither evil nor transgression in my hand, and I have not sinned against thee; yet thou huntest my soul to take it. [12] The [i]LORD judge between me and thee, and the LORD avenge me of thee; but my hand shall not be upon thee. [13] As saith the proverb of the ancients, 'Wickedness proceedeth from the wicked:' but my hand shall not be upon thee. [14] After whom is the king of Israel come out? after whom dost thou pursue? after a dead dog, after a flea. [15] The LORD therefore be judge, and judge between me and thee, and see, and [j]plead my cause, and *deliver me out of thy hand."

[16] And it came to pass, when David had made an end of speaking these words unto Saul, that Saul said, "Is this thy voice, my son David?" And Saul lifted up his voice, and wept. [17] And he said to David, "Thou art [k]more righteous than I; for [l]thou hast rewarded me good, whereas I have rewarded thee evil. [18] And thou hast showed this day how that thou hast dealt well with me; forasmuch as when the LORD had †delivered me into thy hand, thou killedst me not. [19] For if a man find his enemy, will he let him go well away? wherefore the LORD reward thee good for that thou hast done unto me this day. [20] And now, behold! I know well that thou shalt surely be king, and that the kingdom of Israel shall be established in thy hand. [21] Swear [m]now therefore unto me by the LORD, [n]that thou wilt not cut off my seed after me, and that thou wilt not destroy my name out of my father's house." [22] And David sware unto Saul. And Saul went home; but David and his men gat them up unto the hold.

(42) Psalm lvii. David, in the cave of En-gedi, poureth out his prayer in this Psalm, and entitles it, Al-taschith, destroy not: for though he was invited by his soldiers to destroy Saul, yet he would not.—Lightfoot.

PSALM LVIII.

David reproveth wicked judges, 3 describeth the nature of the wicked, 6 devoteth them to God's judgments, 10 whereat the righteous shall rejoice.

To the chief Musician, *Al-taschith, Michtam of David.

[1] Do ye indeed speak righteousness, O congregation ?
Do ye judge uprightly, O ye sons of men ?
[2] Yea, in heart ye work wickedness ;
Ye [a]weigh the violence of your hands in the earth.
[3] The [b]wicked are estranged from the womb :
They go astray †as soon as they be born, speaking lies.
[4] Their [c]poison is ‡like the poison of a serpent :
They are like the deaf *adder that stoppeth her ear ;
[5] Which will not hearken to the voice of charmers,
†Charming never so wisely.
[6] Break [d]their teeth, O God ! in their mouth :
Break out the great teeth of the young lions, O LORD !
[7] Let [e]them melt away as waters which run continually :
When he bendeth his bow to shoot his arrows,
Let them be as cut in pieces.
[8] As a snail which melteth, let every one of them pass away :
Like [f]the untimely birth of a woman, that they may not see the sun.
[9] Before your pots can feel the thorns,
He shall take them away [g]as with a whirlwind,
‡Both living, and in his wrath.
[10] The [h]righteous shall rejoice when he seeth the vengeance :
He [i]shall wash his feet in the blood of the wicked.

David's thirst for God. 4 His manner of blessing God. 9 His confidence of his enemies' destruction, and his own safety.

A Psalm of David, *when he was in the wilderness of Judah.

[1] O God ! thou art my God ; early will I seek thee :
My [a]soul thirsteth for thee, my flesh longeth for thee
In a dry and †thirsty land, ‡where no water is ;

I will lift up my hands in thy name.
[5] My soul shall be [e]satisfied as with *marrow and fatness;
And my mouth shall praise thee with joyful lips,
[6] When [f]I remember thee upon my bed,
And meditate on thee in the night-watches.
[7] Because thou hast been my help,
Therefore [g]in the shadow of thy wings will I rejoice.

Ramah, Paran.

Sect. XIII.—Death of Samuel;—David in the Wilderness of Paran;—Death of Nabal;—David marries Abigail and Ahinoam.

1 Samuel xxv.

Samuel dieth. 2 David in Paran sendeth to Nabal. 10 Provoked by Nabal's churlishness, he mindeth to destroy him. 14 Abigail, understanding thereof, 18 taketh a present, 23 and by her wisdom 32 pacifieth David. 36 Nabal hearing thereof dieth. 39 David taketh Abigail and Ahinoam to be his wives. 44 Michal is given to Phalti.

[1] And [a]Samuel died; and all the Israelites were gathered together, and [b]lamented him, and buried him in his house at Ramah.

And David arose, and went down to the wilderness of Paran. [2] And there was a man in Maon, whose *possessions were in Carmel; and the man was very great, and he had three thousand sheep, and a thousand goats: and he was shearing his sheep in Carmel. [3] Now the name of the man was Nabal; and the name of his wife Abigail: and she was a woman of good understanding, and of a beautiful countenance; but the man was churlish and evil in his doings, and he was of the house of Caleb.

[4] And David heard in the wilderness that Nabal did shear his sheep. [5] And David sent out ten young men, and David said unto the young men, "Get you up to Carmel, and go to Nabal, and †greet him in my name. [6] And thus shall ye say to him that liveth in prosperity, [c]Peace be both to thee, and peace be to thy house, and peace be unto all that thou hast! [7] And now I have heard that thou hast shearers; now thy shepherds which were with us, we ‡hurt them not, neither was there aught missing unto them, all the while they were in Carmel. [8] Ask thy young men, and they will show thee. Wherefore let the young men find favor in thine eyes: for we come in [d]a good day: give, I pray thee, whatsoever cometh to thy hand unto thy servants, and to thy son David." [9] And when David's young men came, they spake to Nabal according to all those words in the name of David, and *ceased. [10] And Nabal answered David's servants, and said, "Who [e]is David? and who is the son of Jesse? there be many servants now-a-days that break away every man from his master. [11] Shall [f]I then take my bread, and my water, and my †flesh that I have killed for my shearers, and give it unto men, whom I know not whence they be?" [12] So David's young men turned their way, and went again, and came and told him all those sayings. [13] And David said unto his men, "Gird ye on every

[14] But one of the young men told Abigail, Nabal's wife, saying, "Behold, David sent messengers out of the wilderness to salute our master, and he ‡railed on them. [15] But the men were very good unto us, and we were not *hurt, neither missed we any thing, as long as we were conversant with them, when we were in the fields. [16] They were [g]a wall unto us both by night and day, all the while we were with them keeping the sheep. [17] Now therefore know and consider what thou wilt do; for evil is determined against our master, and against all his household: for he is such a son of [h]Belial, that a man cannot speak to him."

[20] And it was so, as she rode on the ass, that she came down by the covert of the hill, and, behold, David and his men came down against her; and she met them. [21] (Now David had said, "Surely in vain have I kept all that this fellow hath in the wilderness, so that nothing was missed of all that pertained unto him: and he hath [k]requited me evil for good. [30] And it shall come to pass, when the Lord shall have done to my lord according to all the good that he hath spoken concerning thee, and shall have appointed thee ruler over Israel; [31] that this shall be no *grief unto thee, nor offence of heart unto my lord, either that thou hast shed blood causeless, or that my lord hath avenged himself: but when the Lord shall have dealt well with my lord, then remember thy handmaid."

[35] So David received of her hand that which she had brought him, and said unto her, "Go [u]up in peace to thy house; see! I have hearkened to thy voice, and have [v]accepted thy person."

[36] And Abigail came to Nabal; and, behold, [w]he held a feast in his house, like the feast of a king; and Nabal's heart was merry within him, for he was very drunken: wherefore she told him nothing, less or more, until the morning light. [37] But it came to pass in the morning, when the wine was gone out of Nabal, and his wife had told him these things, that his heart died within him, and he became as a stone. And David sent and communed with Abigail, to take her to him to wife. [40] And when the servants of David were come to Abigail to Carmel, they spake unto her, saying, "David sent us unto thee, to take thee to him to wife." [41] And she arose, and bowed herself on her face to the earth, and said, "Behold, let [a]thy handmaid be a servant to wash the feet of the servants of my lord." [42] And Abigail hasted, and arose, and rode upon an ass, with five damsels of hers that went †after her; and she went after the messengers of David, and became his wife. SECTION XIV.—David in the Wilderness of Ziph.

1 SAMUEL XXVI.

SECT. XIV.

A. M. 2947.
B. C. 1057.

Wilderness of Ziph.

Saul, by the discovery of the Ziphites, cometh to Hachilah against David. 5 David coming into the trench stayeth Abishai from killing Saul, but taketh his spear and cruse. 13 David reproveth Abner, 18 and exhorteth Saul. 21 Saul acknowledgeth his sin.

[1] AND the Ziphites came unto Saul to Gibeah, saying, "Doth [a]not David hide himself in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeshimon?" [2] Then Saul arose, and went down to the wilderness of Ziph, having three thousand chosen men of Israel with him, to seek David in the wilderness of Ziph. [3] And Saul pitched in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeshimon, by the way. But David abode in the wilderness, and he saw that Saul came after him into the wilderness. [4] David therefore sent out spies, and understood that Saul was come in very deed.

[a] 1 Sa. 23. 19. Ps. 54, title.

[5] And David arose, and came to the place where Saul had pitched; and David beheld the place where Saul lay, and [b]Abner the son of Ner, the captain of his host; and Saul lay in the *trench, and the people pitched round about him. [6] Then answered David and said to Ahimelech the Hittite, and to Abishai [c]the son of Zeruiah, brother to Joab, saying, "Who will [d]go down with me to Saul to the camp?" And Abishai said, "I will go down with thee." [7] So David and Abishai came to the people by night: and, behold, Saul lay sleeping within the trench, and his spear stuck in the ground at his bolster; but Abner and the people lay round about him. [8] Then said Abishai to David, "God hath †delivered thine enemy into thy hand this day: now therefore let me smite him, I pray thee, with the spear even to the earth at once, and I will not smite him the second time." [9] And David said to Abishai, "Destroy him not: for who can stretch forth his hand against the LORD's anointed, and be guiltless?" [10] David said furthermore, "As the LORD liveth, [11] The Lord forbid that I should stretch forth my hand against the Lord's anointed: but, I pray thee, take thou now the spear that is at his bolster, and the cruse of water, and let us go." [12] So David took the spear and the cruse of water from Saul's bolster; and they gat them away, and no man saw it, nor knew it, neither awaked: for they were all asleep, because [h]a deep sleep from the Lord was fallen upon them.

[13] Then David went over to the other side, and stood on the top of a hill afar off; a great space being between them. [14] And David cried to the people, and to Abner the son of Ner, saying, "Answerest thou not, Abner?" Then Abner answered and said, "Who art thou that criest to the king?" [15] And David said to Abner, "Art not thou a valiant man? and who is like to thee in Israel? wherefore then hast thou not kept thy lord the king? for there came one of the people in to destroy the king thy lord. [16] This thing is not good that thou hast done. As the Lord liveth, ye are ‡worthy to die, because ye have not kept your master, the Lord's anointed. And now see where the king's spear is, and the cruse of water that was at his bolster." [17] And Saul knew David's voice, and said, "Is this thy voice, my son David?" And David said, "It is my voice, my lord, O king!" [18] And he said, "Wherefore doth my lord thus pursue after his servant? for what have I done? or what evil is in my hand? [19] Now therefore, I pray thee, let my lord the king hear the words of his servant. If the Lord have [i]stirred thee up against me, let him *accept an offering: but if they be the children of men, cursed be they before the Lord! [j]for they have driven me out this day from †abiding in the inheritance of the Lord, saying, 'Go, serve other gods.' [20] Now therefore, let not my blood fall to the earth before the face of the Lord; for the king of Israel is come out to seek a flea, as when one doth hunt a partridge in the mountains."

k Ps. 7. 8. & 18. 20.

[21] Then said Saul, "I have sinned: return, my son David; for I will no more do thee harm, because my soul was precious in thine eyes this day. Behold, I have played the fool, and have erred exceedingly." [22] And David answered and said, "Behold the king's spear! and let one of the young men come over and fetch it. [23] The [k]Lord render to every man his righteousness and his faithfulness: for the Lord delivered thee into my hand to-day, but I would not stretch forth my hand against the Lord's anointed. [24] And, behold, as thy life was much set by this day in mine eyes, so let my life be much set by in the eyes of the Lord, and let him deliver me out of all tribulation." [25] Then Saul said to David, "Blessed be thou, my son David! thou shalt both do great things, and also shalt still [l]prevail." So David went on his way, and Saul returned to his place.

(43) We have now arrived at the close of the persecutions of David. It is necessary to observe the order of the events related in this section. Finding Saul to be still implacable, David resolved upon joining the Philistines, which appears to have been an unjustifiable mode of escape, when we remember the many difficulties from which he had been so mercifully delivered. He fled to the king of Gath, with whom he continued sixteen months. During this time he was joined by many of his own people, and made war upon the surrounding nations. In the mean while, the Philistines, to whom David had become an auxiliary, had declared war against Saul; and Achish, the protector of David, required him to fight against his own countrymen. From this dreadful necessity of deciding between gratitude to Achish, and the love of his country, he was relieved by the distrust of the Philistines. The two armies approach: Saul consults the witch of En-dor; and according to the prediction of Samuel, who appears to him from the invisible world, he loses his throne and his life. This, of course, takes place at the conclusion of the sixteen months of David's residence at Ziklag. Not having been permitted to join in the battle, David had returned to this city; but finds it burnt and plundered by the Amalekites. He pursues and defeats the invaders with great slaughter. After the battle, he generously divides the spoil between his soldiers, including those who were not able to attend him in the field. He distributes presents to the tribe of Judah, and secures the attachment of his friends; and on the death of Saul and Jonathan, being left without a rival, and alike distinguished for courage, conduct, generosity, magnanimity, and every virtue which can dignify and adorn a prince, every human means seemed to combine to accomplish the promises of God. The tribe of Judah assemble, and elect him king; and their example is followed, after an interval of seven years, by the rest of Israel.

(44) David, being driven out of Juda by Saul, begs of God grace, that he may not sin against him with his tongue, nor be drawn into any sinful compliances with idolatry, by living among the Philistines. He confides in God's help, and prays to be delivered from those who sought his ruin. He probably composed this Psalm just before his flight to Achish, king of Gath; when he had a second time spared Saul's life, but could trust him no longer.—Green; Bp. Horne.

[1] And it came to pass in those days, that the Philistines gathered their armies together for warfare, to fight with Israel. And Achish said unto David, "Know thou assuredly, that thou shalt go out with me to battle, thou and thy men." [2] And David said to Achish, "Surely thou shalt know what thy servant can do." And Achish said to David, "Therefore will I make thee keeper of my head for ever."

[3] Now [a] Samuel was dead, and all Israel had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own city. And Saul had put away [b] those that had familiar spirits, and the wizards, out of the land. [7] Then said Saul unto his servants, "Seek me a woman that hath a familiar spirit, that I may go to her, and inquire of her." And his servants said to him, "Behold, there is a woman that hath a familiar spirit at (45) En-dor." [8] And Saul disguised himself, and put on other raiment,

(45) This history of the witch of En-dor has been made the subject of as much discussion as any history in the Old Testament: and the general concurrent opinion of both the Jewish and Christian Churches, that the spirit of Samuel really appeared to Saul, has been treated with much ridicule by objectors; and it has been explained away, or otherwise interpreted by some, who think that a Christian may conciliate the skeptic, by yielding those points which appear mysterious in his religion. But if we at all believe in the existence of spirit, as something which is distinct from matter, there is and he went, and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night: [i]and he said, "I pray thee, divine unto me by the familiar spirit, and bring me him up, whom I shall name unto thee." [9] And the woman said unto him, "Behold, thou knowest what Saul hath done, how he hath cut off those that have familiar spirits, and the wizards, out of the land: wherefore then layest thou a snare for my life, to cause me to die?" [10] And Saul sware to her by the LORD, saying, "As the LORD liveth, there shall no punishment happen to thee for this thing." [11] Then said the woman, "Whom shall I bring up unto thee?" And he said, "Bring me up Samuel." [12] And when the woman saw Samuel, she cried with a loud voice: and the woman spake to Saul, saying, "Why hast thou deceived me? for thou art Saul!" [13] And the king said unto her, "Be not afraid: for what sawest thou?" And the woman said unto Saul, "I saw [j]gods ascending out of the earth." [14] And he said unto her, "What *form is he of?" And she said, "An old man cometh up; and he is covered with [k]a mantle." And Saul perceived that it was Samuel, and he stooped with his face to the ground, and bowed himself.

[15] And Samuel said to Saul, "Why hast thou disquieted me, to bring me up?" And Saul answered, "I [l]am sore distressed; for the Philistines make war against me, and [m]God is departed from me, and answereth me no more, neither †by prophets, nor by dreams; therefore I have called thee, that thou mayest make known unto me what I shall do." [16] Then said Samuel, "Wherefore then dost thou ask of me, seeing the LORD is departed from thee, and is become thine enemy? [17] And the LORD hath done ‡to him, [n]as he spake by *me; for the LORD hath rent the kingdom out of thy hand, and given it to thy neighbour, even to David. [18] Because [o]thou obeyedst not the voice of the LORD, nor executedst his fierce wrath upon Amalek, therefore hath the LORD done this thing unto thee this day. [19] Moreover the LORD will also deliver Israel with thee into the hand of the Philistines; and to-morrow shalt thou and thy sons be with me: the LORD also shall deliver the host of Israel into the hand of the Philistines." [20] Then Saul †fell straightway all along on the earth, and was sore afraid, because of the words of Samuel: and there was no strength in him; for he had eaten no bread all the day, nor all the night.

[21] And the woman came unto Saul, and saw that he was sore troubled, and said unto him, "Behold, thy handmaid hath obeyed thy voice, and I have [p]put my life in my hand, and have hearkened unto thy words which thou spakest unto me. [22] Now therefore, I pray thee, hearken thou also unto the voice of thy handmaid, and let me set a morsel of bread before thee; and eat, that thou mayest have strength, when thou goest on thy way." [23] But he refused and said, "I will not eat." But his servants, together with the woman, compelled him; and he hearkened unto their voice. So he arose from the earth, and sat upon the bed. [24] And the woman had a fat calf in the house; and she hasted, and killed it, and took flour, and kneaded it, and did bake unleavened bread thereof. [25] And she brought it before Saul, and before his servants; and they did eat. Then they rose up, and went away that night.

no difficulty or absurdity whatever in this history. We know but little of the invisible world, or of the manner in which the disembodied spirit continues to exist, our understanding and our apprehension are so limited in this stage of our existence, that we cannot comprehend one half of those truths, which both our senses, our reason, and revelation compel us to approve. Why then should it appear impossible that God should raise the dead? If Moses and Elias appeared from the invisible world, what greater difficulty can exist in supposing that Samuel did so? For the proofs that the spirit of the prophet was really made visible by the power of God in some mysterious manner to the woman, and for an inquiry into the nature of the objects which were to be answered by this manifestation of Samuel, see the various commentators, Bp. Patrick, Bp. Horne, Stackhouse, particularly Dr. Hales's Analysis, vol. ii. pages 355 to 360.

and smitten Ziklag, and burned it with fire; [2] and had taken the small, but carried them away, and went on their way.

[3] So David and his men came to the city, and, behold, it was burned with fire; and their wives, and their sons, and their daughters, were taken captives. [4] Then David and the people that were with him lifted up their voice and wept, until they had no more power to weep. [5] And David's [b]two wives were taken captives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite. [6] And David was greatly distressed; [c]for the people spake of stoning him, because the soul of all the people was *grieved, every man for his sons and for his daughters: [d]but David encouraged himself in the LORD his God. [7] And [e]David said to Abiathar the priest, Ahimelech's son, "I pray thee, bring me hither the ephod." And Abiathar brought thither the ephod to David. [8] And David inquired at the LORD, saying, "Shall I pursue after this troop? shall I overtaken them?" And he answered him, "Pursue: for thou shalt surely overtake them, and without fail recover all." [1] Now the Philistines fought against Israel; and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell down *slain in Mount Gilboa. [2] And the Philistines followed hard upon Saul and upon his sons; and the Philistines slew [a]Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Melchi-shua, Saul's sons. [3] And the battle went sore against Saul, and the †archers ‡hit him; and he was sore wounded of the archers. [4] Then [b]said Saul unto his armorbearer, "Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith; lest [c]these uncircumcised come and thrust me through, and *abuse me." But his armorbearer would not, for he was sore afraid. Therefore Saul took a sword, and fell upon it. [5] And when his armorbearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise upon his sword, and died with him. Neither let there be rain, upon you, nor fields of offerings:
For there the shield of the mighty is vilely cast away,
The shield of Saul, as though he had not been [a]anointed with oil.

From the fat of the mighty,
The [b]bow of Jonathan turned not back,
And the sword of Saul returned not empty.

1 Chron. x. 1–12.—[1] Now the Philistines fought against Israel; and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell down ‡slain in Mount Gilboa. [2] And the Philistines followed hard after Saul, and after his sons; and the Philistines slew Jonathan, and *Abinadab, and Malchi-shua, the sons of Saul. [3] And the battle went sore against Saul, and the †archers ‡hit him, and he was wounded of the archers. [4] Then said Saul to his armorbearer, "Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith; lest these uncircumcised come and *abuse me." But his armorbearer would not; for he was sore afraid. So Saul took a sword, and fell upon it. [5] And when his armorbearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise on the sword, and died. [6] So Saul died, and his three sons, and all his house died together. [7] And when all the men of Israel that were in the valley saw that they fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, then they forsook their cities, and fled; and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

[8] And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his sons fallen in Mount Gilboa. [9] And when they had stripped him, they took his head, and his armor, and sent into the land of the Philistines round about, to carry tidings unto their idols, and to the people. [10] And they put his armor in the house of their gods, and fastened his head in the temple of Dagon.

[11] And when all Jabesh-gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul, [12] they arose, all the valiant men, and took away the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh, and buried their bones under the oak in Jabesh, and fasted seven days.

Section I.—David made King at Hebron;—Civil War in Israel;—The Deaths of Abner and Ish-bosheth.

2 Samuel ii., iii. and iv. 1–3, 5, to end.

David, by God's direction, with his company goeth up to Hebron, where he is made king of Judah. 5 He commendeth them of Jabesh-gilead for their kindness to Saul. 8 Abner maketh Ish-bosheth king of Israel. 12 A mortal skirmish between twelve of Abner's and twelve of Joab's men. 18 Asahel is slain. 25 At Abner's motion Joab soundeth a retreat. 32 Asahel's burial. — Chap. iii. 1 During the war David still waxeth stronger. 2 Six sons were born to him in Hebron. 6 Abner, displeased with Ish-bosheth, 12 revolteth to David. 13 David requireth a condition to bring him his wife Michal. 17 Abner, having communed with the Israelites, is feasted by David, and dismissed. 22 Joab, returning from battle, is displeased with the king, and killeth Abner. 28 David curseth Joab, 31 and mourneth for Abner. — Chap. iv. 1 The Israelites being troubled at the death of Abner, 2 Baanah and Rechab slay Ish-bosheth, and bring his head to Hebron. 9 David causeth them to be slain, and Ish-bosheth's head to be buried.

[1] AND it came to pass after this, that David [a]inquired of the Lord, saying, "Shall I go up into any of the cities of Judah?" And the Lord said unto him, "Go up." And David said, "Whither shall I go up?" And he said, "Unto [b]Hebron." [2] So David went up thither, and his two wives also, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail Nabal's wife the Carmelite. [3] And [c]his men that were with him did David bring up, every man with his household; and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron. [4] And [d]the men of Judah came, and there they anointed David king over the house of Judah.

And they told David, saying, that "The [e]men of Jabesh-gilead were they that buried Saul." [5] And David sent messengers unto the men of

Jabesh-gilead, and said unto them, “Blessed be ye of the LORD, that ye have showed this kindness unto your lord, even unto Saul, and have buried him. [6] And now [f]the LORD show kindness and truth unto you; and I also will requite you this kindness, because ye have done this thing. [7] Therefore now let your hands be strengthened, and be ye *valiant; for your master Saul is dead, and also the house of Judah have anointed me king over them.”

[8] But Abner the son of Ner, captain of †Saul's host, took ‡Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, and brought him over to Mahanaim, [9] and made him king over Gilead, and over the Ashurites, and over Jezreel, and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over all Israel. [10] Ish-bosheth Saul's son was forty years old when he began to reign over Israel, and reigned two years. But the house of Judah followed David. [11] And the *time that David was king in Hebron over the house of Judah was seven years and six months.

[12] And Abner the son of Ner, and the servants of Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, went out from Mahanaim to Gibeon. [13] And Joab the son of Zeruiah, and the servants of David, went out, and met †together by the pool of Gibeon; and they sat down, the one on the one side of the pool, and the other on the other side of the pool. [14] And Abner said to Joab, “Let the young men now arise, and play before us.” And Joab said, “Let them arise.” [15] Then there arose and went over by number twelve of Benjamin, which pertained to Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, and twelve of the servants of David. [16] And they caught every one his fellow by the head, and thrust his sword in his fellow's side; so they fell down together; wherefore that place was called ‡Helkath-hazzurim, which is in Gibeon. [17] And there was a very sore battle that day; and Abner was beaten, and the men of Israel, before the servants of David. [18] And there were [g]three sons of Zeruiah there, Joab, and Abishai, and Asahel; and Asahel was as light *of foot †as a wild roe. [19] And Asahel pursued after Abner; and in going he turned not to the right hand nor to the left ‡from following Abner. [20] Then Abner looked behind him, and said, “Art thou Asahel?” And he answered, “I am.” [21] And Abner said to him, “Turn thee aside to thy right hand or to thy left, and lay thee hold on one of the young men, and take thee his *armor.” But Asahel would not turn aside from following him. [22] And Abner said again to Asahel, “Turn thee aside from following me; wherefore should I smite thee to the ground? how then should I hold up my face to Joab thy brother?” [23] Howbeit he refused to turn aside: wherefore Abner with the hinder end of the spear smote him under the fifth rib, that the spear came out behind him; and he fell down there, and died in the same place: and it came to pass, that as many as came to the place where Asahel fell down and died stood still. [24] Joab also and Abishai pursued after Abner; and the sun went down when they were come to the hill of Ammah, that lieth before Giah by the way of the wilderness of Gibeon.

[25] And the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together after Abner, and became one troop, and stood on the top of a hill. [26] Then Abner called to Joab, and said, “Shall the sword devour for ever? knowest thou not that it will be bitterness in the latter end? how long shall it be then, ere thou bid the people return from following their brethren?” [27] And Joab said, “As God liveth, unless thou hadst spoken, surely then †in the morning the people had ‡gone up every one from following his brother.” [28] So Joab blew a trumpet, and all the people stood still, and pursued after Israel no more, neither fought they any more.

[29] And Abner and his men walked all that night through the plain, and passed over Jordan, and went through all Bithron, and they came to Mahanaim. [30] And Joab returned from following Abner: and when he had gathered all the people together, there lacked of David's servants nineteen men and Asahel. [31] But the servants of David had smitten of Benjamin, and of Abner's men, so that three hundred and threescore men died. [32] And they took up Asahel, and buried him in the sepulchre of his father, which was in Beth-lehem. And Joab and his men went all night, and they came to Hebron at break of day.

2 Sam. iii.

[1] Now there was long war between the house of Saul and the house of David: but David waxed stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker and weaker.

[2] And [h]unto David were sons born in Hebron: and his firstborn was Amnon, [i]of Ahinoam the Jezreelitess; [3]and his second, *Chileab, of Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite; and the third, Absalom the son of Maacah the daughter of Talmai king of Geshur; [4] and the fourth, [j]Adonijah the son of Haggith; and the fifth, Shephatiah the son of Abital; [5]and the sixth, Ithream, by Eglah David's wife. These were born to David in Hebron.

[6] And it came to pass, while there was war between the house of Saul and the house of David, that Abner made himself strong for the house of Saul. [7] And Saul had a concubine, whose name was [k]Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah: and Ish-bosheth said to Abner, "Wherefore hast thou [l]gone in unto my father's concubine?" [8] Then was Abner very wroth for the words of Ish-bosheth, and said, "Am I [m]a dog's head, which against Judah do show kindness this day unto the house of Saul thy father, to his brethren, and to his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David, that thou chargest me to-day with a fault concerning this woman? [9] So [n]do God to Abner, and more also, except, [o]as the Lord hath sworn to David, even so I do to him; [10] to translate the kingdom from the house of Saul, and to set up the throne of David over Israel and over Judah, [p]from Dan even to Beer-sheba." [11] And he could not answer Abner a word again, because he feared him.

[12] And Abner sent messengers to David on his behalf, saying, "Whose is the land?" saying also, "Make thy league with me, and, behold, my hand shall be with thee, to bring about all Israel unto thee." [13] And he said, "Well; I will make a league with thee; but one thing I require of thee, †that is, Thou shalt not see my face except thou first bring [q]Michal Saul's daughter, when thou comest to see my face." [14] And David sent messengers to Ish-bosheth Saul's son, saying, "Deliver me my wife Michal, which I espoused to me [r]for an hundred foreskins of the Philistines." [15] And Ish-bosheth sent, and took her from her husband, even from [s]Phaltiel the son of Laish. [16] And her husband went with her ‡along weeping behind her to Bahurim. [19] And Abner also spake in the ears of [t]Benjamin; and Abner went also to speak in the ears of David in Hebron all that seemed good to Israel, and that seemed good to the whole house of Benjamin. [20] So Abner came to David to Hebron, and twenty men with him. And David made Abner and the men that were with him a feast. [21] And Abner said unto David, "I will arise and go, and will gather all Israel unto my lord the king, that they may make a league with thee, and that thou mayest [u]reign over all that thy heart desireth." [22] And, behold! the servants of David and Joab came from pursuing a troop, and brought in a great spoil with them; but Abner was not with David in Hebron, for he had sent him away, and he was gone in peace. [23] When Joab and all the host that was with him were come, they told Joab, saying, "Abner the son of Ner came to the king, and he hath sent him away, and he is gone in peace." [24] Then Joab came to the king, and said, "What hast thou done? behold! Abner came unto thee; why is it that thou hast sent him away, and he is quite gone? [25] Thou knowest Abner the son of Ner, that he came to deceive thee, and to know [v]thy going out and thy coming in, and to know all that thou doest." [26] And when Joab was come out from David, he sent messengers after Abner, which brought him again from the well of Sirah; but David knew it not. [27] And when Abner was returned to Hebron, Joab [w]took him aside in the gate to speak with him †quietly, and smote him there under the fifth rib, that he died, for the blood of Asahel his brother.

"Died Abner as a fool dieth?
[34] Thy hands were not bound,
Nor thy feet put into fetters:
As a man falleth before ‡wicked men, so fellest thou."

And all the people wept again over him. [35] And when all the people came [b]to cause David to eat meat while it was yet day, David sware, saying, "So do God to me, and more also, if I taste bread, or aught else, till the sun be down." [36] And all the people took notice of it, and it *pleased them; as whatsoever the king did pleased all the people. [37] For all the people and all Israel understood that day that it was not of the king to slay Abner the son of Ner. [9] And David answered Rechab and Baanah his brother, the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and said unto them, "As the LORD liveth, [h]who hath redeemed my soul out of all adversity, [10] when one told me saying, 'Behold, Saul is dead,' *thinking to have brought good tidings, I took hold of him, and slew him in Ziklag, †who thought that I would have given him a reward for his tidings. (46) This arrangement of section ii. is made on the authority of the author of the Book of Chronicles; who places the list of David's warriors after the account of his being made king by all the tribes of Israel at Hebron. They are mentioned before the numbering of the people in the Second Book of Samuel; but for what reason is not apparent. The most appropriate place for them seems to be that which follows the history of David's elevation; who was in a great measure indebted to their allegiance, among other human means, for the possession of the throne. There is some partial difference between the catalogue of these warriors in 1 Samuel xxii. and that in 1 Chron. xi. Dr. Kennicott, in a valuable and learned dissertation, has reconciled the apparent discrepancies in the two lists by comparing both with the Septuagint, and pointing out the manner in which it is probable the various minor changes of letters and words might have occurred. The passages (2 Sam. xxiii. ver. 13-17.) and (1 Chron. xi. 15-19.) have been inserted above, Part vi. sect. vii. Vide Kennicott's Dissertation on the State of the Hebrew Text, vol. i. particularly p. 248-260.

PSALM CXXXIX.(47)

David praiseth God for his all-seeing providence, 17 and for his infinite mercies. 19 He defieth the wicked. 23 He prayeth for sincerity.

To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David.

1 O Lord! [a]thou hast searched me, and known me.
2 Thou [b]knowest my downsitting and mine uprising,
Thou [c]understandest my thought afar off.
3 Thou *compassest my path and my lying down,
And art acquainted with all my ways.
4 For there is not a word in my tongue,
But, lo, O Lord! [d]thou knowest it altogether.
5 Thou hast beset me behind and before,
And laid thy hand upon me.
6 Such [e]knowledge is too wonderful for me;
It is high—I cannot attain unto it.
7 Whither [f]shall I go from thy Spirit?
Or whither shall I flee from thy presence?
8 If [g]I ascend up into heaven—thou art there:
If [h]I make my bed in hell—behold, thou art there.
9 If I take the wings of the morning,
And dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea;
10 Even there shall thy hand lead me,
And thy right hand shall hold me.
11 If I say, Surely the darkness shall cover me;
Even the night shall be light about me.
12 Yea, [i]the darkness †hideth not from thee;
But the night shineth as the day:
‡The darkness and the light are both alike to thee.
13 For thou hast possessed my reins:
Thou hast covered me in my mother's womb.
14 I will praise thee; for I am fearfully and wonderfully made:
Marvellous are thy works;
And that my soul knoweth *right well.
15 My †substance was not hid from thee,
When I was made in secret,
And curiously wrought in the lowest parts of the earth.
16 Thine eyes did see my substance, yet being imperfect;
And in thy book ‡all my members were written,
*Which in continuance were fashioned, when as yet there was none of them.
17 How [j]precious also are thy thoughts unto me, O God!
How great is the sum of them!
18 If I should count them—they are more in number than the sand:
When I awake, I am still with thee.
19 Surely thou wilt [k]slay the wicked, O God!
Depart [l]from me therefore, ye bloody men.
20 For they [m]speak against thee wickedly,
And thine enemies take thy name in vain.
21 Do [n]not I hate them, O Lord! that hate thee?
And am not I grieved with those that rise up against thee?
22 I hate them with perfect hatred:
I count them mine enemies.

(47) Immediately on David's accession to the throne of Israel, we read in Chronicles that he proposed the fetching up of the ark from Kirjath-jearim. His first thought was gratitude and adoration to that God who had fulfilled his promises, and made him ruler over his people. On this supposition I have inserted the 139th Psalm in this place, although the date and occasion of the Psalm are uncertain. On surveying the whole of his eventful life, David acknowledges the wisdom of Providence alike in his adversity and prosperity; he resolves to restore the ark to its place, proclaims the omniscience of God, and concludes this song of praise with a prayer to be preserved from the evils and dangers of prosperity, and to be led in the way everlasting.

[23] Search [o]me, O God! and know my heart:

[24] And see if there be any †wicked way in me,
And [p]lead me in the way everlasting.

[23] And these are the numbers of the *bands that were ready armed to the war, and came to David to Hebron, to turn the kingdom of Saul to him, [a]according to the word of the Lord. [24] The children of Judah that bare shield and spear were six thousand and eight hundred, ready †armed to the war. [25] Of the children of Simeon, mighty men of valor for the war, seven thousand and one hundred. [26] Of the children of Levi four thousand and six hundred. [27] And Jehoiada was the leader of the Aaronites, and with him were three thousand and seven hundred. [28] And Zadok, a young man mighty of valor, and of his father's house twenty and two captains. [29] And of the children of Benjamin, the ‡kindred of Saul, three thousand; for hitherto *the greatest part of them had kept the ward of the house of Saul. [30] And of the children of Ephraim twenty thousand and eight hundred, mighty men of valor, †famous throughout the house of their fathers. [31] And of the half tribe of Manasseh eighteen thousand, which were expressed by name, to come and make David king. [32] And of the children of Issachar, [b]which were men that had understanding of the times, to know what Israel ought to do; the heads of them were two hundred; and all their brethren were at their commandment. [33] Of Zebulun, such as went forth to battle, ‡expert in war, with all instruments of war, fifty thousand, which could *keep rank; they were †not of double heart. [34] And of Naphtali a thousand captains, and with them with shield and spear thirty and seven thousand. [35] And of the Danites expert in war twenty and eight thousand and six hundred. [36] And of Asher, such as went forth to battle, ‡expert in war, forty thousand. [37] And on the other side of Jordan, of the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and of the half tribe of Manasseh, with all manner of instruments of war for the battle, an hundred and twenty thousand. [38] All these men of war, that could keep rank, came with a perfect heart to Hebron, to make David king over all Israel; and all the rest also of Israel were of one heart to make David king. [39] And there they were with David three days, eating and drinking; for their brethren had prepared for them. [40] Moreover they that were nigh them, even unto Issachar and Zebulun and Naphtali, brought bread on asses, and on camels, and on mules, and on oxen, and *meat, meal, cakes of figs, and bunches of raisins, and wine, and oil, and oxen, and sheep abundantly; for there was joy in Israel.

[9] And after him was Eleazar the son of Dodo the Ahohite, one of the three mighty men with David, when they defied the Philistines that were there gathered together to battle, and the men of Israel were gone away. [10] He arose, and smote the Philistines until his hand was weary, and his hand clave unto the sword: and the Lord wrought a great victory that day; and the people returned after him only to spoil. [11] And after him was Shammah the son of Agee the Hararite. And the Philistines were gathered together *into a troop, where was a piece of ground full of lentils; and the people fled from the Philistines. 2 SAM. v. 4–10.

[4] David was thirty years old when he began to reign, [c]and he reigned forty years: [5] in Hebron he reigned over Judah, [d]seven years and six months; and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three years over all Israel and Judah.

[6] And the king and his men went to Jerusalem unto [e]the Jebusites, the inhabitants of the land: which spake unto David, saying, "Except thou take away the blind and the lame, thou shalt not come in hither:" †thinking, David cannot come in hither. [7] Nevertheless David took the stronghold of Zion: [f]the same is the city of David. [8] And David said on that day, "Whosoever getteth up to the gutter, and smiteth the Jebusites, and the lame and the blind, that are hated of David's soul, [a]he shall be chief and captain." ‡Wherefore they said, "The blind and the lame shall not come into the house." [9] So David dwelt in the fort, and called it the city of David. And David built round about from Millo and inward. [10] And David *went on, and grew great, and the LORD God of hosts was with him.

(48) The increase of David's family is here mentioned by anticipation. The invasion of the Philistines took place immediately on the dispersion of the several tribes to their own homes, after their meeting at Hebron.

heard of it, and went down to the hold. [18] The Philistines also came and spread themselves in [e]the valley of Rephaim. [19] And David [f]inquired of the LORD, saying, "Shall I go up to the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into my hand?" And the LORD said unto David, "Go up: for I will doubtless deliver the Philistines into thy hand." [20] And David came to Baal-perazim, and David smote them there, and said, "The LORD hath broken forth upon mine enemies before me, as the breach of waters." Therefore he called the name of that place †Baal-perazim. [21] And there they left their images, and David and his men ‡burned them.

[22] And the Philistines came up yet again, and spread themselves in the valley of Rephaim. [23] And when David inquired of the LORD, he said, "Thou shalt not go up; but fetch a compass behind them, and come upon them over against the mulberry trees. [24] And let it be, when thou [g]hearest the sound of a going in the tops of the mulberry trees, that then thou shalt bestir thyself; for then [h]shall the LORD go out before thee, to smite the host of the Philistines." [3] And David took *more wives at Jerusalem: and David begat more sons and daughters. And the LORD said unto him, "Go up; for I will deliver them into thy hand." [11] So they came up to Baal-perazim; and David smote them there. Then David said, "God hath broken in upon mine enemies by my hand like the breaking forth of waters:" therefore they called the name of that place ‡Baal-perazim. [12] And when they had left their gods there, David gave a commandment, and they were burned with fire.

[13] And the Philistines yet again spread themselves abroad in the valley. [14] Therefore David inquired again of God; and God said unto him, "Go not up after them; turn away from them, and come upon them over against the mulberry trees. [15] And it shall be, when thou shalt hear a sound of going in the tops of the mulberry trees, that then thou shalt go out to battle: for God is gone forth before thee to smite the host of the Philistines." (49) This Psalm was composed on the occasion of the removal of the ark. It commenced with the words which were constantly used when the ark was removed in the wilderness, (Numb. x. 35.) It is quoted as prophetic by St. Paul, Eph. iv. 8. As the ark ascended into Jerusalem, the city of the great king, so was Christ to ascend into the heavenly Jerusalem. Lowth; Lightfoot.

It was white as snow in Salmon.
15 The hill of God is as the hill of Bashan;
A high hill, as the hill of Bashan.
16 Why [t]leap ye, ye high hills?
This [u]is the hill which God desireth to dwell in;
Yea, the LORD will dwell in it for ever.
17 The [v]chariots of God are twenty thousand, (‡even thousands of angels:)
The LORD is among them, as in Sinai, in the holy place.
18 Thou [w]hast ascended on high,
Thou [x]hast led captivity captive:
Thou [y]hast received gifts *for men;
Yea, for [z]the rebellious also,
That [a]the LORD God might dwell among them.
19 Blessed be the LORD, who daily loadeth us with benefits,
Even the God of our salvation. Selah!
20 He that is our God is the God of salvation;
And [b]unto God the LORD belong the issues from death.
21 But [c]God shall wound the head of his enemies,
And [d]the hairy scalp of such a one as goeth on still in his trespasses.
22 The LORD said, "I will bring again from Bashan,
I will bring my people again [e]from the depths of the sea;
23 That [f]thy foot may be †dipped in the blood of thine enemies,
And [g]the tongue of thy dogs in the same."
24 They have seen thy goings, O God!
Even the goings of my God, my King, in the sanctuary.
25 The [h]singers went before,
The players on instruments followed after;
Among them were the damsels playing with timbrels.
26 Bless ye God in the congregations,
Even the Lord, ‡from the fountain of Israel!
27 There is [i]little Benjamin with their ruler,
The princes of Judah *and their council,
The princes of Zebulun, and the princes of Naphtali.
28 Thy God hath [j]commanded thy strength:
Strengthen, O God! that which thou hast wrought for us.
29 Because of thy temple at Jerusalem
Shall [k]kings bring presents unto thee.
30 Rebuke †the company of spearmen,
The [l]multitude of the bulls, with the calves of the people,
Till every one [m]submit himself with pieces of silver:
‡Scatter thou the people that delight in war.
31 Princes [n]shall come out of Egypt;
Ethiopia [o]shall soon [p]stretch out her hands unto God.
32 Sing unto God, ye kingdoms of the earth!
O sing praises unto the LORD; Selah!
33 To him [q]that rideth upon the heavens of heavens, which were of old;
Lo! he doth *send out his voice, and that a mighty voice.
34 Ascribe [r]ye strength unto God!
His excellency is over Israel,
And his strength is in the †clouds.
35 O God! [s]thou art terrible out of thy holy places:
The God of Israel is he that giveth strength and power unto his people.
Blessed be God!

[1] And David made him houses in the city of David, and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent. [2] Then David said, "[*]None ought to carry the [a]ark of God but the Levites: for them hath the Lord chosen to carry the ark of God, and to minister unto him for ever." [3] And David [b]gathered all Israel together to Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the Lord unto his place, which he had prepared for it. [4] And David assembled the children of Aaron, and the Levites. [5] Of the sons of Kohath; Uriel the chief, and his [†]brethren an hundred and twenty. [6] Of the sons of Merari; Asaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred and twenty. [7] Of the sons of Gershom; Joel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and thirty. [8] Of the sons of [c]Elizaphan; Shemaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred. [9] Of the sons of [d]Hebron; Eliel the chief, and his brethren fourscore. [10] Of the sons of Uzziel; Amminadab the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twelve. [11] And David called for Zadok and Abiathar the priests, and for the Levites, for Uriel, Asaiah, and Joel, Shemaiah, and Eliel, and Amminadab, [12] and said unto them, "Ye are the chief of the fathers of the Levites: sanctify yourselves, both ye and your brethren, that ye may bring up the ark of the Lord God of Israel unto the place that I have prepared for it. [13] For because ye did it not at the first, the Lord our God made a breach upon us, for that we sought him not after the due order." [14] So the priests and the Levites sanctified themselves to bring up the ark of the Lord God of Israel.

PS. CXXXII.

PSALM CXXXII.(50)

Written on the preparation to remove the Ark the second time.

David in his prayer commendeth unto God the religious care he had for the ark. 8 His prayer at the removing of the ark, 11 with a repetition of God's promises.

A Song of Degrees.

[1] Lord, remember David,
And all his afflictions:

(50) This Psalm is supposed by Calmet to have been written as a prayer during the Babylonish captivity. Others are of opinion that it was composed by Solomon at the dedication of the temple. I have inserted it here on the authority of Lightfoot (its date being uncertain), as an appropriate prayer of David only. He had once attempted to remove the ark, and had left it at the house of Obed-edom. He now makes preparations to remove it a second time; and offering up a prayer for himself in the third person, he repeats his vow that he would bring the ark to Jerusalem, and the prayer that he had made on the first attempt to remove it (ver. 8.); and he concludes by pleading the promises of God, that his posterity shall sit for ever on his throne, and that from him the Messiah should descend: he considers the removal of the ark as the sign and pledge of the certain accomplishment of these promises.

2 How he sware unto the LORD,
And [a]vowed unto [b]the mighty God of Jacob;
3 Surely I will not come into the tabernacle of my house,
Nor go up into my bed;
4 I will [c]not give sleep to mine eyes,
Or slumber to mine eyelids,
5 Until [d]I find out a place for the LORD,
*A habitation for the mighty God of Jacob.
6 Lo! we heard of it [e]at Ephratah:
We [f]found it [g]in the fields of the wood.
7 We will go into his tabernacles:
We [h]will worship at his footstool.
8 Arise, [i]O LORD, into thy rest;
Thou, and [j]the ark of thy strength!
9 Let thy priests [k]be clothed with righteousness;
And let thy saints shout for joy.
10 For thy servant David's sake
Turn not away the face of thine anointed.
11 The [l]LORD hath sworn in truth unto David;
He will not turn from it;
"Of [m]the fruit of thy †body will I set upon thy throne.
12 If thy children will keep my covenant
And my testimony that I shall teach them,
Their children shall also sit upon thy throne for evermore.
13 For [n]the LORD hath chosen Zion;
He hath desired it for his habitation.
14 This [o]is my rest for ever:
Here will I dwell; for I have desired it.
15 I will ‡abundantly bless her provision:
I will satisfy her poor with bread.
16 I [p]will also clothe her priests with salvation;
And [q]her saints shall shout aloud for joy.
17 There [r]will I make the horn of David to bud:
I [s]have ordained a *lamp for mine anointed.
18 His enemies will [t]I clothe with shame:
But upon himself shall his crown flourish."

1 CHRON. XV. 15, to the end.

15 And the children of the Levites bare the ark of God upon their shoulders with the staves thereon, [g]as Moses commanded according to the word of the LORD. 16 And David spake to the chief of the Levites to appoint their brethren to be the singers with instruments of music, psalteries and harps and cymbals, sounding, by lifting up the voice with joy. 17 So the Levites appointed [h]Heman the son of Joel; and of his brethren, [i]Asaph the son of Berechiah; and of the sons of Merari their brethren, [j]Ethan the son of Kushaiah; 18 and with them their brethren of the second degree, Zechariah, Ben, and Jaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaseiah, and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, the porters. 19 So the singers, [k]Heman, Asaph, and Ethan, were appointed to sound with cymbals of brass; 20 and Zechariah, and †Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Maaseiah, and Benaiah, with psalteries [l]on Alamoth; 21 and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, and Azaziah, with harps ‡on the Sheminith to excel. 22 And Chenaniah, chief of the Levites, *was for †song: he instructed about the song, because he was skilful. 23 And Berechiah and Elkanah were doorkeepers for the ark. 24 And Shebaniah, and Jehoshaphat, and Nethaneel, and Amasai, and [25] So [n]David, and the elders of Israel, and the captains over thousands, went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the Lord out of the house of Obed-edom with joy. [26] And it came to pass, when God helped the Levites that bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, that they offered seven bullocks and seven rams. [27] And David was clothed with a robe of fine linen, and all the Levites that bare the ark, and the singers, and Chenaniah the master of the ‡song with the singers: David also had upon him an ephod of linen. [28] Thus all Israel brought up the ark of the covenant of the Lord with shouting, and with sound of the cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbals, making a noise with psalteries and harps.

[29] And it came to pass, as the ark of the covenant of the Lord came to the city of David, that Michal the daughter of Saul looking out at a window saw king David dancing and playing: and she despised him in her heart.

1 Chron. xvi.

[1] So they brought the ark of God, and set it in the midst of the tent that David had pitched for it; and they offered burnt sacrifices and peace offerings before God. [2] And when David had made an end of offering the burnt offerings and the peace offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the Lord. [3] And he dealt to every one of Israel, both man and woman, to every one a loaf of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine.

* Heb. with instruments of psalteries and harps.

[4] And he appointed certain of the Levites to minister before the ark of the Lord, and [o]to record, and to thank and praise the Lord God of Israel: [5] Asaph the chief, and next to him Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-edom: and Jeiel *with psalteries and with harps; but Asaph made a sound with cymbals; [6] Benaiah also and Jahaziel the priests with trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God.

[p] See 2 Sa. 23. 1.

[7] Then on that day David delivered [p]first this psalm to thank the Lord into the hand of Asaph and his brethren:—
